The things that are bad for one to eat have a mean way of tasting so much better than those the doctor says you may help yourself to liberally.

Everybody is likely to have kidney and bladder trouble. In fact nearly everybody has some trouble of this kind. That is the reason why you so often have pains in the back and groin, scalding sensation, urinary disorders, etc.—that's your kidneys. The best thing to do is to get some of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills right away. Take them for a few days or a week or so and you will feel all right. In this way, too, you will ward off dangerous and possibly serious ailments. They are perfectly harmless, and are not only antiseptic, but allay pain quickly by their healing properties. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

He pulled himself together and went out with the tired gait of an old man, his great shock head bowed low. A few moments later he returned.

"I've sent li'l' Jean for 'im. You get in dere out of sight—an' wait."

CHAPTER XII.

TANGLED SKEIN.

WHEN Burrell entered he wasted no time in greetings.

"I know why you sent for me, Poleon. I've heard the news, and I would have been up anyhow to congratuate her very soon. I call it pretty fine."

"Yes, dere's been beeg strike all right, an' Necia is goin' be riche gal."

"I'm as pleased as if the claim were mine, and you feel the same way, of course."

"You know me for good man, eh? An' you know I ain' try for bre'k up oder fellers' bisnesse, never! Waal, I'm come to you now lak wan good man to 'noder, biecause I'm got bad trouble on de min', an' you mus'n't get sore."

"There's no danger, Poleon. Let's hare it. If there is anything I can do you may count on me."

"Waal," he began nervously, clearing his throat, "it's lak dis. Dere's feller been talk some 'bout Necia, an' it ain' nice talk neider."

"I'm tired of the game, and you interest me no longer."

"Who is he?" exclaimed the soldier in a tone that made the girl's heart leap.

"Wait! Lemme tol' you w'at he say; den we'll talk 'bout feex 'im plaintee. He say dere's joke down on Stark's saloon dat Necia Gale is mak' fool of herse'f on you an' dat you ain' care for marry her."

"Runnion!" cried Burrell and started for the door. "I'll settle with him now for fair!" But Poleon blocked his way and, observing him gravely, continued in a tone that the other could not disregard nor mistake:

"No, m'sieu. Before you pass on dat place you'll tol' me if it's true."

"True!" the lieutenant retorted angrily. "What business is it of yours? This concerns me."

"An' me too! I'm w'at you call gardeen for Necia till John Gale come back, an' I'm broder of her too. You promis' jus' now you don' get mad, an' I don' say she's Runnion neider w'at spik dose t'ing. Dere's more dan 'im been talkin'. Is it true?"

His sternness offended Burrell, for the soldier was not the kind to discuss his affairs in this way; therefore he drew back, scowling.

"Poleon Doret," he said, "it's not one's enemies who do him injury; it's his d——d fool friends. I have learned to regard you highly, because you are a brave man and an honest one, but it seems that you are a sentimental idiot."

"Dem is tough word," Doret replied. "But dere's reason w'y I can't tak' on no madness. You say I'm hones'. Waal, I'm hones' now, an' I come to you wit' fair wpds, an' I show my han' to you—I don' hol' out no cards, m'sieu'—but I don' t'ink it is you who have play square altogeder. I'm Necia's frien', an' I'll fight for her jus' so queecker lak you, but I mus' know dis t'ing for sure, so if you have de good heart an' de courage of good man you'll tell me de truth. Do you have the feelin' for marry on her?"

The pause that followed was awkward for both of them, while the girl, who stood concealed near by, held her breath and buried her nails in her palms. Why did he hesitate? Would he never speak?

"I am amazed at myself for listening to you," he said at last, "and quite shocked, in fact, at my answering your questions, but perhaps I'd better, after all. First, however, let me say that the little girl is just as pure now as she was before she knew me."

Poleon threw up his hand. "M'sieu, dat's more closer to de insult dan w'at you call me jus' now. You don' need for spoke it."

"You're right. There's no need to tell you that. As for showing her certain attentions—well, I admit that I have, as you know; but, thank God, I can say I've been a gentleman and addressed her as I would the fairest lady I've known."

"An' you mean for marry, eh?" probed the other.

"I did not say so," Burrell declared at last. "It's a thing I can't discuss, because I doubt if you could understand what I would say. This life of yours is different from mine, and it would be useless for me to explain the reason why I cannot marry her. Leaving out all question of my sentiment, there are insurmountable obstacles to such a union. But, as to this talk, I think that can be stopped without annoyance to her, and, as for the rest, we must trust to time to bring about a proper adjustment."

A low, discordant sound of laughter arrested his words, and, turning, he beheld Necia standing revealed in the dimness.

"What an amusing person you are!" she said. "I've had hard work holding in all this time while you were torturing your mind and twisting the honest English language out of shape and meaning. I knew I should have to touch sooner or later. That's your Dixie chivalry, I suppose. Well, I've played with you long enough. Lieutenant Burrell. I'm tired of the game, and you interest me no longer."

"You—you—say you've been playing with me?" stammered the man. The bottom of things seemed suddenly to slide from under him. He was like one sinking in some hideous quagmire. He felt as if he were choking.

"Why, of course," she cried scornfully, "just as you took me up for amusement. You were such a fine, well dressed, immaculate mound of conceit that I couldn't resist the temptation, and you bid your condescension so poorly that I thought you ought to be taken down a peg. I knew I was a squaw, but I wanted to see if I were not like other women, after all, and if you were not like other men." She was talking rapidly now, almost shrilly, for she had never attempted to act before, while he stood dazed and speechless, fumbling at his throat, while she railed at him. "You needn't waste time debating whether I'm good enough for you, because I'm not—decidedly I'm not your kind, and you are a joke to me."

He uttered an inarticulate cry, but she ran on unheeding, her eyes wide and glowing like coals, her lips chalk white. "You see, it's time I stopped such foolishness anyhow, for I'm to be married on Sunday."

"You are going to be married?" he muttered laboriously.

"Yes, to Poleon. Why, that's been understood for years."

He whirled upon the Canadian in a fury, and his words came hot and tumbling.

"D-don't blame him!" cried the girl hysterically. "It is all my doing. He had no part in it."

"Yes," said Doret in a restrained voice, "dis ain' no work of mine."

"You're a liar!" breathed the Kentuckian, now fairly wild with anger, but the other looked him squarely between the eyes and made no move.

"M'sieu'," he cried, "I'm livin' t'orty year an' never took no nam' lak dat before, but dere's reason here w'y I can't mak' no answer."

"Why, you aren't really angry, lieutenant?" mocked Necia. "It's only the joke of an ignorant half breed girl whose sense of humor is all out of gear. You mustn't quarrel over a squaw!"

She taunted him like a baited badger, for this thing was getting beyond her control, and the savage instincts of the wilderness were uppermost.

"You are quite right," he replied. "I am very foolish, and the laugh is with you." His lips tried to frame a smile, but failed. He bowed low and, turning, walked out.

The moment he was gone she cried breathlessly:

"You must marry me, Poleon. You've got to do it now!"

"Do you mean dat for sure?" he said.

"Can't you see there's nothing else for it after this? I'll show him that he can't make me a toy to suit his convenience. I've told him I would marry you on Sunday, and I'll do it or die. Of course you don't love me, for you don't know what love is, I suppose. How—could you?" She broke down and began to catch her breath amid coughing sobs that shook her slender body, though they left her eyes dry and feverish. "I—I'm very unhappy, b-but I'll be a good—wife to you. Oh, Poleon, if you only knew"—

He drew a long breath. When he spoke his voice had the timbre of some softly played instrument, and a tremor ran through his words.

"No! I don' know w'at kin' of love is dis, for sure. De kin' of love I know is de kin' I sing 'bout in my songs. I s'pose it's different breed to yours, an' I'm begin to see it don' live nowhere but on dem songs of mine. Dere's long tam' I waste here now—five year—but tomorrow I go again lookin' for my own countree."

"Poleon," she cried, looking up with startled eyes, "not tomorrow, but Sunday! We will go together."

He shook his head. "Tomorrow, Necia! An' I go alone."

"Then you won't—marry me?" she asked in a hushed and frightened voice.

"No! Dere's wan t'ing I can't do even for you, Necia; dere's wan t'ing I can't geeve, dat's all—jus' wan on all de worl'. I can't kill de li'l' god wit' de bow an' arrer. He's all dat mak' de sun shine, de birds sing an' de leaves w'isper to me; he's de wan li'l' feller w'at mak' my life wort' livin' an' keep music in my soul. If I keel 'im dere ain' no more lef' lak it, an' I'm never goin' fin' my lan' of content nor sing nor laugh no more. I'm t'inkin' I would rader sing songs to 'im all alone onderneat' de stars beside my campfire an' talk wit' 'im in my bark canoe dan go livin' wit' you in

CHURCH AFFAIRS

WORK BEING DONE IN OUR CHURCHES.

What is accomplished through the Social Life.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Sunday school at 11 a. m. and Y. P. C. U. meeting at 6 p. m. Topic, Religion and Righteousness, Micah 6: 1-8.

Bible study meeting Thursday evening.

FRIEND'S CHURCH.

J. W. Chaney, minister. Sunday morning service at 10. Sunday school at 11:30. Junior league at 2:30 p. m. Christian Endeavor at 6. Evening meeting at 7. A cordial welcome to all.

The Thursday circle met this week with Mrs. Wonder.

Next Thursday evening the Friendly Bible class will meet at the home of Mr. Wm. Lee. The subject for discussion will be, The Cleansing of the Temple.

"At the Cross" in the Pilgrims Progress series will be the subject for the Endeavor Sunday evening.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The B. Y. P. U. held a business meeting after church Sunday.

The concert next Tuesday evening under the leadership of Prof. Lagerquiest, promises to be very interesting, we hope our church people will patronize it.

The ladies missionary meeting was postponed this week on account of illness among the members.

Mrs. Kamm, Mrs. Ella Moore, Lila VanValkenburg and Iva Waldron are the committee in charge of the program for Children's Day, the programs have come and the Sunday School have already begun practicing.

We wish that all who have old magazines and papers to dispose of, would please bring them at once to Mrs. McIntyre's barn, from which place they will be sent away.

Mrs. C. H. Bramble is still very ill and Miss Lydia Stevenson is caring for her.

Guerdon Garlinghouse has improved the looks of his house by enlarging the front porch.

Al VanWinkle has the contract for building F. A. McNeil's new house on West Chicago st.

Miss May DeWolf arrived home from Detroit yesterday noon.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Sunday morning at 10, preaching service. Sermon topic, "The World's Noblest Quest." At 11:30 Sunday school. Men's class, topic, "Cursing of the Fig Tree." Young men's class, leader Lynn Hoag. At 7 p. m. Epworth League Anniversary.

The twentieth Anniversary of the Epworth League will be observed next Sunday night. For this occasion the regular league meeting and the preaching service will be merged. A special programme which has been prepared for use all over the land, will be carried out. Good music will be a feature. Miss Bernice Hall will have charge of the service. The pastor will make a short address and install the newly elected officers. This will be followed by an address by the new president, Miss Harriet Hurry. We hope to see the church filled on this occasion. The time is 7 p. m.

Friday evening, May 28th, Rev. Walter E. Burnett of Detroit will give a dramatic recital of the story of Jean Valjean the hero of Victor Hugo's great work, Les miserables. Aside from the thrilling interest of the story, and its masterly presentation by Mr. Burnett, a special interest will be taken in this entertainment because of the fact that Mr. Burnett is one of Tecumseh's boys who has gained distinction. Those who know him will want to hear him and those who do not know him ought to become acquainted. The L. A. S. under whose auspices he comes expect a crowded church. Keep the date open May 28th.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "Paul At Athens—The Man of Opportunity."

At the evening service the sermon subject will be "Man-The Eternal Riddle," a study from the Eighth Psalm. There will be special music by the choir. Miss Magers will sing "I'm a Child of the King."

The next two weeks the young people will devote to a study of the Book The Pilgrim's Progress. These topics are combined from the regular C. E. topics. The program for Sunday will include "Leaving the City of Destruction," "The Slough of Despond," "The Wicket Gate."

At the prayer meeting Wednesday the pastor gave a map talk on the Presbyterian Foreign Missions. A large map of the work has been placed in the vestibule of the church. All are asked to inspect it.

Miss Gaston is singing in Mrs. Bidwell's place in the choir during the latter's absence.

The programs for Children's Day have arrived, and the music was tried for the first time Sunday. The classes are all at work on their parts, and there is promise of a fine program. Miss Margarte Haire is chairman if the committee.

The boys class went to Addison last Saturday and played a game of ball with the boys from the Hudson Congregational church. Tecumseh won a hard fought game 5 to 1. The batteries for the Tecumseh boys was Skinner and Shurtz. Harry Chiverall played a fine game at third base.

Mens class will meet at the usual hour Sunday. All men are invited.

At the messenger boy meeting Monday evening a ball team was organized. A game was played with a picked nine Tuesday evening the messenger boys winning 10 to 5.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

FIREMEN SELECT NEW SECRETARY TO TAKE HARRY TANSLEY'S PLACE.

Mr. Tansley Presented with a Charm.

Wednesday evening the meeting of the Firemen was held in the council rooms at 7:30, to select a secretary in place of Harry Tansley, who goes next week to Port Huron, to fill the office until their regular election which will take place in July.

Burt Mominee was chosen. At the close of the election, W. E. Slayton, in behalf of the department presented Mr. Tansley with a handsome charm, in appreciation of his work. The charm represents both the Masonic and Oddfellow lodges. That Mr. Tansley's work has been satisfactory in the capacity of secretary of the department, may be seen from the fact that he has held the same office 14 years.

He has been a member of the Tecumseh fire department for 22 years, only missing 4 fires during that time.

Base Ball Excursion to Detroit May 16.

To enable the public to see the American League game between Detroit and Boston Sunday, May 16th, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Ry. will give an excursion to Detroit by special train leaving Tecumseh at 9:35 a m. Fare round trip 75c. Six hours in Detroit.

Strong Monosyllables.

Instructors in the art of literary composition usually condemn a string of monosyllables, but in the well known hymn "Lead, Kindly Light," written by a master of the English language, you may count thirty consecutive words of one syllable only. They offend neither the eye nor the ear.

Milton often uses a series of monosyllables. In the second book of "Paradise Lost" we have:

The fiend
O'er bog or steep, through strait, rough, dense or rare,
With head, hands, wings or feet pursues his way
And swims or sinks or wades or creeps or flies.

Such lines are not uncommon in the book:

Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens and shades of death.

And again:

Of neither sea nor shore nor air nor fire.
—London Notes and Queries.

Courtship in Ireland.

An Irish boy marries when he has a rid house and an Irish girl just when she pleases. Sometimes she so pleases while yet her years are few; at other times she is content to wait upon wisdom. In the latter case, of course, she makes a wise choice, but in the former almost always a lucky one, for luck is the guardian angel of the Irish.

"You're too young to marry yet, Mary," the mother said when Mary pleaded that she should grant Laurence O'Mahony a particular boon.

"If you only have patience, mother, I'll cure meself of that fault," was Mary's reply.

"And she's never been used to work, Laurence," the mother said to the suitor discouragingly.

"If you only have patience, ma'am," was Laurence's reply to this, "I'll cure her of that fault." And he did too.—Seumas MacManus in Lippincott's.

Changeable Names.

Tom—Belle is a strange girl. She doesn't know the names of some of her best friends. Maud—That's nothing. Why, I don't even know what my own will be a year from now.—Boston Transcript.

The Process.

An Unusual Amount of Painting Done in Tecumseh This Spring.

"Everything comes to those who hustle while they wait" seems to be the motto adopted by our energetic merchants Satterthwaite Bros., for they have certainly been hustling this Spring.

In backing up their excellent advertising in the columns of the Tecumseh Herald their handsome window displays have proved most effective. According to a conversation with one of our reporters there has been an unusual amount of painting done in Tecumseh this Spring. That's a sign of prosperity we're very glad to see.

This week floor paint is the leader in their window. How an old scratched floor or a marred bare floor can be given a hard, serviceable, easily-kept-clean surface is clearly shown by the sample they display.

appeals to all housekeepers at first glance. The reason is that it looks exactly as we say it is. It looks easily cleanable and a brief demonstration proves that it is easily cleanable. It looks cool and an explanation of its air cooling principles speedily convinces that it is cool and that it saves ice. It looks solid and durable and a careful scrutiny reveals that it is all that and more.

We guarantee the Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator to absolutely satisfy the most critical buyer. If it doesn't, we'll take it back. 25 years of refrigerator building experience have made the makers experts. No better refrigerator could be built. Please come in real soon—tomorrow say—and see how truthfully we have set forth its merits.

COMMUNICATION

From President Wightman, in Regard to the Ordinance.

That prohibits automobiles driving faster than 8 miles an hour.

Tecumseh, Mich., May 12th, 1909.

To the public:

Mr. Editor.

There seems to be some disatisfaction, among the sporty element of Tecumseh population in regard to the speed limit on Automobiles, and other machine vehicles.

Why is it thas some of our citizens inspire such articles as are being printed in the press of the state. Many of you will remember that it was said before election that if I were elected the grass would grow in our streets; I have not noticed that grass is growing in any unusual places, have you. Should you observe it please call the attention of Mr. G. B. Garlinghouse to it and it will be taken care of at once.

Why this commotion? I did not make the ordinance, it is simply my duty to enforce it. The ordinance reads as follows:

"An Ordinance Relative to Automobiles and other Machine Vehicles:

"The Village of Tecumseh Ordains: That no person shall run or propel any Automobile or any other Machine Vehicle through or upon the streets of this Village faster than eight miles an hour.

Section 2. Any person convicted of a violation of this Ordinance, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five dollars, or by imprisonment in the common jail of Lenawee County, not exceeding thirty days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Passed August 15th, 1904."

We cannot see all the violations of this Ordinance, and we ask all good Citizens to come forward with the proof of such violations, and all peace officers, (that means) Deputy Sheriff, Constables, Marshall, and Police men, are instructed to make Complaint against any person seen violating the above ordinance. Other violaters of the law are now obeying the law, why not Automobile drivers

Respectfully,

JAS. W. WIGHTMAN,

Village President.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sweet Celebrated the 44th Anniversary of Their Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Sweet celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary last Tuesday. They entertained at noon at a family dinner, their daughter Mrs. Mary Brown of Ft. Wayne, Ind., being present. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sweet were happily surprised by sixteen friends, who spent the evening with them at cards. Prizes were given to Mrs. Geo. Church and Mrs. Mary Brown. After a dainty luncheon the guests presented the couple with a table cloth. Mr. and Mrs. Sweet have resided in Tecumseh about 40 years where they have established one of the happiest homes with pleasant surroundings as is to be found in the city. They are as satisfied with life to-day as when they plighted their troth 44 years ago. That three maining years of their married life will be as successful and pleasant as those past is the earnest wish of their many friends.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Whaley Celebrate Anniversary of Their Marriage Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Whaley of Tecumseh, have been married two years to-day and in celebration of the event are entertaining at their home on south Union street a company of young friends of Mrs. Whaley's from Morenci and Toledo. Mr. and Mrs. Whaley have only resided in Tecumseh a little over a year but during the time have made a number of friends who wish them many more years of happy married life. The guests present will remain over until tomorrow afternoon. They are Helen Burke, Elsie Royce, Opal Babcock, Florence Rorick, Ida Saulisbury, Maude Lee, Mrs. C. A. La Rowe, Mrs Norman Horton of Morenci, and Blanch Pattee of Toledo.

WRECKED

Extra Freight on the D., T. & I.

WRECKED AT ADRIAN MONDAY NIGHT.

Conductor Frank Tilbury formerly of Tecumseh was in charge.

An extra freight on the D., T. & I. was wrecked at Adrian Monday evening, between Maumee and Race streets, about 12:30. The train consisted of forty-one coal and freight cars bound from Napoleon, O, to Detroit. They were running at about 8 miles per hour, when the accident occurred, as they had orders to slow down at Maumee on account of the derail at the Junction of the D., T. & I. and Adrian street railway tracks. Half way between the passenger depot and freight depot is a switch with a track leading from the main line to freight house. The train crew think the cause must have been a broken flange.

On account of the heavy load, they were running an engine at each end of the train. The cars were derailed in such a manner as to run a couple of steel coal cars, clear across, the side track against the platform of the freight house, shoving the south end of the depot, a foot east. The side track had to be relaid, and a large section of the main track was badly torn up. The damage is confined to the wrecked cars track and freight house, as no one of the crew, was injured. A wrecker came from Napoleon, O., to clear up the wreck.

In charge of the train were Engineer Young, and Conductor Frank Tilbury.

Mr. Tilbury was formerly a resident of Tecumseh.

DO YOU OWN A HYOMEI INHALER?

If you have a little Hyomei inhaler (pronounced High-o me) in your home you have a treasure.

Into this hard rubber inhaler you can pour a few drops of Hyomei and, presto, you have the best little physician for catarrh, coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup and asthma, the world has ever known.

When you breathe Hyomei you bring the healing virtues of the mountainous forests to your home. You get the very same healing, antiseptic air that you would breathe if you resided in the forests of pine and eucalyptus of inland Australia, where catarrh or consumption was never known to exist.

If you have a Hyomei inhaler in your home, get a bottle of Hyomei for 50c.

If you have not an inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, which costs but $1.00, and includes an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and simple instructions for use.

Hyomei is sold and guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, to cure catarrh, asthma or bronchitis, or money back. It will relieve a cold in five minutes, and will break it up in five hours. It gives most gratifying relief to consumption sufferers, and is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

AN AFRICAN TITBIT.

Hippopotamus Meat Has a Strong Odor and Flavor of Musk.

To the African traveler the hippopotamus is a species of game particularly desirable for its ivory and its hide, are both valuable, while the not inconsiderable danger involved in its pursuit provides the delicious emotion without which every kind of hunting is tame and insipid. Moreover, the obligation under which the leader of the expedition lies to feed his servants and carriers adequately makes one of these enormous beasts, twelve feet long or so and disproportionately wide, a perfect godsend. Not only does the hippopotamus furnish a formidable amount of meat, but that meat has the inestimable merit of keeping fresh much longer than any other, principally owing to the fact that flies seem to have an insurmountable horror of it. I must admit that for a long time I thoroughly sympathized with the flies. Alive, the hippopotamus has a peculiar odor, somewhat resembling musk, which discloses the presence of the animal from afar when he happens to be to windward of one. In the flesh of the dead animal this odor—or the taste of it, rather—persists and is much appreciated by the natives, though foreigners take a long time to get accustomed to it; some are never able to support it.—Wide World Magazine.

FIVE SENSES NOT ENOUGH.

Our Limited Scale of Consciousness Shuts Out Many Vibrations.

Between the vibrations that we call electricity and the vibrations that we call heat we imagine there must be other vibrations filling up the gap, but we do not know, simply because we have no senses that can comprehend them. The spectrum is just such a little scale. Below the darkest red at the lower end we cannot see; at the other end as the vibrations get faster and faster through the orange, the blue and the violet is another unknown gap—that is, we cannot see it. But surely the vibrations are there. Some of them, for instance, that we have never seen and never can see mark their presence on a photographic plate. And this same spectrum may be used as an analogy to describe spiritualistic phenomena. Just as there are limits at either end of the scale of vibrations beyond which our own senses can tell us nothing so may there be psychic forces at work beyond the limits of our consciousness. These are seemingly supernatural to us when we witness their effect, but they really are no more supernatural than the X ray that pierces the solid body or the invisible ultra violet ray that marks the photographic plate.—From "Are the Dead Alive?" by Fremont Rider in Delineator.

When the Waiter Wins.

Two men were wrangling as to who should settle with the waiter for the luncheon. When the question had been finally decided and the contestants had gone the waiter said to one of his regular customers who was a witness of the scene: "That's what we like, for every time it happens we come in for an extra tip. The man who couldn't get the check has only one way to get even, and that is by giving the waiter something, and nine times out of ten he does it and makes the amount more than he would have given if he had paid the check. This one ordered extra cigars and left the change for me. We like the 'give me the check' quarrels."—New York Tribune.

Quick Wit.

In the days when Rowley Hill was bishop of the Isle of Man one of his clergymen, bearing the name of Tears, came to say adieu to his bishop on getting preferment.

The parson said: "Goodby, my lord! I hope we may meet again, but if not here in some better place."

The bishop replied, "I fear the latter is unlikely, as there are no Tears in heaven."

"No doubt," wittily answered the parson, "you are right that our chance of meeting is small, as one reads of the plains of paradise, but never of any Hills there."

Overfeeding.

"Men drunk from liquor and men drunk from overeating are most susceptible to pneumonia and die of it," said a Chicago health commissioner in an address. "The majority of cases of pneumonia are of patients who contracted the disease after a drunken debauch or who were drunk from overfeeding," the commissioner continued. "People drunk from overfeeding, I think, are almost as immoral as those who stupefy themselves with liquors. The effects of pneumonia in such patients are much the same."

His Hand.

Tom Reed was playing whist on one occasion in his club in Portland. One of the party whom the "czar" did not like extravagantly had a habit of carrying a good deal of black realty under his finger nails, and the rest of his hands never looked clean. But the fellow had good luck, which nettled Tom. Finally, almost unable to conceal his impatience, the giant speaker of the house of representatives remarked in his metallic nasal tone of voice, "Blank, if dirt was trumps, what a hand you'd have!"

A Terrible Threat.

"You say your titled son-in-law holds threats over you?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "He has us where we can't give him any argument at all. Mother and the girls say we must yield for the sake of the family honor."

"Is there—er—a skeleton in the closet?"

"Not at all. He simply announces that unless he has his own way he'll get naturalized and be a plain American citizen."—Washington Star.

Making It Easier.

Little Jean's dolly had met with an accident, and her mother had procured a new head for it. The removal of the old head proved to be a rather difficult task, which Jean watched with great interest.

"I'm afraid, Jean, I can't get this old head off," said the mother.

Jean's face glowed with the light of an inspiration as she said:

"Never mind, mamma; just take the body off."

Highly Esteemed.

"Do you think that most people nowadays worship money?"

"No; I won't go as far as that," answered the home grown philosopher, "but I will say that the love of money is seldom platonic."—Washington Herald.

Limited Love.

"When your parents first refused me your hand, I was so wretched that I wanted to throw myself out of the window."

"And why didn't you?"

"It was so high!"—Lustige Blatter.

Alleged Swindlers Caught.

Milwaukee, May 13.—In the capture of Frank Burton and Charles Ness, giving addresses as Pittsburg and Chicago, respectively, the Milwaukee police believe that they have two men who have been working a directory swindle by which business men of Detroit and many other cities have been defrauded through advertising contracts.

Either Way.

Claim Equity in Road.

Flint, Mich., May 13.—The hearing of the suit brought by Timothy E. Tarsney and Thomas G. Sullivan of Detroit against the Detroit, Flint & Saginaw Railway company is under way in court here. The plaintiffs are endeavoring to establish that they have an equity in the bonds of the railway company, which is the outgrowth of the old road of that name.

Boy's Leg Torn Off.

Alto, Mich., May 13.—Allen, the ten-year-old son of A. O. Vicksford of this place, was returning from school and "caught on" the rear of a carriage to ride home. His right leg was caught in the spokes of the wheel, and before the driver knew of his presence the leg had been torn off at the knee. Physicians say that the boy will probably die.

Roosevelt Takes 'Em Alive.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 13.—Theodore Roosevelt's hunting luck continues. The former president on his last expedition shot a leopard and captured the animal's two cubs. A buffalo and two giraffes also have been captured by the expedition. The party is still in camp near Machakos.

Cleared His Doubts.

A well known English gentleman engaged a tall and powerful highlander to act as gamekeeper on his estate. Having been a considerable time at his post and not having caught any poachers, the gentleman suspected his gamekeeper of carelessness. So one dark night he disguised himself and went out with a gun to poach on his own ground. He had fired only one or two shots when he was suddenly pounced upon from behind and his gun wrenched away. Then kicks and blows were showered upon him until he fell down half insensible. The highlander then walked away quietly, and when the gentleman recovered sufficiently he crawled home and took to his bed for two weeks. He has now no doubts as to whether the man can perform his duty or not.

His Wonderful Invention.

Australia, as is well known, is infested with rabbits, a most destructive and multitudinous pest. Not long ago a man invented the following plan:

You go out into the field from which the rabbits are to be removed. You saw down a tree, and on the slant of the stump you paint a black spot. Then you keep very quiet, so that the rabbits will come back from their burrows and feed as usual. When a large enough number has collected you clap your hands sharply. The effect will be electric. The rabbits will jump in haste for their burrows. At least one is sure to mistake the black spot for his hole and make for it. Invariably he will dash his brains out. This process, repeated often enough, is warranted to exterminate the rabbit forever.

The reports do not say whether there are any rabbits left in Australia.

RACING AT BELMONT PARK.

Begins Today With Metropolitan Handicap as the Feature.

New York, May 13.—The feature of the opening of the metropolitan racing season today at Belmont park will be the Metropolitan handicap, one of the American turf's classic races. Twenty-nine of America's best running horses three years old and upwards are entered in the race. Among them are August Belmont's Half Sovereign, Field Mouse and Practical, S. C. Hildreth's King James, James R. Keene's Casque, J. E. Madden's Fayette, Barney Schreiber's Jack Aitken, G. M. Odom's Nimbus, C. C. Smithson's Juggler and H. P. Whitney's Petticoat and Sun Dance.

The races at Belmont park will be run four days a week, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. The biggest of the stakes is the Belmont, worth $30,000, with an additional $1,000 in plate offered to the winner by August Belmont. The Metropolitan is worth $5,000. The distance in the latter race is one mile.

TAFT GOES FORTH AND CONQUORS.

Wields the Golf Stick With Telling Results.

Washington, May 13.—With victory perched on his golf stick, President Taft returned late Wednesday afternoon from the Chevy Chase club links. Taking Walter J. Travis, former national and international champion, for his partner, the president helped defeat, by a score of one up, the opposing team, composed during the first seven holes of play of General Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau of the war department, and F. Oden Horstmann, crack player of the Chevy Chase club, whose place was taken after the seventh hole by Captain Archibald Butt, military aide at the White House.

Mr. Horstmann was obliged to drop out because of a wrench to his side suffered several days ago in playing a championship game.

The feature of the game was a remarkable drive made by the president, who on the eighteenth hole led with a long, straight drive to within three feet of the home green hole.

The total individual score of Mr. Travis was 74 and that of Mr. Taft 92.

Communication Restored.

New York, May 13.—The French Cable company has announced that direct cable communication has been restored with all points in Venezuela at the reduced rates of $1 per word. This terminates the cable isolation which Venezuela has been under for several years, since the seizure of the French cable line by Cipriano Castro for alleged complicity in the Matos rebellion.

The Long and Short of It.

"He may win the race."

"Yes; he's short legged, but long winded."—Detroit Free Press.

The Swaffham Tinker and His Dog.

Two quaint figures are carved on the two top pews and reading desk of Swaffham church. According to legend, a tinker had a dream bidding him go to London bridge and a stranger would reveal to him how to find a pot of money. So off he went with his dog, and at the bridge a stranger stopped him, saying, "Last night I had a dream bidding me go to Swaffham and dig in such and such a place and there find a pot of money, but I don't believe in dreams." Then back went the tinker, dug for and found the pot as described and also an inscription bidding him dig deeper, which he did, and found another, and with them restored Swaffham church. The carvings were put up to perpetuate his memory.—London Strand.

The Interview.

As used nowadays by the newspapers the word interview is said to have been the invention of Joseph McCullagh of St. Louis, and, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, it became popular in England in the early nineties. But it was known before that. A writer on the subject in the Nation of 1869 was possibly the first to use the word in its present sense of a talk with a representative of the press.—Chicago News.

Vicarious Osculation.

He was having some words with her chaperon.

"I'll—I'll kiss her right under your nose!" he said defiantly.

"Oh, well," said that lady, "vicarious kissing like that I can see no objection to."—Boston Transcript.

Plausible.

Irascible Magistrate—Officer, why did you bring this prisoner up before me? Can't you see he's as deaf as a doornail? Policeman—Oi was told ye'd give him a hearing, sor.—Judge.

Eat What

You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

STORM'S DAMAGE IS VERY HEAVY

Amounts to $40,000 in Fowlerville and Vicinity.

MANY FAMILIES HOMELESS.

People Were Badly Frightened. Thought World Was Coming to End. Wind Did Freakish Stunts—Woman Dies of Fright—Missing Ones at St. Clair Flats Safe.

Fowlerville, Mich., May 17.—This town and surrounding country for a radius of two miles is today strewn with wreckage, with probably twenty-five families homeless. The damage wrought by Saturday afternoon's cyclone, which nearly completely razed this section, will reach upwards of $40,000. Townspeople did not realize the severity of the wind storm until Sunday, and then everyone whose homes had been spared turned out to assist the unfortunate ones in gathering up their property.

Not until long after the cyclone had passed over did many of the residents leave their homes and places of employment. Many were frightened stone stiff, and it is true that while the cyclone was at its height many thought the end of the world was coming.

A conservative estimate places the number of buildings damaged or demolished at 250. This may be increased when all districts are heard from. Dwellings were unroofed, barns and outbuildings demolished, orchards uprooted and boards and trees carried for several rods in the air. The houses and store buildings clustered in town escaped serious damage.

Three Injured

But three persons are reported as injured. Frank G. Rounsville, owner of the Rounsville elevator, and Emory Dezess, an employe, were standing in the elevator doorway when the cyclone picked it from its foundation and carried it from beside the Pere Marquette station, where it stood, to the middle of the railway right of way. Rounsville and Dezess, frightened almost to death, fled, but flying debris caught them. Rounsville was quite seriously hurt, while Dezess received only slight bruises. The third to sustain hurts was Minnie Cone, a small girl who was thrown to the ground while returning with a son of Dezess from fishing on the Cedar river. Her arm was broken.

The wind during its stay accomplished several freakish stunts. Mrs. Clara Bristol was working about the cook stove. The wind, with cyclonic fury, carried the roof and tore away the side and end walls. She and the stove were sent sailing into the yard. Mrs. Bristol landed on top of the stove, a distance of twenty-five feet from the spot where the house had stood. She was uninjured.

A horse on the farm of Louis Bessert was carried several rods by the force of the storm, and although the barn in which he was standing was completely ruined it was uninjured. The barns of William Meacher were also destroyed. Four horses stalled in them escaped without injury.

Chickens Killed.

Hundreds of chickens in the country were killed during the storm by being struck by flying pieces of timber or buried under barn wreckage.

The roof of the Pere Marquette station was carried away and the east wall torn to splinters. The freight sheds and plaster warehouses were also unroofed.

While the wind was in its fury the big basement barn of E. B. Bryar was picked up, carried and sent crashing into the home of John Dianon. The house was damaged considerably.

Telephone and telegraph wires were torn down, and not until late Sunday was communication with the outside world possible.

Charles Curtis, an eccentric character, was in the village when the storm broke. He sought shelter, and after it had subsided he started for home. Arriving at the spot where he had lived a few hours before he was surprised to see nothing of his little hut. It had been carried away. The aged man is still hunting for his home and belongings.

Howell, Mich., May 17.—Mrs. William Ludke, living about four miles from Fowlerville, is dead. Her home was damaged by a cyclone Saturday. Her death was due to heart trouble brought on by fright. Ludke, the husband, says his wife went into hysterics when the storm broke and fell in a swoon on the kitchen floor. After the storm subsided he ran for a doctor, but she died. She was about sixty years old.

A rumor was current that Sprungtown, a small village near here, was totally blown to pieces by Saturday's cyclone, but it was later learned that only great damage had been done by the heavy hail.

Many bushels of beans were exposed to the elements when the elevator at Roundsville was destroyed by the storm, and also a large quantity of wool, according to A. Close, owner of the building.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 17.—All four persons reported as missing from the St. Clair Flats Saturday, and who it was feared had drowned in the lake during a squall, have been accounted for. Carl Epley, Charles Ullrich and Ray Groesbeck, the three boys who started for the Flats early in the afternoon in a gasoline launch, were picked up by a searching party.

Clinging to his small sailboat for dear life, in water waist deep, George Brooks, aged eighty-five years, known as "the hermit fisherman of Point Huron," was found by a party of friends from Bingham's who had set out in search of the eccentric old man.

Adrian, Mich., May 17.—Saturday's storm did considerable damage in the country surrounding this city. Several sheep were killed in the fields.

LAMENTS FOLLY OF HIS WAYS.

But Wert Will Not Be Arraigned For Bigamy.

Corunna, Mich., May 17.—Alva Wert, the former Laingsburg jeweler, arrested at Pocatello, Ida., several days ago, on a charge of wife desertion, is a pretty disgusted man. He is disgusted with himself and everybody else, so he declares. Wert is now occupying a cell in the local jail, having arrived here Sunday in the custody of Sheriff Watson.

"I've made a d——n fool of myself. I have had two good wives, but neither will own me now," said Wert, at the jail. "My trouble now is all my own fault."

Wert will not be arraigned on a bigamy charge. The officers have decided that for the sake of the innocent parties only a charge of desertion will be made against him.

YOUNG ANNIS IN TROUBLE.

Relative of Hains' Victim Under Arrest at Flint.

Flint, Mich., May 17.—Claude Annis, who claims to be a nephew of William Annis, shot by Captain Peter C. Hains, is under arrest here, awaiting the outcome of injuries inflicted by him on John Rowski, a foreigner employed by the Michigan Castings company of this city.

Annis had an executive position with the casting company. It is alleged Rowski shoved him on a pile of iron. He resented the action of the employe and struck him a blow over the head.

Little hope for Rowski's recovery is entertained.

YOUNG MAN A BIGAMIST.

Arrested in Detroit and Taken to Canada to "Face the Music."

Detroit, Mich., May 17.—His secret revealed by his mother, Ward Aubrey of London, Ont., aged twenty-six, was arrested on a charge of bigamy, and he was taken to Windsor, later to be taken back to London. Ward admits that he has another wife and says that he is willing to go back and "face the music."

Negress Ends Life.

Detroit, Mich., May 21.—Mrs. Victoria John, negress, living at 356 Clinton street, ended her life by swallowing two ounces of laudanum. Her death occurred in St. Mary's hospital, where she had been taken. Coroner Bennett will hold an inquest. The woman's husband can give no reason for his wife's act.

Brother and Sister Drown.

Rochester, May 17.—While canoeing in the Genesee river, J. Louis Minges, twenty-eight years old, and his sister, Carrie, thirty years old, were drowned by the capsizing of their canoe.

TRAIN HELD UP NEAR SPOKANE

Bandits After Robbery Cause Bad Collision.

TWELVE PASSENGERS HURT.

Desperadoes Detach Engine and Baggage Car and, After Running Them Down Track and Rifling Registered Mail, Send Them Dashing Back Into Coaches—Conductor a Hero.

Spokane, Wash., May 17.—Following the hold-up of a Great Northern passenger train by six bandits, between Colbert and Mead, at night, twelve persons were injured, none fatally, when the locomotive and the mail car, cut off from the rest of the train, ran back wild, after the bandits had rifled the mails of an unknown amount, and collided with the rest of the train, which had been left standing where the bandits got possession of the train.

Having taken the detached mail car down the track a considerable distance, the robbers looted the registered mail and, reversing the engine, sent the locomotive and the mail car crashing back into the passenger coaches.

The conductor saw the wild cars backing down the track at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, and he and another trainman placed a tie on the track to stop their flight, but the cars, although partly stopped by this means, plunged into the coaches, throwing passengers from their seats, cutting them with glass from broken windows. A trainman sprang aboard the locomotive as the collision occurred and shut off the steam, stopping the havoc.

When the train reached Colbert some switching had to be done. While the engine crew was busy at this work two men sprang into the cab and, thrusting revolvers against the bodies of Engineer William Miller and Fireman John Hall, ordered them to do as commanded. The engineer and the fireman complied, and the mail cars were cut off from the rest of the train by four other robbers.

Crew Forced to Leave Train.

The locomotive and the mail car then ran up the track a few miles. Then the engineer and his fireman were forced to leave the cab. Two of the robbers went to the door of the mail car and ordered it opened. Their command was obeyed by Benjamin F. Stumpf, mail clerk, who was hurried away from the cars, with the enginemen, by a dozen revolver shots. Running the locomotive themselves, the outlaws took the mail cars down the track and looted the registered mail. Then they started the locomotive back towards the rest of the train and escaped. It was when the conductor saw the powerful locomotive careening towards the coaches in which many persons were asleep that he and the brakeman got in their good work and doubtless prevented many deaths.

Two special trainloads of deputies were hurried from Spokane when the word of the hold-up was received, and doctors were taken along to care for the injured. No trace of the robbers has been found.

While it is reported that the bandits obtained a large sum of money, the amount being placed at $20,000, railroad officers and mail inspectors say the amount stolen is not known.

FIRE AND EXPLOSION

Destroys Railway Storehouse and Terminals at Portsmouth, Va.

Portsmouth, Va., May 17.—Fire of unknown origin, accompanied by an explosion, has destroyed the general storehouse of the Seaboard Air Line railway and the railroad terminals here, entailing a loss of from $100,000 to $150,000 and resulting in the injury of four men, one being seriously injured.

Between fifty and sixty freight cars, many of them loaded, also were destroyed.

The fire gained rapid headway, and for a time it appeared that all of the buildings located in the Seaboard's repair and construction yards would be consumed. Soon after the Portsmouth fire department arrived on the scene a tremendous explosion within the storehouse, a brick structure, followed by several smaller ones, sent bricks and burning timbers flying in every direction, greatly endangering the lives of the fire fighters and others who had gathered on the scene.

The shock which ensued from the first explosion shook everything within a radius of five miles. The officials of the company attribute the explosions to a quantity of stored torpedoes.

DO BETTER THAN THE REPUBLICANS

Democrats Gause Less Friction Over Tariff Bill.

DOZEN DELAY TARIFF BILL.

Still Undecided Matter When Discussion Will End—Voices of Senators Depew, Clay and Bailey Will Be Heard This Week—Lack of Support of Taft Weakens Income Tax Idea.

Washington, May 17.—Beginning today the daily sittings of the senate commence at 10 o'clock in the morning. The hour has been advanced in the hope of expediting final action on the tariff bill by more rapidly disposing of the long speeches as well as of the detailed discussion of the various disputed schedules. The consideration of the measure has developed greater opposition on the part of a dozen or so of Republican senators than was expected.

The leaders are quite in the dark as to when the end may be reached. They are finding less difficulty on that point in dealing with the Democrats than in dealing with the independent Republicans.

The discussion this week will deal with the various paragraphs which have been passed over, but there will be a few speeches on the general tariff question, including one by Senator Depew. Senator Clay has prepared and will deliver, probably on Tuesday, an elaborate speech criticising the sugar schedule and undertaking to show that it is in the interest of the sugar combination.

Senator Bailey will continue to press his demand for a vote on the income tax as a feature of the tariff bill, but it is an open secret that he is not now nearly so confident of success results. The general opinion among the supporters of the income tax policy is that the cause has been materiall weakened by the decision of the president not to press for the tax.

ROYALISTS MADE TROUBLE.

Dinner Celebrating Beautification of Joan of Arc Ends Disastrously.

Paris, May 17.—The three days' fete in honor of the beautification of Joan of Arc ended Sunday with impressive services at Notre Dame, at which Mgr. Amiette, Archbishop of Paris, presided.

The Royalist committee of Paris seized the occasion to give a dinner of 800 covers in honor of the Duke of Orleans. Prominent Royalists attended.

The company sang Royalist songs, and violent speeches were made against the republic.

Cries of "Long live the king" (meaning the Duke of Orleans) and "Down with the republic" were heard.

At the conclusion of the banquet a number of the younger section attempted to form a parade despite the objection of the police, who finally broke up the procession and tore down the banners. Fifteen arrests were made.

NAVIGATION MENACED.

Ice Off Coast of New Foundland Is Causing Great Trouble.

St. Johns, N. F., May 17.—Great fields of ice today extend out from the shore of nearly every section of New Foundland, constituting a menace to ocean navigation.

Nearly a dozen ocean liners have put in here or at nearby ports lately badly damaged and reporting narrow escapes from more serious imperilling of the lives of thousands of passengers.

Not for nearly a score of years have the ice fields held intact so long as this season.

fine house an' let 'im get off an' die."

"But I told him I'd marry you—that I had always intended to. He'll believe I was lying," she moaned in distress.

"Dat's too bad, but dis t'ing ain' no doin's wit' me. 'Dere's wan t'ing in dis worl' mus' live forever, an' dat's love. If we kill 'im den it's purty poor place for stoppin' in. I'm cut off my han' for help you, Necia, but I can't be husban' to no woman in fun."

Poleon waited patiently until her paroxysm of sobbing had passed, then gently raised her and led her out through the back door into the summer day, which an hour ago had been so bright and promising and was now so gray and dismal. He followed her with his eyes until she disappeared inside the log house.

"An' dat's de end of it all," he mused "Five year I've wait—an' jus' for dis."

Meade Burrell never knew how he gained his quarters, but when he had done so he locked his door behind him, then loosed his hold on things material. He raged about the room like a wild animal and vented his spite on every inanimate thing that lay within reach. As yet his mind grasped but dully the fact that she was to marry another, but gradually this thought in turn took possession of him. She would be some one else's wife in two days. The thought drove the lover frantic, and he felt that madness lay that way if he dwelt on such fancies for long.

As he grew calmer his reason began to dissect the scene that had taken place in the store, and he wondered whether she had been lying to him, after all. No doubt she had been engaged to the Frenchman and had always planned to wed Poleon, for that was not out of reason. She might even have set out mischievously to amuse herself with him, but at the recollection of those rapturous hours they had spent together he declared aloud that she had loved him, and him only. Every instinct in him shouted that she loved him in spite of her cruel protestations.

A man came with his supper, but he called to him to begone. There are those who believe that in passing from daylight to darkness a subtle transition occurs akin to the change from positive to negative in an electrical current and that this intangible, untraceable atmospheric influence exerts a definite psychical effect upon men and their modes of thought. Be this as it may, it is certain that as the night grew darker the lieutenant's mood changed. He lost his fierce anger at the girl and reasoned that he owed it to her to set himself right in her eyes; that in all justice to her he ought to prove his own sincerity.

An up river steamboat was just landing as he neared the trading post—a freighter, as he noted by her lights. In the glare at the river bank he saw Poleon and the trader, who had evidently returned from Lee's creek, and without accosting them he hurried on to the store. Peering in from the darkness, he saw Alluna. No doubt Necia was alone in the house behind. So he stumbled around to the back to find the window of her room aglow behind its curtain, and, receiving no answer to his knock, he entered, for it was customary at Gale's to waive ceremony. Inside the big room he paused, then stepped swiftly across and rapped at her door, falling back a pace as she came out.

Instead of speaking at once, as he had planned, to prevent her escaping, he was struck speechless, for the vision that met his eyes was that which he had seen one blithe spring morning three months before, but tonight there was no shawl to conceal her sweetly rounded neck and shoulders, whose whiteness was startling against the black of the ballroom gown. The slim gold chain hung around her neck, and her hair was piled high, as before. He noted every smallest detail as she stood there waiting for him to speak, forgetful of everything else.

She had put on the gown again to see if perchance there might be some mark of her blood or breed that had escaped her previous scrutiny, and, as there was no one to observe her, she had attired herself slowly, absorbed in her whimsy. Her wistful beauty dazed the young man and robbed him of the words he had rehearsed, but as she made to flee from him, with a pitiful gesture, toward her room the fear of losing her aroused him and spurred his wit.

"Don't go away! I have something I must tell you. I've thought it over, and you've got to listen, Necia."

"I am listening," she answered very quietly.

"Understand me, I'm not whining, and I'm willing to take my medicine. I couldn't talk or think very straight this afternoon, but you were wrong."

"Yes, I know now I was wrong. It was most unladylike, wasn't it? But, you see, I am only a little savage."

"I don't mean that. I mean you were wrong when you said I had played with you. In the sight of God, I swear you were mistaken. You have made me love you, Necia. Can't you see?"

She made no sign.

"If you can't, I owe it to you and to myself to set you right. I am not ashamed to acknowledge my love, and even when you are married to Poleon I want you to know that I shall love you always."

Even yet she made no sign. Was he not merely repeating the same empty words with which he had so often beguiled her? There was no word of marriage. He still considered her unworthy, beneath him.

"You do love me, Necia—you do! I see it in your eyes!" And he started toward her with open arms, but she shrank away from him.

"No, no! Don't touch me!" she almost sobbed.

"My dear one," he breathed, "you must listen to me. You have nothing to fear, for I love you—love you—love you! You were made for me! You'll be my wife! Yes; you'll be married on Sunday, but to me, not to Poleon or any other man!"

Did she hear aright? Was he, her soldier lover, asking her, the Indian girl?

"You do love me, don't you?" he pleaded. But still she could not speak, and he tried to read the answer in her swimming eyes.

"You mean—you want to—marry me?" she murmured at last, hesitating shyly at the word that had come to play so momentous a part in her little world.

"Indeed I do," he declared, with emphasis. "In spite of everything, anything! Nothing else matters. I'll quit the army. I'll give up the service and my people too. I'll put everything back of me, and we'll start out anew—just you and I."

"Wait a moment," she said, retreating a little from his eager, outstretched arms. "Why do you need to do all that?"

"Never mind why. It's as good as done. You wouldn't understand."

"But I think I do understand now. Do I really mean all that to you?"

"Yes, and more!"

"Listen to me," said the girl quietly. "I want you to talk slowly so I may not misunderstand. If you—marry me must you forego all those great things you speak of—your profession, your family, your future?"

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the soldier. "If they don't bother me, Necia, why should you worry?"

"Would you really have to give up your family—your sister? Would those people you are so proud of and who are so proud of you—would they cut you off?"

"There is no question of cutting off. I have no inheritance coming. I don't want any. I don't want anything except you, dear."

"Won't you tell me?" she persisted. "You see, I am dull at these things."

"Well, what if they do?" he conceded. "You more than make it up to me. You outweigh a thousand families."

"And would your marriage to a—a—to me destroy your army career?"

"Well, it will really be much easier for both of us if I resign from the service," he finally admitted. "In fact, I've decided to do so at once."

"No, no! You mustn't do that. To-night you think I am worth the price, but a day will come"—

He leaned forward and caught her hands in his.

"Meade, I can't let you do it."

"I'd like to see you help yourself," he said banteringly.

"I can and I will. You must not marry me, Meade. It's not right; it can't be." She suddenly realized what this renunciation would mean and began to shiver.

"It will be over before you know it," she heard him saying in a lame attempt at levity. "Father Barnum is an expert, and the operation won't occupy him ten minutes."

At that moment they heard the voices of the trader and his squaw outside, approaching the house. The girl's breath caught in her throat. She flung herself recklessly upon her lover's breast and threw her arms around his neck in an agony of farewell.

"Meade, Meade, my soldier," she sobbed, "kiss me goodby for the last time!"

"No," he said roughly.

"Now you must go," she said, tearing herself away, "and for my sake don't see me again."

"I will! I will! I will ask your father for you tonight."

"No, no! Don't, please don't! Wait till—till tomorrow—till I say the word! Promise me! On your love, promise!"

Her eyes held such a painful entreaty that he nodded acquiescence as the door opened and her father and Alluna entered.

CHAPTER XIII.

STARK TAKES A HAND IN THE GAME.

THE old man greeted the lieutenant affably, but as his glance fell on his daughter he stopped stock still on the threshold.

"I told you never to wear that dress again," he said in a dry, harsh voice.

The girl made no answer, for her heart was breaking, but turned and went into her room. Burrell had an irresistible desire to tell Gale that he wanted his daughter for his wife. It would be an unwonted pleasure to startle this iron gray old man and the shawled and shambling mummy of red, with the unwinking eyes that always reminded him of two oxheart cherries, but he had given Necia his promise. So he descended to the exchange of ordinary topics and inquired for the news of the creek.

"Necia's ground is getting better every hour," the trader said. "Yesterday they found a sixty dollar pan."

"Have you struck pay on yours?"

"No; Poleon and I seem to hold bad hands. Some of his laymen are quitting work. They've cross cut in half a dozen places and can't find a color."

Gale went to Necia's door and called her, but when she appeared he was unprepared for the tragic face with which she greeted him.

"Daughter," he said, "don't feel bad over what I said. I didn't mean to be cross with you, but—I don't like that dress."

"Were you cross with me, daddy?" she said dully. "I didn't hear. What did you say?"

He looked at her in amazement. "Necia, little girl, what is the trouble?"

She was staring past him, and her fingers were fumbling helplessly with the lace of her gown, but she began to show signs of collapse.

"I sent him away—I—gave him up when he wanted me—wanted me— Oh, daddy, he wants to marry me—and I sent him away!"

"He asked you to marry him in—in—in spite of who you are and what I am?"

"Yes; he is ready to give up his ambition, his army, his future, his family, everything, for me—to sacrifice it all, and so, of course, I couldn't let him." She spoke simply, as if her father would surely understand and approve her action, while in her voice was a note of inevitable resignation. "You see, I never understood what my blood would mean to him until tonight. I've been selfish and thoughtless, I guess. I just wanted him, and wanted him to take me, but now that he is mine I love him more than I thought. He is so dear to me that I can't drag him down—I can't I can't!" She went to the open door and stood, leaning against the casing, facing the cool outer darkness, her face hidden from them, her form sagging wearily, as if the struggle had sapped her whole strength.

Alluna crept to the trader and looked up at him eagerly, whispering:

"This will end in a little while, John. She is young. She can go back to the mission tomorrow. She will soon forget."

"Forget! Do you think she can forget?"

"Any woman can forget. Only men remember."

"It is the red blood in you—lying. You know you lie."

"It is to save your life," she said.

"I know, but it's no use." To Necia he said, "You needn't worry," little daughter." But her ears were deaf. "You needn't give him up, I say. This will end all right."

Seeing that she gave no sign of heeding, he stepped closer and swung her about till she faced him.

"Can't you trust me this one time? You always have before, Necia. I say he'll marry you, and it will come out right."

She raised her hopeless eyes and strove gamely to meet him, then, falling, broke away and turned back to the door. "I knew you couldn't understand. I—I—O God, I love him so!" With a cry like that of a wounded animal she fled out into the night, where she could give vent to her anguish unseen, for she had never wept before her father, but always crept away and hid herself until her grief was spent. Gale would have started after her, but Alluna dragged him back fiercely.

"No, no! It means your life, John. Let the secret die, and she will forget. She is so young. Time will cure her. Time cures everything. Don't tell her, don't tell any one, and, above all, don't tell that soldier. He would not believe, nor would she. Even I have doubted."

"You?"

"Yes, John. And, if I don't believe, what is a stranger to say? No man knowing you would believe the tale without proof. Suppose she doubted. Have you ever thought of that? Would you not rather have her die still loving you than live and disbelieve?"

"Yes, yes! Of course I—I've thought of that, but— Woman, you're worse than a rattlesnake!"

"Even if he knew, he might not marry her. You at least are clean, and that other man was a devil. A brave man's life is too great a price to pay for a grief that will die in a year." Alluna was speaking swiftly in her own language, her body tense, her face ablaze, and no man seeing her could ever again have called her people stolid.

"You think time will cure a love like that?" he said.

"Yes, yes!"

"That's all you know about it. Time may act that way perhaps in cities and such places, but out in the hills it is different. When you've got the breath of the forest in you, I say it is different. Time! Why, I've lived fifteen years in the open with a living memory. Every night I've dreamed it over; every day I've lived it through. In every campfire I see a face, and every wind from the south brings a voice to me. Every stormy night a girl with eyes like Necia's calls to me, and I have to follow. Every patch of moonlight shows her smiling at me, just beyond, just in the shadow's edge. Love! Time! Why, Alluna, love is the only thing in the world that never dies, and time only makes it the more enduring."

He took up the white slouch hat he had thrown down when he came in and stepped to the door.

"Where are you going?" inquired the squaw fearfully.

"To the barracks to give myself up!"

She flung herself at him, with a great cry, and seized him about the waist.

"You never loved me, John, but I have been a good woman to you, although I knew you were always thinking of her—and had no thought of me. I have loved this girl because you loved her. I have hated your enemies because you hated them, and now I remember, while you forget."

"Forget! What do you mean?"

"Stark!"

The man paused. "I did almost forget him—and after fifteen years!"

"Let us kill him tonight; then we will go to the soldier together, side by side. I am your woman. Necia will look after the little ones.

Gale stared at her, and as he gazed the red pigment underneath her skin, the straight hanging, manelike hair, the gaudy shawl she never went without, the shapeless, skin shod feet, the slovenly, ill fitting garb of a miscast woman vanished, and he saw her as she was on a day long past, a slim, shy, silent creature, with great, watchful, trusting eyes and a soul unspoiled. No woman had ever been so loyal, so uncomplaining. He had robbed her of her people and her gods. He had shifted hither and yon at the call of his uncertain fortune or at a sign of that lurking fear that always dogged him, and she had never left his side, never questioned, never doubted, but always served him like a slave, without asking for a part in that other love, without sharing in the caresses

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

"CREASING" A WILD HORSE.

For One Captured by That Method Fifty Were Killed.

Will C. Barnes, writing in McClure's of the various methods of capturing wild horses in the old days on the plains, says:

"'Creasing' was one of their devices. This consisted in shooting a bullet so that it struck the animal on the top of the neck just in front of the withers and about an inch or so deep close to the spinal column. The shock temporarily stunned the horse, and the hunter ran up and tied the animal's feet together before he recovered. A rope halter was slipped on his head. A gentle horse or sometimes a work ox was led up alongside the prostrate beast, and he was securely necked up to the gentle animal and thus could be handled easily. Old mustangers say, however, that for one horse caught this way fifty were killed and that as a matter of fact the method was not used very much except in an emergency, when a hunter, after days of attempts to capture, finally took the risk of successfully creasing an unusually fine animal rather than see him escape altogether.

"One of the best cow ponies I ever owned I bought from a mustanger who had creased him on the plains east of the Pecos river in New Mexico. There was a hole in his neck fully two inches deep and wide, where the ball from the heavy buffalo gun had plowed its way through the flesh just high enough above the spine not to kill and low enough to stun effectually."

To Cure Wrinkles.

"Look at a paralytic if you think wrinkles incurable," said a beauty doctor. "On the side he is paralyzed all his wrinkles disappear. Though he be sixty or seventy, his profile on that side is the profile of a youth. So the paralytic shows us how to cure our wrinkles—namely, by keeping our facial muscles still. If we keep our faces in perfect repose, never laughing when the comedian sings his best song, never weeping when wife or sweetheart dies, we will have no wrinkles whatever. The skin wouldn't wrinkle if it were not exposed. The skin of the body is much disturbed by action of the muscles underneath—as at the knee, for instance—yet this unexposed skin never wrinkles. Not being exposed to the bad influence of sun and wind, it has not lost the oil and the elasticity of childhood. And that's where I come in with my creams and unguents and massages."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Taming Patti.

Patti was to sing on a certain date at Bucharest, but at the last moment she declined to leave Vienna. It was too cold; snow everywhere; she would not risk catching her death of cold. M. Schurmann, the impresario, was in despair until a brilliant inspiration came to him. Quickly he telegraphed to the advance agent in the Roumanian capital: "At whatever cost Patti must receive an ovation at Bucharest station from the Italian aristocracy Send me by return the following wire: 'The members of the Italian and Roumanian nobility are preparing to give Mme. Patti a magnificent reception. The ministry will be represented. Processions, torches and bands. Telegraph the hour of arrival.'" The advance agent carried out this instruction, and when the telegram dictated to him over the wires arrived in Vienna it was handed to Patti, with the desired effect. "How charming!" she murmured. "What time do we start?"

Strong Monosyllables.

Instructors in the art of literary composition usually condemn a string of monosyllables, but in the well known hymn "Lead, Kindly Light," written by a master of the English language, you may count thirty consecutive words of one syllable only. They offend neither the eye nor the ear.

Milton often uses a series of monosyllables. In the second book of "Paradise Lost" we have:

The fiend
O'er bog or steep, through strait, rough, dense or rare,
With head, hands, wings or feet pursues his way
And swims or sinks or wades or creeps or flies.

Such lines are not uncommon in the book:

Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens and shades of death.

And again:

Of neither sea nor shore nor air nor fire.

Courtship in Ireland.

An Irish boy marries when he has a rid house and an Irish girl just when she pleases. Sometimes she so pleases while yet her years are few; at other times she is content to wait upon wisdom. In the latter case, of course, she makes a wise choice, but in the former almost always a lucky one, for luck is the guardian angel of the Irish.

"You're too young to marry yet, Mary," the mother said when Mary pleaded that she should grant Laurence O'Mahony a particular boon.

"If you only have patience, mother, I'll cure meself of that fault," was Mary's reply.

"And she's never been used to work, Laurence," the mother said to the suitor discouragingly.

"If you only have patience, ma'am," was Laurence's reply to this, "I'll cure her of that fault." And he did too.—Seumas MacManus in Lippincott's.

Highly Esteemed.

"Do you think that most people nowadays worship money?"

"No; I won't go as far as that," answered the home grown philosopher, "but I will say that the love of money is seldom platonic."—Washington Herald.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 15, 1909.

In a few weeks President Taft will be called upon to decide the question of detailing a naval surgeon to command a naval hospital ship. It is the intention of the Surgeon General of the navy to have Surgeon George Pickrell detailed to command the new hospital ship Solace. That vessel is at present being fitted out, at the navy yard at Charleston, S. C., according to the plans of the naval constructors, as a modern hospital ship, so far as that is possible. Surgeon Pickrell is one of the ablest officers of his corps and was nominated, recently, by the Surgeon General to take charge of the special installation necessary on the Solace for its new duties, and the Surgeon General has asked, also, that Surgeon Pickrell be detailed to command the Solace when commissioned. This has precipitated the old question which Surgeon General Rixey induced President Roosevelt to decide in his favor at the time Surgeon Charles F. Stokes was detailed to command the hospital ship Relief. The line officers of the navy are quite convinced that it is undesirable to detail a naval surgeon or any staff officer for that matter, to command a ship in commission, as such duty is the special prerogative of line officers. As Surgeon General Rixey no longer enjoys the personal influence at the White House that he exercised in the Roosevelt administration, there is every indication that President Taft will sustain the view of the officers of the line and place the senior naval surgeon in charge but not in command of the vessel.

The vote taken in the Senate this week on the iron ore paragraph in the metals schedule of the tariff bill is construed to mean that the Republican leaders, will be able to make good their assertion that no amendments to the tariff bill not approved by the Finance Committee will be adopted. After debate lasting all day, the paragraph recommended by the committee was adopted 61 to 24. Eighteen of the sixty one votes recorded for dutiable iron ore came from the Democratic side.

President Taft and the Attorney General have formulated a plan for buying supplies for all the government departments through a central board. This movement is in the interest of economy in government purchases and is in keeping with the suggestion made by the President at his first cabinet meeting, when he created a "budget" committee composed of three cabinet members, with the Secretary of the Treasury as chairman, to supervise all estimates for federal expenses before they are submitted to Congress. The President is of the opinion that many thousand of dollars can be saved by a collective purchase of supplies for all departments. On investigation it has been shown, for instance, that in the case of rubber bands one department was paying fifty per cent more for the same article than another department, and it has been found, also, that great discrepancy exists in the prices paid by the various departments for waste baskets, stationary, pens, ink, mucilage, glue, inkstands, clips, etc. Another feature of the proposed plan is government ownership of an ice plant as it claimed that the ice combination has fixed such prices as it pleases for supplying the departments.

James J. Hill was in Washington this week and after paying his compliments to the "agitation and oratory" prevalent in the Senate wing of the capitol over the tariff bill, declared that the "West and the South are to be the great sections of this country in the future. The West is now, for that matter, and the South is coming forward with leaps and bounds. The South exhausted her soil before the war by her methods of improvident agriculture, and is now struggling to restore the soil. She is succeeding too, and has a great future." Senator Scott of West Virginia was so impressed with the truth of Mr. Hill's remarks anent the superfluous speech making on the subject of that tariff that he had them read, as published in one of the local papers in the Senate.

Many prominent people in Washington are greatly interested in the success of the new social settlement house for colored people which was formally dedicated this week with appropriate exercises, Secretary Ballinger of the Department of the Interior being one of the speakers. He indorsed social settlement work among the race, and gave assurance that anything he could do through the Interior Department for the improvement or encouragement of the negro would be done. This is the first settlement house to be built in Washington and is the result largely of the efforts of the colored people themselves. The movement was begun in 1902 and was crowned with success this week in the dedication of this building which cost $5,000, the ground cost $1,000 and the equipment will cost about $800 more. It is believed that this settlement work will help to solve the problem of the negro in Washington and that its influence will be felt throughout the community.

Over-exertion due to weeks of continuous roller skating is believed to have perhaps fatally affected the heart of Laree Weeks, the 15 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Weeks of this place. The child was forced to leave her classes in school Wednesday, and now is reported to be in a serious condition. A physician is in constant attendance.—Plymouth News.

Mrs. Mabel Crouse, recently married and in her teens, tried to commit suicide in Hillsdale last Saturday evening, when she purchased a bottle of laudanum at a drug store, saying she wanted it for a toothache. She then told a clerk in a grocery store that she intended to commit suicide, but he thought she was joking. A short time afterward she was found in an unconscious condition on the steps of the Keefer House, but a physician gave her an emetic and she was soon out of danger.

When Robert Redick came home Saturday night from work he was too tired to think that he was 53 years old that day, but his children and relatives to the number of 33 dropped in on him unawares a few minutes later and in a short time it dawned upon him. He says the surprise was genuine, and from the way he acted they all have a right to believe they got the start of him for once. The company brought provender enough to feed a regiment and they say Rob laid in a supply for two weeks. Here's wishing he may have many more as pleasant anniversaries. — Clinton Local.

Mr. Redick is the father of Mrs. Andrew Taylor of this place.

A double funeral was held in Metamora, O., Saturday, at which time there was consigned to the earth the bodies of David Dewey, 83, and his wife, Emily, 74.

The couple had been married for fifty-five years and were respected pioneers of Metamora. The death of the aged pair brings to light a touching little story of a life-long devotion. For more than half a century they lived together. In the vigor of their youth they fought shoulder to shoulder to subdue the forces of nature and make a home for themselves in the wilds of Fulton county. Suffering all the hardships of pioneer life they lived to see the fruition of their dreams.

Mr. Dewey died Wednesday, May 5, and his aged wife, with whom he had lived in peace and love for five decades, was unable to withstand the shock, passing away the following evening.—Blissfield Advance.

Miss Marian Marshall, of Cone, came last Friday week to Dundee to stay for a while at the home of her brother Mathew Marshall. The following Tuesday she was taken ill, and the attending physician pronounced her case that of scarlet fever. The fever raged four days when it burned the young life out, she dying on Saturday morning. The girl was 15 year of age and was the daughter of Payden Marshall. She leaves two brothers and one sister. The body was taken to Azalia during the night watches of the same day, for interment. After the quarantine is raised a fitting burial service will be held. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the community. It is a most pathetic case and one that has touched the hearts of many.—Dundee Reporter.

Karl Bitter, the eminent sculptor who is in Ann Arbor for a few days, modeling a bas relief, life size, of President James B. Angell, has an assistant with him, an Italian, who outside of working hours, roams about the campus, absorbing the novelties of Ann Arbor. The other day he was on one of these constitutionals, when he ran into the Michigamua braves in the midst of their powwow and annual rope day festivities. The flourish of tommyhawks drove the Italian straight to the shelter of the president's house where his eyes started out in fright and his legs trembled beneath him as he gasped out in Italian-American: "The Indians, the Indians! They have such big heads," and the gray color of his face told how seriously he had taken this best of campus sport.—Ann Arbor Times-News.

A STARTLING STATEMENT

New York Medical Authorites Claim Dyspepsia Causes Consumption

The post mortem statistics of the big New York hospitals show that some cases of consumption are due to unchecked dyspepsia, especially when the victim was predisposed to tuberculosis.

Dyspepsia wears out the body and brain, the weakened, irritable stomach is unable to digest food, the body does not receive the required nourishment, constipation ensues and the victim becomes thin, weak and haggard. As a result, the body becomes a fertile field for the germs of disease to lodge and flourish.

Therefore, the person who permits dyspepsia to progress unhindered is guilty of contributing toward the development of one of the most insidious and fatal diseases known to mankind.

Dyspepsia is curable if properly treated. B. J. Pulver sells a remedy which he positively guarantees will cure indigestion or dyspepsia or they will pay for all the medicine used during the trail. This remedy is an absolutely new medical discovery and has been named Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Certainly no offer could be more fair, and the offer of B. J. Pulver, is proof positive that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a dependable and infallible remedy. Inasmuch as the medicine will cost you nothing if it does not benefit you we urge you who are suffering with indigestion or dyspepsia to try this remedy. A twenty-five cent box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets contains enough medicine for fifteen days' treatment. Remember Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are only sold in Tecumseh by B. J. Pulver, the druggist.

STANLEY G. SMITH

Killed in Automobile Accident at Woonsocket, R. I. on Saturday.

PROMINENT MANUFACTURER AND BANKER OF THAT CITY.

His wife was Miss Edith Corey of Tecumseh.

Word was received here Sunday of the tragic death of Stanley Gardner Smith in Woonsocket, R. I. whose wife was Miss Edith Corey of Tecumseh.

We clip the following from the New York Times:

Stanley Gardner Smith, manufacturer and banker of Woonsocket, R. I. was killed, and Austin Cook, president of the Woonsocket Institution for Savings, was injured by the overturning of an auto, in which they were riding late Saturday afternoon. Smith was thrown from the machine and struck a pile of rocks, receiving injuries which caused his death at the hospital a few hours later. He was secretary of the American Wringer Co.; ass't treasurer of the Woonsocket Institution for Savings, President of the Geuren Spinning Co., and director of a number of other concerns.

He leaves to mourn his tragic death, a wife, whom he married in this village five years ago, and two daughters Meredith aged 4 years and Francis, who is about five weeks old. One son, by a former marriage, Roy, aged 13, also survives.

The sympathy of a host of friends of the bereaved family is extended to them in their hour of trouble. The funeral was held today.

CROP REPORT.

The precipitation was generally above normal, during April, especially in the southern and central counties. Heavy rain occurred on the 14th and rain, snow and thunderstorms on the 28th and 29th. The temperature averaged from 1 to 4 degrees below normal. High winds occurred on the 7th and the last three days.

The present wheat prospect shows a slight improvement since the issuance of the April report, the average being 78 in the State and southern counties, 71 in the central counties and 80 in the northern counties.

The average condition of rye in the southern counties is 86, in the central counties 81, in the northern counties 88 and in the State 85.

The acreage oats sown up to date, compared with an average for the past five years, in the State, southern and northern counties is 97, and in the central counties 94.

The elderly spinster in the rear of the drawing room car had no more than settled in her seat when her attention was attracted to a woman a little farther front who was garbed in the deepest mourning. As Miss Spinster adjusted her nose grabber glasses for a better inspection of the one in widow's weeds she saw the conductor lean over and converse with her earnestly for several minutes.

When the conductor got back to her seat taking the passenger's tickets Miss Spinster was consumed with curiosity about the woman in mourning.

"Conductor," she asked in her sweetest tones, "what's the trouble with the lady up there in widow's weeds?"

"Oh, that's Mrs. Gettem!" replied the obliging conductor. "She's just taking her third husband out to a crematory."

"Oh, how dreadful!" exclaimed Miss Spinster. And then in a faraway voice she added:

"And just think of it! Here I am past fifty and never had a husband in my life, while that woman up there has them to burn!"—New York Times.

MAY FESTIVAL

Roger Waring of Alma College Writes a Good Description of the Saginaw Festival.

We are in receipt of a letter from Roger Waring of Alma College, who sang in the chorus at the May Festival held in Saginaw last week.

The Tecumseh boys were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burdick. Mrs. Burdick is the best musician in Saginaw, and played for Madame Eames when she sang. Concerning the Festival he says in part:

"This was Madame Eames last appearance in America for a time as she is soon going abroad to make a foreign tour. Saginaw city paid her $1500.00 for singing seven songs. It is considered a great honor to sing in her choruses, and it was with her that the Tecumseh boys sang. Three hundred voices in all.

The auditorium in which they sang has a seating capacity of 3,500, and 4,000 can be crowded into it. There were no less than 2,500 attending any of the three concerts, and at the last of Mme. Eames concerts, it was crowded.

The organ in this auditorium is one of the largest and most modern in the United States. It has four keyboards, and one of these is connected with three organs of pipes so that in reality, there are six organs in the one. In the organ there are bass drums, kettle drums, snare drums, chimes, (real bells), trumpets and everything even to a set of baritone pipes.

These pipes sound just like some one singing, one can scarcely tell the difference. It was a great treat to hear this organ played by a master. Mr. Mittleshulte of Chicago, came just to play for one evening, and he said he had never seen so large and modern an organ. It was a regular orchestra in itself.

The orchestra was very good also, in fact one of the best in America, consisting of 54 pieces. On the whole the festival was a great success.

Emma May Hill.

Emma May, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hill died at their home in Tecumseh Friday night of heart trouble after an illness of a few days, aged 19 months and 17 days. The funeral was held from the home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Cheney officiating. Burial at Brookside.

Everyone is bound to bear patiently the results of his own example.—Phaedrus.

HOW TO GROW FAT

A Lazy Stomach the Cause of Thinness, Nine Times in Ten

If you are thin or lean, have scrawney arms and neck, you can't grow fat unless you improve your digestion.

People take on flesh in proportion to the nutritious matter which the organs of digestion absorb and pass into the blood.

Just as long as this nutritious matter passes along without being absorbed, just so long will you remain thin.

Perhaps your stomach, bowels and liver need a tonic. If your digestion is not perfect, Mi-o-na tablets will make it perfect.

Mi-o-na will cure indigestion and every conceivable ailment of the stomach promptly. It is not a digester; it cures by building and toning up, not by encouraging a lazy stomach to continue its lazy and health destroying habits.

C. A. Wright & Son sell Mi-o-na for 50c. a box, and guarantee it to cure all stomach diseases and distress, or money back.

"Mi-o-na used by me for dyspepsia, gave fine relief and has my endorsement." James Silver, Ottawa st., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 15, 1908.

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers

When Willie and Johnny fight, mother licks.

Few men who have not earned it, ever have commanded success.

Many weak, nervous women have been restored to health by Foley's Kidney Remedy as it stimulates the kidneys so they will eliminate the waste matter from the blood. Impurities depress the nerves, causing nervous exhaustion and other ailments. Commence today and you will soon be well. Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

VERIFY IT

The Proof is in Tecumseh Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Tecumseh citizen is in itself strong proof for Tecumseh people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Tecumseh citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved sick kidneys and now states the cure was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

William C. Witherell, W. Potawatamie st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has convinced me that they are an absolutely reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them through the local papers in return for the relief I received from backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble through their use. I seldom have need of a kidney remedy now but I still keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house all the time. I know of several persons who have used this remedy at my suggestion with the best of results."

AN AFRICAN TITBIT.

Hippopotamus Meat Has a Strong Odor and Flavor of Musk.

To the African traveler the hippopotamus is a species of game particularly desirable, for its ivory and its hide are both valuable, while the not inconsiderable danger involved in its pursuit provides the delicious emotion without which every kind of hunting is tame and insipid. Moreover, the obligation under which the leader of the expedition lies to feed his servants and carriers adequately makes one of these enormous beasts, twelve feet long or so and disproportionately wide, a perfect godsend. Not only does the hippopotamus furnish a formidable amount of meat, but that meat has the inestimable merit of keeping fresh much longer than any other, principally owing to the fact that flies seem to have an insurmountable horror of it. I must admit that for a long time I thoroughly sympathized with the flies. Alive, the hippopotamus has a peculiar odor, somewhat resembling musk, which discloses the presence of the animal from afar when he happens to be to windward of one. In the flesh of the dead animal this odor—or the taste of it, rather—persists and is much appreciated by the natives, though foreigners take a long time to get accustomed to it; some are never able to support it.—Wide World Magazine.

FIVE SENSES NOT ENOUGH.

Our Limited Scale of Consciousness Shuts Out Many Vibrations.

Between the vibrations that we call electricity and the vibrations that we call heat we imagine there must be other vibrations filling up the gap, but we do not know, simply because we have no senses that can comprehend them. The spectrum is just such a little scale. Below the darkest red at the lower end we cannot see; at the other end as the vibrations get faster and faster through the orange, the blue and the violet is another unknown gap—that is, we cannot see it. But surely the vibrations are there. Some of them, for instance, that we have never seen and never can see mark their presence on a photographic plate. And this same spectrum may be used as an analogy to describe spiritualistic phenomena. Just as there are limits at either end of the scale of vibrations beyond which our own senses can tell us nothing so may there be psychic forces at work beyond the limits of our consciousness. These are seemingly supernatural to us when we witness their effect, but they really are no more supernatural than the X ray that pierces the solid body or the invisible ultra violet ray that marks the photographic plate.—From "Are the Dead Alive?" by Fremont Rider in Delineator.

When the Waiter Wins.

Two men were wrangling as to who should settle with the waiter for the luncheon. When the question had been finally decided and the contestants had gone the waiter said to one of his regular customers who was a witness of the scene: "That's what we like, for every time it happens we come in for an extra tip. The man who couldn't get the check has only one way to get even, and that is by giving the waiter something, and nine times out of ten he does it and makes the amount more than he would have given if he had paid the check. This one ordered extra cigars and left the change for me. We like the 'give me the check' quarrels."—New York Tribune.

Quick Wit.

In the days when Rowley Hill was bishop of the Isle of Man one of his clergymen, bearing the name of Tears, came to say adieu to his bishop on getting preferment.

The parson said: "Goodby, my lord! I hope we may meet again, but if not here in some better place."

The bishop replied, "I fear the latter is unlikely, as there are no Tears in heaven."

"No doubt," wittily answered the parson, "you are right that our chance of meeting is small, as one reads of the plains of paradise, but never of any Hills there."

Overfeeding.

"Men drunk from liquor and men drunk from overeating are most susceptible to pneumonia and die of it," said a Chicago health commissioner in an address. "The majority of cases of pneumonia are of patients who contracted the disease after a drunken debauch or who were drunk from overfeeding," the commissioner continued. "People drunk from overfeeding, I think, are almost as immoral as those who stupefy themselves with liquors. The effects of pneumonia in such patients are much the same."

His Hand.

Tom Reed was playing whist on one occasion in his club in Portland. One of the party whom the "czar" did not like extravagantly had a habit of carrying a good deal of black realty under his finger nails, and the rest of his hands never looked clean. But the fellow had good luck, which nettled Tom. Finally, almost unable to conceal his impatience, the giant speaker of the house of representatives remarked in his metallic nasal tone of voice, "Blank, if dirt was trumps, what a hand you'd have!"

A Terrible Threat.

"You say your titled son-in-law holds threats over you?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "He has us where we can't give him any argument at all. Mother and the girls say we must yield for the sake of the family honor."

"Is there—er—a skeleton in the closet?"

"Not at all. He simply announces that unless he has his own way he'll get naturalized and be a plain American citizen."—Washington Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yake and little son of Kinde are guests at the parental home.

The Clinton Culture club gave Miss Alice Taft a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. F. L. Woodward Friday evening, the occasion being a complete surprise to her. The gifts were left at the Clinton Clothing store and were delivered at intervals by Misses Lillian Robison, Laura Freese, Mary Clark and Etta Judge. Miss Taft proved equal to the occasion and received many pretty gifts showing the esteem she is held in by both her friends and the high school which position she has filled faithfully the past five years.

Rev. J. D. Hallday was in Macon Wednesday.

H. A. Welch was an Adrian passenger Wednesday

W. D. Van Tuyle and wife left Friday morning for Detroit, for a few days' stay.

Dr. D. M. Matteson attended the dedication of the new Dental building in Ann Arbor Fiday.

C J. Robison made Toledo a business visit Wednesday.

Miss Alice Taft was an over Sunday guest of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Al Taft of Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Woodward left Saturday for a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Dilla of Jackson.

Mrs. Chas. Judge entertained the ladies of St. Johns church and their friends at a missionary tea Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. C Rogers and Mrs. E. S. Tate were Tecumseh passengers Thursday morning.

Mrs. Chas. Silvers is on the sick list.

James Sullivan of Detroit, spent Sunday here with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R Smith returned Thursday from an extended stay in Los Angeles, Calif.

Several from here took in the production of Ben Hur at Jackson Wednesday night.

Lived 152 Years.

Wm. Parr—England's oldest man—married the third time at 120, worked in the fields till 132 and lived 20 years longer. People should be youthful at 80. James Wright of Spurlock, Ky., shows how to remain young "I feel just like a 16 year-old boy," he writes, "after taking six bottles of Electric Bitters. For thirty years Kidney trouble made life a burden, but the first bottle of this wonderful medicine convinced me I had found the greatest cure on earth." They're a godsend to weak, sickly rundown or old people. Try them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son, the druggists.

A WHISTLER WHIM.

The Artist Wouldn't Argue About His Birthplace or Age.

James McNeill Whistler had no patience with those people who would insist upon inquiring into two details of his biography in which he professed and professed with some sincerity that he was not interested. These details were his age and his place of birth.

It was once mentioned in a Parisian paper that Whistler was born in Baltimore. Although this was contrary to fact, Whistler could not be induced to correct it. The mistake was copied over and over again, and angry patriots from Massachusetts, accidentally the birthplace of this citizen of the world, would write impassioned letters to him asking him to deny the libel. All he could be prevailed upon to say was, "If it pleases any one to have me born in Baltimore, let me be born in Baltimore." An individual hailing from Lowell, Mass., once apostrophized him in the generally insulting manner which certain people regard as etiquette in addressing a man of genius upon a first introduction.

"Mr. Whistler," said the stranger, "like me, you were born in Lowell, Mass., and you are sixty-eight years of age and I am sixty-seven. I remember"—

The painter interrupted wearily and plaintively: "My dear sir, if you like to be born in Lowell, Mass., and you enjoy being sixty-seven years of age, well and good, but I don't want to be sixty-eight years of age and don't remember being born in Lowell, Mass."—New York Telegraph.

DEATH OF THE WORLD.

When Water Disappears and Air Got Too Thin to Breathe.

The age of the earth is placed by some at 500,000,000 years, by others 100,000,000 years, and still others of later time place it at 10,000,000 years None place it lower than 10,000,000, knowing what processes have been gone through.

Other planets go through the same process. The reason that other planets differ so much from the earth is that they are in so much earlier or later stages of existence. The earth must become old.

Newton surmised, although he could give no reason for it, that the earth would lose all its water and become perfectly dry. Since then it has been found that Newton was correct.

As the earth keeps cooling it will become porous, and great cavities will be formed in the interior, which will take in the water. It is estimated that this process is now in progress, so far that the water diminishes at the rate of the thickness of a sheet of paper each year.

At this rate in 9,000,000 years the water will have sunk a mile, and in 15,000,000 the water will have disappeared from the face of the globe.

The nitrogen and oxygen in the atmosphere are also diminishing all the time. It is in an inappreciable degree, but the time will come when the air will be so thin that no creature we know could breathe it and live. The time will come when the world cannot support life. That will be the period of old age, and then will come death.—Richard A. Proctor.

HER MISTAKE.

The Way It Was Explained to Her by the Clumsy Man.

Owing to the fact that the car lurched suddenly as he was passing along the aisle Bronson was deprived of his balance, with the result that in attempting to save himself from falling he clutched one of the shoulders of a handsome woman who had succeeded in getting a seat. Moreover, he knocked her beautiful hat awry and with great difficulty avoided stepping on her toes. As he succeeded in recovering his equilibrium the lady turned toward him and said:

"You contemptible pup! I wish you to understand that I am not a lamppost or a piece of furniture to be clung to for support. You ought to ride in a cattle train. You have no right to crowd in where you can tear other people to pieces with your big, awkward hands. You pitiful clown! You ought to be thrown out into the street. You are not fit to be allowed to go where you are likely to interfere with the comfort of refined people. You unmannerly bumpkin! You deserve to be"—

"Excuse me, madam," Bronson managed to say, "you have made a mistake."

"A mistake!" the lady demanded, her eyes flashing with wrath. "What do you mean?"

"I am not your husband."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE CLERMONT.

First Passage by Steamboat From New York to Albany.

In August, 1808—the exact day is a matter of dispute—the steamboat Clermont made the first passage by steam from New York to Albany. The distance, somewhat less than 150 miles, was covered in thirty-two hours, a record hailed as a triumph in speed, for previously the passage between the two cities averaged four days.

Robert Fulton had experimented with steam several years, but the Clermont was the first boat he constructed on a large scale. As he could not get the engine he wanted in this country he ordered one from England. The Clermont was so reconstructed in the following winter that it gave more commodious accommodations to travelers, and the year 1808, which was the first year of regular travel by steamboat, Fulton made it a point to start his boat precisely on scheduled time. Curiously enough, a portion of the public complained of this. It was not until well along in the summer that travelers got accustomed to it. Previously boats had been held for two hours at the request of passengers who weren't ready. Fulton's perseverance won public approval before the season closed.—Anaconda Standard.

The Swaffham Tinker and His Dog.

Two quaint figures are carved on the two top pews and reading desk of Swaffham church. According to legend, a tinker had a dream bidding him go to London bridge and a stranger would reveal to him how to find a pot of money. So off he went with his dog, and at the bridge a stranger stopped him, saying, "Last night I had a dream bidding me go to Swaffham and dig in such and such a place and there find a pot of money, but I don't believe in dreams." Then back went the tinker, dug for and found the pot as described and also an inscription bidding him dig deeper, which he did, and found another, and with them restored Swaffham church. The carvings were put up to perpetuate his memory.—London Strand.

The Interview.

As used nowadays by the newspapers the word interview is said to have been the invention of Joseph McCullagh of St. Louis, and, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, it became popular in England in the early nineties. But it was known before that. A writer on the subject in the Nation of 1869 was possibly the first to use the word in its present sense of a talk with a representative of the press.—Chicago News.

Vicarious Osculation.

He was having some words with her chaperon.

"I'll—I'll kiss her right under your nose!" he said defiantly.

"Oh, well," said that lady, "vicarious kissing like that I can see no objection to."—Boston Transcript.

Home, Sweet Home.

The old man sat on the park seat, rivers of tears flooding his clothes. A sympathetic passerby, noting the high tide, stopped and asked if he were ill.

"Yes, sir," said the sorrowing old fellow. "I've jest 'ad bad news from 'ome. The 'ouse that 'as sheltered me for years is to be torn down, and I 'aven't a penny to my name to stop it. Everybody will be turned out, and goodness knows what'll 'appen to 'em!"

"Poor soul!" said the sympathetic passerby, bestowing a penny on the sad old man. "That isn't much, but you are welcome to it. And where is this old home of yours, my friend?"

"Up at the joil, sir," replied the old man. "It seems very hard. I've lived there five and twenty years."—London Opinion.

Cures Dyspepsia; Trial Is Free

It is a popular mistake that only wealthy people who eat rich and highly-spiced foods suffer from dyspepsia, or, as it is also known, indigestion. The laborer in the street, the worker in the field also finds himself a victim of this disorder. Among the very greatest sufferers from it are women.

Dyspepsia is indicated by a constant feeling of dullness, by loss of appetite and troubled sleep, by sour stomach and distress after eating, by bad complexion and lusterless eyes.

There is no surer and speedier cure for this trouble than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which dyspeptics have been using successfully for twenty years. This great herb laxative compound cured Capt. Clark, of Buffalo, Ia., of dyspepsia and sour stomach that he had had for forty years, or until the lucky day that he heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It cured Joel Adams, of Montgomery, Ala., after suffering continuously for sixteen months. These are only a few of the many. But it is not expensive to be cured with this grand remedy, as it can be bought at any drug store in a 50-cent or $1 bottle.

Your very neighbors are probably lifelong users of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but if you want to know without expense what it will do for you personally, send your name to Dr. Caldwell and he will be glad to send you a free trial bottle. He is actually anxious to have you make a test of his remedy.

Thousands of families everywhere keep it in the house against such an emergency as constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, heartburn, torpid liver, etc., which may come on a member of the family any day. It is pleasant to the taste, acts gently and does not gripe. It is the great children's laxative tonic.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

ARMENIANS FIRED ON.

Driven Back Into Adana After Attempting to Reach Their Homes.

Adana, May 17.—Two hundred Armenians who started away from here the other day were fired on soon after their departure from the city by a band of Moslems. The Armenians returned here panic stricken. The police are taking active measures to restore to the Armenians their unburned houses.

Captain William A. Marshall, commanding the United States armored cruiser North Carolina, is engaged in an investigation of conditions here.

Young Prince Weds Younger Princess.

Addis Abeba, Abyssinia, May 17.—Prince Lidj Jeassu, aged thirteen years, grandson of King Menelik and heir apparent to the throne, has just been married to Princess Romani, aged seven, the granddaughter of the late Emperor John and niece of Empress Taitou. The marriage is of great importance politically, as it unites the two dynasties and the families of the powerful chiefs.

Thousands Destitute.

Portyual, May 12, via Adana, May 17.—There are 3,500 destitute people here from the neighboring villages which have been destroyed.

Reports received of an earthquake in western Canada say that the tremor was severe in Saskatchewan, where goods were shaken from store shelves. At Regina patients in the hospitals were shaken out of bed, and people rushed in terror from hotels and big buildings.

The American ambassador at Constantinople, John G. A. Leishman, has made representations to Ferid Pasha, the minister of the interior of Turkey, on the importance of restoring order in the interior of Adana province so that the refugees crowded in the towns may return to their farms.

Dr. W. W. Florer of the German department of the university at Ann Arbor has recently found valuable manuscripts of the lectures on fine arts and science written by Professor J. J. Eschenburg near the end of the eighteenth century.

Paul C. Stetson, principal of the high school at Big Rapids last year, has been elected superintendent of public schools in Big Rapids, vice Arthur S. Hudson, resigned to go to Mr. Clemens. Mr. Stetson is only twenty-four years old and is probably the youngest superintendent of schools in Michigan.

Roosevelt Takes 'Em Alive.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 13.—Theodore Roosevelt's hunting luck continues. The former president on his last expedition shot a leopard and captured the animal's two cubs. A buffalo and two giraffes also have been captured by the expedition. The party is still in camp near Machakos.

Cleared His Doubts.

A well known English gentleman engaged a tall and powerful highlander to act as gamekeeper on his estate. Having been a considerable time at his post and not having caught any poachers, the gentleman suspected his gamekeeper of carelessness. So one dark night he disguised himself and went out with a gun to poach on his own ground. He had fired only one or two shots when he was suddenly pounced upon from behind and his gun wrenched away. Then kicks and blows were showered upon him until he fell down half insensible. The highlander then walked away quietly, and when the gentleman recovered sufficiently he crawled home and took to his bed for two weeks. He has now no doubts as to whether the man can perform his duty or not.

His Wonderful Invention.

Australia, as is well known, is infested with rabbits, a most destructive and multitudinous pest. Not long ago a man invented the following plan:

You go out into the field from which the rabbits are to be removed. You saw down a tree, and on the slant of the stump you paint a black spot. Then you keep very quiet, so that the rabbits will come back from their burrows and feed as usual. When a large enough number has collected you clap your hands sharply. The effect will be electric. The rabbits will jump in haste for their burrows. At least one is sure to mistake the black spot for his hole and make for it. Invariably he will dash his brains out. This process, repeated often enough, is warranted to exterminate the rabbit forever.

The reports do not say whether there are any rabbits left in Australia.

SULTAN'S WIVES REMOVED.

Bevy of Eighty Escorted From Yildiz to Seraglio Palace.

Constantinople, May 11.—Eighty women from Abdul Hamid's harem, richly dressed and veiled, have just been taken in carriages, under the escort of four eunuchs and a troop of cavalry, from the Yildiz palace to the ancient Seraglio palace, which has been unoccupied since about 1824.

Curious bystanders were driven away from the exit of the Yildiz. Following the carriages was a train of wagons bearing baggage. The Yildiz is being made ready for the admission of the public. Most of the former sultan's slaves have been freed.

HONOR MEMORY OF JOHN WITHERSPOON.

To Unveil Statue to Distinguished Man of Early Days.

Washington, May 17.—Signal honors will be paid to the memory of John Witherspoon, the noted Scotch Presbyterian clergyman, once president of Princeton university, signer of the Declaration of Independence and member of the continental congress, when a statue of him will be dedicated here on Thursday next. The occasion will be distinctly a Presbyterian affair.

The statue, which is located at the junction of Connecticut avenue, Eighteenth and N streets, in front of the Church of the Covenant, represent a tall man of erect pose and striking face, wearing the garb of a clergyman of the revolutionary period, holding a book in his hand. It was designed by William Couper of New York city.

It was through the efforts of the late Rev. Teunis S. Hamlin, for twenty years pastor of the Church of the Covenant, that the statue has been made a reality.

The statue will be unveiled by John Witherspoon Withers, seven years of age, a direct descendant in the seventh generation.

The principal oration will be delivered by Professor Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university.

WILL BEGIN EXPERIMENTS.

Wireless Equipment For Army and Navy to Be Perfected.

Washington, May 17.—Experts of the United States navy are bending every effort toward perfecting wireless equipment, both telephone and telegraph, for use by the vessels of the navy and the naval shore stations. The military authorities also are carefully investigating this subject through the signal corps.

Both the navy and the army will be represented at a series of experiments to begin about June 15 at Brant Rock, Mass., where a high powered wireless station has been erected by a concern which is endeavoring to secure the work of building and equipping a 600 foot tower in Washington with high powered wireless instruments and furnishing two sets of combined telephone and telegraphic apparatus for ships.

ARBITRATION CONFERENCE.

Annual Affair at Lake Mohonk Convenes Wednesday.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 17.—The fifteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration will convene here on Wednesday and continue until Friday evening. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university will be the presiding officer.

More than 300 educators, diplomats, army and navy men, clergymen, editors, business and professional men will attend. Some sixty chambers of commerce and similar business organizations will be represented.

HAVE FAITH IN KOREA.

Japs Leave Government in Hands of Cabinet.

Seoul, May 17.—Obeying a sudden summons from Prince Ito, Japanese resident general in Korea, who is now in Japan, Viscount Sone, vice resident general, has departed for Tokio, and for the first time in two years the affairs of the Korean government are administered by the cabinet without the supervision of Japanese officers.

The fact that Korean affairs are intrusted to the Korean cabinet during the absence of the Japanese officers is taken as evidence that Japan has full confidence in the ministers and is well satisfied that the country has been tranquillized.

There is reason to believe that the recall of Viscount Sone indicates that the resignation of Prince Ito is pending.

Eat What

You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

NO RUSH AT FINAL HOUR.

Legislature Came to End in a Peaceable Manner.

USUAL AMOUNT HORSE PLAY.

Bill Giving Trained Nurses Registration Passed—Fire Sufferers in North to Be Supplied With Seeds—Governor, in Message, Expresses Himself as Well Pleased.

Lansing, Mich., May 20.—The closing of the 1909 legislature Wednesday was good natured. Nobody tried to sneak a bill through. The reason for this is that the new constitution prohibits any bill being passed that was not introduced ten days before final adjournment. There was the usual amount of horse play in both houses in the closing hours, but no state property was destroyed.

There was also a striking difference between the closing of this session and the session of 1907, when Governor Warner sent a farewell message of a somewhat different tone than the one received this time.

When the senate committee appointed by the lieutenant governor appeared in Governor Warner's rooms, as required by the constitution, to tell him that the senate was ready to adjourn unless he had some public business to present he told them most gracefully that he had none. He so informed a similar committee of the house.

The Last Hour's Work.

Anyhow it was a real quiet ending in both houses. Here are the things the legislators did in the last hours:

Amended the county home rule bill so it provides that while a board of supervisors can exercise legislative powers in the counties outside of corporated villages and cities it cannot enact any law which shall take effect in less than sixty days after passing. If during the sixty days 20 per cent of those affected either in a township or in the entire county protest against a law they can get up a petition and have a referendum on the supervisors' act.

The bill to give trained nurses a trained board examination and registration was passed. The medical department of the university advocated such a board. Also the one appropriating $10,000 for the fire sufferers in the Presque Isle and adjacent counties who lost their property in 1908. No person, however, is to get any more than $50 out of the appropriation, and that is to be for seeds.

The following bills were killed:

Requiring all two cent fare roads to sell 500 mile books for $10. It was killed because the senate insisted on attaching a 10 cent penalty bill for all passengers who board trains without tickets. Another to enable the members at the state pardon board to draw at least $7 a day for 200 days. Last year one of them got thirty-two days, another 129 and a third 15 days. The killing of the bill meant a saving of about $1,700 a year in the salaries of members of the board.

Governor Warner in his closing message to the legislature reviewed the work of that body and complimented members on what had been accomplished. He regrets that no anti-lobby bill has been passed, but declares that the agitation for such a law drove many notorious lobbyists out of Lansing.

He especially commends the ad valorem taxing of telephone and telegraph companies, perfected primary law, abolition of fellow servant doctrine on railroads, improved highway laws, anti-stock watering bill and the home rule law for municipalities.

Regarding appropriations the message says:

"While the appropriations of the present legislature are necessarily larger than those made in previous years, I believe it will be plain to any fair minded citizen that, if our state institutions, especially those of an educational and charitable nature, are to be properly maintained, these appropriations will never grow less.

"As you all know, much of the revenue from various sources which in other states is issued to meet the general expenses of the state government in Michigan goes into the primary school fund and is distributed over the state to relieve local taxation. But even under these conditions the increase in the rate of state taxation has been no greater than the increase in the rate of local taxation, for which the people are themselves directly responsible. The rate of state taxation in 1907 was $2.81 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. This year it will be $3.35. In 1908 the rate was $2.41, while in 1910 it will be $2.59. The increase, therefore, per $1,000 assessed valuation this year will be only 54 cents over the corresponding year of 1907, while next year the increase will be but 18 cents over the corresponding year, 1908."

TAFT ATTENDS CELEBRATION

Is Spending Day in Charlotte, North Carolina.

GREAT CROWD IN THE TOWN.

Chief Executive Declares He Had Great Day at Petersburg—Paid Tribute in Speech to Veterans of North and South—Delivered Second Address on Citizenship.

Charlotte, N. C., May 20.—This city today glories in the honor of entertaining President Taft and only regrets that illness prevents the presence also of the first lady of the land, namely—Mrs. Taft.

Mr. Taft's presence is due to the Mecklenberg celebration, and for miles around people have flocked into the town to take part and see the chief executive. Mr. Taft's every appearance is the signal for a demonstration. The streets are crowded and the buildings bedecked with flags and bunting.

Petersburg, Va., May 20.—"This has been a great day," declared President Taft previous to his departure last night for Charlotte, N. C., "not only for Petersburg, for Pennsylvania and Virginia, but in the history of the whole country; a day which will conduct to a greater union; a day to make stronger our common love for our common country, which all of us when necessary are ready to die for."

The president's speech at the Pennsylvania memorial, at the base of which were gathered many of the veterans of the Keystone state, and of Virginia, who fought the battles that made the enduring shaft significant, was a studied tribute to the north and to the south. Mr. Taft was unstinted in his recognition of the heroic deeds of both sides. "The Common Heritage of Heroism" was his theme. Enduring good, he believed, had come from the strife which had been inevitable.

A later speech, from a knoll of Center Hill mansion, however, when he had ceased to be the guest of Pennsylvania and had been taken in charge by the people of the Virginia commonwealth, began in a humorous vein by twitting the governor of Virginia, Mr. Swanson, on the rare gift of being able to make four speeches in one day. Then suddenly he became serious and for fifteen minutes held his audience in silent attention as he outlined in a general way his ideas of a citizenship which, in the north and south alike, should carry the country forward to permanence of prosperity and ever glorious future.

The Center Hill speech was at dusk, and as the president stood addressing the great throng in the growing shadows the scene about him was one of unique and picturesque interest. The president and a score of distinguished guests had eaten a late luncheon on the wide veranda of Center Hill mansion, the home of Charles Hall Davis, president of the Petersburg chamber of commerce, while a thousand others dined at turf-covered tables under the lowering old trees on the lawn. There were several after-luncheon speeches.

TESTIFIES AGAINST FATHER.

Son Tells How Parent Threatened to Kill His Mother.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 20.—Alpheus Poole of Ypsilanti has been placed on trial in the circuit court here for the slaying of his wife. Poole cut his wife's throat about six weeks ago with a razor. The defendant is colored.

Walter, Poole's fourteen-year-old son, was one of the first witnesses to testify for the prosecution. He told of the threats of his father to kill his mother if she did not refrain from visiting the Hamilton home, near which she was killed. The husband alleged that his wife was too friendly with one Martin, a boarder at the Hamilton house, and this, it is believed, led him to cut her throat.

Men Fatally Scalded.

Sharpsville, Pa., May 20.—While eight men were working on a platform at the Shenango Furnace company's plant a steam valve burst, enveloping them in steam. Albert Barber, aged thirty years, and Robert Austin, aged forty years, were fatally scalded. The six others were seriously injured.

Three Children Cremated.

Perrin, Ill., May 20.—While Mrs. Marion McCormick was away from home the house was fired by children playing, and the two boys, aged two and four years, and a girl, five years old, were burned to death.

Missile Falls 500 Feet, Kills Man.

Marquette, Mich., May 20.—After a week of terrible suffering little Maggie Kipp, the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Elsie Kipp of this place, is dead of the burns received on May 11, when, while playing near a bonfire, her clothing became ignited.

BEGAN LIFE A POOR BOY

Henry H. Rogers Died a Very Wealthy Man.

SON-IN-LAW HIS SUCCESSOR.

Mark Twain One of the First to Extend Sympathy—Was on Way to Visit Financier—Death Came Suddenly to Capitalist Shortly After Arising in Morning.

New York, May 20.—Final arrangements for the funeral of Henry H. Rogers, the capitalist who died suddenly, have not been completed, but it has been decided to hold services in this city at the Church of the Messiah, a Unitarian institution, of which the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, a lifelong friend of Mr. Rogers, is pastor, Friday morning. Dr. Collyer will conduct the services, after which the body will be taken to Fairhaven, Mass., Mr. Rogers' native town, for interment. Services also will be held there in the Unitarian church Saturday. The list of pallbearers had been only tentatively agreed upon and, accordingly, was not made public.

Stocks Not Affected.

News of the financier's death did not become generally known until about two hours after it occurred. The stock exchange had not opened when the report reached Wall street, but with the opening there was hardly an appreciable effect on the market. Upon whose shoulders Mr. Rogers' business burdens will rest hereafter is problematical, although close friends of the family were inclined to think that this duty will fall to his son-in-law, Urben H. Broughton.

The Rogers home is silent save for the muffled tread of prominent callers who come to extend their sympathy to the widow and children. Conspicuous among those who arrived early was Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), for many years one of the most intimate friends of the late financier. Mr. Clemens had previously left his country place near Redding, Conn., intending to visit the Rogers home, only to be confronted later with the sad news of his old friend's death.

Telegrams have been pouring into the Rogers home, among the early ones being a message from John D. Rockefeller, at Hot Springs, Va. Mr. Rockefeller had repeatedly warned Mr. Rogers to cease his hard work in view of his failing health.

Henry H. Rogers was a money maker, and one of the most successful men of the so-called Standard Oil group. He began life as a poor boy at Fairhaven, Mass., where he was born, and retained his legal residence there until the day of his death. He was a man of many friends and an enthusiastic yachtsman. Until recently he had held the reins of the Standard Oil company following the retirement of John D. Rockefeller.

His Fortune Not Known.

Just how much money Mr. Rogers leaves is not known. His fortune is variously estimated at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, which will make his son, H. H. Rogers, Jr., one of the richest men in the country.

The widow he leaves is his second wife his first wife having died fourteen years ago, and he is survived in addition by four children, the son mentioned and the following daughters: Mrs. W. E. Benjamin, Mrs. Urben H. Broughton and Mrs. William R. Coe.

Death came to Mr. Rogers a little more than an hour after he had risen for the day, mentioning to his wife that he was feeling ill. He suddenly lapsed into unconsciousness, and before the family physician arrived he was dead. He was sixty-nine years old.

"The cause of his death was another apoplectic stroke," said Dr. Fowler. "Mr. Rogers had not been in the best of health since he suffered a stroke of apoplexy two years ago, and for the last three or four days I had seen him almost daily."

Roosevelt Shoots Rhinoceros.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 20.—Theodore Roosevelt has begun his hunting expedition from the Ju Ja ranch of George McMillan, whose guest he is. He went out Sunday and bagged a female rhinoceros. The first shot wounded her in the shoulder, and the animal fled to the bushes. Mr. Roosevelt followed on horseback, and six more shots were required to bring her down. The head and skin weighed 532 pounds.

Robbers Make Big Haul.

Truro, N. S., May 20.—Fifteen hundred dollars has been stolen from the office of the Canadian Express company here by three men who entered the office during the luncheon hour.

O'BRIEN HELD OUT.

Johnson Fails to Put End to His Championship Aspirations.

Philadelphia, May 20.—Jack Johnson, the big colored heavyweight champion, failed to win over Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia light heavyweight, last night in a six round bout. The fight was even, and the concensus of opinion was that it should have been a draw had a decision been permissible.

O'Brien's marvelously fast footwork and his superior blocking saved him from damage in several close mixes, and three times he was forced to his knees by the great strength and weight of Johnson, in the clinches.

It was a fast fight, O'Brien doing most of the leading. Johnson was slow on his feet and appeared not to be in the best condition.

TIDY SUM FOR RETIRING PRESIDENT

Alumni of Harvard Will Give Dr. Eliot Fortune.

Cambridge, Mass., May 20.—It is expected that within a short time, probably at commencement next month, the alumni of Harvard will present former President Eliot with a fund sufficient to enable him to live with every possible comfort the rest of his life. It is said that the fund already amounts to over $130,000.

It is now expected that the university will confer upon him the degree of LL.D., which he does not hold from Harvard, and make him a professor emeritus.

Michigan Woman Is President.

Washington, May 20.—Many states were represented at Wednesday's thirteenth annual session of the executive board of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. J. W. Gray of Adrian, Mich., president of the society, made the address of welcome. Praise service was conducted by Mrs. M. A. Colhouer of Pittsburg, Pa. The report of the secretary was read and the usual committees appointed. The society will conclude its work on Friday.

Lansing Paper Changes Hands.

Lansing, Mich., May 20.—Announcement has been made of a change in ownership of the Lansing Journal. Ira H. Clark, who has been manager and principal stockholder for over twenty years, has sold his interests to a new stock company. Robert G. Steel of St. Johns will be the publisher and Frank A. Zenders, who succeeded the late O. T. Allen as editor, will continue in that capacity. The paper will be independent in politics.

GOES TO JURY TODAY.

Arguments Being Made in Serrell Will Case.

Pontiac, Mich., May 20.—Today final arguments in the Serrell will case are being made, and it is probable the case will go to the jury late in the afternoon.

Harry Serrell, the son and brother, who is opposing his sister, Mrs. May E. Davis, who seeks to have the document broken, did not take the stand. His wife gave testimony regarding certain letters sent her husband by the aged Serrell.

A letter written by Mrs. Davis to her brother, Harry, has been found. It shows the love she held for her brother, and in it she implores upon him to return to her and be friends as brother and sister should.

DRANK ACID.

Saginaw Woman Is Dead of Taking Poison by Mistake.

Saginaw, Mich., May 20.—Mrs. Otto Ottersky is dead as the result of taking carbolic acid by mistake. She complained of a headache, and it is believed that in reaching for a small bottle of whisky she got hold of a carbolic acid bottle beside it and drank the poison. The deceased was twenty-six years old and leaves a husband and two children.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

he had consecrated to a woman she had never seen.

"By heaven, you're game, Alluna, but there's a limit even to what I can take from you," he said at last. "I don't ever seem to have noticed it before, but there is. No. I've got to do this thing alone tonight, all of it, for you have no place in it, and I can't let the little girl go on like this. The sooner that soldier knows the better." He leaned down and touched her brown mouth with his grizzled lips. "Thank you, Alluna, for making a man of me when I'd nearly forgotten. Now, you stay here." He knew he could count on her obedience, and so he left her. When he had gone she drew the shawl up over her face and crouched in the doorway, straining her eyes after him through the dark. In time she began to rock and sway and then to chant until the night moaned with the death song of her people.

Necia had no idea why [illegible] Her only thought was to [illegible] kin, who could not understand, to hide under cover in some solitary place; to let the darkness swallow her up, so that she might give way to her grief and be just a poor weak woman. On she stumbled blindly through the murk like some fair creature of light cast out and banished.

She had not succeeded in thoroughly isolating herself, however, for a man who was steering his course by the sense of feel and the wind's direction heard her and paused. His steps were muffled in the soft footing, so that she had no warning of his presence until he was near enough to distinguish her dimly where she leaned against the log wall of a half completed cabin.

To his question, "What's the trouble here?" she made no answer, but moved away, whereupon he detained her. "There's something wrong. Who are you anyhow?"

"It's only Necia, Mr. Stark," said the girl, at which he advanced and took her by the arm.

"What ails you, child? What in the world are you doing here? Come! It's only a step to my cabin. You must come in and rest awhile, and you'll soon be all right. Why, you'll break your neck in this darkness."

She hung back, but he compelled her to go with him in spite of her unwillingness.

"Now, now," he admonished, with unusual kindliness for him; "you know you're my little friend, and I can't let you go on this way. It's scandalous. I won't stand for it. I like you too much."

He led her inside his cabin and closed the door in the face of the night wind before he struck a light.

"I can't stand to see you cry," he repeated as he adjusted the wick. "Now, as soon as"— He stopped in astonishment, for he had turned to behold instead of the little half breed girl this slender, sorrowful stranger in her amazingly wonderful raiment.

"By"— He checked himself insensibly and stood motionless for a long time.

"I—I—hope you'll excuse me for acting this way," she smiled at him piteously; then, observing his strange features: "Why, what is the matter, Mr. Stark? Are you angry?"

His hawklike face was strained and colorless, his black eyes fierce and eager, his body bent as if to pounce upon a victim. In truth, he was now the predatory animal.

"No," he replied as if her question carried no meaning; then, coming to himself. "No, no; of course not. But you gave me a start. You reminded me of some one. How do you come to be dressed like that? I never knew you had such clothes."

"Poleon brought them from Dawson. They are the first I ever had."

He shook his head in a slow, puzzled fashion.

"You look just like a white girl—I mean—I don't know what I mean." This time he roused himself fully, the effort being more like a shudder.

"So I have always thought," she said, and her eyes filled again.

He shoved forward a big chair with a wolfskin flung over it, into which she sank dejectedly, while he stepped to the shelves beside the Yukon stove and took down a bottle and some glasses.

"I'm not fixed up very well yet," he apologized. "I've been too busy at the saloon to waste time on living quarters. But it's comfortable enough for an old roadster like me."

He was talking to give her leeway and when he had concocted a weak toddy insisted that she must drink it, which she did listlessly, while he rambled on:

"I've noticed a few things in my life, Miss Necia, and one of them is that it often does a heap of good to let out and talk things over—not that a fellow gains any real advantage from disseminating his troubles, but it serves to sort of ease his mind. Folks don't often come to me for advice or sympathy. I don't have it to give. But maybe it will help you to tell me what caused this night marauding expedition of yours." Seeing that she hesitated, he went on: "I suppose there's a lot of reasons why you shouldn't confide in me. I don't like that old man of yours nor any of your friends, but maybe that's why I'm interested. If any of them has upset you I'll take particular pleasure in helping you get even."

"I don't want to get even, and there is nothing to tell," said Necia, "except a story troubles, and I can't talk about them." She smiled a painful, crooked smile at him.

"Your old man has been rough to you?"

"No, no! Nothing of that sort."

"Then it's that soldier?" he quizzed shrewdly. "I knew you cared a heap for him. Don't he love you?"

"Yes. That's the trouble, and he wants to marry me. He swears he will in spite of everything."

"See here, I don't quite follow. I thought you liked him. He's the kind most women go daffy over."

"Like him!" The girl trembled with emotion. "Like him! Why—why, I would do anything to make him happy."

"I guess I must be kind of dull," Stark said perplexedly. "Don't you see? I've got to give him up. I'm a squaw."

"Squaw h—l! With those shoulders!"

He took down a bottle and some glasses.

Stark checked himself, for he found he was rejoicing in his enemy's defeat and was in danger of betraying himself to the girl. In every encounter the young man had bested him, and these petty defeats had crystallized his antipathy to Burrell into a hatred so strong that he had begun to lie awake nights planning a systematic quarrel.

He had brooded over his quarrel with Gale and the lieutenant ever since their first clash, for in this place they furnished the only objects upon which his mania could work, and it was a mania, the derangement of a diseased, distorted mind.

"So you like him too much to stand in his way," he said meditatively. "How does your father look at it?"

"He wants the lieutenant to marry me. He says he will fix it up all right. But he doesn't understand. How could he?"

"You are doing just right," concurred the man hypocritically, "and you'll live to be glad you stood out." Now that both his enemies desired this thing he was set on preventing it regardless of the girl. "How did the lieutenant take it when you refused him?"

"He wouldn't take it at all. He only laughed and declared he would marry me anyhow." The very thought thrilled her.

"Does he know you love him?"

The tender, sobbing laugh she gave was ample answer.

"Well, what's your plan?"

"I—I—I don't know. I am so torn and twisted with it all that I can't plan, but I have thought I—ought—to go—away."

"Good!" he said quickly, but his acquiescence, instead of soothing her, had the contrary effect, and she burst out impulsively:

"Oh—I can't—I can't! I can't go away and never see him! I can't do it! I want to stay where he is!" She had been holding herself in stubbornly, but at last gave way with reckless abandon. "Why wasn't I born white like other girls? I've never felt like an Indian. I've always dreamed and fancied I was different, and I am in my soul. I know I am! The white is so strong in me that it has killed the red, and I'm one of father's people. I'm not like the other two. They are brown and silent and as cold as little toads. But I'm white and full of life all over. They never see the men and women that I see in my dreams. They never have my visions of the beautiful snow white mother with the tender mouth and the sad eyes that always smile at me."

"You have visions of such things, eh?"

"Yes, but I came a generation late, that's all, and I've got that other woman's soul. I'm not a half breed. I'm not me at all. I'm Merridy—Merridy! That's who I am."

Her face was turned away from him, so that she did not notice the frightful effect her words had upon Stark.

"Where did you get—that name?" His voice was pitched in a different key now. Then after a moment he added, "From the story I told you at the mine that night, I suppose?"

"Oh, no," she answered. "I've always had it, though they call me Necia. Merridy was my father's mother. I guess I'm like her in many ways, for I often imagine she is a part of me, that her spirit is mine. It's the only way I can account for the sights I see."

"Your father's mother?" he said mechanically. "That's queer." He seemed to be trying to shake himself free from something. "It's heredity, I suppose. You have visions of a white woman, a woman named Merridy, eh?" Suddenly his manner changed, and he spoke so roughly that she looked at him in vague alarm.

"How do you know? How do you know she was his mother?"

"He told me so."

Stark snarled. "He lied!"

"I can show you her wedding ring. I've always worn it." She fumbled for

WORK BEING DONE IN OUR CHURCHES.

What is accomplished through the Social Life.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Sunday school at 11 a. m. and Y. P. C. U. meeting at 6 p. m. Topic, Temperance, Romans 14: 13-21.

Bible study meeting Thursday evening.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Sunday morning at 10, preaching service. Theme, "Courage to Follow the Gleam." At 11:30 Sunday school Men's class, topic, "The Second Cleansing of the Temple." Young men's class, topic, "The Book of Amos." At 6 p. m. Epworth League, topic, "Forsaking our God." At 7 p. m. preaching service.

FRIEND'S CHURCH.

J. W. Chaney, minister, Sunday morning service at 10. Sunday school at 11:30. Junior league at 2:30 p. m. Christian Endeavor at 6. Evening meeting at 7. A cordial welcome to all.

The missionary meeting was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jane Satterthwaite. A talk was given on Ion Keith Falconer, a worker among Mohammedans, and on social progress in missionary work.

Miss Swan entertained her Sunday school class at a picnic supper last evening.

There will be a rehearsal for Children's day Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. It is earnestly desired that all those having parts will be present. Miss Merle Kenyon has charge of the work.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Missionary society was held at the parsonage Thursday afternoon.

The mission study class found it necessary to postpone their meeting this week. A later date will be set, and announcement of it made Sunday.

"Christian Unity" was the subject for consideration at the midweek prayer service.

The B. Y. P. U. held a very interesting meeting last Sunday evening. The topic, one of the "Pilgrim's Progress" series, "At the Cross," was handled in a forceful manner by the leader, Clara Waldron. This series is proving very helpful to the young people.

The evening meeting next Sunday will be a memorial service, to which the G. A. R., the W. R. C., and the Spanish War Veterans have been invited. A very interesting meeting is anticipated.

The concert given Tuesday evening under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U. was a success in every way. The numbers were all of a high order, and were exceptionally well given.

Rev. Kamm was host to the B. Y. P. U. Thursday evening, at a meeting in the chapel. The regular business meeting of the society occupied the earlier part of the evening, followed by a royal good time socially. Dainty refreshments were served.

A very interesting discussion took place in the men's class last Sunday morning, on the topic, "Should we greatly blame Pilate?" Dr. North made a strong argument for the negative. The topic for next Sunday, "Sampson," under the leadership of Mr. C. H. Snedicor, promises to be full of interest. A cordial invitation is given to the men.

Morning worship at 10 o'clock. Bible school at 11:15 a. m. Men's class, topic, "Samson." B. Y. P. U. meeting at 6 p. m. A patriotic service will be held at 7 p. m. The choir will sing music appropriate for the occasion, and Mrs. R. S. Moore will sing a solo entitled "Brave, pure and true." The pastor will speak on "Heroism and Cowardice." The G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. W. U. have been invited to attend in a body.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

At the morning service Sunday the pastor will preach on the theme "The Rivers of God." All are invited.

At the men's class Sunday, W. S. Kimball, secretary of the Clinton Woolen Mills company, will speak on "The Principles of Jesus and Modern Business." All members of the class are urged to be present and all men are invited.

The first of the programs of the young people's society on the "Pilgrims Progress" last Sunday proved very interesting. The second will be given next Sunday and will include, "The House of the Interpreter," the Hill Difficulty," and At The Cross."

The pastor is helping the county Sunday school work in the annual spring tour. He spoke at Macon and Clinton, Monday and Tuesday on the theme, "The Sunday School Scholar and Church Membership." He will be at Morenci the 24 and Raisin the 27.

The preparations for Children's day are going on nicely. The exercises will be held at the church hour 10 o'clock on June 6th.

A missionary Sunday has been arranged for June 13. There will be held two meetings. They will be addressed by Weston T. Johnson, who has been working in Tokio and Sappora Japan for 8 years. Mr. Johnson is one of the younger generation of missionaries who are playing such an important part in building up the Orient, and is a fine speaker. Further announcement later.

The third missionary lecture with the Stereopticon will be given a week from Sunday night, May 30.

The mission society held a very interesting work meeting at the home of Mrs. Vincent last Friday. Supper was served at 5.

At the evening service Sunday the pastor will preach on the theme "The Priceless Pearl." The choir will also give an excellent program of music. The musical numbers will be as follows:

Chorus, "Be not Afraid" adopted from Gounod by J. H. Meredeth—Choir.

Solo, "Just as I Am—Hawley—Mr. Slater.

Solo—Michelene Heins.

Solo, "Angels Ever Bright and Fair"—Handel—Miss Magers.

Anthem, "Sing unto the Lord—Doors—Choir.

Solo, "O rest in the Lord—Mendellsohn—Miss Kreidler.

Duet, "O King of Mercy—Belcher—Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Slater.

Mrs. S. W. Anderson is assisting in the county tour. She spoke on Primary work at Clinton Tuesday.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

ENDLESS CHAIN.

Chain of Prayer Has Had Wide Circulation.

"Oh Lord Jesus Christ have mercy on all mankind (or womankind).
Keep us from sin;
Take us to dwell with Thee eternally!"

The above prayer has gained wide circulation in what is known as an "endless chain of prayer." A letter is sent anonymously to the individual promising great blessing if this prayer is repeated each day for ten days, and nine letters are sent to other parties requesting them to do the same. Terrible misfortunes are predicted in case of failure.

No one knows who started this senseless "circle." The letter attributes it to Bishop Lawrence, but the latter has denied it time and time again.

Because the scheme is getting wide circulation in our village, I have thought best to speak of it.

It is as senseless as it is futile, and has probably been started and is being carried on by some superstitious spirits, who have no appreciation at all of what a religious life is.

The blessings of heaven and the misfortunes of life do not come from conforming or refusing to conform to such a senseless act as this letter advocates. There is great power in prayer, when it is of the heart, but to imagine the repeating of a formula like this for ten days is going to affect the welfare of the individual for good or evil is sheer nonsense. God's blessings are the property of him who lives a holy life, and has back of it a belief and trust in the Great Teacher and Saviour.

Every intelligent person will at once consign such religious trash as this to the waste basket, where it belongs.

JOHN WIRT DUNNING.

Be just in business and generous out of it.—Lorrimore.

A woman is as old as she looks before she is dressed to go out.

With man, most of his misfortunes are occasioned by man.—Pliny the Elder.

Goodness does not consist in greatness, but greatness in goodness.—Athenaeus.

It is the mind that makes the man, and our vigor is in our immortal soul.—Ovid.

A Judge of human nature usually makes a mistake in his estimate of himself.

Give the boy a chance to assert his own individuality, chance to work out his own life plans.

Don't deny your boy the helpful, restraining influences of outdoor sport. There is a whole sermon in that phrase "muscular Christianity."

Don't, because your father, grandfather, or great-grandfather has been a doctor, preacher, or lawyer, try to force your boy in the same profession. Find out what he is particularly interested in and adapted to. Many an unhappy, unsuccessful lawyer or doctor or preacher would have made a successful merchant, engineer, or farmer had not a mother's ambition interfered.

Everyone is bound to bear patiently the results of his own example.—Phaedrus.

"Almost ever, man," says a [illegible] more specialist, "learns sooner or later to think of his doctor as one of his best friends, but this fact does not hinder the world from laughing at the profession.

"'How is our patient this morning?' asked a physician, a fellow graduate of mine, of a patient's brother.

"'Oh, he's much worse,' came from the other in a tone of dejection. 'He's been delirious for several hours. At 3 o'clock he said, "What an old woman that doctor of mine is!" and he hasn't made a rational remark since.'"—Lippincott's.

A Rising Fall.

A certain member of the British government who was admittedly a great failure was being discussed by two of his colleagues.

"And now," concluded one, "they want to make him a peer!"

"No," said the other, with greater acumen; "they want to make him dis-

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

CONCERT

Given at the Baptist Church Tuesday Evening.

By Charles Lagerquist, and his Tecumseh pupils was largely attended.

The concert given at the Baptist church Tuesday evening. By Prof. Lagerquist and his pupils, assisted by his son Carl and Duaine Service was a decided success in every particular. Prof. Lagerquist demonstrated his ability as a vocal teacher, and the worth of his work was very evident in the selections rendered by his pupils. They all seemed to be at their best, and carried the program to a splendid climax. They were greeted by a large audience which by frequent and hearty applause showed their appreciation. The local Press proved a splendid advertising medium, carrying the news of the concert into many homes.

The B. Y. P. U. wish to express their appreciation of the kindness on the part of the business men who allowed posters to be placed in the windows of their business places.

The program is as follows:

Vocal Duet: "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee!"—Mrs. Grace Moore, Mr. Charles Lagerquist, Accompanist, Mr. Carl Lagerquist.

Soprano Solo: "Fly Forth, Oh, Gentle Dove"—Miss Iva L. Kane.

Baritone Solo: "Upheld"—Mr. Earl Coller.

Vocal Duet: The Angel—Miss Edna Gaston, Miss Metta McKinney.

Reading: "Non ti Scorder di me"—Miss Nellie Mingay, Violin Accompaniment, Mr. Duaine Service.

Contralto Solo: "My Heart is Weary"—Miss Metta McKinney.

Soprana Solo: "Rise Up, My Love"—Miss Edna Gaston.

Baritone Solo: "Ella Gia Mai," from "Don Carlos"—Mr. Lagerquist. Accompanist, Mr. Carl Lagerquist.

Soprano Solo: "Glory to God"—Miss Nellie Mingay.

Piano Duet: Hungarian Dance—Mr. Charles Lagerquist, Mr. Carl Lagerquist.

Soprano Solo: Shadow Song — Mrs. Grace Moore.

Don't keep nagging your boy.

Don't have a thing in the house too good for him to enjoy, and don't shut him out of all the confidential family talks concerning home and business and neighborhood affairs—teach him to respect the confidence placed in him.

Pride does not measure happiness so much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

Veracity is truth revealed in speech; honesty is truth revealed in action; sincerity is truth revealed in thought. And there can be no real truthfulness, either in speech or action, unless behind both there is sincerity in thought.—Rev. D. Sage Mackay.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his hehrt about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters to himself.

ELIZA JANE CARSON.

Eliza Jane Carson died at her home west of town Wednesday night at 11 o'clock, of dropsy, aged 72 years, 9 mos. and 18 days. Her husband passed away about two years ago. She was the mother of ten children, of whom only five are living. Two sons John and Andrew live in Tecumseh, and one daughter Mrs. Bessie Stevenson at Wellsville. Two sons also reside in the west. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the house, Rev. Dunning officiating. Burial at Brookside.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Announcements of the marriage of Beryl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brooks of Ypsilanti, to Scovel S. Walker of Jackson, which took place, Tuesday, May 18th in Ypsilanti, have been received here. Mr. and Mrs. Walker will be at home after June 16, at 128 Third St, Jackson. Mr. Walker formerly resided in Tecumseh and a host of friends here wish them a long life of happiness.

The Industrail School for Boys, located at Lansing during April admitted 20 new boys, dismissed on trial or probation 35, discharged 10 and there was one death at this institution. At the end of April there were 761 boys receiving care there as compared to 783 at the end of March.

The State Public School at Coldwater had 155 boys and 31 girls, a total of 186, at the end of April, as compared to a total of 187 for the end of March. There were 29 new boys and girls admitted to this school during the month and six probationers returned.

"Take your needle, my child, and work at your pattern; it will come out a rose by and by." Life is like that—one stitch at a time taken patiently, and the pattern will come out all right, like the embroidery.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

WILD FLOWERS IN MICHIGAN.

Tecumseh Mich., May 19, 1909

Editor Herald:

Having read an article in a recent issue of the Detroit Journal entited "wild flowers in the south." I would like to say—speaking from actual experience and observation in Calif., Florida and other points in the south—that "little old Mich" has them all beaten "out of sight." Let any one take a trip through the country or through the village of Tecumseh today and take notice of our dandelions that have the California poppies "beaten a mile," both for beauty and number.

As for the cheroke rose, wild Jasamine, bridal wreath, cactus blossoms, and etc., our Elder-berry blossoms, wild roses, wild flowers of the woods, wild grape, and hundreds of others are fully equal if not superior in point of beauty and fragnance, and when you talk about the fragrant orange blossoms; they are no comparison to our apple, pear, plum, and cherry blossoms. And I have never yet seen anything to come anywhere near our clover fields when they are in bloom.

HON. BURTON L. HART OF ADRIAN WILL DELIVER THE ADDRESS.

Interesting program is being planned.

An enthusiastic crowd of citizens, members of the T. B. A. and Beers Post, met in the council rooms last evening to make arrangements for the exercises to be held on Decoration Day, May 30.

J. W. Wightman, was chosen president of the day and Charles Bidwell, Chief Marshal.

Hon. Burton L. Hart will deliver the address in the Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Other numbers of the program are being arranged, among them being recitations, and solos, and the reading of Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg.

The Tecumseh band will furnish music, and an invitation has been extended to various lodges the Spanish War Veterans, and the village council to march in the procession, which will be formed immediately at the close of the exercises, to Brookside cemetery, where the memorial garlands will be placed on the graves of those who fought and saved our country.

It is the earnest wish of those, who are in charge of these services, that the citizens will attend this service. The ranks of the Grand Army are becoming depleted with each succeeding year, and there will soon be but a corporal's guard of the members left, for they are being "mustered out" at a rapid rate through age, disability and death. Let us see to it that those who died fighting for the flag will not be neglected. The Sons of Veterans must keep alive the patriotic flame when their sires are no longer able to march to the post room and cemetery.

Those having flowers for this occasion are requested to take them to the post rooms during Saturday afternoon where a committee will take care of them.

MAKES APPOINTMENTS

Gov. Warner Names Members for Some Important Boards.

Gov. Warner has made some of the appointments of members of some important boards. Dr. James I. Northrup of River Rouge, Wayne county, a member of the board of guardians of the industrial home for girls at Adrian to succeed Geo. H. Clifford, resigned. Harry Coleman of Pontiac as a member of the Mackinac island park commission for a 10 year term to succeed W. A. Perrin. Dr. Chas. C. Wilbur of Kalamazoo a member of the board of control of the feeble minded home at Lapeer. Orrin A. Ball of Grand Rapids, a member of the same board. W. H. Wallace of Bayport, Wm. L. Carpenter of Detroit, and A. P. Bliss of Saginaw, as members of the agricultural board to serve until next January when the members elected at the April election will go into office.

The appropriation bill for aiding the work of extending good roads throughout the state, carried a total of $110,000. This sum will give that department a good working sum in helping to better the roads throughout the state.

CONVENTION

5th Annual Convention of the Pythian Sisters Held in Tipton Wednesday.

Papers Were Read and an Interesting Meeting Was the Result.

Twenty-two ladies of Tecumseh attended.

The 5th annual convention of the Pythian Sisters of District No. 6, was held in Tipton, Wednesday.

About 22 from Tecumseh attended, and report a splendid meeting.

The morning session was given over to the reports from the various temples represented.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Addie Kemp of Tipton and the response given by Mrs. Addler of Adrian. A vocal solo by Miss Vera Whelan of Tipton and a recitation, Damon and Pythias, by Mrs. Ethel Mathias of Tecumseh, closed the morning session. An excellent dinner was served by the ladies of the Tipton temple, to which the visitors about 50 in number, did ample justice.

The afternoon session opened at 1:15, with a vocal solo by Blanch Dean of Addison.

The History of the Minnehaha Temple was given by Mrs. Eugene Norcross, and a paper by Georgia Crosby of Hudson, on "Fraternity" was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Nellie Smith of Waldron recited and Miss Edith Shepherd of Morenci rendered a pleasing solo.

Mrs. Jennie E. Doyle, Grand Mistress of R. and C. of Pontiac, read a paper, giving a detailed account of the history of the Pythian Sisters.

A solo by Mrs. Robert Codling of Tipton was rendered and a paper by Mrs. Lena Pettee of Adrian, entitled "Our Order," was read. Mrs. Mabel Dove of Tipton recited.

The question box was opened and the answers were given by Rose Mosher, P. G. C. and Jennie Doyle, G. M. of R. & C.

Mrs. Parmelia VanSickle of Seneca read a paper on "What Can We Do For Each Other."

The program closed with the ode of the Pythian Sisters.

BURNED

Mrs. Charles Voegele Burned Face and Arms Quite Badly.

Word comes to us from Hazel Zimmerman who is visiting Mrs. Charles Voegele at Kansas City, Mo., that Mrs. Voegele was quite badly burned about the face and arms last Sunday. Mrs. Voegele was removing the roast from the oven of the gas stove, when in some way the stove exploded, and the fire and hot greese, burned her eyelashes, eyebrows and front hair and arms quite badly. It was thought for a while that the fire had injured her sight, but the doctor thinks now that she will be all right, and that she will escape without any scars.

CATARRH MICROBES

A Dead Microbe Is the Best Microbe ---Hyomei Kills Them All.

Hyomei (pronounced High o-me) is a killer of catarrh germs, because when you breathe it in, its antiseptic and germicide properties reach every nook and crevice of the mucous membrane, from the mouth and nose deep into the lungs.

Hyomei brings the Australian forests of pine and encalyptus to your home. It is made of the active principles extracted from these trees.

No one who lives in or near these forests suffer from catarrh. No one who breathes in Hyomei, the real forest air of Australia, will have catarrh for long after the treatment starts.

If you want to cure catarrh, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever, or relieve consumption, try Hyomei, the common-sense cure, the cure that reaces the spot.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50c. Guaranteed to cure, or money back. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. Sold and guaranteed in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly: Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

When Willie and Johnny fight, mother licks.

Few men who have not earned it, ever have commanded success.

Many weak, nervous women have been restored to health by Foley's Kidney Remedy as it stimulates the kidneys so they will eliminate the waste matter from the blood. Impurities depress the nerves, causing nervous exhaustion and other ailments. Commence today and you will soon be well. Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

VERIFY IT

The Proof is in Tecumseh Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Tecumseh citizen is in itself strong proof for Tecumseh people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Tecumseh citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved sick kidneys and now states the cure was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

William C. Witherell, W. Potawatamie st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has convinced me that they are an absolutely reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them through the local papers in return for the relief I received from backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble through their use. I seldom have need of a kidney remedy now but I still keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house all the time. I know of several persons who have used this remedy at my suggestion with the best of results."

AN AFRICAN TITBIT.

Hippopotamus Meat Has a Strong Odor and Flavor of Musk.

To the African traveler the hippopotamus is a species of game particularly desirable, for its ivory and its hide are both valuable, while the not inconsiderable danger involved in its pursuit provides the delicious emotion without which every kind of hunting is tame and insipid. Moreover, the obligation under which the leader of the expedition lies to feed his servants and carriers adequately makes one of these enormous beasts, twelve feet long or so and disproportionately wide, a perfect godsend. Not only does the hippopotamus furnish a formidable amount of meat, but that meat has the inestimable merit of keeping fresh much longer than any other, principally owing to the fact that flies seem to have an insurmountable horror of it. I must admit that for a long time I thoroughly sympathized with the flies. Alive, the hippopotamus has a peculiar odor, somewhat resembling musk, which discloses the presence of the animal from afar when he happens to be to windward of one. In the flesh of the dead animal this odor—or the taste of it, rather—persists and is much appreciated by the natives, though foreigners take a long time to get accustomed to it; some are never able to support it.—Wide World Magazine.

FIVE SENSES NOT ENOUGH.

Our Limited Scale of Consciousness Shuts Out Many Vibrations.

Between the vibrations that we call electricity and the vibrations that we call heat we imagine there must be other vibrations filling up the gap, but we do not know, simply because we have no senses that can comprehend them. The spectrum is just such a little scale. Below the darkest red at the lower end we cannot see; at the other end as the vibrations get faster and faster through the orange, the blue and the violet is another unknown gap—that is, we cannot see it. But surely the vibrations are there. Some of them, for instance, that we have never seen and never can see mark their presence on a photographic plate. And this same spectrum may be used as an analogy to describe spiritualistic phenomena. Just as there are limits at either end of the scale of vibrations beyond which our own senses can tell us nothing so may there be psychic forces at work beyond the limits of our consciousness. These are seemingly supernatural to us when we witness their effect, but they really are no more supernatural than the X ray that pierces the solid body or the invisible ultra violet ray that marks the photographic plate.—From "Are the Dead Alive?" by Fremont Rider in Delineator.

When the Waiter Wins.

Two men were wrangling as to who should settle with the waiter for the luncheon. When the question had been finally decided and the contestants had gone the waiter said to one of his regular customers who was a witness of the scene: "That's what we like, for every time it happens we come in for an extra tip. The man who couldn't get the check has only one way to get even, and that is by giving the waiter something, and nine times out of ten he does it and makes the amount more than he would have given if he had paid the check. This one ordered extra cigars and left the change for me. We like the 'give me the check' quarrels."—New York Tribune.

Quick Wit.

In the days when Rowley Hill was bishop of the Isle of Man one of his clergymen, bearing the name of Tears, came to say adieu to his bishop on getting preferment.

The person said: "Goodby, my lord! I hope we may meet again, but if not here in some better place."

The bishop replied, "I fear the latter is unlikely, as there are no Tears in heaven."

"No doubt," wittily answered the parson, "you are right that our chance of meeting is small, as one reads of the plains of paradise, but never of any Hills there."

Overfeeding.

"Men drunk from liquor and men drunk from overeating are most susceptible to pneumonia and die of it," said a Chicago health commissioner in an address. "The majority of cases of pneumonia are of patients who contracted the disease after a drunken debauch or who were drunk from overfeeding," the commissioner continued. "People drunk from overfeeding, I think, are almost as immoral as those who stupefy themselves with liquors. The effects of pneumonia in such patients are much the same."

His Hand.

Tom Reed was playing whist on one occasion in his club in Portland. One of the party whom the "czar" did not like extravagantly had a habit of carrying a good deal of black reality under his finger nails, and the rest of his hands never looked clean. But the fellow had good luck, which nettled Tom. Finally, almost unable to conceal his impatience, the giant speaker of the house of representatives remarked in his metallic nasal tone of voice, "Blank, if dirt was trumps, what a hand you'd have!"

A Terrible Threat.

"You say your titled son-in-law holds threats over you?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "He has us where we can't give him any argument at all. Mother and the girls say we must yield for the sake of the family honor."

"Is there—er—a skeleton in the closet?"

"Not at all. He simply announces that unless he has his own way he'll get naturalized and be a plain American citizen."—Washington Star.

Roosevelt Takes 'Em Alive.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 13.—Theodore Roosevelt's hunting luck continues. The former president on his last expedition shot a leopard and captured the animal's two cubs. A buffalo and two giraffes also have been captured by the expedition. The party is still in camp near Machakos.

A Modest Request.

Cleared His Doubts.

A well known English gentleman engaged a tall and powerful highlander to act as gamekeeper on his estate. Having been a considerable time at his post and not having caught any poachers, the gentleman suspected his gamekeeper of carelessness. So one dark night he disguised himself and went out with a gun to poach on his own ground. He had fired only one or two shots when he was suddenly pounced upon from behind and his gun wrenched away. Then kicks and blows were showered upon him until he fell down half insensible. The highlander then walked away quietly, and when the gentleman recovered sufficiently he crawled home and took to his bed for two weeks. He has now no doubts as to whether the man can perform his duty or not.

His Wonderful Invention.

Australia, as is well known, is infested with rabbits, a most destructive and multitudinous pest. Not long ago a man invented the following plan:

You go out into the field from which the rabbits are to be removed. You saw down a tree, and on the slant of the stump you paint a black spot. Then you keep very quiet, so that the rabbits will come back from their burrows and feed as usual. When a large enough number has collected you clap your hands sharply. The effect will be electric. The rabbits will jump in haste for their burrows. At least one is sure to mistake the black spot for his hole and make for it. Invariably he will dash his brains out. This process, repeated often enough, is warranted to exterminate the rabbit forever.

The reports do not say whether there are any rabbits left in Australia.

BEAT HORSE TO DEATH.

Farmer Near Flint is Arrested and Fined.

Flint, Mich., May 20.—The spectacle of a man beating his horse until it fell dead in its tracks was what greeted the eyes of several farmers in Thedford township. Burron Johnson, also a farmer, was the man who committed the deed, and he was arrested and arraigned in court here on the charge. He was fined $12 and costs.

Eat What

You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

WOMAN SHOT ACCIDENTLY

Little Lad Kills Her With a Rifle.

AIMED AT BIT OF WHITE CLOTH

Proved to Be Handkerchief With Which Mrs. Lizzie Atkinson of Flint Was Wiping Dust From Her Face. Bullet Pierced Woman's Temple. Lad Almost Insane as Result.

Flint, Mich., May 24.—Mrs. Lizzie Atkinson, a bride of a few months and living in this city, was shot dead by Arthur Merritt, aged ten, near this city. The shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Atkinson and her husband were on their way along the east bank of the Flint river to a point where they had planned to spend an hour or so fishing. On the opposite side of the stream John Kinney and his two stepsons, Arthur and John, were out with their rifles for target practice. Suddenly Arthur spied a white cloth fluttering among some shrubbery on the east bank and, raising his gun to his shoulder, fired. An instant later Mrs. Atkinson fell to the ground, blood streaming from an ugly wound in her forehead. The bullet entered just above the right eye and penetrated the brain. She died a moment after her husband reached her side.

Young Merritt is almost insane as a result of the accident, and it has been necessary to place him under restraint, for he declared shortly after he learned that Mrs. Atkinson was dead that he would kill himself at the first opportunity.

The dead woman's husband says that his wife was wiping some dust from her face with the handkerchief when the bullet struck her. He heard the piece of lead whiz by him and was about to yell to his wife to hurry into the open when she sank to the ground, mortally wounded. Atkinson is nearly prostrated over the accident.

ECONOMY NEEDED.

New York Ministers Stir People to Action in Municipal Affairs.

New York, May 24.—In pursuance of a plan to arouse the public conscience to the need of better apportionment of the $156,000,000 of yearly municipal expenditure more than one hundred clergymen, embracing every denomination, Sunday made the city budget the text of their sermons.

The ministers, acting in concert with the bureau of municipal research, propose to arouse the members of their congregations to a sense of the importance of re-distribution of the city's operating expenses that will insure a greater outlay for playgrounds and hospitals and a curtailment of salaries and money expended for superfluous supplies.

WANTED A DRINK SUNDAY.

As Result Bay City Man May Die of Injuries.

Bay City, Mich., May 24.—Frank Miller, forty-five years old, a miner employed near this city, is in the hospital with concussion of the brain, a broken jaw and several minor injuries as the result of his desire for a drink of liquor Sunday morning. Physicians say he cannot live.

Miller had tried the front door of a local saloon and, finding it locked, went to the rear and started to climb a long flight of stairs leading to the proprietor's living apartments. When nearing the top he lost his balance and fell backward.

Little One Perishes.

Detroit, Mich., May 24.—Penned in by flames that made the stairway exit a tunnel of roaring fire, Paula, the seven-year-old daughter of Martin Nowicki, was burned to death in a blaze that started from the explosion of a gasoline stove at the Nowicki home, 1341 Joseph Campau avenue. Mrs. Mary Wachnicki was painfully burned trying to rescue the child.

Duggan Gets Life Sentence.

Lansing, Mich., May 24.—James Duggan of Flint, twenty-three years old, has been convicted of murderous assault on Representative W. H. Schantz of Barry, whom he slashed four times across the face and throat with a razor. Judge Wiest immediately sentenced Duggan to Marquette prison for life.

St. Clair's Oldest Man Dies.

St. Clair, Mich., May 24.—Peter Wood, ninety years old, St. Clair's oldest man, is dead. He was born in Liverpool, Eng., Aug. 29, 1819, and came to America when quite young. Five children survive him.

WINDOW IS DEDICATED

Stands as Honor to Roosevelt Administration.

IN TEMPLE IN NEW YORK.

Former Secretary Straus Is Principal Speaker—Laid Particular Stress on Efforts of Roosevelt to Further Cause of Social Justice—Another Window Soon to Be Dedicated.

New York, May 24.—Oscar Straus, former secretary of commerce and labor and recently appointed ambassador to Turkey, was the principal speaker last night at the dedication of a window in honor of the Roosevelt administration, at the Metropolitan Temple in this city.

Mr. Straus' speech was principally a review of the administration and the achievements of Theodore Roosevelt. The service began in the morning and will be held every night this week, culminating in the dedication of the Lincoln memorial window next Sunday. The Rev. John Wesley Hill of the Metropolitan Temple conducted the service last night, and the presentation of the memorial window was made by Colonel D. W. Diggs on behalf of the board of trustees.

Mr. Straus, in the course of his review of the Roosevelt administration, laid particular stress on the endeavors of the former president to further the cause of social justice.

"None of our presidents," he said, "has possessed in an equal degree a mind so enriched with the historians knowledge of the past combined with a statesman's foresight of the future as Mr. Roosevelt. His measures have all been conceived under the guidance and inspiration of this dual equipment of restrospective knowledge of national growth and prospective insight into national tendencies. With that confidence and deep sympathy for the plain people of our country, upon whose judgment and sense of justice all of our great presidents in times of transition and stress placed their ultimate reliance, Roosevelt has vitalized and appealed to the public conscience of the nation."

REVOLUTION SPREADS.

Fighting Has Taken Place, the Rebels Capturing Two Towns.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, May 23 (By courier from Montecristi, Santo Domingo).—The revolutionary movement is spreading.

General Comacho, the former governor of Monte Christi, who is working in unison with General Quirito Felico for the overthrow of the government, has attacked and seized Guayubin and Dajabon, which are situated on the Haitien frontier, the Dajabon river being the northwest boundary between Haiti and the Dominican republic.

There has been fighting between the revolutionists and the loyal forces at onte Christi. The fate of Jose Bordas, governor of Puerto Plata, is not known, but it is reported that he is either dead or a prisoner.

BOTH ISSUE STATEMENTS.

Harry Thaw and Mother Attack Lawyer Hartridge's Affidavits.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 24.—Harry K. Thaw and his mother, Mary Copley Thaw, have both issued statements attacking the affidavit made and statement issued in New York by Clifford W. Hartridge, formerly of counsel for Thaw, in which the lawyer said that he had spent approximately $40,000 "hush money" to conciliate persons who would otherwise have injured his client.

Mr. Hartridge is suing for counsel fees and issued his statement after a motion had been made by Mrs. Thaw calling for a bill of particulars in his suit.

Harry Thaw is in Matteawan Asylum For the Criminal Insane, near here, and his mother has been almost constantly in touch with him.

Twenty Arrests In Paris Riot.

Paris, May 24.—The Revolutionary Socialists' annual demonstration Sunday before the monument erected in the Pere Lachaise to the Communists, in which many dismissed postal employes took part, was marked by violent scuffles with the police. A large number on both sides were injured, and about twenty arrests were made.

"Permissible Explosives."

Washington, May 24.—As a result of its investigation into the causes of mine disasters, and with the hope of reducing the number of fatalities in the coal mines of the United States, the geological survey has just issued officially a list of "permissible explosives."

CUBANS FACE GRAVE PROBLEM

Question of Finances a Very Serious One.

CONFIDENCE IS ON THE WANE

Feared Political Exigencies May Prevent President Doing His Duty. Present Outlook Is That Expenses Will Exeed Revenues This Year by Several Millions.

Havana, May 24.—Financial problems constitute the gravest feature of anxiety on the part of the Cuban government, and with the protracted delay in the presentation of the budget for the coming year the general feeling of uncertainty and lack of confidence becomes accentuated. Can the government, in view of its enormously increased expenses, due in great measure to the cost of equipment and pay of the new permanent army, the cost of civil employes arising from political pressure for offices, meet its obligations out of the ordinary sources of revenue, is the question asked on all sides.

While there is no doubt that President Gomez is fully alive to the seriousness of the situation and is doing everything in his power to effect reductions in the cost of all departments, it is feared that political exigencies will compel him to refrain from insisting upon retrenchment on the scale that is believed to be absolutely necessary.

How Magoon Figured.

Governor Magoon's budget for the current fiscal year, ending on June 30, was $24,250,000 and the estimates of revenue a little more than $27,000,000. Careful estimates of the revenues for the coming year indicate a total of probably not more than $24,000,000.

Estimates of the expenses of the government for the coming year place the total at not less than $30,000,000, and by some authorities as high as $40,000,000, indicating under the most favorable conditions a very serious deficit.

Importations through the custom house have declined materially over those of last year and the year before. Congress, after being in session for more than three months, has accomplished little useful legislation, its time being frittered away in flights of oratory and the discussion of trivial measures.

The lottery bill just passed by the house is probably one of the most important acts of the congress, and, while it will doubtless become a law, the bill is far from yet being in shape.

ROBBERS GOT AWAY.

No Trace of Men Who Held Up Train Near Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., May 24.—Although the police and the sheriff have had large forces of men scouring the country around the scene of the Saturday night's hold-up of a Union Pacific passenger train, three miles west of Omaha, little progress has been made toward tracing the escaped robbers.

Two empty mail pouches taken from the train were found some distance from the point where the robbery occurred. They had been cut open and their contents removed, the outlaws overlooking only one package.

That the robbers had laid their plans well is apparent. They dropped from sight so quickly that not a single person has been able to give a clue to the direction in which they went.

GUILTY IN SECOND DEGREE.

Delmar Young Stands Convicted of Killing His Mother.

Erie, Pa., May 24.—Guilty of murder in the second degree is the verdict returned by the jury before whom Delmar Young was tried on the charge of murdering his mother.

Young showed no signs of distress when he heard the verdict, his manner being as cool as at any time during the trial. It is understood his attorneys will ask for a new trial.

Marshall's First National Convention.

Marshall, Mich., May 24.—The first national convention ever held in this city will occur Friday and Saturday of this week, when the Gamma Delta Tau sorority will meet. It is expected that sixty delegates will be present, including several from Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo and Jackson.

Breaks Record With New Discus.

New York, May 24.—Martin J. Sheridan, the Irish-American A. C. world's champion discus thrower, sent the newly adopted disc from a seven foot circle at the Pastime Athletic club's oval yesterday for a new world's record of 138 feet 11 3-4 inches. The former record of 132 feet 11 inches was held by M. F. Horr.

ALTAR TO DEAD PRIEST.

Battle Creek Church Will Have Memorial to Father Sadler.

Battle Creek, Mich., May 24.—St. Philip's Catholic church has accepted the plans of a Lacrosse (Wis.) contractor for an imposing memorial to the late Father Richard J. Sadler, who died in Harper hospital, in Detroit, Feb. 14, 1908, and a former pastor of that church.

The memorial will be an altar which will be Romanesque, in conformity to the church design, and will comprise a marble altar, platform, tabernacle combined with gold and wood. The names of the donors will be inscribed on the inside door of the tabernacle. The offering will cost $3,000.

TAKES POISON ON CHURCH STEPS

Jilted Colored Girl Tried to Kill Herself.

Flint, Mich., May 24.—Because she had been jilted by her lover, Sarah Walker, nineteen years old and colored, drank a quantity of laudanum in the entrance of the African M. E. church in this city. The girl was discovered as she placed the vial containing the poison to her lips, by two young men, who hastened her to her home, where a physician was summoned. She will live.

Miss Walker for some time had been keeping company with George Artis, also colored. Friday night they had a quarrel, and the young man told her he would have nothing further to do with her. She, however, succeeded in making an engagement with him for Sunday night at the church, and, according to her own story, she planned to kill herself if he failed to show up.

She will be placed in restraint for some time in order to prevent her from doing away with herself.

'TUSSLED WITH ROBBER.'

Port Huron Citizen Receives Bullet in the Arm.

Port Huron, Mich., May 24.—Thomas Wilson of this city was shot in the arm late at night in an encounter with a hold-up man. Wilson, loaded down with groceries, was on his way home. At Military and Minne streets a man wearing a light hat passed him, suddenly turned around and flashed a revolver in his face.

Instantly Wilson threw up both arms, allowing his packages to fall to the sidewalk, and made a grab for the gun. In the excitement the stranger pulled the trigger, the bullet entering Wilson's wrist and, taking an upward course, came out at the elbow. The hold-up man escaped.

MICHIGAN IS BACKWARD.

Does Little to Alleviate Cruel Treatment of Dumb Animals.

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 24.—The Michigan State Humane association is in annual convention here today. The sessions will continue through tomorrow.

"Michigan has been extremely backward in its duties as regards the protection of animals," says Mrs. Angeline Fowler Branch, secretary of the association. "There is a great deal of needless suffering among animals throughout the state, and little is done to alleviate it."

Prisoner Hid Four Days.

Columbus, O., May 24.—Harvey Johnson, a negro burglar serving a life sentence, is now in solitary confinement following his disappearance last Wednesday night and hiding out at the prison until early Sunday, when hunger drove him to uncover himself. He hid under the porch of the prison postoffice.

TAFT TO BE TRUSTEE.

Accepts Appointment on Board of Hampton Normal.

Hampton, Va., May 24.—At commencement exercises at the Hampton Normal and Agricultural institute, just held, a letter was read from President Taft in which he announced his acceptance of a place on the board of trustees of that great school for the education of the negro and Indian.

Many prominent persons were present at the exercises.

May Be Minister to China.

Washington, May 24.—While it is impossible to secure any confirmation of the report that President Taft will tender the post of minister to China to John Hays Hammond, it is believed here that such an offer will be made.

Delivers His Annual Sermon.

Denver, May 24.—Nine great devotional services marked Sunday's activities of the Presbyterian general assembly at Central Presbyterian church. Dr. James M. Barkley of Detroit, Mich., moderator, delivered his annual sermon.

"No-Drip" is the most clever little silvered Coffee Strainer ever invented. Get one free from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. by the Coupon Plan. The Coupon and Dr. Shoop's new book on Health Coffee sent to any lady requesting them. You can trick any one by secretly serving Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee at meal time. Your visitor or your husband will declare he is drinking real coffee—and yet there is not a grain of real coffee in Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. Pure grains, malt, and nuts give Health Coffee its exquisite taste and flavor. No 20 to 30 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute." Try it from your grocer and get a pleasant surprise. 1½lb. package 25c. Sold by all grocers.

The things that are bad for one to eat have a mean way of tasting so much better than those the doctor says you may help yourself to liberally.

Everybody is likely to have kidney and bladder trouble. In fact nearly everybody has some trouble of this kind. That is the reason why you so often have pains in the back and groin, scalding sensation, urinary disorders, etc.—that's your kidneys. The best thing to do is to get some of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills right away. Take them for a few days or a week or so and you will feel all right. In this way, too, you will ward off dangerous and possibly serious ailments. They are perfectly harmless, and are not only antiseptic, but allay pain quickly by their healing properties. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

So live that when age comes upon you, you will be like the mighty oak, sound at the heart, rather than like the hollow linden, rotten at the core.

Hoarseness, bronchitis and other throat troubles are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar as it soothes and heals the inflamed throat and bronchial tubes and the most obstinate cough disappears. Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

the chain about her neck, but it eluded her trembling fingers. "It has her name in it. 'From Dan to Merrily.'"

Stark's hand darted forward and tore the thing from her shoulders. Then he thrust it under the lamp and glared at the inscription, while his fingers shook so that he could barely distinguish the words. His eyes were blazing and his face livid.

Necia cried out, but he dropped the ornament and seized her fiercely, lifting her from the chair to her feet. Then with one swift, downward clutch he laid hold of her dress at the left shoulder and, ripped it half to her waist. A hoarse sound came from his throat, a cry half of amazement, half of triumph.

"Let me go! Let me go!" She struggled to free herself, but he held her in a vise-like grip, while he peered closely at a blemish well down upon her back. Then he let her slip from his grasp, and, seized with terror, she staggered away from him. He was leaning heavily with both hands upon the table, his thin lips grinning, his whole manner so terrifying that she shrank back. She turned and made for the door, whereupon he straightened up and said in a queer, commanding voice:

"Wait. Don't go. I—I—you"— He licked his lips as if they were dust dry, passed an uncertain hand across his beaded brow and, raising the water pail beside the door to his mouth, drank heavily in great, noisy gulps.

"Let me out of here!" the girl demanded imperiously.

"Don't be scared," he said, more quietly now. "You must excuse me. You—you gave me an awful fright. Yes, that was it. Don't worry. I didn't mean any harm."

"You hurt my shoulder," she said, almost ready to cry. "And you tore my dress," she added angrily—"my fine dress. Are you crazy?"

"You see, it's like this—that name of Merrily and that ring—well, the whole thing was so startling I—I went off my head. It came sudden, and I thought—it don't matter what I thought, but I'm sorry. I'll apologize, and I'll get you a whole lot of dresses if you like."

His first impulse had been to tell her everything, but his amazement had rendered him speechless, and now he was thankful for it. Care must be exercised. She must not learn too much, for if she suspected the truth she would go to her soldier lover at once, and no power on earth could hold her back. That would block the vengeance that he saw shaping in the dank recesses of his distorted brain.

First, and above all, he must get the girl away from Flambeau.

These last few moments had driven Necia's own worries from her mind, but he was bent on recalling them and so continued cautiously:

"You were saying that you thought you'd go away. I think that's a good plan, and you'd be wise to do it for more reasons than one. It will give you time to think it all over and know your own mind. I want to help you—I'm going to help you—because I've got an interest in you like you were mine." Again he betrayed that strange, mirthless amusement.

"There is no place for me to go," said Necia blankly, "except the mission, and I have no way of getting there."

"Don't you worry. I'll furnish the means, and you'd better go tonight"—she flinched—"yes, tonight. There's no use prolonging your agony. I'll get a boat ready and send a trusty man with you. The current is swift, and if he rows well you can make it by tomorrow evening. That's only one night out, and I'll put some blankets aboard so you can wrap up and have a sleep."

"I must go back and get some clothes," she said, at which he would have demurred had he not seen that she could not travel in her present condition.

"Very well. But don't let anybody see you."

"Of course not."

"It's getting late, and your folks will be abed." He looked at his watch. "Midnight! Be here in an hour."

The light of sacrifice was in Necia's eyes, and her cheeks were blanched with the pallor of a great resolution.

"I'll be here in an hour," she said simply.

He let her out, closed the door after her and locked it; then, drawing a deep breath, he raised his clinched hands above his head and gave a great sigh of exultation. Next he took out his six shooter and examined it carefully. The shells did not suit him, so he filled the gun with new ones, loosened the three lower buttons of his vest and slid the weapon inside his trousers band; then, facing the direction of Gale's trading post, he spoke aloud:

"I was a long time coming, Gaylord, but I'm here, and I've got you where I've wanted you these fifteen years! Yes, and I've got you, too, Burrell! By heaven, this is my night!"

His lithe body became panther-like in poise, his bearing that of the meat eating animal, and his face set in a fierce, exultant cruelty as he blew out his light and left the cabin.

CHAPTER XIV.

A MYSTERY IS UNRAVELED.

LIEUTENANT BURRELL was considerably taken aback when a quarter of an hour after the young lover's ecstatic return to his quarters Gale knocked at his door, for the trader's visit, coupled with the late hour and his somber countenance, forecast new complications.

"He's here to object, but it won't go," thought the lieutenant as he made his visitor welcome.

Meade swung his big reading chair out beneath the hanging lamp and, going to the sideboard, brought back a bottle, some glasses and a pouch of tobacco. Noting the old man's sigh of fatigue as he sat himself down heavily, he remarked sympathetically:

"Mr. Gale, you've made a long trip today and you must be tired. If this talk is to be lengthy, why not have a drink with me now and postpone it until tomorrow?"

"I've been tired for eighteen years," the other replied. "Tonight I hope to get rested."

"Well, let's get at it," the younger man finally said.

"I suppose you'll want to interrupt and question me a heap, but I'll ask you to let me tell this story the way it comes to me till I get it out. Likewise you'll want to know what all

MEMORIAL DAY.

Editor Herald:

Permit me to contribute an item to your paper for serious consideration. Again times ceaseless tread has brought to us another spring with its birds and flowers. Again each smelling bud and fragrant breath reminds us of the near approach of Memorial Day and the sacred duty we owe to the memory of those who gave the best days of their lives. Yea life its self for home and county.

Again we hear the muffled drum and solemn dirge, and see the aged veteran and the little child marching under one banner, and that dear old flag whose broad stripes and Stars cheered the weary hearts of many a home sick soldier. This sad, sweet day brings many responsibilities to Tecumseh, let us not fail to do our duty to honor these silent heroes, who sleep their last sleep unmindful of times fitful changes. Let us observe the day in the right and proper spirit with gentle and tender thoughts, expressive words, and hearts filled with grateful thanks to our country's brave defenders. Memorial Day was suggested to Gen. John A. Logan when Commander in chief of the G. A. R. as early as in the sixties. He was the third Nat. Commander being elected in June, 1868 in Phila., Pa.

Thus in this beautiful month he set apart May 30 for the observance of Memorial Day and in after years spoke of its as the "proudest act of his life." Let Tecumseh rally once more, and never allow this Sabbath day of the Grand Army to be forgotten do not let it die with the soldier boys. When we no more their forms shall see, or hear their solemn tread. As two by two they march away. To the bivouac of their dead.

To bring your choicest flowers.
And lay them on their graves,
For this alone is Soldier day.
Then keep in mind the brave.
Who lay on bloody battle fields
Or starved in prison pen
Who suffered agonies of death
And died as Soldier men.

Mrs. Thomas Hanley.

Scant Working Clothes.

In Singapore and Penang may be seen people from almost every part of the globe and representatives of almost every race except our North American Indians. The greater proportion of Malays, East Indians and Cingalese, with their bronze black skins, make the Chinese and Japanese seem almost like white people. Each wears the costume of his native country in so far as he wears anything, but eight out of every ten persons to be seen consider themselves sufficiently well dressed when they have a yard or two of cheesecloth twisted about their loins. This fashion of dress applies to the workmen of all nationalities, whether Malay, African, Indian, Chinese or other. The Indian of the better class, whether Hindoo or Parsee, dresses as he would at home. The Cingalese wears fine robes and a comb encircling his crown. The Englishman of course has the usual ill fitting clothes and a pith helmet to prevent sunstroke. The tourist, who has taken advice from many sources as to his outfit, helps to make the picture complete.—Denver Post.

Two Bootblacks.

The bootblacks had no regular stand, but each had his box slung over his shoulder and, standing on the curbstone, solicited the passersby to stop and have a shine. Each boy had one "call."

The cry of the first boy was "Shine your boots here!" It announced the simple fact that he was prepared to shine their boots. The cry of the second boy was "Get your Sunday shine!"

It was then Saturday afternoon, and the hour was 4 o'clock. This second boy employed imagination. He related one attraction to another; he joined facts together. His four simple words told all that the first boy said and a great deal more. It conveyed the information not simply that he was there to shine shoes, but that tomorrow was Sunday; that it was likely to be a pleasant day; that he as a bootblack realized they would need an extra good shine.

Was it merely good luck that this boy secured twice the business of the other?—Lorin F. Deland in Atlantic.

Perfectly Correct.

A young minister in the course of an eloquent sermon on the pomps and vanities of the world staggered his congregation by exclaiming:

"Here am I standing, preaching to you with only half a shirt on my back, while you sit there covered with gewgaws and other baubles."

The next day a parcel containing several brand new shirts was left at his house by one of his hearers, a kind hearted old lady. Meeting the donor a few days afterward, he thanked her exceedingly, but expressed much surprise at receiving such an unexpected gift.

"Oh," said the lady, "you mentioned in your sermon on Sunday that you had only half a shirt on your back."

"Quite true," added his reverence, "but you seem to forget that the other half was in front."—London Answers.

How to Prove Coins.

The lady behind the counter at one of the London stores wrote out the bill for my purchases on a little manifolding book, which reproduced her writing by means of a carbon paper on the page below. Then she took the half sovereign I tendered in payment and, placing it on the upper page, pressed it hard down with her thumb. I asked the reason. "We have instructions," she explained, "to take the impression of any coin received by means of the carbon paper in the book. See (turning to the duplicate of my bill); there's the impression of your half sovereign. You couldn't very well think you'd given me a sovereign after seeing that, could you? You'd be surprised," she said, "how often we have to show our books to people to convince them we've not made a mistake."—Manchester Guardian.

FUNERAL OF COL. STANLEY G. SMITH.

Last Sad Rites held over the Dead Banker at his home in Woonsocket, R. I.

Laid at rest in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The funeral of Col. Stanley G. Smith, who was killed at Woonsocket, R. I., Saturday, May 15, was held from the residence on Harris Ave., Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

It will be remembered that Col. Smith met a violent death, by being flung, with four other men, from his 6 cylinder Franklin automobile, as the car skidded, when the chauffeur turned out quickly to avoid hitting a wagon while the auto was being driven down the Cumberland Hill road in Cumberland on the way home from a pleasant afternoon at the Cumberland golf links. The accident to which the absence of a wheel brake band, on the machine may have been a contributing cause, although the chauffeur says he used only the foot brake, occurred at 5:30, on the Joseph Cook hill. Col. Smith was hurried to the hospital, where he died at 8:40, without recovering consciousness.

Services were conducted by Rev. Samuel Gilbert Ayers, pastor of the Universalist church, of which the deceased was a faithful and valuable member.

He delivered a worthy and touching eulogy on the life and character of him, who in life was a friend of all and whose cheerful and hearty greeting brought sunshine and joy to many.

The Weber quartet of Boston rendered a number of appropriate selections in a manner that affected all present. Burial was in Oak Hill cemetery and at the grave the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Ayers. The pall bearers were close friends of the deceased, and the honorary bearers were selected from among his business associates and were Gov. Aram J. Pothier, Walter S. Ballou, Gen. W. H. Bisbee, A. G. Beardsley, jr., Col. Chas. E. Ballou, Col. E. C. Francis, Edward Harris Rathbun and Col. Austin S. Cook.

There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, which gave silent, but unmistakable evidence of the esteem in which the departed was held, and the large room in which the body reposed in a handsome casket, was completely filled with the beautiful emblems.

Col. Smith made many friends here when he came to Tecumseh to claim Miss Edith Corey as his bride, who all extend their heartfelt sympathy to her and the three children in their bereavement.

86th BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Celebrated at the home of P. C. Snell for Harwick Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Snell entertained a company at supper last evening in honor of the 86th birthday of Mrs. Snell's father, Harwick Perry. Only members of the family, including the four generations, were present.

Mr. Perry enjoys excellent health for one of his years, and is able to read without glasses, and keeps in touch with the news of the day. That he may live to celebrate more anniversaries is the earnest wish of his friends.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Friends here have been receiving announcements of the marriage of Edwin S. Nisle to Miss Margaret A. Ward, which took place Wednesday, May 12th at Seattle, Wash. Mr. Nisle will be remembered by many here, as he clerked in the clothing department for Alva Spayde for some time. His home was in Manchester. Numerous friends here extend congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Nisle are at home in Seattle, at The Wilhelmina, 1413 Queen Ann Ave.

HALL-ELLIOTT.

Miss Marion H. Hall and Floyd Elliott, both of Tecumseh were married in Toledo Wednesday, May 19, by Rev. Walter E. Schuette, pastor of St. Paul's church. Their marriage was a surprise to many. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott are both excellent young people, and have always resided in Tecumseh. They will go to housekeeping in the Coryell residence in Brownville, and many wishes for their happiness will be extended.

CLAY OWEN.

Clay Owen died at his home in Tecumseh Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after a week's illness with pneumonia. Mr. Owen was born in Louisville, Ky., 55 years ago. Beside his wife, he is survived by one son Floyd Owen, who resides here. The funeral was held from the house this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Dunning of the Presbyterian church officiating. Burial at Brookside.

JOINT MEMORIAL.

On Sunday, June 6, the Odd Fellow Rebekah, Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters, Sir Knights and Lady Maccabees will hold a joint memorial.

"Take your needle, my child, and work at your pattern; it will come out a rose by and by." Life is like that—one stitch at a time taken patiently, and the pattern will come out all right, like the embroidery.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should at once heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter it will be very rare so mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol glycerine, etc makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old obstinate cases it is true cannot be cured in a few days, but absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing calm, cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing, calm cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instanty upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes affect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment the patient knows at once.

Instead trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportion ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or oil of wintergreen Compound. It is made by D. D. D. Co of Chicago and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

WILL CARLETON

Will Give Principal Address Homecomers' Day.

At dedication of the Aunt Laura Haviland memorial.

Thursday, June 24, is the time set for celebrating Homecomers' day and from all indications Adrian will see the largest crowd that has ever visited the city. One of the principal attractions of the day will be the dedication of the Aunt Laura Haviland memorial statue in front of the city hall. Will Carleton, Michigan's famous poet, will give the principal address. Mr. Carleton was born near Hudson in 1845 and was brought up as a farmer boy usually is. His desire for knowledge, however, led him to walk for miles to the district school where he studied Latin, algebra, etc. In 1865 he entered college, helping to defray his expenses by teaching school. Graduating in 1869 he joined the editorial staff of a Chicago paper and later became editor of the Detroit Weekly Tribune. In 1868 he wrote his first poem "Fax," and at his graduation in 1889, "Rifts in the Clouds." In 1870, the beautiful poem, "Over Them Over." In 1871, "Betsy and I Are Out" appeared, followed soon after with "How Betsy and I Made Up" and "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse." In 1873 "Farm Ballads" was produced, and in 1875 "Farm Legends." Mr. Carleton is now a resident of New York where he is connected with the publication of Everywhere.—Adrian Times.

MRS. O. W. PEARSON.

Death of a Former Resident of Tecumseh.

A C. Taylor Monday received a dispatch announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. Calvin W. Pearson at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Florence Yarnall at Wallingford, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, the telegram from Mr. Pearson stating that the end came suddenly but peacefully and that the services would be conducted at Beloit, Wis., their old home Friday at 2 p. m. Marthanna Taylor, familiarly known as Mattie Taylor was one of six children born to Joshua and Mary Comfort Taylor pioneers of Raisin and prominent Friends. She was born July 17, 1846 and supplemented her district school education with an attendance at both Raisin Valley seminary and Earlham college. It was at the latter institution that her romance with Mr. Pearson had its inception. They were married in 1870 following his graduation from Goettingen university, Germany, where he fitted himself for professor of German. Mr. Pearson was of the faculty of Earlham college and of Beloit college—connected with the latter for 20 years and later retired on a Carnegie pension of $1,000 a year. Following his retirement Mr. and Mrs. Pearson spent some time in Germany for the benefit of Mrs. Pearson's health which had suffered greatly in the final illness of her son, Walter Pearson who died about 10 years ago. Latterly Mr. and Mrs. Pearson had been with their daughter. Three children were born to them, Mrs. Yarnall, wife of a Philadelphia paint manufacturer and importer whose family were once residents of Tecumseh; Edwin Pearson, who is in the manufacturing business at Kansas City, Mo., and the son Walter whose demise has previously been mentioned. Three brothers and one sister also survive, Edwin Taylor of Edwardsville, Kan., Dr. Thomas Taylor who has a chair in the State university at Denver, A. C. Taylor of Adrian, and Miss Mary. J. Taylor who has been in Philadelphia all winter. Mrs. Pearson was a sister of May Taylor, who formerly resided here and a neice of Jane Satterthwaite.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his hehrt about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters to himself.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HAIR HEALTH.

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to someone else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush often produces the cause of baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat for the reason that many a hat band is a nesting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we positively know will cure these troubles, and we are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. It is the most scientific remedy for all scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness. We know this because of the results it has produced in hundreds of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will positively banish dandruff permanently, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, removes dandruff, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody in Tecumseh who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay no nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. B. J. Pulver, the druggist.

MEN WHO DON'T SUCCEED ARE THOSE.

Who expect to begin at the top instead of slowly climbing there.

Who air their grievances to others until they make a nuisance of themselves.

Who are not thorough and conscientious about their work.

Who keep their eyes on the clock, fearful that they may give their employer a moment or two overtime.

Who are always doleful and down on their luck.

Who spend their nights at parties and arrive at the office in the morning weary.

Who talk over their employer's business outside the office.

Who criticise everything and everybody.

Who are never on time.

Who depend on favoritism to advance them instead of good, honest endeavor.

Who are indifferent and listless and can not even assume an interest in their occupation.

Who feel themselves above their position and do not even condescend to fill it adequately.

Who cannot be honest with themselves and expect a greater money compensation than the work would be worth if done by someone else.

Who tell you all the wonderful things they can do, but never get right down to doing anything at all.

Who fear that they will do more than their salary calls for.

Give the boy a chance to assert his own individuality, chance to work out his own life plans.

Pride does not measure happiness so much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might [illegible] More.

It is the mind that makes the man, and our vigor is in our immortal soul.—Ovid.

Don't deny your boy the helpful, restraining influences of outdoor sport. There is a who'e sermon in that phrase "muscular Christianity."

Don't, because your father, grandfather, or great-grandfather has been a doctor, preacher, or lawyer, try to force your boy in the same profession. Find out what he is particularly interested in and adapted to. Many an unhappy, unsuccessful lawyer or doctor or preacher would have made a successful merchant, engineer, or farmer had not a mother's ambition interfered.

Everyone is bound to bear patiently the results of his own example.—Phaedrus.

FIELD MEET

Interscholastic Field Day Held in Hudson Last Saturday.

SPECIAL TRAIN FROM TECUMSEH CARRIED 65.

Tecumseh lost the track events by two points

A special train was secured over the Lake Shore last Saturday to attend the Interscholastic Field Day meet held in Hudson. Sixty-five tickets were sold from Tecumseh. Those who attended thoroughly enjoyed the day.

The events were pulled off as follows:

50 yard dash—Addison, first; Hudson, second; Tecumseh third; time 5¾

One mile run—Addison, first; Tecumseh, second; Addison, third; time 5.5 1-5.

Standing broad jump—Tecumseh, first; Tecumseh, second; Hudson, third; height, 10 ft; 11in.

440 yard dash—Addison, first; Hudson, second; Addison, third; time 53¼.

Hop, step and jump—Tecumseh, first; Tecumseh, second; Addison, third; distance 29 ft. 10¼ sec

100 yard dash—Addison, first; Hudson, second; Morenci, third.

Standing high jump—Tecumseh, first; Tecumseh, second; Morenci, third; height, 4 ft., 7 in.

880 yard run—Addison, first; Tecumseh, second; Hudson, third; time 2:19.

Pole vault—Morenci, first; Hudson, second.

220 yard dash—Addison, first; Hudson, second.

Shot put—Addison, first; Hudson, second; Tecumseh, third; distance 33 ft, 9½ in.

Running high jump—Tecumseh, first; Addison, second; Addison, third; height, 5 ft., 3 in.

Two-mile run—Tecumseh, first; Britton, second; Hudson, third; time 11 min. 39 sec.

120 low hurdles—Addison, first; Hudson, second; Hudson, third; 18 sec.

Running broad jump—Tecumseh, first; Britton, second.

Relay race—Hudson, first; Addison, second.

Tecumseh showed up better in the track events than in anything else.

Tansley won first in the standing high jump. Hoag got first in the running high jump and Snell first in the two-mile run. Leonardson won first in the standing broad, hop, step and jump and in the running broad jump. These won individual medals for each event.

L. Rogers was unable to enter either the base ball game or the track events on account of injuries received a few days ago.

The base ball game between Hudson and Tecumseh, resulted in a score of 9 to 5 in Hudson's favor. Tecumseh also lost the basket ball game with Addison, the score being 9 to 6. The game was a fast one but our girls were a little bit nervous. Hudson desired a game with our girls, claiming that we had no schedule but the heads of the day decided in Tecumseh's favor.

Schultz of U. of M. was the starter and referee and Leisle Wesley of Adrian refereed the basket ball game. Hudson won the cup for base ball, Addison for basket ball and the track events, winning the latter from Tecumseh by only two points. Points for:

Tecumseh—53.
Addison—57.
Hudson—37.
Morenci—7.
Britton—5.

FIRE

Building Owned by Mrs. Jerry Root on Evans St.

BURNED TO THE GROUND LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Building occupied by Harold Nessell.

The frame building owned by Mrs. Jerry Root, first door north of Slayton's warehouse on Evans St., was destroyed by fire, Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The building is occupied by Harold Nessell, who conducts a dyeing, cleaning and pressing business, the building having recently been repaired for his convenience. Just how the fire started Mr. Nessell cannot not say, but it caught in some way from the gasoline stove. The tank soon exploded, spreading the fire rapidly. By the time the fire department arrived the building was a complete wreck. Very little of the contents were saved, many of the young men here losing suits, nearly new.

Mr. Nessell was insured with Alfred James, carrying $275 on his customers clothing, and $200 on his own stock, furniture and fixtures, which will about cover his loss.

The building was also insured.

MISSIONARY ADDRESS.

Edgar Hole, a returned missionary from Africa, will lecture at the Friends church Thursday evening, May 27 at 7 o'clock. Rev. Hole has been working in the region where ex-president Roosevelt is hunting. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

NOTICE TO BICYCLE RIDERS.

Tecumseh, Mich., May 24th, 1909.

From and after date of publication of this paper, every person caught riding upon the sidewalks in the village of Tecumseh will be prosecuted under the ordinance in relation thereto.

Respectfully,
JAS. W. WIGHTMAN,
Village President.

THE PIONEER BOULDER. WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

The Committee of the Pioneer Society on the Boulder have been hard at work for the past few days getting the stone in shape and making a base and the Bronze Tablet is being set in place. The inscription on the Tablet is as follows:

THIS BOULDER
MARKS THE LOCATION OF THE
FIRST HOUSE IN LENAWEE COUNTY BUILT BY MUSSGROVE EVANS
AND HIS WIFE,
ABI EVANS,
JUNE 2ND, 1824
DEDICATED JUNE 2ND, 1909 BY THE PIONEER ASSOCIATION.

The committee have also deposited in a sealed glass can in the Northeast Corner of the base of the Boulder the following documents.

A paper giving the history and conception of the Boulder.

Names of the officers and committees of the Tecumseh Pioneer society and etc.

Copies of the Tecumseh Herald and News.

An attractive program has been prepared for the dedication which will occur on Wednesday, June 2nd and which we print today.

ATTENTION GRANGERS.

The next regular meeting of Lenawee County Pomona Grange will be held with Madison Grange at their hall on Thursday, June 3rd, 1909. A good program has been prepared and all fourth degree members are cordially invited to attend. Dinner furnished by Madison Grange.

E. R. Poucher, Secretary Lenawee County Pomona Grange.

HOW TO GROW FAT

A Lazy Stomach the Cause of Thinness, Nine Times in Ten

If you are thin or lean, have scrawney arms and neck, you can't grow fat unless you improve your digestion.

People take on flesh in proportion to the nutritious matter which the organs of digestion absorb and pass into the blood.

Just as long as this nutritious matter passes along without being absorbed, just so long will you remain thin.

Perhaps your stomach, bowels and liver need a tonic. If your digestion is not perfect, Mi-o-na tablets will make it perfect.

Mi-o-na will cure indigestion and every conceivable ailment of the stomach promptly. It is not a digester: it cures by building and toning up, not by encouraging a lazy stomach to continue its lazy and health destroying habits.

C. A. Wright & Son sell Mi-o-na for 50c. a box, and guarantee it to cure all stomach diseases and distress, or money back.

"Mi-o-na used by me for dyspepsia, gave fine relief and has my endorsement." James Silver, Ottawa st., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 15, 1908.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

When Willie and Johnny fight, mother licks.

Few men who have not earned it, ever have commanded success.

Many weak, nervous women have been restored to health by Foley's Kidney Remedy as it stimulates the kidneys so they will eliminate the waste matter from the blood. Impurities depress the nerves, causing nervous exhaustion and other ailments. Commence today and you will soon be well. Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

VERIFY IT

The Proof is In Tecumseh Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Tecumseh citizen is in itself strong proof for Tecumseh people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Tecumseh citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved sick kidneys and now states the cure was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

William C. Witherell, W. Potawatamie st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has convinced me that they are an absolutely reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them through the local papers in return for the relief I received from backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble through their use. I seldom have need of a kidney remedy now but I still keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house all the time. I know of several persons who have used this remedy at my suggestion with the best of results."

CONEY ISLAND HAPPY.

Enforcement of Blue Law Not So Strict as Anticipated.

New York, May 24.—Two hundred thousands, according to estimate, went down to Coney Island to watch the police clap on the lid as threatened by Mayor McClellan's recent declaration that the Sunday closing law would be enforced. Those who expected a clash between the law and the showmen were disappointed, for no friction whatever occurred.

All amusement resorts ran as usual, and only six arrests were made during The general gayety of the island was not disturbed, and this leads to the belief that the gambling and questionable resorts alone are to be molested. Coney Islanders are happy and predict a passing of the blue cloud.

GEORGIA RAILROAD TIED UP TIGHT.

Firemen's Strike Succeeds In Blocking Traffic.

Augusta, Ga., May 24.—The Georgia railroad is completely tied up by the firemen's strike. The management is not trying to move trains, simply announcing that it has the men, the means and the equipment to proceed and will do so when the state announces it is ready to protect its property and employes.

The striking firemen are standing pat. They assert that they have not been and will not be parties to any violence. Their sympathizers, they claim, have done all the damage that has been done. General Manager Thomas Scott makes the announcement that no trains were moving.

Governor Hoke Smith wired the sheriff of McDuffie county to co-operate with the municipal authorities and to summon all deputies necessary to protect life and property. It is in this county, at Thomson, where the crowd issued their ultimatum that no trains should pass carrying either non-union firemen or negro firemen.

The governor also has wired the sheriffs of Rockdale and DeKalb counties, giving them information that engineers claim to have been rocked at Conyers and Lithonia and urging upon them prompt action for the protection of the railroad's employes and property.

From the offices of the Georgia railroad here it has been announced that all freight accumulated at Atlanta for Augusta and all points beyond will be moved by the Central of Georgia and Seaboard Air line.

DICKINSON PLEASED.

Progress of Panama Canal Satisfactory to Secretary of War.

Washington, May 24.—Weak from the effects of his illness which compelled him to cut short his trip, Secretary of War Dickinson has just arrived in Washington on the government yacht Mayflower after a tour of inspection of the Panama canal. Mr. Dickinson had not left his berth since the Mayflower sailed from Havana, where the vessel was when his condition began to cause concern, until he had reached nearly home.

The secretary was standing on the bridge of the Mayflower with Mrs. Dickinson and the other members of the party, which included Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Ewing, James Ross Todd, Henry D. Lindsley, Mrs. Owsley and Lincoln R. Clark, when the little vessel arrived at the navy yard. He was first ashore, and, while showing signs of his illness, he appeared to be improved. He assured the waiting reporters that he would be all right as soon as he had regained his lost strength.

Mr. Dickinson expressed pleasure at the progress being made in the construction of the Panama canal, but when asked regarding conditions in Cuba, the Mayflower having touched there on the return trip from the canal zone, he laughingly replied, "I only saw Cuba through a porthole."

The trip to Panama which Mr. Dickinson has just completed was made in consonance with President Taft's policy of having the members of his cabinet become personally familiar with the various projects under their direction.

Lived 152 Years.

Wm. Parr—England's oldest man—married the third time at 120, worked in the fields till 132 and lived 20 years longer. People should be youthful at 80. James Wright of Spurlock, Ky., shows how to remain young "I feel just like a 16 year-old boy," he writes, "after taking six bottles of Electric Bitters. For thirty years Kidney trouble made life a burden, but the first bottle of this wonderful medicine convinced me I had found the greatest cure on earth." They're a godsend to weak, sickly rundown or old people. Try them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son, the druggists.

ADRIAN.

The jury in the Kethel case were excused Friday noon until Monday at 1:30 o'clock, and the attorneys on both sides of the case are arguing points of law before the court this afternoon.

A. H. Smith, general manager of the New York Central lines with his wife and W. H. Emery of Erie were in the city Thursday. Mr. Smith says he will be here at the coming Home Comers' celebration together with Mrs. Smith and Charles Darnton of the New York World.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Albig left Saturday morning for South Bend, Ind., where they spent Saturday and Sunday with cousins, proceeding from there to Napierville, Ill., for a visit with Mr. Albig's brother, Orville M. Albig. On their return home Mr. and Mrs. Albig will spend several days in Chicago on business and pleasure.

A family reunion that was really one occurred in Adrian Thursday when C. W. Spies of Cassel, Germany, arrived in town to visit his brother, Frank of this city. Ed. Henry and Julius Spies of Marshall, also came over and it was the first meeting of some of the brothers for sixteen years. Mr. Spies had a pleasant voyage over making the trip in seven days. He will probably stay in this country for a number of months.

A woman giving her name as Mrs. Brumba of Grand Rapids appealed to the police to aid her in searching for her husband Thursday. She said he had phoned to her from Grand Rapids, that he wanted some money and would wait for her in Adrian. An inquiry revealed the fact that he was staying at the Platt hotel and she was directed there and as she did not return it is likely she found hubby.

Some time Thursday night the meat market run by A. E. Hodgkinson, next to the A. P. Southworth auto garage, on North Winter street, was entered and about three pounds of meat taken. Entrance was gained by breaking the window on the south side of the building. It is apparent the petty thief or thieves wanted only a piece of meat, as the money drawer containing a dollar or more in small change was not molested.

Miss Marjorie Hardy went to Ann Arbor Friday to be a guest at a week-end party at the Sigma Nu house.

Invitations are being received in this city to the wedding of Miss Grace Adelaide Bogue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubbell Bogue, to Clifford A. Stewart on Tuesday evening, June 8, at 7 o'clock at their newly furnished home, 6 South McKenzie street.

Ass W. Aldrich of this city was adjudicated a bankrupt in the district court at Detroit Wednesday. The petition was filed by Westerman and Westerman who asked that their client might go into voluntary bandruptcy. What Mr. Aldrich's liabilities and assets are is unknown.

Word was received Thursday from Lindsay, Ont., by the Kisinger family relative to the condition of Gertrude Morton, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs Norman Morton, to the effect that she was worse. Gertrude has pneumonia.

Why the Criminal Weeps.

The central office detective had just sent one of the worst criminals in the city away for a long, long rest.

"Did he give you any trouble?" asked a friend.

"No; he did a good deal of crying, though."

"For some woman, I suppose?"

"Woman? Rather not! They never cry for human beings. This fellow had a wife who had stuck by him through the trial and who before he was caught worked her fingers off for him. Then there were two children. But he never mentioned them. He was crying about his flight—his pigeons, you know. He had about sixty fancy ones, and whenever he thought of what would become of them while he was away tears would spring to his eyes. A lot of the worst crooks and gangsters in the city are fanciers, and a kid couldn't be more sentimental than they are. Sometimes, too, they are sorry for dogs. I knew one who was more anxious about his ferret than anything else. At the same time I never knew a criminal, man or woman, who had a cat among the things they were sorry to leave behind."—New York Press.

Chess Word Wanderers.

An interesting set of word wanderers clusters about the game of chess. "Shah," the Persian word for king, was corrupted in French to "eschec," which has been transferred into English as "check." Our verb and noun check, in most of the common uses, has arisen from the cry of "Check!"—literally "King!" or "Look out for your king!"—which is given when a player puts his opponent's king in danger. When a player has put his opponent's king in such a condition that he cannot be rescued he cries "Checkmate!" a corruption of the Persian "Shah mat!" or "The king is dead!" The chessboard was called in old French an "eschequier." From this word are derived our "checker," both verb and noun; "checkers," the name of another game played on the same kind of board, and "exchequer," so called on account of the checkered cloth on which accounts were formerly calculated.—Minneapolis Journal.

The Blushing Tree.

The blushing tree gets its name from the change of hue it assumes when the rain falls on it. As the drops drench the leaves, gradually but unmistakably the green tint gives way to pink. In a few minutes the green fades from sight. Only in a few half hidden spots beneath broad branches and on its trunk is there a tinge of green to be seen. After an hour or more, when the shower is over, the tree assumes its familiar green once more. Certain tiny insects, and not the tree itself, change color. These peculiar parasites are possessed of the power of chameleons. In the warm sunshine they are greener than the tree on which they live, but when the chilly rain falls upon them they contract their tiny backs and become a [illegible] in tint. Millions of these change the entire appearance of the tree and make it seem to be blushing.

Dresden a City of Pleasure.

Dresden is essentially a city of pleasure—of fair, wide prospects, of hearty river life, of zest in nature and art. Even the public buildings cluster about the Elbe just as the huts of the first settlers clustered. A circle of Wendish herdsmen's huts on the right bank, a line of fisher shanties on the left—these were the unlikely beginnings of Dresden in the sixth century. But the settlement lay at the only point in the river valley where a ford was practicable, tempting the Germans to settle on the left bank between the Wends and the swamps, or Seen, unlovely places that have long since disappeared, leaving behind only the names Seestrasse, Am See and Seevorstadt. Indeed, the very name of Dresden is derived from the Slavic dresjan, which means "dwellers in the swamp forest."—Robert Haven Schauffler in Century.

Not So Short.

He was supposed to be a poor but otherwise honest young man, while she was admittedly a thing of beauty.

"Will you marry me?" he asked.

"No," she answered.

"You are very short," he muttered.

"Ditto," she replied. "That's why there is nothing doing in the matrimonial line."

"Oh, I don't know," he sneered, as he extracted an obese billbook from an inside pocket and displayed a number of $1,000 bills. "I'm not so short."

Whereupon the unwary maid tried to fall upon his neck, but he gracefully sidestepped, and she fell to the floor in a faint.—Chicago News.

The Sweet Girls.

Maud—You say Jack once proposed to you. I don't believe it. He said I was the only woman he ever loved. Ethel—Yes, dear, but he didn't class me among women. He used to call me his angel.

Whosoever hath nobly yielded to necessity I hold him wise, and he knoweth the things of God.—Euripides.

Best Stomach Remedy Free

It is an old saying that if the stomach is sound the whole body is safe, because so much depends upon the proper working of the stomach. Many persons find themselves with a disorder of the stomach which produces dyspepsia or a peculiar state of biliousness.

If you suffer from both stomach trouble and constipation you are on the way to a very serious disease. From just such conditions come appendicitis, rheumatism, skin diseases and similar disorders, because the waste matter that should have been dispelled from the system through the bowels has found its way into the blood and vitiated it. What is needed at this point is not simply a violent cathartic tablet or salt, which usually does more harm than good, but a gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which people have been using for these ailments for nearly a quarter of a century. It cured J. C. Lanham, of Warrensburg, Mo., of stomach trouble of long standing, also William Voll, of 901 Ellison St., Louisville, Ky., who had the trouble for fifteen years.

However, if you have stomach trouble you want to know from personal experience what Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will do for you. If so, send your name to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent you. You are urged to send for the free bottle, as the results from it will be the best recommendation of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Then you will do as over two million people did last year—go to your druggist and buy a regular bottle at 50 cents or $1, according to the size you prefer. We could mention hundreds and hundreds of families who are never without it. You can never tell when some member of the family will need a laxative, and then no time should be lost taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

The Kaffeeklatsch.

The difference between a 5 o'clock tea and a German Kaffeeklatsch is enormous. The tea is a pleasant go-as-you-please meeting, where we balance our teacups in hand perilously handicapped by our multitudinous possessions, augmented by the frail saucer on which a top heavy piece of cake finds an insecure resting place. We may enjoy a variety of creature comforts augmented by ices and cups on festive occasions.

Not so the German Kaffeeklatsch. That is a ponderous affair which you take sitting at tables. Coffee and savories mark the beginning of the meal, followed by numberless cakes which the Germans know so well how to make. This is followed by some creamy preparation or a beautiful device made in ice. This again is succeeded by the choicest fruits.

The Kaffeekanne is meanwhile still busily plying its trade. There is a well known German song which ends with the refrain, freely translated: "Thank you, thank you, hostess mine. I never drink more cups than nine."—London Queen.

The Fairy Hounds.

In some years stoats appear to be more numerous than in others, and they are seen not in ones and twos, but in dozens, hunting together in small packs. The late E. T. Booth of Brighton, when shooting in East Lothian one autumn, met a pack of stoats which attacked a terrier he had with him and would not be driven off until he and the dog between them had killed more than a dozen. Stoats will hunt together from scent and in full cry like a pack of hounds, one always keeping the line and followed closely by the others. This sight has been recorded by different observers, who have also seen weasels hunting in the same way. There is a popular notion in the west of England that hares are hunted at night by packs of little fairy hounds, locally called "dandy dogs," and these are said to be weasels, which the west country folks call "fairies," pronouncing the word "vairy" and "vair." Some of them declare that they have seen and watched the chase with awe.—London Graphic.

Poetic Justice.

A man whose soul had been tortured frequently by the remarks of his wife, who takes a fiendish delight in setting a price on the handsome clothes worn by other women, one day found sweet comfort in the incautious comment of a woman in a crowded car.

"Oh, yes," said that observing other woman, "the hat looks well enough, but it is cheap. It couldn't have cost a cent more than $6."

Thereupon said the man to his wife: "Why do you always pick out the most expensive clothes for especial notice? Why don't you look at something cheap once in awhile? There are cheap things worn. There is a hat in this very car that cost only $6. The woman just behind us pointed it out a minute ago."

"Well," said his wife, "you are the last person on earth who ought to feel proud of it. It was me she was talking about."—New York Times.

Old English Flint Glass.

Large quantities of lead and potash were introduced into the constituents of the glass which in 1673 is described as being clear, heavy and thick as crystal.

A great impetus was given to the manufacture when the edict of Nantes in 1685 drove the skilled artisans from France. Many of them came to England, and the fame of British glass grew until it was considered superior to that of Bohemia.

From 1736 to about 1761 we have but few particulars. Then Michael Edkins, formerly a potter, became prominent as a maker of the highest class of enameled glass, which has become very scarce. It has an opaque white body, beautifully painted in enamel colors with figures, flowers, etc. In fact, it much resembles a glassy porcelain. It is getting scarce, too, and fine pieces are increasing in value.—London Opinion.

Porcine Geometry.

Seven-year-old William had become the proud owner of a pet pig and insisted upon having all the care of it himself. After a few weeks, as the pig did not seem to thrive, his father said to him:

"William, I'm afraid you are not feeding your pig enough. It does not seem to be fattening at all."

"I don't want him to fatten any yet," William replied knowingly. "I'm waiting until he gets to be as long as I want him, then I'll begin to widen him out."

After the Honeymoon.

He (at a picture gallery)—I wonder what that painting represents? The youth and the maiden are in a tender attitude. She—Oh, don't you see? He has just asked her to marry him, and she is accepting him. He—Ah, how appropriate the title! She—I don't see it. He—Why, that card at the bottom says "Sold."

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

In checking up the postmaster's books at Mets, Presque Isle county, a postoffice inspector has found a shortage of about $2,000. Judge of Probate Theodore Hardies is postmaster.

John Mawrovitz, the ten-year-old boy of Port Huron who was charged with burning a barn, in addition to committing several other crimes several months ago, has disappeared from home.

In what was apparently a fit of temporary insanity Mrs. Bert Raser, a bride of a year, shot herself in the forehead at her home, four miles from Pulaski village. The bullet glanced and did not inflict a fatal wound.

Instead of the usual warm noonday meal awaiting him on his return from work, George W. Streeter of Holland found his children alone in the house and a curt note disclosing the unwelcome news that his wife had decamped.

C. A. Frey of Grand Rapids, who sailed abroad about a month ago, was a passenger returning this week by the American liner St. Louis. Mr. Frey was accompanied by his wife, who was taken ill a few days after they landed on the other side. She died suddenly.

Hurled through the air with such force that his body broke a fence post in two, Alexander Crumpage, a Slav, was instantly killed by a Grand Trunk passenger train at the crossing at Joseph Campau avenue, in Detroit. He did not see the train until it was upon him.

The Characteristic National Meal.

It is not only in Scotland that breakfast is the characteristic national meal. Travel where you may, the first meal of the day is the one that strikes the foreign note, luncheon and dinner having gradually absorbed cosmopolitan qualities that are not even confined to hotels. But you never feel so much of an Englishman as when Switzerland gives you rolls and butter and honey and nothing more with your coffee or when France makes this into one exquisite crumbling "croissant," with an inch or two from a yard long loaf, or when Denmark adds cream instead of milk to the coffee and a dangerous piece of pastry to the black bread and round white roll. Yet our English breakfast became an institution only in the eighteenth century. Before that only royalty breakfasted off meat, bread and cheese and ale. The commoner, such as Pepys, took merely a morning draft of buttered ale.—London Chronicle.

A Compromise.

A struggling art student, a native of Pont Aven, went to Paris to study and occasionally visited an uncle there, an elderly shoemaker on the Rue Vaugirard. The shoemaker was to be counted on for a square meal and sometimes even for a small loan. One morning the uncle welcomed the student far more warmly than was his habit.

"Just in time," he said, rubbing his hands. "The kitchen door wants painting, and I was about to give the job to the commissionnaire for 3 francs. But you can have it now. I'll pay you $5."

The student flushed and bit his lip. Hard up as he was, he could not so degrade his art as to paint a kitchen door. Yet he needed money badly.

"Uncle," he said, smiling as a happy thought came to him, "I'll tell you what to do. Let the commissionnaire paint the door for 3 francs, as you had intended, and give me the 2 francs difference."

Why Men Cooks Seldom Smoke.

"Men cooks make a mistake to smoke. Men cooks that smoke have a hard time to get work."

"Why so?" inquired a woman cook.

"Because you don't like your cook to bend over the cooking with a cigar in his mouth. It doesn't look neat when you go down into the kitchen to see him finger the wet stub of a cigarette and then plunge his hands into the puff paste. Sometimes, in fact, if you have a man cook that smokes you will find ashes on the steak. I know a corporation lawyer who once found a cigar end in the soup. Do you think he'd ever employ after that a smoking cook?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Eat What

You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

STRUCK ON THE HEAD

Aged Bay City Woman Found Dying

GRANDSON IS IN JAIL

He Weds Following Discovery of Injured Relative.

CLOTHES AND MONEY GONE

Mrs. Christine Coryeon's Death Deep Mystery—Appears to Have Been Struck Over Head—Rowland Rich, Under Arrest, Denies Crime—Relatives Do Not Believe Him Guilty.

Bay City, Mich., May 27.—Roland Rich, twenty-three years old, of this city, occupies a cell in the county jail, charged with slaying his aged grandmother, Mrs. Christine Coryeon.

Rich was placed under arrest shortly after his wedding at St. Boniface church Wednesday morning, charged with the crime. When the young man was arraigned in police court, E. J. Bissell, acting as counsel in the absence of Louis P. Counams, announced that the prisoner would stand mute.

Mrs. Coryeon was struck down apparently in the bedroom of her own home some time between 7:30 and 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. Her death was caused, according to the verdict of physicians who conducted the autopsy, by blows from some blunt instrument which crushed the right side of her skull. They declare that the woman could not have sustained the fatal injuries by a fall, and the police from the start worked on the theory of foul play.

The first knowledge of the crime came when Rich summoned a physician to attend his grandmother. His own story of finding the unconscious woman is as follows:

Feared Jokes of Friends.

"I took my dress suit, wedding ring and $100 in money with me when I went to my grandmother's house last night. Several of my friends had been teasing me and playing jokes about my wedding, and, fearing that they might confiscate my clothing, I decided to leave them with her all night. I hung my suit in her bedroom and put the ring and money near them. I then went to the back door, and while disrobing myself of my outer clothing I heard a noise like that of someone falling in my grandmother's bedroom.

"Rushing in, I found the room filled with smoke and the bed clothing on fire. Before me on the floor was my grandmother, her head bleeding. She was unconscious, I think.

"I picked her up and dragged her to another room, and just as I was about to try to leave to get a doctor Mrs. Francis came in. I hurriedly told her of what I had discovered and rushed out to call aid. I did not think my grandmother was hurt badly, and after she was take to the hospital I decided not to defer my marriage.

"We all went to the church then, and the proceedings went on all right. When they came and told me of her death I could not believe it. I cannot understand how anyone could have entered the house and killed her. She must have fallen and hurt herself."

Niece Was Absent.

Mrs. Francis, a niece of the dead woman, and whose home is at 153 Jay street, Detroit, came here Tuesday night to be on hand for the wedding and spent the night with Mrs. Coryeon. About 6:30 both arose, and breakfast was prepared by Mrs. Coryeon. A half hour later Mrs. Francis left for the Rich home.

The fact that no one else is known to have been in the house from the time that Mrs. Francis left placed suspicion on young Rich.

It was while she was away that the grandson returned for his clothing, as his story goes.

The firemen who were called to extinguish the blaze in the home say that the fire was restricted to the bed clothing in the room. The windows in the house, they declare, were bolted, as was every door excepting the one in the rear through which Roland entered. These facts make the mystery all the deeper, because no one seems to have seen any person, stranger or otherwise, leave the premises.

The money, suit and ring which the young man claims he put in the house the night previous are gone. He emphatically says that he put these articles in the room.

No Motive.

The crime is without an apparent motive. At least the detectives working on the case cannot advance one. While Mrs. Coryeon was possessed of considerable wealth, robbery, it is maintained, could not have been the intent, because she was not known to keep any considerable sum with her in the house. Roland was a favorite of Mrs. Coryeon.

But one thing stands out as a possible motive. That is the rumor among relatives of the Rich family and friends that Roland was to be given a fine lot and house as a wedding gift. Some deny that this was the intention of the grandmother, but, at any rate, Roland and his bride, in preparing the wedding invitations, had the number of the house mentioned as the promised gift printed on the cards as being the place where they would be at home after the honeymoon trip. Harry Tierney, uncle of the boy, calls the report regarding the house gift "all rot."

Some are inclined to accept the theory that the grandson, on visiting his grandmother Wednesday morning, touched on the subject of a present. They may have had words and a quarrel.

But then the question arises as to what became of the suit of clothes, the wedding ring and the money? Not a trace of any burned suit was found in the house. A careful search revealed no ring or money. Young Rich denies having seen any of the articles since leaving Tuesday night.

Borrowed Clothes For Wedding.

He was compelled to wear a suit of his brother-in-law, Harry Smith of Detroit, to be on time for the wedding. A new wedding ring was purchased, and the young man was advanced funds by other relatives.

Rich and his bride, who was Miss Anna Kaiser, are very popular. They are prominent in society, especially in Catholic circles. Friends and enemies alike say that young Rich is a model young man. He lived at home with his widowed mother and five brothers. Their house adjoined that of Mrs. Coryeon. The two families were on the best of terms, as far as is known.

The dead woman was worth in the neighborhood of $75,000, this being left her by her two husbands, George Rich and John Coryeon. Rich died several years ago, while Coryeon met a sudden death about three years ago.

Mrs. Roland Rich, the bride, is a daughter of C. J. Kaiser, foreman of the Industrial works of this city. He is well known and is said to be in comfortable circumstances financially.

The prisoner feels keenly his arrest and when talking with officers sits with head bent low. He has told his story twice to the detectives, and each time it has been the same.

The mother and brothers of young Rich are standing by him. The mother, in an interview, stated that she would see her son through his troubles if it took her last dollar. They maintain he is innocent of any crime.

MICHIGAN GIVEN SHAKE.

Feels Effects of Earthquake Recorded in Washington.

Muskegon, Mich., May 27.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here Wednesday morning, a few minutes before 9 o'clock. A number of reports have been heard of dishes being shaken from tables and distinct jarring of houses. The disturbance lasted only a few seconds. The shocks were also felt at Kalamazoo, South Haven and Benton Harbor. No serious damage was done.

Washington, May 27.—A very slight disturbance, lasting about a minute, was recorded on the seismograph at the United States weather bureau here Wednesday, beginning at 9 o'clock, 41 minutes and 30 seconds, eastern time. There was not enough detail in the record to indicate the exact location of the disturbance.

Chicago, May 27.—A distinct earthquake shock was felt throughout the northern part of Illinois at 8:40 a. m. Wednesday.

The motion was from north to south and lasted one half minute.

The shock was distinctly felt in the office of the local weather bureau in the dome of the federal building and at the following cities near Chicago:

Lamont, Elcoen, Lockport, Riverdale, Downers Grove, Orland, Naperville and Evanston.

Dedicate Club House.

Pontiac, Mich., May 27.—The Pontiac club dedicated its new club rooms in the Hamnock building last night. The club is an organization of the young business men of Pontiac and organized seventeen years ago.

Too Poor to Entertain Taft.

Chicago, May 27.—The city of Chicago is too poor to pay $5,000, the expense of having President Taft lay the cornerstone of the new city hall. Therefore the council committee on public buildings has abandoned the plan of inviting the executive.

Was Enormously Rich.

London, May 27.—Charles Morrison, a comparatively unknown millionaire, whose estate, it is estimated, is worth between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000, is dead near Reading. He was ninety-two years old.

SIX MILL MEN ARE KILLED

Meet Death as Result of Boiler Explosion.

HAPPENS NEAR DOWAGIAC

Only One Man Employed by Geesey Hoop Company Escaped Unharmed. Believed Accident Was Caused by Failure of Steam Guage to Work Properly—Proprietor Among Dead.

Dowagiac, Mich., May 27.—Six men are dead and one terribly injured as the result of the blowing up of the boiler in the plant of the Geesey Hoop company, wrecking the building completely. Only one person employed at the place escaped harm.

The Dead:

DEFOREST GEESEY, proprietor.
OTTO BEHNKE, employe.
CHARLES FRITZ, planer.
ESTIL GAMHER, fireman.
FRANK GEESEY, employe.

The Injured:

FREEMAN GEESEY.

While his injuries are serious, it is is expected he will live.

So great was the force of the explosion that it shook buildings in the immediate vicinity. The explosion was distinctly heard in the heart of the city, over a mile away.

While it cannot be positively determined, it is believed that the explosion was caused by the failure of the steam gauge to properly work. All the dead men except Behnke, leave families.

ASSAILS SUGAR TRUST.

Burrows Declares They Posed as Fair Dealers by Claiming Alliance With Sugar Beet Interests.

Washington, May 27.—For more than seven hours Wednesday the senate was engaged in the discussion of sugar as that subject is involved in the pending tariff bill. Beginning with an effort by Senator McEnery, the Louisiana Democratic protectionist, there were four set speeches. Three of these were in support of the sugar schedule as reported from the committee on finance, while the fourth was a plea for material reductions.

Completing the speech which he began Tuesday, Senator McEnery made an earnest plea for stiff protection, not only because of the necessity for such a policy in the interest of revenue, but because, as he declared, such a course would render the United States independent of other countries. He asserted that there had been a change of sentiment in the south on the subject of protection.

Senators Burrows (Mich.) and Smoot (Utah), both of them members of the finance committee, also spoke in support of the committee's action. Mr. Smoot presented a carefully prepared analysis of the situation, and Mr. Burrows appealed more particularly to popular sentiment. The Michigan senator charged the sugar trust with an attempt to establish a reputation for fair dealings by pretending to be in alliance with the sugar beet interest, which, he said, was not the case. He asserted that a reduction of duties would destroy the beet industry and thus render it necessary to send $100,000,000 a year out of the country for sugar.

Mr. Bristow, the new senator from Kansas, was the only advocate of a reduced rate.

BRAVE ELEVATOR MAN.

Rescues Employes From Eighth Floor of Burning Packing House Factory.

Chicago, May 27.—It was with difficulty that scores of men and girls escaped from a fire which has just occured in the lard house of Schwarzchild & Sulzberger at the stock yards. The blaze started on the top floor of the nine story building and spread to the eighth, where it was checked.

L. J. Drew, an elevator conductor, made trips through the smoke choked elevator shaft with his car and removed twenty men whose escape had been cut off by the stairway. A similar number of frightened passengers escaped in this way from the eighth floor.

Singular Coincidence.

New York, May 27.—At the same moment that a young man hurled himself from the Riverside Drive viaduct over the intersection of One Hundred and Twenty-ninth and Manhattan streets, before daylight, a young woman attempted to leap from the Recreation pier, a block away, into the North river. The man's identity has not been established. He was instantly killed. The woman, who was caught before she could leap, and who described herself as Grace Anthony of Brooklyn, insisted that she did not know the dead man and that his act had no connection with hers.

NEGRO'S FUTURE LOOKS HOPEFUL

President Taft Declares It Never Looked More So.

HE SPEAKS TO GRADUATES

Attends Exercises at Howard University—Tells Hearers They Must Gain Respect of White People Among Whom They Live—President Lays Cornerstone of New Library.

Washington, May 27.—Speaking to the colored graduates of Howard university, near this city, Wednesday, President Taft declared that never at any time has the future of the negro as a race appeared more hopeful and bright than at the present day.

The president impressed upon his hearers the fact that it is for the negroes themselves to work out their own future and to make themselves valuable citizens in the communities in which they live. Conditions for the negro in the south the president said he believed are growing better and better. Southern people of the better class are coming to look more and more upon the negro race as one of their most valuable assets, Mr. Taft declared, and he again urged upon the negro the importance of gaining the respect and the friendship of the white people among whom he is to live.

The task of educating the negro, and especialy of educating leaders among the race, the president asserted, was a debt owed by the government; a debt only too difficult of repayment because of the constitutional limits of the government in dealing with the individual.

Hands Out Diplomas.

President Taft personally handed to the more than 100 candidates for degrees their parchment rolls. When the commencement exercises were ended he was escorted to the foundation of the new Carnegie library of the university, where he officiated at the laying of the cornerstone.

The president evidently enjoyed the privilege of being a real mason, for he not only applied the customary first dash of mortar but worked industriously with the silver trowel until he had covered the entire resting place for the well proportioned stone. Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, Minister Leger of Haiti and President Thirkield of the university also were called upon to wield the trowel.

"Come on Ballinger, you might as well help," said the president to the secretary, under whose department the control of Howard university comes. "But don't put on too much," the president added, "and spoil the job."

Secretary Ballinger made a brief address at the commencement exercises—the fortieth. Announcement was made of the conferring of the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon former Secretary James R. Garfield. There was a great crush to hear the president, and more than a thousand colored people stood in the rain outside the university chapel while he was speaking.

KING'S HORSE WINS.

Animal From Royal Stables Takes English Derby.

Epsom, Eng., May 27.—King Edward's Minoru Wednesday won the derby, the classic event of the English turf.

On Minoru the betting was 7 to 2, on Louviers 9 to 1, and on William the Fourth 20 to 1.

Louviers was second and William the Fourth third. Fifteen horses ran.

Sir Martin, the American horse, fell and was out of the race. He was ridden by "Skeets" Martin, the American jockey.

The stake was 6,500 sovereigns, for colts and fillies foaled in 1906. The distance was about one mile and a half.

Three Suicides In Washington.

Washington, May 27.—Three suicides were recorded on the police blotters at the national capital Wednesday. Carbolic acid, gas and a revolver were the agencies used for terminating life. The suicides were Jacob Sherley, aged thirty, of Clarendon, Va.; Elizabeth Allen, aged forty-five, and Louis Rosenthal, aged fifty-three, both of this city.

Hat Strikers Indulge In Riot.

Orange, N. J., May 27.—Women were participants in rioting incident to the strike in the hat making industry that has occurred here. Harold Crommelline, a driver, delivering groceries at the Connet hat factory, was attacked and stoned, one missile striking his head and inflicting a serious injury. Police reserves dispersed the mob.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. this has to do with you and Necia. Yes; she told me about you and her, and that's why I'm here." He paused. "You really think you love her, do you?"

Burrell removed his pipe and gazed at its coal impersonally.

"I love her so well, Mr. Gale, that nothing you can say will affect me. I—I hesitate at first about asking her to be my wife because—you'll appreciate the unusual—well, her unusual history. You see, I come from a country where mixed blood is about the only thing that can't be lived down or overlooked, and I've been raised with notions of family honor and pride of race and birth, and so forth, that might seem preposterous and absurd to you. But a heap of conceits like that have been bred into me from generations back. They run in the blood of every old family in my country, and so, I'm ashamed to say, I hesitated and tried to reason myself into giving her up, but I've had my eyes opened, and I see how little those things amount to, after all. I'm going to marry Necia, Mr. Gale. I'd like to do it the day after tomorrow, Sunday, but she isn't of age yet, and if you object we'll have to wait until November, when she turns eighteen. We'd both like your consent, of course. I'd be sorry to marry her without it. But if you refuse we'll be forced to displease you." He looked up and met the father's gaze steadily.

The other man's lips framed a faint smile.

"We'll see. I wish to God I'd had your decision when I was your age. This story would be different and easier to tell." He waited a moment, then settled to his self appointed task. "I was mining at the time up in the mother lode country of California, which was the frontier then, pretty much as this is now, only we had better things to eat. I was one of the first men into a camp named Chandon—helped to build it, in fact—and got hold of some ground that looked real good. It was hard mining, however, and, being poor, I was still gripping my drill and hammer after the town had grown up.

"A woman came out from the east—Vermont it was—and schoolteaching was her line of business, only she hadn't been raised to it, and this was her first clatter at the game. Her folks died and left her up against it, I gathered from what little she told me—sort of an old story, I guess, and usual, too, only for her. She was plumb unusual."

He seemed to ponder this a moment and then resumed:

"It don't make any difference to you how I first saw her and how I began to forget that anything else in the world was worth having but her. I'd lived in the woods all my life, as I said, and knew more about birds and bugs and bees than I did about women. I hadn't been broke proper and didn't know how to act with them, but I laid out to get this girl, and I did fairly well. There's something wild in every woman that needs to be tamed, and it isn't like the wildness that runs in wood critters. You can win that over by gentleness, but you have to take it away from a woman. Every live thing that couldn't talk was my friend, but I made the mistake of courting my own kind the same way, not knowing that when two of any species mate the male must rule. I was too gentle. Even so, I reckon I'd have won out only for another man. Dan Bennett was his name—the kind that dumb animals hate, and—well, that takes his measure. His range adjoined mine, and, though I'd never seen him, I heard stories now and then—the sort of tales you can't tell to a good woman—so it worried me when I heard of his attentions to this girl. Still, I thought she'd surely find him out and recognize the kind of fellow he was; but, Lord, a woman can't tell a man from a dog, and there wasn't any one to warn her.

"This Bennett came from the town below, where he ran a saloon and a brace game or two; but, being as he rode into our camp and out again in the night and as I didn't drink nor listen to the music of the little rolling ball, why, we never met even after he began coming to Chandon. Understand, I wasn't too good for those amusements. I just didn't happen to hanker after them, for I was living with the image of the little schoolma'am in my mind, and that destroyed what bad habits I'd formed.

"It was along in the early spring that she began to see I had notions about her, but my d——d backwardness wouldn't let me speak, and, in addition, I was getting closer to ore every shot at the mine and was holding off until I could lay both myself and my gold mine at her feet and ask her to take the two of us, so if one didn't pan out the other might. But it seemed like I'd never get into pay. The closer I got the harder I worked, and, of course, the less I saw of her, likewise the oftener Bennett came. I reckon no man ever worked like I did—two shifts a day, eighteen hours, with six to sleep. The skin came off of my hands, and I staggered when I came out into the daylight. At last I struck it, and still I waited awhile longer till I could be sure. Then I went down to my little shack and put on my other clothes. I remember I'd gone so thin that they hung loose, and my palms were so raw I had hard work handling the buttons and got my shirt all bloody, for I'd been in the drift forty hours without sleep and breathing powder smoke till my knees buckled and wapped under me. To this day the smell of stale powder smoke makes a woman of me, but that morning I sang, for I was going for my bride, and the world was brighter than it has ever been for eighteen years. The little schoolhouse was closed, at which I remembered that the term was over. I'd been living underground for weeks and lost track of the days, so that I had to count them up on my fingers. It took me a long time, for I was pretty tired in my head, but when I'd figured it out I went on to where she was boarding.

"The woman of the place came to the door, a Scotchwoman. She had a mole on her chin, I remember, a brownish black mole with three hairs in it. She wore an apron, too, that was kind of checkered, and three buttons were open at the neck of her dress. I recall a lot more of little things about her, though the rest of what happened is rather dreamy.

"I asked for Merridy, and she told me she'd gone away—gone with Bennett the night before, while I was coughing blood from the powder smoke; that they were married in the front room and that the bride looked beautiful. She had cried a bit on leaving Chandon and—and—that was about all. I counted the buttons on the Scotchwoman's waist eight or ten times, and by and by she asked if I was sick. But I wasn't. She was a kind hearted woman, and I'd been to her house a good deal, so she asked me to come in and rest. I wasn't tired, so I went away and climbed back up to the little shack and the mine that I hated now.

"I turned into a kind of hermit after that, and I wasn't good to associate with. Men got so they shunned me, and I knew they told strange stories, because I heard them whisper when I went to the stores for grub once a month.

"From time to time I heard of her, but the news, instead of gladdening me, as it would have gladdened some men, wrung out what bits of suffering were left in me, and I fairly ached for her. Nobody comes to see clearer than a woman deceived, so it didn't take her long to find out the kind of man Bennett was. He wasn't like her at all, and the reason he had courted her so hotly was just that he had had everything that rightly belongs to a man like him and had sickened of it, so he wanted her because she was clean and pure and different, and, realizing that he couldn't get her any other way, he had married her. But she was a treasure no bad man could appreciate, and so he tired quickly, even before the little one came.

"When I heard that she had borne him a daughter I wrote her a letter, which took me a month to compose and which I tore up. One day a story came to me that made me saddle my horse to ride down and kill him—and, mind you, I was a man who made pets of little wild, trusting things. But I knew she would surely send for me when her pain became too great, so I uncinched my gear and hung it up and waited and waited and waited. Three long, endless years I waited, almost within sound of her voice, without a word from her, without a glimpse of her, and every hour of that time went by as slowly as if I had held my breath. Then she called to me, and I went.

"I tell you, I was thankful that day for the fortune that had made me take good care of my horse, for I rode like Death on a windstorm. I rode through the streets of Mesa, where they lived, and past the lights of Bennett's big saloon, where I heard the sound of devil's revelry and a shrill voiced woman singing—a woman the like of which he had tried to make my Merridy. I never skulked or sneaked in those days, and no man ever made me take back roads, so I came up to his house from the front and tied my horse to his gatepost. She heard me on the steps and opened the door.

"'You sent for me,' said I. 'Where is he?' But he had gone away to a neighboring camp and wouldn't be back until morning, at which I felt the way a thief must feel, for I'd hoped to meet him in his own house. I couldn't think very clearly, however, because of the change in her. She was so thin and worn and sad—sadder than any woman I'd ever seen. I'd changed a heap myself. Anyhow that was the first thing she spoke about, and the tears came into her eyes as she breathed:

"'Poor boy! You took it very hard, didn't you?'

"'You sent for me,' said I. 'Which road did he take?'

"'There's nothing you can do,' she answered. 'I sent to make sure that you still love me.'

"'Did you ever doubt it?' said I, at which she began to cry like a woman who has worn out all emotion.

"'Can you feel the same after what I've made you suffer?' she said, and I reckon she must have read the answer in my eyes, for I never was much good at talking, and the sight of her, so changed, had taken the speech out of me, leaving nothing but aches and pains and ashes in its place. When she saw what she wished to know she told me the story—the whole miserable story—that I'd heard enough of to suspect. Why she'd married the other man she couldn't explain herself, except that it was a woman's whim—I had stayed away, and he had come the oftener—part pique and part the man's daredevil fascination.

"'He's a fiend,' she told me. 'I've stood all I can. He'll make a bad woman of me as sure as he will of the little one if I stay on here, so I have decided to go and take her with me.'

"'Where?' said I.

"'Wherever you say,' she answered, and yet I did not understand, not till I saw the look in her eyes. Then as it dawned on me she broke down, for it was a terrible thing for a good woman to offer.

To be continued.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., May 22, 1909.

The Senate leaders are far from satisfied with the progress being made on the tariff bill, and with a desire to call a halt on speeches for home consumption and to have the tariff debate confined to the specific questions under consideration, they intend to do everything in their power to limit the scope of the discussion. Hereafter the tariff orators are to be held within bounds and will not be permitted to discuss the fundamentals of free trade and protection, the trust question, the political situation, freight rates and other economic subjects. On Thursday of this week, after a long debate in which almost everything except the pending amendment was discussed, Senator Tillman suggested that the time had come when something ought to be done to put an end to "this useless wrangle" and said he was weary of sitting in the Senate with nothing to do except listen to professions of political faith by Republicans and Democrats, and in this he voiced the sentiments of many others. Senator Aldrich, chairman of the Finance Committee, intends at an early date, to invoke a rule that no Senator shall speak more than twice on any one question in debate on the same day without the permission of the Senate, and he intends, also, to insist that the Senate confine itself to consideration of the paragraphs under consideration. It is hoped, in this way, to dispose of the bill before the summer is over.

In the days of the Roosevelt administration visitors to the Senate galleries were always sure to get a glimpse of Vice President Fairbanks, hear his sonorous tones, and view the dignity of mien with which he presided over that body. He was always in his seat and seemed to believe that it was the duty of the Vice President Sherman takes another view, and believes that the Vice President should have the same leisure as any other member of the Senate. He knows there are many capable hands in which to trust the gavel and he has taken several afternoons off to play golf and has made several trips to his home on business. He calls Senator Fryer to the chair whenever it is possible, knowing that he is entrusting the business of the Senate to one of the most exact and capable officers who ever presided over the Upper House of Congress. When Senator Frye is absent Mr. Sherman calls on any one who happens to catch his eye. One day this week four different Senators alternated in the chair. The consensus of opinion is that Mr. Sherman is right in escaping at times from the bombardment of oratorical periods.

After no little discussion and five weeks' work, the name of Jefferson Davis, president of the late Southern Confederacy, has been restored to the tablet on Cabin John Bridge. When Mr. Davis was Secretary of War, in the fifties, his name formed part of the legend originally cut into the tablet, but it was erased from the stone in 1862 by order of Secretary Caleb Smith of the Interior Department. President Roosevelt ordered its restoration, forty-seven years later, just before his retirement from office, and his action was the result of urgent appeals of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

MRS. MARGARET OUELLETTE.

Monday morning at an early hour at her home in Greenville, Pa., occurred the death of Mrs. Margaret Cupples-Ouellette aged 51 years. Mrs. Ouellette was a former resident of Tecumseh and here Wednesday morning and taken to the home of John Orr, a cousin of the deceased where the funeral was held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. J. W. Dunning of the Presbyterian church officiating. Burial at Brookside. Deceased leaves a husband, who was unable to accompany the body to Tecumseh, and a daughter Isabel aged 12 years. Two sisters, Minnie and Mary Cupples of Detroit and a brother Richard of St. Thomas, Ont., with the daughter accompanied the remains here. Another sister, Mrs. Jennie Wier resides in Tecumseh.

Every Price Should Have a Reason.

It must be remembered always that it is not the price of an article which is important, but the reason for the price.

The bankrupt stock, the fire sale, the manufacturer's remnants, the annual clearance, the removal sale, the dissolution of partnership sale—what are these and many more but arguments for the price? And note this one point—that without the argument the price is powerless. Reduce fur lined overcoats from $100 to $60 and your liberal discount attracts little attention. Why? Because there is no reasonable explanation for the reduction. Why should you present overcoats to the public? But announce that owing to an expiration of your lease and the imperative command that you vacate your present store within two weeks you will reduce the price of your fur lined overcoats from $100 to $60 and you may sell easily all you have to offer. Instinctively the public sees the whole picture—the proprietor's anxiety, the inevitable removal, the lessening days, the final sacrifice and the store full of eager buyers, quick to seize such an opportunity. This is only half the reduction previously considered. But one is business without imagination, and the other is business with it—Lorin F. Deland in Atlantic.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend Earl Rector, an employee of the Lilley State Bank, in his great hurry to catch the morning train Thursday, forgot that carriages pass up and down the streets even if Tecumseh doesn't have street cars. He started to run across the street when a horse driven by Charles Hanna struck him and knocked him down, the horse and carriage passing over his body. He picked himself up, brushed off the mud and caught the train. To those who witnessed the scene it looked as if Mr. Rector couldn't possibly escape some injury, but they are inclined to believe that he is a Christian Scientist as he declares the carriage never touched him.

It is expected that there will be plenty of carriages and automobiles to convey the visitors from Military Square to the grounds.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Wednesday being Rev. D. Stanley Shaw's birthday, his friends and members of his church arranged a pleasant surprise for him Wednesday evening after prayer meeting, the parlors of the church having been decorated with flowers during the afternoon for the occasion. This fact combined with the unusual attendance, there being about 100 present, set the pastor to thinking, but remembering that he had called for an official board meeting at the close of the service partially accounted for the large number present. The surprise was complete in every respect and at the close of the board meeting he was given but a few minutes to collect his thoughts and then the young people of the church served refreshments. Rev. Shaw was presented with a purse of money, Mr. Tiffany making the presentation speech in behalf of the company. The affair was so pleasant and thoroughly enjoyable that all present have been wishing since that the pastor's birthday came oftener than once a year.

JOSEPH STRETCH.

Robert Stretch is in receipt of a telegram from relatives in Montana, informing him of the death of his brother, Joseph Stretch.

Mr. Stretch had been spending the winter in the south, and was enroute to his home in Snohomish, Wash., where he lived with a son. When he arrived in Wolfe Point, Montana, he was taken ill with pneumonia, due, probably to his leaving Florida so early. He went to the home of a nephew at Wolfe Point, where after a few days illness he succembed to the disease. The body was taken to Washington for burial.

Deceased was 84 years of age. Robert Stretch of this village is the only one left of the family.

MRS. CLAY OWEN.
MR. AND MRS. FLOYD OWEN.

Mrs. Lulu Weeks Wyman, widow of Dr. Hal C. Wyman, obtained leave from the circuit court and probate court yesterday to settle her controversy with the Michigan College of Medicine and Surgery, over which a suit had been started. The property at Porter and Second streets, occupied by the college, was sold to the college association by Dr. Wyman for $37,848, he taking as part of the first payment a lot on Howard street valued at $3,850. Nothing more had been paid up to the time that he died. Mrs. Wyman has been seeking to regain possession of the property. The suit was compromised by her giving the college $2,850 and Dr. Wyman's 20 shares of college stock.—Detroit Free Press.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Of the Stockholders of the H. Brewer & Co., Thursday.

The annual meeting of the stock holders of the H. Brewer and Company was held at the foundry, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The following officers and directors were chosen:

President—P. W. A. Fitzsimmons.
Vice president—Raynor Brewer.
Secretary and treasurer—J. D. Shull.
Manager—Charles Burridge.

PLANTED IN RED MILL POND.

Three Hundred Thousand Wall-eyed Pike in Red Mill Pond.

John W. Mull received from the state fisheries three hundred thousand pike perch or walleyed pike, which he planted in the Red Pond, Monday.

There were five cans, with sixty thousand in each can. These fish are said to grow to the size of one pound in two years, so it will soon make good fishing if they are protected. We have a fine pond now and it ought to be well stocked each year, for nearly every one in Tecumseh likes good fishing.

Free High School Tuition.

An act passed by the legislature extends free high school tuition up to $20 to all rural school pupils who finish the eighth grade in their districts. Parents who wish to take advantage of this privilege must select one of three convenient high schools and, before the fourth Monday in June, notify the district officers of their own districts in writing that they have children who are eligible for high school work in such schools. The district officers will attend to all other requirements of the law. This is an important law and should not be disregarded by parents of children who attend rural district schools.

MRS. FRANCIS BAXTER.

Word has been received in Tecumseh regarding the death of Mrs. Wittier Francis Baxter. Mrs. Baxter was formerly Miss Susie Stevens of Ypsilanti, Mich., and was married to W. F. Baxter from her home in that city in 1876. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter have resided for some time in Washington and Oregon, but Mrs. Baxter knowing she was fast passing away wished to spend her last days near her girlhood home and they went to Kalamazoo where she recently died at Bronson hospital of paralysis. Mrs. Baxter was the daughter-in-law of the late Hon. B. L. Baxter and her husband, Frank Baxter is the only one of his father's family now living.

CATARRH MICROBES

A Dead Microbe Is the Best Microbe ---yomi Kills Them All.

Hyomei (pronounced High o-me) is a killer of catarrh germs, because when you breathe it in, its antiseptic and germicide properties reach every nook and crevice of the mucous membrane, from the mouth and nose deep into the lungs.

Hyomei brings the Australian forests of pine and eucalyptus to your home. It is made of the active principles extracted from these trees.

No one who lives in or near these forests suffer from catarrh. No one who breathes in Hyomei, the real forest air of Australia, will have catarrh for long after the treatment starts.

If you want to cure catarrh, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever, or relieve consumption, try Hyomei, the common-sense cure, the cure that reaces the spot.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50c. Guaranteed to cure, or money back. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. Sold and guaranteed in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

VERIFY IT

The Proof is in Tecumseh Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Tecumseh citizen is in itself strong proof for Tecumseh people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Tecumseh citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved sick kidneys and now states the cure was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

William C. Witherell, W. Potawatamie st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has convinced me that they are an absolutely reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them through the local papers in return for the relief I received from backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble through their use. I seldom have need of a kidney remedy now but I still keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house all the time. I know of several persons who have used this remedy at my suggestion with the best of results."

BIG SUIT UNDER WAY.

Sugar Refining Company's Damage Claim Comes Into Court.

New York, May 27.—Trial of the $30,000,000 suit of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company against the American Sugar Refining company has just begun here before Judge Holt in the United States district court. The suit is brought under the Sherman anti-trust law $10,000,000 damages in triplicate being claimed against the American Sugar Refining company, which is alleged to have closed down the Philadelphia plant of the Pennsylvania company after securing a controlling interest and putting its own representatives on the board of directors.

In 1908 the suit was dismissed on the ground that there was no cause of action under the Sherman law, but the United States circuit court of appeals reversed the decision and restored the action to the calendar.

John G. Milburn and Henry W. Taft are among the counsel for the American Sugar Refining company.

Ex-Governor Frank S. Black opened the case for the plaintiffs. John F. Parsons, chief counsel for the defendant company, and Gustave Kissel, who are alleged to have procured a majority of the stock of the Pennsylvania company for the American Sugar Refining company, are named as co-defendants in the suit.

ILLINOIS DEADLOCK AT LAST BROKEN.

Democrats and Republicans Join and Name Senator.

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—Congressman William Lorimere of Chicago is the junior United States senator from Illinois. He has just been elected on the ninety-fifth ballot in the joint assembly by a coalition of fifty-three Democratic and fifty-five Republican votes to fill the vacancy from Illinois which has existed in the senate since the term of Albert J. Hopkins, Republican primary candidate for re-election, expired on March 4. With votes to spare, the representative of the Sixth district of Illinois broke the senatorial deadlock which has existed since last January.

The outward quietness with which the election of Lorimere was brought about testifies to the consummate political prowess of Congressman Lorimere. Until a few days ago Lorimere had not received a vote for senator, while Senator Hopkins, who went before the legislature with the indorsement of the primary election of the Republicans of Illinois, had kept within from twenty to thirty votes of a majority during the five months of the deadlock. A few days ago Lorimere received one vote, and rumors began to travel that he was about to be elected by a carefully arranged bipartisan coalition. It was announced that as soon as a few details were arranged Lorimere would be put forward and elected, but that nothing would be started until success was assured. Wednesday, second day following this announcement, the Lorimere votes were turned loose, and the result showed what careful planning had taken place.

NITRO LETS GO.

Explosion at Powder Plant Kills Two Men and Destroys Buildings.

Bradford, Pa., May 27.—Two men were killed and heavy property damage was inflicted when 250 quarts of nitro-glycerine exploded at the Dupont Powder company's plant at Howards, three miles south of here. The dead:

DANIEL BRATT.
WILLIAM HINEMAN.

The cause of the accident is not known, as only the men who were killed were in the vicinity when the explosion occurred. The canning house was demolished, together with the factory building, one-eighth of a mile away.

CANNOT BAR JAPANESE.

Privileged to All Trades Enjoyed by Americans in New York State.

New York, May 27.—In an opinion just handed down by the corporation counsel of New York city, Japanese subjects in the state of New York and in the United States generally are entitled, by virtue of the recent treaty entered into between this country and Japan, to all trade privileges which are held by American citizens.

The question was raised by the chief of the bureau of licenses, concerning the renewal of licenses of Japanese to engage in business at Coney Island.

Snake in Woman's "Rat."

Mason Valley, Nev., May 27.—The seven-year-old child of Andrew Ingman is critically ill from the bite of a small rattlesnake which had concealed itself in a "rat" occasionally worn by an older sister of the child. The family dog attacked the snake, which had dropped to the floor, and was fatally bitten.

Auto Overturned; Two Drowned.

Stockton, Cal., May 27.—Mrs. Warren Jones, wife of a wealthy farmer, and the three-year-old son of his sister, Mrs. Isaac Robinson, lost their lives in an automobile accident here. They were drowned when the automobile was overturned in two feet of water.

Lived 152 Years.

Wm. Parr—England's oldest man—married the third time at 120, worked in the fields till 132 and lived 20 years longer. People should be youthful at 80. James Wright of Spurlock, Ky., shows how to remain young. "I feel just like a 16-year-old boy," he writes, "after taking six bottles of Electric Bitters. For thirty years Kidney trouble made life a burden, but the first bottle of this wonderful medicine convinced me I had found the greatest cure on earth." They're a godsend to weak, sickly rundown or old people. Try them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son, the druggists.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, county of Lenawee, ss. Probate court for said county.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on the 15th day of May, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

Present, Hon. Harry L. Larwill, judge of probate.

In the matter of the estate of ELWOOD COMFORT, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Albert A. Comfort, executor upon the estate of said deceased, alleging that the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased, and the expenses of administration thus far incurred, have been fully paid, and praying that his third administration account may be allowed, and for such other order and decree as to this Court shall seem proper.

It is ordered that Monday, the 14th day of June next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition.

And it is further ordered, that a copy of this order be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

HARRY L. LARWILL,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

Lesperance is Alive.

Bay City, Mich., May 27.—It has been learned here that Frank Lesperance, the former Bay City man who was reported killed in a Canadian gold mine, is alive and well in Idaho. His alleged death, it is now claimed, was a scheme on the part of another person than himself to collect life insurance. Lesperance, who is about twenty-six years old, left his home here about seven years ago.

Ex-Sheriff Arrested.

Menominee, Mich., May 27.—On a grand jury indictment containing ten counts ex-Sheriff Brown of Menominee has been arrested here accused of receiving money for the board of prisoners after they had been released. This is the second arrest growing out of the grand jury investigation.

Spectator Interfered With Flight.

North Arlington, N. J., May 27.—Captain Thomas F. Baldwin's flight in his new dirigible balloon, the main attraction of the West Hudson Aero club's carnival here, was marred last evening by the carelessness of a spectator. He seized a guide rope, causing the craft to collide with a small tree which damaged the propeller.

Situation Grows Serious.

Berlin, May 27.—A report from Larnaca, Cyprus, declares that the situation in Syria is most serious. The autonomy movement is gaining ground, with "home rule" as the watchword. The troops stationed at Damascus refuse to recognize Mehemed as sultan. The vilayet of Adana is quiet, but a general uprising is feared.

Out of Line.

An enlisted man at the post at Fort Leavenworth was ordered to the range for the first time for target drill. Out of twenty-one chances the newcomer made never a hit.

"Oh, you dub!" exclaimed an officer standing near. "You've missed the target every time! What's the matter?"

"Well, sir," answered the recruit nonchalantly, "the only reason I can think of at present is that the person who set up my target hasn't placed it in a straight line from here."

Modern Buildings.

Probably not one out of every 10,000 buildings standing in all parts of the world and built by modern masons will be standing 500 years hence. We do not know how to put stones and bricks together as the ancients did, and consequently the buildings we raise nowadays are really mere temporary structures and will be in ruins when the ancient buildings of Greece and Egypt, built thousands of years ago, are in as good condition as they are now.

Paradoxical.

Reporter—What do you mean by saying that I use "paradoxical expressions?" Editor—I mean that you say impossible things. This story of yours, for instance, contains the phrase "bagpipe music."—Cleveland Leader.

Packing a Trunk.

"My dear, I cannot get any more things in, and yet everything in the trunk is absolutely indispensable."

"Yes, but the question is, 'Which of the absolutely indispensable things can we do without?'"

Bees that have honey in their mouths have stings in their tails.—Scottish Proverb.

The Foolish Railroads.

The stage fare from Huntsville to Glasgow—twenty-five miles—was $1.50. This stage carried the mail, and it had to go. When the roads were so muddy horses could not pull the stage a double yoke of oxen took their places. It was slow traveling, but they got through. The steamboat fare from Glasgow to St. Louis in the early fifties was $7. That included stateroom and meals, and if the boat was held up a week or two on a sand bar the accommodations went on without extra charge. The steamboat owners never believed the railroads could successfully compete with them. The way they looked at it people wouldn't be willing to travel 100 or 200 miles tied down to one seat in a small car when they might be enjoying the freedom of a big and handsomely furnished boat. "Then how are they going to find room for an orchestra and a dance?" an old river captain wanted to know. "No place to eat or drink; no room to move about; just sit still all day long on a little wooden bench. Why, it's downright foolishness!"—Macon Republican.

The Eye on the Red Flag.

There are many odd bits of bunting unfolded to the breeze in New York harbor, but the oddest of all perhaps is the ensign that flutters from the staff of a little craft that rounds the Battery sea wall promptly at noon every day and then disappears up the North river. It is a triangular flag with a flaming red background, from which stands out in bold relief a great cyclopean eye. Inside the pilothouse is a man in blue coat and brass buttons, who views the water front and passing craft through a long telescope. This is the supervisor of the harbor. His duties are to see that the regulations are observed in the East river, the upper bay and the Hudson river, that the channels are kept free of obstructions and that the city's docks and ferries are being looked after as they should be. As soon as he steps on board his vessel the unique ensign is raised. It signifies to all nautical folk: "I've got my eye on you. Watch out!"—New York Sun.

Some Handicaps.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.

"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent. "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and, to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you. Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it. Do you frequent the race tracks?"

"I never saw a horse race in my life, sir."

"Um-m-m! Play cards for money?"

"Emphatically no, sir."

"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped. My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job—why, God bless you both!"—Washington Post.

Woman's Work.

After dinner the other evening Mr. and Mrs. Brown started to speak of their respective duties, and soon an argument as to whether the husband or the wife had the hardest work to perform was in full swing. First Brown warbled and then wifey sang.

"A wife," argued the good lady, "has to cook, wash dishes, clothe the kids, scrub the floors, sweep the house, make the beds, build the fires, carry up coal, nail slats on the back fence, dig"—

"Is that all?" sarcastically interrupted Mr. Brown.

"No," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Brown. "In addition to those duties every wife has to keep her husband from making a fool of himself."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Anchored Him.

"I was at a reception with a certain young lady the other night," said a man who always tells the truth, "and her father was there too. He doesn't think much of me, and he followed us about from room to room—wouldn't let us get out of his sight for a minute. Well, I knew the old man was an awful tight wad, so I thought up a scheme. I carelessly dropped a half dollar on the floor while he was looking. He moved over and put his foot on it and never stirred until the party broke up. Meanwhile daughter and I beat it and enjoyed ourselves."—Cleveland Leader.

Saving Cuff Addresses.

Folded up with the laundry bill was another slip of paper, on which were several lines of fine writing.

"What is this?" asked the new customer.

"Those are the addresses we copied off your cuffs," said the clerk. "We always make a record of the addresses we find on cuffs and return them with the laundry, so if our customers have not put them down any place else they won't be lost."—New York Press.

Eat What
You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

VETERANS SHARE DAY WITH SPORT

Athletic Contests Vie With Memorial Ceremonies.

USUAL PARADES ARE HELD

New York, Chicago and State Cities Pay Honor to Soldiers' Memories Before Turning Out to Witness Peaceable Strivings — Work Horse Parade Draws Crowd in New York.

Although the spirit of Memorial day, honoring the memory of the men "who died that the nation might live," prevailed in the north today and there were military and civic demonstrations of regard for those who fell in the great struggle, the day had to yield some of its solemnity to the modern cult of outdoor sport. Orations telling of the heroic fighters of old are interrupted nowadays by the crack of the peaceful pistol setting off runners or oarsmen or other athletic contestants, in less earnest strife. The time honored processions of the dwindling ranks of the old vets, re-enforced by the newer veterans of the war with Spain and the younger men of the army and militia, marched again down the streets of our villages and cities and towns, to be followed by the scantily clad athletes who compete, not for the glories of war, but for the prizes of sport. The wreaths covering soldiers' graves mingle with the laurels of the victors in the games.

Chief among today's sporting events are the automobile hill climb up Giant's Despair mountain, near Wilkesbarre, Pa.; the similar event at Bridgeport, Conn.; the annual Harvard-Cornell boat race on Lake Cayuga, N. Y., and the balloon race at St. Louis.

More fittingly honoring the spirit of the day are the closing for the day of the sessions of the United States supreme court and the parades in New York, Chicago and other cities. An annual feature of Memorial day in New York city is the parade of the work horses.

MICHIGAN HONORS DEAD.

Cities and Towns of State Hold Appropriate Exercises.

Detroit, Mich., May 31.—Detroit and Michigan was not wanting in public respect paid to the memory of the dead veterans.

The observances in the city began at the Wayne pavilion, when, after an elaborate program, flowers were strewn on the waters in tribute to those who perished at sea. The street parade took place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and in the evening exercises will be held in the armory.

Dispatches from the many other cities and towns of the state tell of similar exercises.

PARADES IN NEW YORK.

Soldiers Share Public Attention With Procession of Work Horses.

New York, May 31.—Several parades of soldiers, one in each borough, and the annual Memorial day parade of work horses engaged the attention of New York today.

Regular troops were detailed by Major General Leonard Wood to take part in the Memorial day parades in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn.

The annual parade of work horses took place in Madison square. Prizes were awarded to owners of the horses giving evidence of the best care and most kindly treatment. For drivers there were prizes varying in amounts from $25 to $2.50, to the men taking part in the parade who were able to show the longest terms of continuous service under the same employers. A large crowd saw the parade.

The principal local sporting event of the day, besides the baseball game, is the Harlem river regatta over the speedway course.

AUTO MOUNTAIN CLIMB.

Motor Enthusiasts Flock to Wilkesbarre to Witness Contest.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 31.—Thousands of enthusiastic motorists have assembled here to witness today the local automobile club's annual hill climb up Giant's Despair mountain.

On the entry list are the greatest number of cars the club has ever had, and among the entries are some of the classiest machines and drivers to be found in the country.

Giant's Despair is a mountain well named. As a hill it is the terror of the east. It is situated right in the heart of Wyoming valley and rises to an altitude of 690.6 feet in its one and one-sixth mile course. The grades vary, and its ideal feature as an automobile testing ground lies in the fact that the grade is steepest at the summit, where it reaches a pitch of 22 per cent. The slope has its share of sharp curves, of which Devil's Elbow is the star. Following this comes an "S" bend calculated to stall more than one motor.

HONOR FOR MEN OF GETTYSBURG

President Dedicates Monument to Regulars.

ONLY ONE ON THE FIELD

Memorials of States to Their Fallen Soldiers Receive Formal Addition by the Nation—Daughter of President Unveils the Shaft—Veterans and Army Men in Large Numbers on Historic Pennsylvania Ground.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 1.—Standing near the spot where Lincoln declared that the men who perished at Gettysburg had not died in vain, his successor in office, William H. Taft, today dedicated a monument to the men of the regular army who died that the nation might live.

The monument at Gettsburg, which was unveiled by Miss Helen Taft, the daughter of the president, is the first to be erected to the memory of the Gettysburg martyrs of the regular organization. Practically all of the states whose sons fought in the battle erected monuments to them on the field which marked the "high tide of the rebellion" long ago. Congress waited forty years to honor the men who represented all the north without distinction of state.

War Department in Charge.

The matter of the dedication of the monument has been in the keeping of the war department, and one of the speakers at today's dedication was Secretary of War Dickinson. A special committee consisting of Assistant Secretary Oliver, Lieutenant General John C. Bates, retired; General J. F. Bell, chief of staff, and Colonel Nicholson, representing the Gettysburg national park commission, has had charge of the monument.

GETTYSBURG MONUMENT.

The inscription on the four sides of the monument give details of the losses of the regular artillery, cavalry and infantry in the battle and declare that it was "erected by the congress to commemorate the services of that portion of the Army of the Potomoc composed of cavalry, artillery, infantry and engineers of the regular army of the United States in the Gettysburg campaign, June-July, 1863." The monument is a beautiful shaft eighty-five feet high, surrounded at the base by a broad granite terrace. It stands a short distance south of high water mark of battle.

Efforts had been made to secure the attendance at Gettysburg of as many survivors of the battle as possible, and several of the leading men who helped to make history in and near the little Pennsylvania town were present.

Battlefield Graves Decorated.

Pilgrimages are being made to the prominent monuments, which have been adorned with flowers and wreaths. Memorial day is always a great time at Gettysbury, but this year the visit of the president and the army officials and veterans adds much to the solemnity and dignity of the day.

Orders had been issued for the attendance of about 2,000 soldiers of the regular army, including a squadron of the Fifteenth cavalry, at Fort Myer, Va.; a battalion of the Third field artillery, at Fort Myer; the Fifth regiment of infantry, at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y.; four companies of coast artillery from the artillery district of the Potomac, band and four companies of the coast artillery from the artillery district of Delaware and five companies of coast artillery from the artillery district of Baltimore.

OVER THIRTY MEET DEATH

Tornado Wrecks Village of Zephyr, Texas.

FIFTY HOUSES DEMOLISHED

Lightning Sets Fire to Lumber Yard, Adding to Awfulness of Catastrophe. Hillsides Strewn With Wreckage Intermingled With Bodies of Animals and Human Beings.

Brownwood, Tex., May 31.—A tornado wrecked Zephyr, a village in Brown county, early in the day, killing more than thirty persons, seriously wounding fifty and hurting a score of others. Extreme darkness made the catastrophe awful.

The storm formed half a mile southwest of Zephyr and swept down upon the village, cutting a wide swath directly through the residence and business quarters.

Nearly fifty houses were demolished. Lightning struck a lumber yard and started a fire which destroyed an entire business block. No effort was made to fight the fire, as the care of the dead and wounded demanded all attention. A section hand pumped a hand car to Brownwood and spread the alarm. In two hours the Santa Fe railroad was speeding a special train to Zephyr with nine surgeons and a score of Brownwood citizens.

Hundreds of persons in the country around Zephyr saved themselves by taking refuge in storm cellars.

The big stone school building and two churches at Zephyr were razed.

Brownwood later hurried a second relief train to the town, loaded with provisions, clothing and necessary articles, and forty nurses.

Three persons are still unaccounted for.

Two children were found dead two miles from Zephyr, having been blown that distance.

When the first relief party reached Zephyr a desolate scene awaited. The hillsides at Zephyr were covered with debris of all kinds intermingled with bodies of animals and human beings. Human bodies were found twisted about trees and distorted in every conceivable shape. Survivors, mad with grief and terror, walked the streets almost naked crying for lost relatives.

MANGLED BODY ON TRACK.

Lads Going Fishing Make a Gruesome Discovery.

Pontiac, Mich., May 31.—Two boys, Edward Hancock and Sanford Umphries, were on their way to fishing pond when they came across the badly mangled body of a man who later proved to be W. W. Colyer, a laborer, in the middle of the tracks. He had been killed during the night. His identity was established when the Detroit office of an insurance company, whose name was printed on a receipt found in the man's pocket, was asked regarding the paper.

Colyer had been working at the farm of Irving King, near here, but little was known of him.

He was about forty years old and had evidently been drinking, as a broken whisky bottle was found on him.

TRAIN KILLS MAN.

Struck Arthur Mendall of Saginaw at Street Crossing.

Saginaw, Mich., May 31.—Arthur R. Mendell was struck and instantly killed by an incoming Detroit train due here at 12:23 in the morning, at the Part street crossing of the Michigan Central railroad.

Just how the accident happened is unknown, except that the engineer saw Mendell just as he was struck. Mendell was unmarried.

An inquest will be held.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

William G. Tatman, employed at the fruit packing factory at Eau Claire, was caught in a running belt. His arm was broken, and he received other injuries.

That the anti-free lunch law passed by the legislature will not be obeyed without a struggle is evident from action taken by Muskegon saloonkeepers, who have started a fund to test the constitutionality of the law.

Norman Rice, aged twenty-four, a railway conductor, was caught between two cars in the Grand Trunk yards at Flint and was squeezed badly. His right shoulder was fractured, and it is thought he sustained internal hurts.

Fire late at night destroyed two frame buildings adjoining the Steinberg Opera House, in Traverse City, and for a time threatened to wipe out the playhouse. The damage was $15,000. Julius Steinberg owned the buildings.

STILL SEARCHING FOR CLUES

Bay City Police Fail to Develop Anything Further in Murder Case.

Bay City, Mich., May 31.—Roland Rich, the youth charged with slaying his aged and wealthy grandmother, Mrs. Christine Coryeon, on Wednesday morning, last, still occupies a cell in the county jail, and the police are scouring the city for and running down clues which may tend to solve the mystery. No new evidence has yet been reported in the hands of the investigators.

Prosecutor Hitchcock and Chief of Police Murphy state that they will not give up the theory that the grandson is guilty until every tangible bit of evidence is thoroughly sifted.

The examination of the prisoner will be resumed Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

FOUR DROWN IN THE STATE

Sunday Day of Accidents on the Water.

Saginaw, Mich., May 1.—Two persons went to their death in the river here Sunday. Both were accidental.

Fred Schultz, fifteen years old, was in a canoe, with four companions, when the craft overturned. The other lads tried to reach their drowning chum, but he sank to the bottom before they could render aid. Young Schultz had an aged and crippled father; his mother is in ill health, and he was the sole support of the family. The parents are almost prostrated.

While in the act of getting a pail of water from the deck of a houseboat on which he, with three companions, had spent the night Fred Boehlke, aged thirty-five, and single, missed his footing and fell into the water. His friends were still in bed and did not hear his cries. The attention of two men ashore was attracted, but by the time they arrived Boehlke had gone down for the last time.

Ypsilanti, Mich., May 31.—Lotus Sleeper, aged seventeen, son of Mrs. Mary Sleeper of this city, was drowned, and Alfred Augustus, aged nineteen, his companion, narrowly escaped a like fate when the canoe in which the boys were riding in the Huron river Sunday struck a half submerged log and sank. The two lads had been paddling about the river only for a short time when the accident occurred. Sleeper sank to the bottom with the frail craft, while Augustus fought to keep himself above water until fishermen who happened along shore came to his assistance and pulled him out.

Averill, Mich., May 31.—Earl Briggs, seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Briggs, went swimming in the river with two other boys. In some manner a boy named Bowlton went under the water, and Briggs, in trying to save him, was drowned. A large party started in search of the body and succeeded in finding it a short time later.

Just twelve years ago an uncle of the drowned lad met death in the same manner, at the same point in the river.

HIS BELONGINGS IN STREET

Eau Claire Man Kicked Out by Wife, For Drinking.

Eau Claire, Mich., May 31.—John J. Hezel, a local real estate man, returned to his home late in the day to find his belongings piled high in the street. His wife declares she will not live with him.

Hezel, according to Mrs. Hezel, is "too much on the booze." Some time ago she applied for a divorce on this account, but just as the judge was singing a decree she decided to give her husband another chance. He returned to her, and for a few weeks all went well. Last week, she alleges, he again took up his old habit, and she determined to finish the divorce job.

Hezel wandered about and was finally given shelter by a neighbor.

LAST TIME IN JAIL.

Flint Man Drowns Himself After Being Liberated.

Flint, Mich., May 1.—"You will never get a chance to turn the key of this place on me again," remarked Louis Cupp, thirty-eight years old, to one of the officials at the county jail last Tuesday, on his release after serving a thirty day sentence for stealing tools from a local factory where he was employed as a machinist. Cupp smiled as he left, and no more was thought of the remark.

Sunday his body was found floating in the tailrace at the rear of the Grand Trunk railway station, by two boys.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

Copyright, 1908, by Harper & Brothers

"'It's all for the little girl' she cried. 'More than her life depends upon it. We must get her away from him.'

"She saw it was her only course and went where her heart was calling."

The lieutenant met the look of appeal in the trader's eyes and nodded to imply his complete understanding and approval.

"We love some women for their goodness, others we love for their fruitness, but there never was one who combined the two like her, and now that I knew she loved me I began to believe again there was a God somewhere. I'd never seen the youngster, so she led me in where it was sleeping, and I remember my boots made such a devil of a thumping on the floor that she laid her slim white finger on her lips and smiled at me. All the fingers in the world began to choke at my throat and all the blood in me commenced to pound at my heart when I looked on that little sleeping kiddie. The tears began to roll out of my eyes, and because they had been dry for four years they scalded like melted metal. That was the only time I ever wept. The sight of her baby did it.

"'I love her already,' I whispered, 'and I'll spend my life making her happy and making a lady of her,' which clinched what wavering doubt the mother had, and she began to plan quickly, the fear coming on her of a sudden that our scheme might fail. I was for riding away with both of them that night, back through the streets of Mesa and up into the hills, where I'd have held them single handed against man or devil, but she wouldn't hear of it.

"'We must go away,' she said, 'a long way from here, where the world won't find us and the little one can "Leaving the wild country behind, I came into a region I didn't know."

grow to womanhood without knowing. She must never learn who her father was or what her mother did. We will start all over, you and I and the baby, and forget. Do you love me well enough to do it?'

"I uttered a cry and took her in my arms, the arms that had ached for her all those years. Then I kissed her for the first time."

The old man tried to light his pipe, which had gone out, but his fingers shook so that he dropped the match.

"Her plan was for me to take the youngster away that night and for her to join us later, because pursuit was certain, and three could be traced where one might disappear. She would follow when the opportunity offered. I saw that he had instilled a terror into her and that she feared him like death, but as I thought it over her scheme seemed feasible, so I agreed. I was to ride west that hour with the sleeping babe and conceal myself at a place we selected, while she would say that the little one had wandered away and been lost in the canyon or anything else to throw Bennett off. After a time she would join us. Well, the little girl never waked when I took her in my arms nor when the mother broke down again and talked to me like a crazy woman.

"I traveled hard that night and swapped horses at daylight. Then, leaving the wild country behind, I came into a region I didn't know and found a Mexican woman who tended the child for me, for I was close by the place where Merridy was to come. Every night I went into the village in hopes that some word had arrived, and I waited patiently for a week. Then I got the blow. I heard it from the loafers around the little postoffice first, but it dazed me so I wouldn't believe it till I borrowed the paper and read the whole story, with the type dancing and leaping before me. It took some hours for it to seep in even after that, and for years I recalled every word of the d——d lie as if it had been branded on me with hot irons. They called it a shocking crime, the most brutal murder California had ever known, and in the headlines was my name in letters that struck me between the eyes like a hammer. Mrs. Dan Bennett had been foully murdered by me in a fit of sudden jealousy, and I had disappeared with the baby! The husband had returned unexpectedly to find her dying, so he said, but too far gone to call for help and with barely sufficient strength to tell him who did it and how! Then the paper went on with the tale of my courting her and her turning me down for Bennett. It told how I had gone off alone up into the hills, turning into a bear that nobody, man or child, could approach. It said I had brooded there all this time till the mania got uppermost and so came down to wreak my vengeance. They never even did me the credit of calling me crazy. I was a fiend incarnate, a beast without soul and a lot of things like that—and, remember, I had never harmed a living thing in all my life. However, that wasn't what hurt. What turned me into a dull, dead, suffering thing was the knowledge that she was gone. For hours I couldn't get beyond that fact. Then came the realization that Bennett had done it, for I reasoned that he had dragged a hint of the truth from her by very force of the fear he held her in and slain her. God! The awful rage that came over me! But there was nothing to do. I had sworn to guard the little one, so I couldn't take vengeance on him. I couldn't go back and prove my innocence, for that would give the child to him.

"What a night I spent! The next day I saw I had been indicted by the grand jury and was a wanted man. From a distance I watched myself become an outlaw; watched the same posse give up the search; watched public opinion rise to such a heat that posses began to scour the mountains. What I noted in particular was a statement to the effect that the sorrowing husband takes his bereavement with the quiet courage which marks a brave man." It happened that the Mexican woman couldn't read and talked little. Still, I knew they'd find me soon—it couldn't be otherwise—so I made another run for it, swearing an oath, however, before I left that I'd come back and have that gambler's heart.

"It was lucky I went, for they uncovered my sign the next day, and the country where I'd hidden blazed like a field of dry grass. They were close on my heels and they closed in from every quarter. But, pshaw, I know the woods like an Indian, and the wild things were my friends again, which would have made it play if I'd been alone, but a girl child of three was harder to manage. So I cowered and skulked day after day like a thief or the murderer they thought me, working always farther into the hidden places, traveling by night with the little one asleep on my bosom, by day playing with her in some leafy glen, with my pursuers so close behind that for weeks I never slept, and my love for the child increased daily till it became almost an insanity.

"We had close squeezes many times, but I finally won, in spite of the fact that they tracked us clear to the edge of the desert, for I had hit for the state line, knowing that Nevada was a wilderness and feeling that I'd surely lose them there. And I did. But in doing it I nearly lost Merridy. You see, the constant travel and hardship was too much for a prattling baby, and she fell sick from the heat, the dust and thirst.

"I was bound for the nearest ranch or camp where a woman could be found; but, as luck would have it, I went through without trying. I had gone farther from men and things, however, than I thought, and this return pursuit was a million times worse than the other, for I couldn't go fast enough to shake Death, who ran with his hand on my cantle or rode on my horse's rump. It was then I found Alluna. She was with a hunting party of Pah-Utes, who knew nothing of me nor of the white man's affairs and cared less, and when I saw the little squaw I rode my horse up beside her, laid the sick child in her arms, then tumbled out of the saddle. They had a harder job to pull me through than they did to save Merridy.

"The little one was playing around several days before I got back my reason. Meanwhile the party had moved north, taking us with them, and, as it happened, just missing a posse who were returning from the desert.

"When I was able to get about I told Alluna that I must be going, but as I told her I watched her face and saw the sign I wanted. The white girl had clutched at her like she had at me, and she couldn't give her up, so I made a dicker with her old man. It took all the money I had to buy that squaw, but I knew the kiddie must have a woman's care, and the three of us started out soon after alone and broke.

"Since then we three have never rested. I left them once in Idaho and went back to Mesa, riding all the way, mostly by night, but Bennett was gone. He'd run down mighty fast after Merridy died till he had a killing in his place. Instead of stopping to face it out the yellow in him rose to the surface, and he left before sunup, as I had left, making a clean get-away, too, for there was no such hullabaloo raised about killing a man as there was about—the other. So my trip was all for nothing.

"Let me in! Quick! I've got work for you to do!"

"I figured it wouldn't be right to either you or Necia to let you go it blind, and so I came in to tell you this whole thing and to give myself up."

Gale stopped, then poured himself another drink.

"To give yourself up?" echoed Burrell vaguely. "How do you mean?"

He had sat like one in a trance during the long recital, only his eyes alive.

"I'm under indictment for murder," said the trader. "I have been for fifteen years, and there's no chance in the world for me to prove my innocence."

"Have you told Necia?" the young man inquired.

"No; you'll have to do that. I never could. She might—disbelieve. What's more, you mustn't tell her yet. Wait till I give the word."

"John Gale," said the lieutenant, "you're the bravest man I ever knew and the best." He choked a bit. "You sacrificed all that life meant when this girl was a baby, and now when she has come into womanhood you give up your blood for her. By all that's great, you are a man! I want your hand!"

Then he inquired irrelevantly: "But what about Bennett, Mr. Gale? You say you never found him?"

The trader answered after a moment's hesitation, "He is still at large," at which his companion exclaimed, "I'd love to meet him in your stead!"

Gale seemed seized with a desire to speak, but even while he hesitated out of the silent night there came the sound of quick footsteps approaching briskly, as if the owner were in haste and knew whither he was bound.

"Lieutenant Burrell!" a gruff voice cried. "Let me in! Quick! I've got work for you to do! Open up! This is Ben Stark!"

CHAPTER XV.

AND A KNOT TIGHTENED.

A DAY of shattered hopes is a desolate thing, but the night of such a day is desolate indeed. In all his life Poleon Doret had never sunk to such depths of despondency, for his optimistic philosophy and his buoyant faith in the goodness of life forbade it. The arrival of the freight steamer afforded him some distraction, but there was only a small consignment for the store, and that was quickly disposed of; so, leaving the other citizens of Flambeau to wrangle over their private merchandise, he went back to his solitary vigil, which finally became so unbearable that he sought to escape his thoughts, or at least to drown them for awhile, amid the lights and life and laughter of Stark's saloon.

Runnion annoyed him with his volubility, for the news of his good fortune had fired the man with a reckless disregard for money, and he turned to gaming as the one natural recourse of his ilk.

It was shortly after midnight that Stark came into the place. Poleon was not too absorbed in his own fortunes to fail to notice the extraordinary ferocity and exhilaration of the saloon keeper nor that his face was keener, his nostrils thinner, his walk more nervous and his voice more cutting than usual when he spoke to Runnion:

"Come here!"

"I'll be with you when I finish this hand," said the player over his shoulder.

"Come here!" Stark snapped his command, and Runnion threw down his cards.

Drawing the reluctant gambler aside, Stark began to talk rapidly to him, almost within earshot of Poleon, who watched them, idly wondering what Stark had to say that could make Runnion start and act so queerly. Well, it was their affair. They made a bad pair to draw to. He knew that Runnion was the saloon keeper's lieutenant and obeyed implicitly his senior's commands. He could distinguish nothing they said, nor was he at all curious until a knot of noisy men crowded up to the bar and, forcing the two back nearer to the table where he sat, his sharp ears caught these words from Runnion's lips:

"Not with me! She'd never go with me!" And Stark's reply:

"She'll go where I send her and with anybody I tell her to."

The Frenchman lost what followed, for a newly dealt hand required study. He scanned his cards and tossed them face up before the dealer; then he overheard Runnion say:

"It's the only one in camp. He might sell it if you offered him enough." At this Stark called one of the men at the bar aside, and the three began to dicker.

"Not a cent less," the third man announced loudly. "There ain't another Peterborough in town."

Going outside, Runnion said again to Stark:

"She won't go with me, Ben. She don't like me. You see, I made love to her, and she got mad and wanted me killed."

"She'll never know who you are until it's too late to turn back," said the other, "and you are the only man I can trust to take her through. I can trust you. You owe me too much to be crooked."

"Oh, I'll act square with you! But, look here, what's all this about anyhow? Why do you want that girl? You said you didn't care for her that way. You told me so yourself. Anyway, I ain't the safest kind of a chaperon for a good looking girl."

Stark laid a cold hand on Runnion's shoulder close up to his neck.

"Never mind what I said. She's mine, and you've got to promise to be straight with her. I've trusted you before, and if you're not on the level now say so. It will save you a lot of trouble."

"Oh, all right!" exclaimed Runnion testily. "Only it looks mighty queer."

He melted into the darkness, and Stark returned to his cabin, where he paced back and forth impatiently, smiling evilly now and then, consulting his watch at frequent intervals. A black look had begun to settle on his face, but it vanished when Necia came, and he met her with a smile.

"I was afraid you had weakened," he said. "Everything is ready and waiting. I've got the only canoe in the place, a Peterborough, and hired a good oarsman to put you through, instructing him to make as fast time as he can and to board the first steamer that overtakes you. Too bad this freighter that just got in isn't going the other way. However, there's liable to be another any hour, and if one doesn't come along you'll find enough blankets and food in the skiff, so you needn't go ashore. You'll be there before you know it."

Then he led her out into the darkness, and they stumbled down to the river's bank, descending to the gravelly water's edge, where rows of clumsy hand sawed boats and poling skiffs were chafing at their painters. The up river steamer was just clearing.

Stark's low whistle was answered a hundred yards below, and they searched out a darker blot that proved to be a man's figure.

"Is everything ready?" he inquired, at which the shadow grunted unintelligibly. So, holding Necia by the arm, Stark helped her back to a seat in the stern.

"This man will take you through," he said. "You can trust him all right."

The oarsman clambered in and adjusted his sweeps; then Stark laid a

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 10 boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 25 Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 29, 1909.

The test vote taken on the income tax question in the Senate this week, is believed to foreshadow a victory for the Republican leaders in their plan to refer both the Bailey and Cummins amendments to the Judiciary Committee. The vote to defer consideration of the income tax amendments until June 10 means that no amendments to provide for special taxes will be taken up by the Senate until the schedules of the tariff bill are adopted, and it is the intention, of course, of the Finance Committee to show that the new customs duties will raise sufficient revenue to support the government and that any special tax is wholly unnecessary.

The sensational character of the dispatches sent out from Washington concerning certain defective armor plates which have been found in the construction of the battleships North Dakota and Delaware, is greatly deprecated by the officials at the Navy Department. They explain that defective plates always are and always have been found from time to time; that is not known what causes the blisters and, therefore, it has been impossible thus far to prevent their occasional occurence. It has been the custom, heretofore, merely to reject the plates when found defective, without saying anything about it, but recently the department has adopted a new policy. As nothing was to be gained by secrecy, no effort is now made to conceal the fact that such defective plates have been found and rejected, although the first information to reach the public has received wholly unwarranted prominence.

Representative Hayes has acted on the suggestion made by President Taft recently at a dinner tendered by a number of Washington business men, in introducing a resolution in the House, this week, providing for the restoration to the District of Columbia of the land which was ceded to Virginia in 1846, and which prior to that time has been a part of the District of Columbia. This land comprises many thousands of acres in Alexandria County, across the Potomac River from Washington, and is used chiefly for agricultural purposes, although the town of Alexandria is included. Mr. Hayes' resolution provides that this land be again made part of the District, except the town of Alexandria, and authorizes the President to open negotiations through the War Department and to complete the transfer by July 1, 1910 and authorizes an appropriation of $100,000 for the transaction. In his address to the business men the President expressed the opinion that the act of Congress in receding the land to Virginia was unconstitutional and that the District of Columbia should regain it. Mr. Hayes' resolution has been referred to the District of Columbia Committee and will not be acted on until the next session, but Representative Hayes believes that President Taft's interest in the plan will insure its passage.

President Taft and Secretary Knox are not a little disturbed over the reports which reach them of conditions in Cuba. It seems that the new Cuban government, is just awakening to its freedom from American restraint and is in a fair way to muddle the finances of the island if it does not precipitate a national bankruptcy. The government is devoting its energies to the indulgence of varied and numerous extravagances while making small effort to supply the treasury of the island with funds. Those familiar with Cuban affairs know that unless this epoch of extravagance is soon checked it will precipitate a situation such as to cause the foreign creditors of Cuba to turn to the United States for assistance, making necessary another assumption of autority over the island. President Taft considers the situation down there far from satisfactory and is much concerned over it.

The action of Senator Bailey in so far forgetting himself as to indulge in a fistic encounter with a Washington representative of a metropolitan daily is much censured throughout official circles, and by his conduct he has completely justified the expectations of those who have long believed that with brass knuckles and a blackjack he could down any man half his size, provided he could succeed first in hitting him from behind. This is not the first demonstration that Mr. Bailey has given of his inability to control his temper and while such outbursts are always seriously deplored by his colleagues, they injure no one but the Texan who has thereby impaired his standing almost hopelessly.

President Taft will have conferred on him, on June 8, honorary membership in the first blue lodge of Masons composed entirely of Americans in Great Britain, and the President says that on the occasion of the opening of the new lodge he will send a cable message of congratulation.

Perhaps the most noticeable feature of the June Woman's Home Companion is the wealth of fiction. There are ten stories in this issue—not heavy, psychological diagnoses of world-worn minds, but breezy stories of love and fun that are suitable to the season. Among the writers in this issue are Edward Everett Hale, Maude Radford Warren, Cyrus Townsend Brady, Marion Hamilton Carter, Mary Hastings, Ernestine Winchell, Georgia Wood Pangborn, Frederick M. Smith, Marion Hill, Annie Hamilton Donnell and Rosa Naomi Scott. The stories are illustrated by prominent artists, among whom are F. C. Yohn and John Cecil Clay.

Queer Cases of Jilt.

A well known novelist was once jilted by a girl who took exception to the inadequate punishment meted out to one of his fictitious villains. She declared that as he regarded vice with so lenient an eye he must himself be at heart a reprobate and unworthy of true love and that she must request that their acquaintance cease.

An eminent lawyer in his younger days met with a similar mishap. The lady to whom he was engaged, chancing to hear that he had delivered a most skillful though futile speech in defense of an arrant rogue, wrote, saying that she must decline to know one who could thus strive to speciously excuse crime. In return he pleaded the exigencies of the profession, but in vain. The lady was obdurate and soon afterward, by the strange irony of fate, married a man who was ultimately convicted of gross fraud, mainly through the forensic eloquence of her former lover.

Ominous.

When Julia, Mrs. Blank's maid of all work, came to her mistress and "gave notice" because she was going to be married, Mrs. Blank said:

"You know, Julia, that marriage is a pretty serious thing."

"Yes'm," replied Julia; "but not gittin' married is a more serious thing sometimes, don't you think? Anyhow, it'll be as serious for him as it is for me if we don't git along all right. But then, as you say, gittin' married is about the seriousest piece of bizness a body can engage in, an' mebbe I am a fool an' mebbe he's a bigger one. There's no tellin'. It's a turrible solemn thing, as I reckon you've found out by this time. Like enough I'll sip sorrow, but so will he. That's one comfort."—Detroit Free Press.

When There Was More of It.

An old chap with hardly a hair on his head snapped at the young barber on the completion of a hair cut:

"You are not the thorough workman your father was, my boy. He used to take a good half hour to cut my hair."

ECZEMA CURABLE! PROVEN!

Attorney at Moline, Ill., Convinced by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer, F. C. Entriken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in 30 days after 32 years of suffering.

"For 32 years," writes Attorney Entriken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and head. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result.

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again cure discovered. I am now starting all eczema sufferers on the right track."

Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch.

The Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator

built on the most sanitary principles that can be devised

appeals to all housekeepers at first glance. The reason is that it looks exactly as we say it is. It looks easily cleanable and a brief demonstration proves that it is easily cleanable. It looks cool and an explanation of its air cooling principles speedily convinces that it is cool and that it saves ice. It looks solid and durable and a careful scrutiny reveals that it is all that and more.

We guarantee the Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator to absolutely satisfy the most critical buyer. If it doesn't, we'll take it back. 25 years of refrigerator building experience have made the makers experts. No better refrigerator could be built. Please come in real soon—tomorrow say—and see how truthfully we have set forth its merits.

The Designer for June presents with its clever fiction and late fashion news a number of articles of exceptional interest. One of these is "What We Women of the World Find Out" by Mrs. Donald McLean, who has won national fame as president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Anna Sturgis Duryea writes about the "New-Found Realm of the Subconscious" and describes what is being done by mental therapeutics. Charles Frederic Goss contributes a fine essay on "Missing Opportunity" and "Vacation Camps for Boys and Girls" is a timely feature. The fiction for the month includes, "Polly of the Circus," a serial by Margaret Mayo.

THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean of Cheny, Wash. was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." For Lung Trouble, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Croup and Whooping Cough its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, the druggists.

DECORATION DAY

Services Held in the Presbyterian Church Sunday Afternoon.

ATTY. BURTON L. HART OF ADRIAN GAVE AN EXCELLENT ADDRESS.

Rain delayed the decorating of the graves until Monday.

Most notable among the characteristics of this nation is its patriotism, and its love for the heroes whose deeds have entered into its growth, prosperity and greatness. And beautiful indeed is the custom, which has set aside one day of each year to do homage to the soldier dead, and with appropriate services honor their memories, and decorate their graves with beautiful flowers.

Flowers were very plentiful this year, and as usual, the beautiful Brookside cemetery, was made very attractive. Many families whose loved ones sleep in the city of the dead, paid tribute to their memory with flowers.

There was much dissappointment caused by the rain on Sunday afternoon, but this only delayed the decorating of the graves, that being done Monday morning by several of the members of Beer's Post.

At 2 o'clock a large crowd gathered in the Presbyterian church where services were held.

Hon. Burton L. Hart of Adrian gave an excellent address. He spoke of the various wars that United States had engaged in and what they had accomplished, and also paid a beautiful tribute to the Veterans of the wars, who were present.

He said that Decoration Day was seldom fair, and that he thought it was Providence shedding tears over the fallen heroes. Atty. Hart's entire address was full of good thoughts.

SENIOR CLASS RECEPTION.

A Delightful Evening Spent at the Home of Charles Teachout.

The members of the Senior class of the Tecumseh High School delightfully entertained the members of the Junior class and the teachers at the home of Charles Teachout last Friday night.

The house was tastefully decorated, with flowers, and the colors of both classes.

A two course banquet was served, the guests, who responded to toasts, being seated at the large table. The others were served at smaller tables throughout the rooms. The place cards were handpainted, bearing an explanatory phrase, the first letter of each word being an initial of the guest.

This afforded a great deal of merriment, while seating the guests at the prettily appointed tables.

Charles Teachout acted as toastmaster and the following responded to toasts: Miss Mabel Mills, "Lucky 13"; Myrna Service, "The Boys"; Marshall Reed, "The Girls"; B. Earl Smith, "Spring Fever"; Lynne Rogers, "Athletics."

At the close of the program a social time was enjoyed, before the guests departed, all voting that the evening was one of the pleasantest in the history of the class.

Leading place is given in the June Century to a curious piece of fiction, called "With the Coin of Her Life," the first of three stories turning on the popular superstition of thirteen at table. The authorship of these stories is not now announced, further than to say that Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, Owen Wister and Margaret Deland are the contributors to this symposium—which was suggested by a private discussion of the influence of point of view on human judgements. The stories were written without any one of the three having knowledge of the plots to be worked out by the other two. Among the other notable contributors to the fiction of the number will be found "Aunt Amity's Silver Wedding," a delightfully humorous story by Ruth McEnery Stuart. Among the pictorial features of the number are eight illustrated pages of "Old College Songs," relating to West Point and Annapolis, by John Wolcott Adams and the color frontispiece, a charming portrait by Wm. M. Chase

NEW GASOLINE RED CAN LAW

It Goes into Effort on September First Next.

Dealers as well as consumers must have red tanks.

State Oil Inspector Neal calls the public's attention to a few changes made by the present legislature in the so called "Red Can" Gasoline act. The new law, which goes into effect September 1st next, provides that cans, buckets, barrels, etc., which are to be painted a bright red, may be "lettered" with the word gasoline instead of being "stenciled" as heretofore. It also provides that retail merchants must have the barrels or tanks in their stores, from which they sell painted bright red and lettered thereon with the word gasoline.

The delivery to consumers, and to dealers as well, must be made in receptacles (cans, buckets, jugs, barrels or whatever the delivery is made in) that are painted bright red and lettered

The tanks or cans on peddlers wagons must be painted and lettered and the tank wagons of wholesalers must be labeled if containing gasoline

The person who purchases gasoline lays himself liable to a fine if he has it in anything but the proper red can. For cleaning purposes gasoline can only be sold in bottles, properly labeled, and not more than one quart in quantity.

FIRST MATINEE

Tecumseh Driving Club Will Give Their First Matinee.

AT THE BILLS RACE TRACK ON TUESDAY, JUNE 8.

Three good races, beginning at 1:30.

The Tecumseh Driving Club will give the first matinee of the season at the race tracks on Tuesday, June 8, 1909. Beginning at 1:30 o'clock sharp standard time. Three good races and lots of fun in each race.

Class A. Free for all trot or pace. In this class we expect such horses to start as Tony B., Henry C. Smith, Just Right, Billie Foster, Belle Sutton and others.

Class B. We expect such horses to start as Chines Boy, Bob. S. Tommie Mac, Deerfield Girl, Winnie Wilks and others.

Class C. Such horses as Manota L. Flirt, Farrie Medium, McCann Boy, Tom Pugh, Cashier Lady Strongwood, Lady Douglas and others.

All half mile heats—Three in five. Four good prizes in each race. The track has been in put in fine condition and is very fast this spring.

Horses coming from a distance will be taken care of.

As we wish to get some money for the horsemen we will charge a general admission of 10 cents to everyone.

Take an afternoon off and enjoy the races.

GREAT CROWDS AT CIRCUS.

Many People Here Plan to See Barnum and Bailey at Jackson.

Tecumseh will be well represented at Jackson on Friday, June 18, when the Barnum & Bailey greatest show on earth exhibits there on that date, for a great many of our citizens have already expressed themselves as having made up their minds to attend. A glance at the list of wonders to be seen with this big show would lead one to believe that the limit in tremendous size as well as number of novelties to be seen has finally been reached. Barnum & Bailey present this year under their city of 14 acres of tents, more things new than have been offered by all other shows in in years. "Jupiter, the balloon horse," Karelly's troupe of 16 Hungarian coal black stallions, the musical elephants, celebrated Konyot troupe of equestrians seven troupes of foreign acrobats, four troupes of aerialists and hundreds of other arenic novelties all go to complete a circus performance that has never been equalled. The big menagerie has been augmented by the addition of many new strange beasts and is larger than all the zoological gardens in this country combined. The street parade so gorgeous and so tremendous in size, beggars description and in all is a fair index to the wonderful performances that follow.

DYSPEPSIA IN TECUMSEH

Many are Being Cured by Mi-o-na, the Guaranteed Remedy.

"I have had a severe trouble from bowel and stomach complaint. Procuring Mi-o-na, I used it a few weeks and with good success. Since using this remedy I have not been obliged to use a cathartic, and the stomach and bowels work normally. Mi-o-na has my endorsement." C. E. Williamson, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 15, 1908.

If reports are authentic, people of Tecumseh, who suffer from dyspepsia and other stomach troubles are getting tired of taking preparations containing pepsin, because pepsin simply digests the food artificially. Pepsin relieves, it never cures—the principle is wrong, the cart is before the horse.

And remember, pepsin only digests animal food; it has no effect on starchy food, such as potatoes, rice, catmeal, bread, etc.

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach disorders, trivial or serious, and that is to tone up and put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix the food with the natural digestive juices of the stomach.

That is just what Mi-o-na tablets do. They quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction, and in a few days it is able to do its work easily and without exertion.

Mi-o-na only costs 50c. a large box, and is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, to cure dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and stomach sickness resulting from over indulgence of the night before, or money back.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Three New Hats.

Milliners have other troubles besides the frequent difficulty of collecting bills. One milliner tells of a letter she received from the wife of a man who in a brief time had advanced from poverty to great wealth. His family was still in obscurity, but was preparing to emerge.

"I want you should make a bonnet and two hats right off," wrote the wife, "for me and the girls, and expense is no account.

"My measure is nearly twelve inches from ear to ear over the head and eight under chin and six from top of forard to back hair, and that's near enuff for both the girls.

"I'm sandy, Jane is dark, and Lucy's got red hair. We want lively colors, and I want blue flowers and strings on mine, besides some plooms.

"Jane wants hers green, and Lucy wants pink. We don't care what shapes, but they must be becoming and so as they won't blow to peaces in the wind. Nor we don't want them loud, for my husband won't hear to such.

"Please send within five days, and if satisfatory bill will be paid at once."—Youth's Companion.

Curly Hair Means Obstinacy.

The curly headed man uttered an exclamation of maze.

"Strange," he said, "I have been drawn for juries time and again, but I have never served. They always challenge me. I wonder why?"

"It is your curly hair," said a lawyer. "A curly headed man kills a jury. He always causes it to disagree."

"That is not true. You must be crazy," said the other.

"It is the gospel truth," the lawyer persisted. "Curly heads are as obstinate as mules. They think they know it all. They disagree with everybody.

"It is because," he hastened to add, "their curly hair makes them so good looking. In childhood they are spoiled by their parents, and in maturity women spoil them, falling in love with them on every side. So they become conceited. They disagree with everybody. Lawyers the world over recognize that as jurymen they would never do."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Had an Answer.

This story is being told on a Swede in central Kansas who was given to excessive use of the bottle. He was working at a certain house, doing odd jobs, and the daughter of the house knew of his reprehensible habits. She thought it time for some one to remonstrate with him on the error of his ways.

"Why," she asked, "are you not ashamed to spend all your wages and make your wife take in washing? Why don't you give her some money?"

"Well," he answered, "I have an income besides my wages."

"Oh, is that so?" said the daughter, somewhat mollified.

"Yes," he said, "I have an income from the queen of Sweden."

"What for?" asked the girl.

"For minding my own business," answered the Swede, going on with his work.—Kansas City Journal.

The Troubles of a French Academician.

The candidate, once elected, is bound to pronounce a harangue before he is allowed to take part in the work of the noble body. The director who happens to be in office answers him. This oration is invariably, or at least should be, composed first of thanks, more or less humble, for the great honor conferred, then of a panegyric of the happy one's predecessor. And, oh, how difficult that sometimes must be! More than one has rushed to the encyclopedia, then to the libraries, so as to get some clear notion of the illustrious eximmortal! Then fate is often ironical. A historian may have to celebrate the talent of a writer of light comedies, a legitimist may have to praise a Socialist, or else the newly elected member may have to speak of his most intimate enemy.—Jeanne Mairet in Atlantic.

Ancient Derricks.

Probably the oldest derricks still in use are the two built at Trier, in Germany, in the year 1413 and the one built in 1554 at Andernach, also in Germany. All these three derricks are built on the same principle. In the middle of a massive A frame tower is located the swinging or main boom, 20 by 20 inches, whose iron pivot moves in a pan shaped bearing cup. On top are fastened the guy ropes and the cap, which is also movable. The derrick can be moved by crossbars fastened to the main boom. The load is chain lifted by tread wheels sixteen feet in diameter.

Wagner to the Musicians.

Wagner's little admonition to the musicians was most characteristic and worthy to be noted by many an orchestra of this day. "Gentlemen," he said, "I beg of you not to take my fortissimo too seriously. Where you see 'ff' make an 'fp' of it, and for piano play pianissimo. Remember how many of you there are down there against the one poor single human throat up here alone on the stage."—Neumann's "Personal Recollections."

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such. Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood, give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

There Was Something Doing.

In a barber's shop the other day I saw a man for whom I felt sorry—not that he needed my sympathy from the standpoint of charity, for he was a well to do man, having many business affairs, but I felt sorry for him because of what he was doing. A barber was cutting his hair. He was having his left hand manicured. In his right hand he held a newspaper. He was smoking a cigar, and a porter was shining his shoes. There he sat reading a newspaper. Three persons were busy waiting on him, doing their best to please him, and he was oblivious to the joy which his opportunity afforded him.—Fort Worth Star.

What's In a Name.

Talking of names, what's in them? A good lot sometimes. We knew a girl named Rose once. She was a daughter of old Rose, and he, being a little romantic, christened her Wild. Certainly Wild Rose is a pretty name. But, alas, the old man was not farseeing! She married a man named Bull. Then, again, we happen to know a carpenter named Pierrotezic Zrnchzirowskelowski. Now, whenever a fellow workman saws down on a nail this chap always sings out, "What is it?" He thinks they are calling him.

Yes, there's a good deal in a name.—London Scraps.

The hard looking customer had been arrested for stealing an umbrella.

"What have you to say for yourself?" asked the police justice. "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I'm one o' the guilty ones, y'r honor, I reckon," answered the prisoner. "The umbrella had the name of J. Thompson on the handle, G. H. Brickley stamped on the inside o' the cover, an' I stole it from a man named Quimby."—Chicago Tribune.

SEIZED THE PRESIDENT.

Peru's Troops Are Loyal and Compel Rebels to Surrender Him.

Lima, Peru, May 31.—Exciting events have taken place. Bands of revolutionists attacked the palace and seized President Leguia, only to be charged by the government troops and compelled to liberate the president. Order is now completely re-established.

President Leguia has issued a proclamation, thanking the people for their refusal to support the revolutionary movement.

ZEPPELIN BREAKS HIS LONG RECORD

Drives Airship to Bitterfield and Is on Way Back.

Berlin, May 31.—Count Zeppelin, whose remarkable performances in his first airship brought unbounded honor to the inventor, has just accomplished the most striking feat in his career. Sunday he guided his Zeppelin II. from Friedrichshafen to Bitterfeld, a distance of more than 456 miles, without landing. The journey lasted nearly twentw-two hours.

So far as known now, Count Zeppelin is still in the air, on the return journey to Freidrichshafen. He has already beaten all records for dirigible balloons, with the opportunity of greatly improving the performance.

It was announced, and widely distributed in special editions of the newspapers, that the count would come to Berlin and land at the Tempelhof parade ground. Hundreds of thousands gathered there Sunday afternoon. The emperor and empress, several of the princes and the leading military officials and officers were present, and towards evening searchlights were set to work in anticipation of the approach of the airship. Soldiers kept an enormous space clear until 10:30 o'clock at night, when a dispatch from Bitterfeld announced that the airship was returning to the starting point, at Friedrichshafen, which caused the most intense disappointment.

Count Zeppelin, who personally was in charge of the airship and whose hand was on the tiller during the greater part of the journey, had not allowed a word to be made public relative to his intention to undertake an endurance trip. It was, however, common knowledge that he proposed to seize the first favorable opportunity to proceed to Berlin in his newest craft, Zeppelin II., which was built to replace the one destroyed near Echterdingen last year.

The airship was cheered as it sailed over the different towns along the route. In some places the crew performed maneuvers over the places.

The voyage began under rather unfavorable conditions. There was a lowering sky, rain clouds and a strong side wind. But later conditions improved.

PACKING ANIMAL SKINS.

Roosevelt Delays His Departure From Nairobi.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 31.—Former President Roosevelt attended church here Sunday morning, and in the afternoon he visited the Catholic mission.

Mr. Roosevelt has delayed his departure for Kijabo, forty-four miles north of Nairobi, until June 3, because many of the skins of animals shot by his party have not yet been packed.

"Brooks," asked Rivers, "do you know what will cure a wart?"

"I never heard of a wart being sick," said Brooks, without looking up from his writing.

An Indigestion Remedy Free

Many people who are otherwise healthy suffer from indigestion, or dyspepsia. When you consider that the stomach and allied digestive organs are the most important organs of the body, it would seem that a disorder there is to be taken very seriously.

Dyspeptics cannot eat the things they like; food sours in the stomach; then chronic constipation begins, or, as is often the case, you have been constipated all along and the stools are forced and irregular.

But there is no use letting indigestion go until it becomes chronic and undermines your health. It is good advice to suggest to you that you go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the wonderful cure for stomach, liver and bowel troubles. That is what C. Fowler, of Carson City, Mich., did and he is well today. Others who did the same and are cured are Ida A. Fortune, of Grand Junction, Tenn., B. F. Thompson, of Shenandoah, Ia., who actually considers that it saved his life. You can obtain a 50-cent or $1 bottle of the druggist, and, taken according to directions, it will probably be all you need. It is a liquid, acts gently, never griping, and besides the laxative effect, contains exceptional tonic properties which tone the stomach, and that is what is especially needed in indigestion.

All sufferers from indigestion who have never tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can obtain a free test bottle by writing the doctor. It will be sent direct to your home without any charge. In this way thousands have proven to their own satisfaction Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the very remedy they needed to cure indigestion. When once you use this grand remedy you will throw violent cathartics, tablets, salts, etc., away.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

ARRIVED TOO LATE.

Parents Hasten Home From West, Only to Find Son-in-Law Dead.

Ithaca, Mich., May 31.—Informed of the sudden and critical illness of their son-in-law, Dr. D. G. Colwell, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barstow of this place have arrived home from Colorado, two days too late to see the former alive. Mr. and Mrs. Barstow went west several weeks ago, leaving their son-in-law in apparently good health.

Dr. Colwell was taken ill soon after their departure, but because his condition was not thought serious word was not sent to the couple. They learned of his death while enroute home.

BOTH SUN AND MOON

Will Undergo Eclipses During Month of June.

Washington, May 31.—Two interesting spectacles in the astronomical world will occur during the coming months. These events will be eclipses of the moon and the sun, the former on June 3 and the latter on June 17. The moon will rise totally eclipsed and its totality will last about an hour, while the sun will only be in totality near the north pole.

Did Not Drown Himself.

Flint, Mich., May 31.—Cosmo Calkins, the sixteen-year-old boy who was thought to have drowned himself in the Flint river, is alive at the house of his grandmother in Lansing. He claims to know nothing about the note found on a tree on the bank of the river stating that he was about to end his life.

Darting in front of an automobile owned by Peter Drummond, George Davis, eleven years old, of Saginaw, had both legs broken. The lad, while playing on the street, endeavored to pass in front of the machine, but was struck by the lamp, thrown to the pavement and run over. The machine was driven by Carl G. Lilliesterma of Saginaw.

First of the Swifts.

Gustavus Franklin Swift, the first of this commercial dynasty, was a Cape Cod Yankee, who bought a steer now and then and peddled the meat from the back of a certain gocart which has since become famous. He moved to Albany and went deeper into meats, discarding one after another partners who had not the foresight and daring which he possessed. He located in Chicago at the beginning of those days of great possibilities in bringing into touch the new west and the older east. It was he who invented the first refrigerator cars. This was the one revolutionary act which put his sons and a few other sons in very fair control of half of the meat of America. He saw the market for dressed beef extended only after the hardest of fights. All great revolutions are fought against. All the rest, all England, all Europe, fought the idea of dressed beef and then accepted it. I doubt if we could do without it now.—Cosmopolitan Magazine.

A Voice From the "Gods."

In a certain theater which makes a specialty of melodrama there is a large following of gallery "gods," and very naturally the "sky" assemblage is composed of knowing critics, who are loud in their demands to be pleased. Woe unto the actor who is unfortunate enough to incur their displeasure!

Recently a play with a hair raising plot was put on the boards. The hero was evidently new to his part, for he fumbled his lines badly and spoke in a faltering tone. Perhaps it was for this reason that he did not meet with the sympathy of the gallery.

Just before the crisis of the play the hero clasped his sweetheart in his arms and said:

"Keep a brave heart, my darling. The worst is yet to come."

Whereupon a voice that had no doubt received its training in crying "Extry!" on the street yelled out:

"What are y' goin' t' do, mister—sing?"—London Tit-Bits.

Man Eating Lions.

Of African lions Miss Kirkland in her book on Africa writes: "As a rule, it is only old lions which attack human beings. They grow too decrepit to be able to catch the more agile antelopes, which are their lawful prey; so, goaded by a hunger which age cannot wither or lessen, they pounce on unwary mortals."

Respectability.

Max O'Rell was once staying with a friend at Edinburgh. Starting for a walk on Sunday, he took up his walking stick. "Do you mind taking an umbrella?" asked his conscientious host. "It looks more respectable."

Parental Prejudice.

"But why didn't you consult your father and me before you were married?"

"Because, mamma, I was afraid you might prejudice me against him."—Life.

Why They Moved.

The Bingses, mother and daughter, had long outstayed their welcome at their country friend's house. Moreover, they evinced no sign of going away nor did the mother seem to be in any way affected by the strong hints to go which the overtaxed hostess threw out from time to time. Finally, forbearance exhausted, the entertainer decided to reach the mother through her daughter. So one day, calling the little visitor to her, she said, "Maimie, when do you expect to go home?"

"Oh, I'm sure I don't know," was the careless reply. "We've several other places to stop at yet."

"Well, when do you go on to the next place?"

"Can't even tell that. Mamma says it's immaterial to her just when she'll leave here."

"But, my dear child," exclaimed the exasperated hostess, "doesn't your mother realize how costly living is these days?"

"Oh, yes, she knows how dear it is. That's why we left the city."

"Well, Maimie, I cannot afford to entertain visitors any longer, and I wish you'd tell your mother that at once!"

"Is that an insult?" rejoined the child, turning haughtily to the speaker.

"Why do you ask that, child?"

"Because when we're insulted we go on to the next place!"—London Weekly.

Unanswerable.

"Vicious circle" is a term often used in the medical world. An example of its psychological use applied to argument may be found in Joseph A. Scoville's book, "Old Merchants of New York City."

Tom, the son of a wealthy man, was a great favorite with all who knew him, but he heartily detested business. A merchant of New York had hired him as a bookkeeper at a high salary. Nevertheless Tom got into the habit of reaching the office later and later, until finally he got there about 2 in the afternoon. When this state of affairs had gone on for a week, the merchant remonstrated.

"But, my dear sir," returned Tom, "how can I come any earlier? I don't get my breakfast until 1."

"But get your breakfast earlier."

"How can I? I don't get up till 12."

"Then get up earlier."

"How can I," pleaded Tom, "when I don't go to bed until daylight?"

In the face of such convincing argument there was nothing to be said.

The Drill in the Pearl.

The pale, bent workmen were, most of them, drilling costly pearls, but here a man in kid gloves performed the operation of skinning—the operation of removing a pearl's outer, discolored coat, so as to give it again its original luster. And by the window another man shook industriously three pearls in a bottle.

"It is a secret of the trade—of the pearl driller's trade," he said—"this bottle shaking. You see, in pearl drilling a drill point often breaks off in a pearl, and to get it out may take a whole day's work—that is, if you don't know the secret."

He looked closely at the bottom of the glass bottle, and then, continuing his shaking, he resumed: "But if you put your pearl in a bottle and shake it up the drill point in a few minutes will fall out of itself. Look! There's another out already. The third will come soon now."—Exchange.

Lunar Rainbows.

Lunar rainbows are seldom observed in the temperate zone. Very likely the physical phenomenon occurs frequently, but is invisible because of the faintness of the moon's light. In the tropics, where moonlight is more intense, says the Scientific American, lunar rainbows are more frequently observed. They are by no means rare at Reunion island. At all places the phenomenon is most frequently seen at full moon when the moon's light is highest, but it has been seen in various phases of the moon. It was first observed by Aristotle. A lunar rainbow is produced at full moon by the spray of the great Victoria falls of the Yguassu in Brazil.

The Dot Over the "i."

The small letter "i" was formerly written without the dot. The dot was introduced in the fourteenth century to distinguish "i" from "e" in hasty and indistinct writing. The letter "i" was originally used where the letter "j" is now employed. The distinction between "i" and "j" was introduced by the Dutch printers at a comparatively recent date, and the "j" was dotted because the "i," from which it was derived, was written with a dot.

Blue Laws.

The name "blue laws" was given to the first collection of laws framed for the government of the New Haven colony. They were published in collective form in 1650, the volume being in a blue cover, which gave rise to the name that has clung to the laws ever since.

Her Chance.

"Do you," said the notary, "swear that you will tell the truth, the whole truth and"—

"Oh, how lovely!" the fair witness interrupted. "Shall I really be allowed to talk all afternoon if I want to?"

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

Two More Doctors Testify at Rich Examination.

LARGE CROWD WAS IN COURT

Men Who Put Out Fire in Mrs. Coryeons House Also on Stand—Safe in Which Old Lady Kept Valuables Opened—No Papers to Show Rowland Was Deeded a House.

Bay City, Mich., June 3.—Absolutely nothing new developed Wednesday from the testimony taken in police court in the examination of Roland Rich, charged with killing his grandmother, Mrs. Christine Coryeon. The witnesses were Doctors Scrafford and McLurg, who assisted in the postmortem, and who did not express an opinion as to whether the wounds were caused by some heavy instrument or by a fall; Charles Crampton, assistant fire chief, who testified to finding the mattress and some stuff behind a trunk ablaze, and Hackman Ries, who was called into the house to assist in putting out the fire. A large crowd listened to the testimony.

A small safe taken from Mrs. Coryson's house after her death was opened, but revealed no papers showing that she had deeded a house and lot to Roland Rich, as was supposed. The papers contained in the safe were mortgages, receipts, cancelled bank checks and certificates of stock in several sugar factories.

GUEST OF ACADEMY.

Admiral Uriu Attends Dedication of Bronze Doors at Naval Institution.

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—Vice Admiral Uriu of the Japanese navy was again the guest of honor Wednesday at the dedication to the class of '68 of the bronze doors given to the United States naval academy for the new chapel by Colonel Robert M. Thompson of New York. Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, and Baroness Takahira accompanied Baron and Baroness Uriu from Washington. There were present also a large number of distingulshed visitors from New York and Washington, many coming on special trains.

The bronze doors were designed by Miss Evelyn Beatrice Longman, who was present.

Meets Old Classmates.

Washington, June 3.—Vice Admiral Baron Sotokichi Uriu was the guest of honor at a dinner of sixty covers at the Metropolitan club here last night. This occasion was one of the most pleasurable features of the baron's visit to the United States, it being the only opportunity he has had to meet all the members of his class who had come to Washington to honor him with their presence.

The visitors came from many parts of the United States.

JOINS GREAT NORTHERN.

John F. Stevens to Be Connected With Road For Short Time.

St Paul, Minn., June 3.—President L. W. Hill of the Great Northern railway has announced that John F. Stevens, who resigned as first vice president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, would join the Great Northern for a brief time. Mr. Hill said:

"Mr. Stevens has been engaged by the Great Northern Railroad company to inspect and report on the road's water power in Montana and Washington and look into other engineering questions now up for consideration. He was engaged because he is the best man in the country to do the work and because, as he was leaving the New Haven road, he was at liberty at the right time. The work he has ahead of him will require about six weeks."

TROOPS ORDERED OUT.

Strikers in California Lumber District Making Trouble.

Sacremento, Cal., June 3.—In response to a telegram from Colonel Bradbury at McCloud, Cal., announcing that the 600 striking lumber workmen had broken into the light and power plant and forced the firemen and engineers to quit work, Governor Gillette has ordered four companies of militia to proceed to the scene at once.

The troops left Sacremento by special train to make the 350 mile journey to the heart of the Shasta lumber region.

Colonel Bradbury's telegram said that McCloud was without fire protection and light, and that property worth two million dollars, the citizens and their homes were at the mercy of the strikers, who were apparently beyond control of the leaders.

SHERMAN GOT 'EM TALKING

Made Ruling That Bacon and Others Objected To.

ON MATTER OF A QUORUM

Lafollette Maintains Question of Party Pledge Promising Revision Downwards on Tariff Couldn't Be Raised. Proposes to Show That Pending Bill Puts Duties Above Dingley Law.

Washington, June 3.—With the adoption of a resolution providing for day and night sessions aggregating ten hours daily, beginning today, the senate Wednesday heard a suggestion of a policy for limiting dilatory motions, which caused an earnest protest from Senator Bacon and others. The vice president, basing his action upon a precedent made in the last congress when the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill was under consideration, held that the absence of a quorum could not be called to the attention of the senate if the senator occupying the floor declined to yield for that purpose.

Senator Bacon declared that this was one of the revolutionary rulings made when the currency bill was under consideration and that under it there would be serious abuse of parliamentary rules. He announced his intention to obtain a full consideration of this question by the introduction of a resolution to be considered by the committee on rules.

A long speech dealing with the pledge of party leaders with respect to a revision of the tariff was begun by Senator Lafollette. By numerous quotations he maintained that no question could be raised as to the pledge of the party for a revision downward, and he declared that before he should conclude his speech he would demonstrate amply that on the whole the pending bill placed the customs duties above the rates of the Dingley law. Since the enactment of the Dingley law and until 1904, he said, the control of trusts had been extended to 8,664 plants with a capital of more than twenty billion dollars.

Senator Nelson also discussed the tariff bill.

NO STRIKE.

Michigan United Railway Has Apparently Won Over Men.

Jackson, Mich., June 3.—Information here is that there will be no strike on the M. U. R. The company has apparently won over the employes who sought to make trouble.

MOB ATTACKS CAR MEN.

Serious Rioting Takes Place in Streets of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 3.—The attempt of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company to operate its cars last night with strikebreakers resulted in serious rioting.

Mobs pulled motormen and conductors from their cars and beat them severely. One motorman was fatally injured.

President Addresses Adventists.

Washington, June 3.—President Taft has just received and addressed the North American division of the Seventh Day Adventists, who have been in session in this city. G. A. Irwin, vice president of the division, presented the president with an address prepared by the Adventists, embodying their sentiments and expressions of sympathy in his work.

STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN.

W. C. T. U. Plans to Have State Wide Prohibition by 1911.

Battle Creek, Mich., June 3.—"State wide prohibition in 1911." That is the way a huge banner which has been hung across the main business street here by the state W. C. T. U., now in convention in this city, reads, and the delegates say they are firm in the belief that this can be accomplished.

According to plans the most strenuous campaign in the history of Michigan will be waged in the next two years. The W. C. T. U. will doubtless adopt resolutions during the present session affiliating with the Anti-Saloon league of the state in the battle against liquor.

About 400 delegates are in attendance at the convention, and at least as many visitors. The reports from different committees show a very satisfactory increase, both in membership and finances, during the past year. There were 1,463 admitted to membership in the twelve months, and the treasury now has $7,000 on hand.

WARNER DIDN'T SIGN TEN BILLS

Says Many People of State Were Against Them.

Lansing, Mich., June 3.—Governor Warner has signed all but ten of the measures adopted by the last legislature. He gives as his reason for using the veto on these ten the protests of many people in the state and the advice of Attorney General Bird. The Taylor bill, in particular, providing that county superintendents of the poor should not hold the office more than two terms, was found legally and logically defective. These are the bills whch fail to become laws for lack of signature:

The Taylor bill, prohibiting county superintendents of the poor holding office more than two terms; the Taylor bill providing for the publication of 3,000 additional copies of the constitutional convention proceedings; the Morgan bill permitting the use of oleomargarine in state institutions; the White bill relieving county treasurers of personal responsibility for funds entrusted to their care; the Verdiers bill allowing garnishee of public officials only; the Watkins bill providing that the salary of state employes be paid once each month; the Fowle highway bill; the McNaughton bill to create an additional school district in Kent county; the Aitkin bill to permit small state banks to carry a cash reserve of 3 3-4 per cent instead of 7 1-2 per cent.

ARE REINSTATED.

Men Expelled From Ingersoll Camp, I. O. O. F., Get Back Privileges.

Alpena, Mich., June 3.—William H. Flynn, grand master, and General Crowe, who appealed the matter of their expulsion from Ingersoll encampment a short time since to the grand encampment, have been reinstated by the grand encampment, in session here. The appeal of General Fred Davis was not presented.

Kalamazoo Pioneer Is Dead.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 3.—Henry F. Montague, one of the oldest and most prominent pioneers of this section of the state, is dead at his home here, after a long illness. He was ninety-six years old and is survived by a sister, two sons and two daughters. Mr. Montague came to Kalamazoo when this county was almost a wilderness.

Muskegon Man Slain.

Muskegon, Mich., June 3.—That R. J. Harkema, the Muskegon man killed in St. Louis, might have been the victim of counterfeiters has developed here when it was learned that he left here in company with a stranger who flashed a big roll of money before Harkema's parents. It is thought that the inexperienced boy was used to pass the bogus money.

SUMMERS IN MICHIGN.

Vice President Sherman Rents Cottage on Grand Traverse Bay.

Traverse City, Mich., June 3.—Michigan is to be the summer residence of Vice President Sherman, this year at least.

Mr. Sherman has just rented the Thurman cottage at Neall-Ta-Wanta, on Grand Traverse bay and will soon take his family there in order that they may escape the heat of Washington.

Mitchell Moves to New York.

Spring Valley, Ill., June 3.—John Mitchell, former national president of the United Mine Workers, has left for New York with his family, consisting of his wife and three boys, where they will make their permanent home. He recently purchased a $25,000 residence in New York.

EMPERORS TO MEET.

Nicholas and William to Talk Over International Policies.

St. Petersburg, June 3.—A meeting between Emperor William and Emperor Nicholas has been arranged and will take place in the waters of the Finnish gulf. The exact date of the meeting will be decided upon later, but it probably will be June 17. The German emperor will arrive on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, while Emperor Nicholas will be aboard the Standart, accompanied by M. Iswolsky, the foreign minister, and Admiral Voevodsky, the minister of marine.

The meeting which, according to some reports, has been arranged on the initiative of Emperor Nicholas is taken to mean that Russia prefers an amicable arrangement with Germany to the doubtful issue of an antagonistic policy.

Baglin Ousted and Also Given His Liberty.

New York, June 3.—Affairs of F. Augustus Heinze and the United Copper company, which have kept the United States circuit court and the federal authorities here busy because of the disappearance of the books of the company needed by the federal grand jury to clear up loans alleged to have been made by Heinze while he was head of the Mercantile National bank during the panic of 1907, were clarified somewhat Wednesday, and yet seemingly paradoxically complicated.

George Baglin, second vice president of the United Copper, company and secretary to Heinze, who was placed in the Tombs Tuesday for contempt of court, was released late Wednesday without apparent explanation, but it is understood that this action followed his deposition from the board of directors. While no announcement to this effect was made, a meeting of the stockholders, which was held in Hoboken, resulted in the naming of a board in which Baglin's name does not appear.

F. Augustus Heinze was not present at the meeting, but a representative of his, holding a proxy for 240,000 shares, was on hand, and it is presumed, therefore, that the board is under Heinze control. It had been reported that the directors would meet to depose Heinze, but if such action was taken, it could not be confirmed.

MAYOR SITS AS JUDGE.

Commissioner Bingham's Removal Is Under Consideration.

New York, June 3.—Sitting as a magistrate in private session, Mayor McClellan this morning began a thorough investigation of charges made by Supreme Court Justice Gaynor against Police Commissioner Bingham of this city.

The case of George B. Duffy, a nineteen-year-old boy, who, Justice Gaynor complains, was repeatedly arrested by the police on baseless charges, was first taken up, and later testimony in general regarding Commissioner Bingham's conduct in office is being heard.

In his letter to the mayor, which has just been made public, Justice Ganor, in effect, asked for Commissioner Bingham's removal.

ALLEGED ROBBERS INDICTED

Many Witnesses Identify Men Who Are Held For Train Hold-up.

Omaha, Neb., June 3.—G. W. Woods, Fred Torgensen and James Gordon have been bound over to the next grand jury to answer the charge of holding up and robbing the Overland Limited mail car on the Union Pacific railroad at the city limits of Omaha on the night of May 22. Judge W. H. Munger of the United States district court fixed each man's bail at $25,000.

Twenty-two witnesses were called to identify the prisoners, and all were fairly certain that the men in the prisoners' dock were identical with those who committed the robbery.

The defense did not introduce any witnesses.

William Kennedy, aged twenty-four, of Owosso, a laborer, was probably fatally injured when run down by a Michigan Central railroad passenger train near Laingsburg. He is unmarried.

The Presbyterian church of Niles celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the society Tuesday evening. A letter of greeting and a poem, written by Mrs. Mary H. Field of California, who was the first child to be baptized in the church, were read.

Mrs. Anna England Windrew of Caro, a well known speaker for home and foreign missionaries in the Methodist church, and Rev. Louis N. Moon, for several years head of the Saginaw Bay district of the Detroit M. E. conference, were married by the bride's brother, Rev. C. England, at his home in Lapeer.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature R. V. Pierce M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

PIONEER DAY.

Boulder, Marking the First Home in Lenawee County, Erected June, 1824 was Dedicated, with Appropriate Exercises.

SPEECHES GIVEN CONCERNING HISTORICAL TECUMSEH.

Judge Victor Lane of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Jehiel Davidson and L. M. Waldron entertained a vast audience.

A more perfect day, for the dedication of the Boulder at Tecumseh, could not have been wished for, enabling both old and young to be present at a service which will long be remembered by every one. It was through the untiring efforts of the Pioneer Society that the money was raised, and the stone was brought to Tecumseh, from the farm of David Williams and was his gift.

A picnic dinner was served at Military Square, about 200 enjoying the pleasant occasion.

At 1:30 the parade formed at Military Square and marched to the Boulder park.

F. B. Wood and Donald Wright were marshals of the day. They were followed by the Tecumseh Band, the school children from the grades and numerous carriages and automobiles.

Between 700 and 800 were present.

L. M. Waldron, president of the society called the audience to order.

Prayer was invoked by Rev. Harkness, a pioneer, having spent 76 of his feur score and ten years in Lenawee county.

Mr. Waldron told of the purpose of the Pioneer Society, and gave a history of the Boulder. He said that, although the Society had been instrumental in placing the boulder, they were assisted greatly by the Women's Federated clubs, and by the townspeople, everyone responding generously.

Mr. Waldron said that the boulder not only marks the home of the first white settler in Tecumseh, but is the first land entered in the county, and in the name of the Henry Smith heirs, and the Pioneer Society he presented to J. W. Wightman, president of the city, the deed for the land where the Boulder stands, with the request that the Pioneer Society and the Federated Clubs of Lenawee County, could, at any time make any improvements that they desired.

President Wightman accepted the deed, and promised, that as long as it was in his power to do so, it would be protected.

The Sunbeam Quartette, W. S. Dickenson, Elmer Slayton, Ellsworth Ellis and Floyd Slater rendered, "All Hail, Ye Free." In the open air, this song was particularly pleasing to the audience.

Mr. Waldron, in introducing Mrs. Jehiel Davidson, said that he believed the Pioneers would like to hear again a history of those early days, and the younger ones would be benefitted by it:

In the autumn of 1823 Musgrove Evans came to Detroit and there made the acquaintance of Austin E. Wing, who had then been in Michigan territory some 6 or 7 years. It was through the suggestion of Mr. Wing that Evans was led to believe that the valley of the river Raisin would prove to him a special land of promise. So firm was his faith that he very soon returned to Jefferson county N. Y. and engaged actively in an effort to interest his friends in a western migration. His efforts were rewarded such success that in the early spring-time of 1824 Evans with his wife and five children, his brother-in-law, Joseph W. Brown, Ezra F. Blood Turner Stetson, Nathaniel Rathbone and Peter Lowe started for Detroit coming in the schooner Erie, the famed craft that subsequently went over the Falls of Niagara. Arriving at Detroit, the men there left the women and children and with a Frenchman for guide and a pony to carry the luggage, they started on foot following an Indian trail to Ypsilanti and thence to Saline and from there to a point on the River Raisin near where Clinton is now located. At this place the Frenchman and the pony were dismissed and packing all luggage on their own backs, our pioneers journeyed in a south-westerly direction until they came to a stream which later was named Evans creek in honor of Tecumseh's first settler. Then they journeyed down this stream until they came to its confluence with the river Raisin. Here they camped for several days and busied themselves in examining the country and the streams their main desire being to secure the best water-power in southern Michigan.

After a critical survey they were satisfied that if they had not found the very best point in the interior of the territory they at least had found a location worthy of acceptance and so resolved at once to secure it. With this purpose in mind they broke camp and started for the land office at Monroe where they were joined by Mr. Wing, who had already entered the west part of section 27 and the east part of section 28 which included the water-power now within our sight and hearing. Evans and Brown took up the north half of section 34 and other adjacent lands were taken up by the companions of Evans and adventurous persons who kept coming to the new settlement.

On the first day in June 1824 Musgrove Evans and Peter Benson with their families left Monroe and after a tedious journey through a trackless wilderness arrived at the the place of their destiny the following day about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They encamped on the spot occupied by this boulder and here Mr. Evans erected a log house 20 feet square. There being no saw mill nearer than Monroe, it was covered with bark peeled from elm trees. During that summer it had neither fireplace nor chimney. For cooking purposes a fire was made upon the ground the smoke from which was expected to ascend through a hole in the roof. A bake kettle supplied the place of an oven for several months during which time Mrs. Evans prepared food for her family and their helpers and transient "comers and goers," frequently having from 15 to 20 persons at a meal. In the autumn J. W. Brown, wife and five children arrived accompanied by George Spofford and wife. A bed room was added to the house and an oven and chimney built, the oven being detached and some distance from the house. Here Mr. Evans with wife and five children, Mr. Brown with wife and five children and Mr. Spafford with his wife all domiciled during that winter. In the summer of 1825 Joseph W. Brown built a frame house on the lot bounded north by Chicago street and west by Maumee street. This was the first frame house in Lenawee county and in addition to sheltering its owners was soon opened for the entertainment of travelers and transients. It was the first and for a time the only public house in the Territory of Michigan, west of Monroe. About the same time in 1825, a Frenchman named Knaggs built a house at the southwest corner of Chicago and Maumee streets in which a store was opened partly to furnish supplies to the settlers, but mainly to drive bargains with the Indians, who as yet largely outnumbered the white people in this jurisdiction.

In the summer of 1826 Musgrove Evans commenced the erection of a commodious frame building at the north east corner of Chicago and Ottawa streets. It was not completed until the following year. It also for a time was opened as a house of public entertainment; afterwards was used as a Bank building; and then for many years was occupied as a dwelling by Peter R. Adams and family. In 1827 Mr. Brown thenceforth known as General Brown, sold his Maumee street house to James T Boland went over to Brownville and built the Peninsular house. Before leaving Monroe Wing Evans and Brown had formed a co-partnership the main business of the company to be the promotion and developement of this community. They had pinned their ambitions to a star and resolved that their village should be the county-seat.

In this they were successful one of the conditions of the concession being that in laying out the village Wing, Evans and Brown should set apart for the public benefit four squares; one for a public promenade one for a cemetery and one for a military parade ground. In the fall of 1821 Wing, Evans & Brown built a saw mill which seemed to be more needed at that time than any other improvement. A grist mill was next in order, but it was not until early in 1826 that the frame was raised and the dam finished by the same enterprising company. The mill was completed by July 4 and on that morning the first grist was ground from wheat that had been grown by Jesse Osborn. This wheat had been cut with a sickle threshed with a flail and winnowed by a hand fan and the passing breeze. With flour produced from it bread and biscuits were speedily made by Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Brown to be used at the first celebration of our National Anniversary by the people of Tecumseh and vicinity. The capacity of this mill was about ten bushels of grain per hour. In the meantime Ezra F. Blood another of the original pioneers had founded a home on the banks of the raging Raisin a short distance southeast of the village. At that point some time in 1828 Abner Spafford built a saw mill and a few years later the plant was completed by the addition of a grist mill which was operated until 1838 when Spafford migrated to Illinois and took his mill machinery with him. Of this band of heroic pioneers Mrs. Abi Evans was the first to die and she lies buried in our village cemetery. There also rest Gen. J. W. Brown and wife and Ezra F. Blood and wife. After the death of Mrs. Evans, Musgrove Evans removed to Texas and there he died and was buried. All of the original pioneers have passed to their reward, but they builded better than they knew. Their efforts contributed materially in founding a great inland empire in the northwest territory. We meet here highly resolved to fittingly commemorate their enterprise and heroism. "After life's fitful fever they sleep well; and may the peace that passeth all understanding, abide with them until the Eternal Morning."

The school children sang "Michigan, My Michigan," in a happy manner. Would that the pioneers could have seen these children, with their happy faces, intense interest in the early history of the county.

The speaker of the day, Judge Lane of Ann Arbor, was introduced. It is seldom that we have the pleasure of listening to so eloquent a speech, by a person "just out of their teens." But being a Lenawee boy of course he never grows old. He gave great comfort to many of his old friends, by considering them just out of their teens when they had reached the age of 56.

He likened our placing of the Boulder to the world, which he said has long been building monuments. Indeed there is no age which has not left evidence of effort to perpetuate events in its history. Some of these speak of a day earlier than the morning of history and we know not well the message they bear, but we may read history in monuments, so far as that history makes for the glory of a people, for it is true that these memorials speak the story of the best. They may not perpetuate the memory of things we would always approve, if projected into our civilization, but they tell of the events of that day best worth remembering.

It may be that the particular event we celebrate today has not the significance of the Civil War, which determined the issues of that great conflict. We are gathered to mark the place of an adventurous pioneer's simple home, a rude log house with bark roof and puncheon floor, with windows without glass and a blanket for a door. I know little about this particular home. Such information as I have been able at arms length to gather, leads me to conclude that it was a Christian home with the husband and father a strong self reliant man, who believed in righteousness.

The wife and mother was such a one as we all delight to honor. Sympathetic, kind and conspicuously devoted to those old fashioned virtues which made her beloved by all who knew her. One who lived in the family, said of her after her death, "She was one of the noblest and best of wives and mothers. A dark cloud of deep and prolonged grief seemed to rest on all parts of the county when that devoted woman went down to the tomb."

In a letter written to her brother shortly after her arrival in the wilderness in which she was to make her home, she says: "I suppose you have been to church. Perhaps I may see the day when the gospel will be preached at our place."

Perhaps it does not matter so much that Musgrove and Abi Evans, were the first settlers to build eighty-five years ago, a cabin in Lenawee County, or that the cabin was located on this particular spot we mark today. But it is important that these pioneers of pioneers, and those who, with them, laid the foundations of this state and the states carved out of this great northwest Territory; who determined the character of the social order and fixed the standard of morals for this people, had righteousness bred in the bone, and firm convictions in the existence of God and an abiding faith in his interest in his children of the earth.

If there is anything for which we the children of this 20th century have occasion to be profoundly grateful to Almighty God, it is for these two characteristics of our forebears, their keen interest in, and profound respect for, rightful authority, and law, and for their trust in God.

They early organized themselves for government that the rights of the people should be recognized and protected and their violation redressed. This government was the typical American state in which the power of the government did not depend upon the accident of birth, but upon the will of the governed. That govern[illegible] citizen and laid upon him a responsibility he could not escape. He and his neighbors must answer for its character and that of the officials who administered it.

The individual knew, and had a good measure of realization of the fact, that if the rights of himself and his family were not well secured and protected, or if right principles were not recognized in government he must examine himself. The extent and character of the authority of the state, and of those who administered this authority in government, were what he and his neighbors determined them to be.

Right here is an important lesson for us, and for you young men.

The integrity of our institutions depends upon the maintenance of this same interest in government and same reepect for law. If you are willing to surrender your interest in these most important matters which involve the type and quality of government, to the self seeking political adventurer, you are willing to gamble with the dearest right of American citizenship. Has it become an established fact that he who personally seeks most diligently, and uses most effectually the argument of money, is the one who sits in the legislative council or in the seat of authority, it is because you have surrendered your political birthright. Young men of Lenawee, seize your scepter of power and wield it effectively, not in the interest of individuals but in the interest of the whole people. Let us not let this principal of self government be forgotten or rendered of no effect. Closely akin to that other principle which must ever obtain in a government where the majority rules, that requiring obedience to law and rightful authority. We have a serious obligation to see to it, that in this community, there is no careless sentiment on this question.

Pres. Lincoln truly said that this is a government of majorities and at once any minority is permitted to disregard the voice of the majority there is an end of government and your rights and mine are at the mercy of whomsoever would violate them, if indeed it can in such state be said that we have rights at all.

Down deep in the profoundest depth of a man, are the real springs of his being and here would I have an altar built to the true God. That brave hearted but lonely young pioneer woman, on that first Sunday in her log cabin, yearned for these privileges of worshipping the God she left behind. There has been no influence so potent in the development of this country, and its people, toward the high position we occupy among the nations of the earth, as that trust in God, which characterized its early citizenship.

The colonies, were planted in the fear of God, this nation was born out of dependence upon God. Her great statesmen all recognized the power of Almighty God. And it was so, here in Lenawee county, almost before political organization, they organized for public worship.

I speak for no creed, Catholic or Protestant, but for a simple recognition of the power and authority of God as effective to make your life and mine better worth living and as essential to the perpetuity of a nation in which the people reign.

All honor to the founder of this first home of the white man in Lenawee county and may this stone witness between us now, and to the generations yet unborn, that we have dedicated ourselves anew to the practice of those virtues conspicuous among these early settlers—faithfulness in the discharge of all civil duties. Respect for and obedience to law and recognition of God as a living force in the world."

This excellent and able address was followed by a song by the school, and a selection by the band.

All the participants agreed that it is a beautiful custom handed down to us from the earliest ages, to review scenes and incidents, which have transpired in former years.

It will be interesting to many to know that the stone used under the Boulder was the same one that Musgrove Evans and family used for their first fire place.

Among the descendants of the early settlers of this county present Wednesday was E. T. Webb of Jackson, Mr. Webb's grandmother was a sister of Mrs. Musgrave Evans and General Brown. In his old home in York State he can remember of hearing his mother and grandmother tell of old Tecumseh. Wednesday he visited the cemetery and decorated the graves of these early pioneers. Mr. Webb was the only representative of this family.

Among other descendants of the pioneer families we have from the Spafford family, Conklings, Woods and Wrights all of whom were represented Wednesday. Descendants of Ezra Blood were Chas. and Orville Blood; of Rueben and Samuel Satterthwaite, of Dr. Patterson, of Geo. Griswold, of Judge Stacy, of Isaac Adams and many others.

Previous to 1836 Michigan territory embraced besides what it now includes all the country constituting the states of Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and the eastern portion of the territory of Dakota and as late as 1834 the legislative council of the territory of Michigan continued to lay off and organize counties and townships in "Ouisconsin" and all counties west of the Mississippi river. The territory was governed under what is known as the "Govenor and Judge's plan."

At this early time there was always a feeling of rivalry between Adrian and Tecumseh and at the first celebration held in Adrian on July 4, 1828 at the dinner table one of the toasts given by Noah Norton was "Oh Tecumseh, Tecumseh! How often would we have gathered thy children together as a hen gathers her chickens under her wings and ye would not." It was unnecessary to say that this brought down the house.

Capt. Merritt an early resident meeting a friend one day in Monroe was asked where he lived. "Tecumseh, said he, and where is that?" "It is 30 miles from Monroe", he replied, "and 40 miles from God's blessing."

Judge Wightman found in Adrian, an interesting document which we give below:

Plat of the Village of Tecumseh,
Lenawee County, Michigan.

We, the undersigned proprietors of this plat, do hereby assign and transfer to the county of Lenawee, for public use all the streets and public grounds, marked and laid out by being stained yellow and green on said plat, and that part of said plat stained blue consisting of lots numbered from one to ninety-two, including streets and public grounds, was recorded in the county of Monroe, by Wing, Evans and Brown, the proprietors, and we, the undersigned do now ask the whole to be recorded in the Registers office for the county of Lenawee, agreeably to the statues in such case made and provided.

Largest Family on Record.

In the Harleian manuscript, Nos. 78 and 980, in the library of the British museum mention is made of the most extraordinary family that has ever been known in the world's history. The parties were a Scotch weaver and his wife (not wives), who were the father and mother of sixty-two children. The majority of the offspring of this prolific pair were boys—exactly how many is not known, for the record mentions the fact that forty-six of the male children lived to reach manhood's estate and only four of the daughters lived to be grownup women. Thirty-nine of the sons were still living in the year 1630, the majority of them then residing in and about Newcastle-on-Tyne. It is recorded in one of the old histories of Newcastle that "a certyne gentleman of large estaytes" rode "thirty and three miles beyond the Tyne to prove this wonderful story." It is further related that Sir J. Bowers adopted ten of the sons and three other "landed gentlemen" took ten each. The remaining members of the extraordinary family were brought up by the parents.

To draw a caricature of our contemporaries is not difficult. It requires only a small portion of talent and a great want of courtesy.—Disraeli.

Capitalization less than actual value.

We have purchased $500,000 of the first mortgage 6% bonds on this property, together with a large block of the capital stock and are now offering same to our clients, and the Michigan public generally. We bought these bonds and stock last fall when logs were selling at $8.50 per thousand feet. They are now worth $11.50 and will sell much higher. To purchasers of bonds we extend the privilege of buying a like amount of stock. As often as $50,000 of the bonds are sold, the price of the stock will be advanced until it is selling somewhere near its value. Grecian Food For Dreamers.

Hashceesh, the strange drug which has given our language its word "assassin"—a man so frenzied by the drug that he accomplishes murder—is used by the Persians, Turks and Egyptians in a manner akin to the use of opium by the Chinese. It is the product of a plant grown in large quantities in the Peloponnesus (southern Greece), in the district about Tripolitza. The plant grows to a height of about four feet, and its branches are thickly covered with small leaves and studded with tiny seeds. The entire plant, stalk and branches, is cut within a few inches of the root and laid out in the sun to dry. The branches are then rubbed to separate the seeds, and these in turn are ground into a fine powder, which constitutes the drug. The drug has the power of inducing sleep and producing pleasant and fantastic dreams. Continued use of hasheesh renders its devotees reckless and results in a wreck of their mental and physical constitution.—Montreal Standard.

Immune From Arrest.

In Washington, in the capital of the nation, there reside 200 men who, with their households, have absolute immunity from the laws of the land, even though they commit crimes of the first degree. They may shoot down the man who injures them; they may, if they see fit, paint the equestrian statue of General Phil Sheridan a vivid pea green, yet the hands of Uncle Sam must be kept from their shoulders, and woe unto the unterrified policeman or other servant of the law who undertakes to bring them to justice once they have declared their official connections. These men who are so clothed in immunity are the members of the diplomatic corps, and their shield is international law. It is provided in the laws of nations that they must answer before the tribunals of their own countries for the offenses they commit here in Washington, but that they shall not be tried by any court of the United States.—Washington Star.

Definitions.

Economy — A human eccentricity which will cause a woman to spend half a day and 10 cents street car fare in order to get a five cent spool of thread for 4.

Love—A tender passion which, however, does not preclude a man's scolding his wife if the coffee is too cold.

Pride—A persistent and potent peculiarity which will cause a man to put a silk tile on an empty head and to button a $150 frock coat around an empty stomach.

Prejudice—A taste or distaste for something about which you know nothing.—Judge.

Uncle Paid.

Many years ago Shuter, a popular actor, was engaged for a few nights in a principal city in the north of England. It was in the coaching days, and it happened that the stage in which he traveled (and in which there were only an old gentleman and himself) was stopped by a single highwayman.

The old gentleman pretended to be asleep, but Shuter resolved to be even with him. Accordingly, when the highwayman presented his pistol and commanded Shuter to deliver his money instantly or he was a dead man, "Money!" returned he, with an idiotic shrug and a countenance inexpressibly vacant. "Oh, lor', sir! They never trust me with any, for uncle here always pays for me, turnpikes and all, your honor."

Upon which the highwayman gave him a few curses for his stupidity, complimented the old gentleman with a smart slap on the face to awaken him and robbed him of every shilling he had in his pocket, while Shuter, who did not lose a single farthing, with great satisfaction and merriment pursued his journey, laughing heartily at his fellow traveler.

Cooking on the Trail.

Our guide allowed me to assist him in preparing the breakfast, though I fancy my assistance might have been easily dispensed with. He sagely remarked that if I was going to rough it I might as well begin learning now as any time. It was astonishing how appetizing a meal he prepared with the very fewest conveniences. For instance, he made bread in the sack of flour without using a bread pan. He hollowed out a cavity in the flour, poured in water, added salt and baking powder in proper quantities, then proceeded to mix the dough. He did another thing in his cooking that amused me very much. To prevent the coffee boiling over he placed a small willow stick across the open top of the pot. The lesson in physics soon followed. The coffee bubbled and then rushed up to the top of the pot as though it was going to boil over the sides and extinguish the fire, but as soon as it touched the willow it subsided like some sentient thing.—Forest and Stream.

Captain John Smith and Rats.

The intrepid navigator Captain John Smith in the course of his journeying in the Bermudas had some experience of the rat as a destructive force. "But the great God of heaven," he writes, "caused such an increase of silly rats in the space of two years so to abound before they regarded them that they filled not only those places where they were first landed, but, swimming from place to place, spread themselves into all parts of the country, insomuch that there was no land but it was pestered with them, and some fishes have been taken with rats in their bellies which they caught in swimming from ile to ile. Their nests they had in almost every tree and in most places their burrows in the ground like conies. They spared not the fruits of the plants or trees or the very plants themselves, but ate them up." All efforts to exterminate these vermin proved unsuccessful, and the unfortunate colonists "were destitute of bread for a yeere or two."

Irate Parent—So you think my daughter loves you, sir, and you wish to marry her? Young Lover—That's what I called to see you about. And if you don't mind I thought I'd just ask first if there is any insanity in your family. Irate Parent—No, sir, and there's not going to be any.—London

NOTHING TO PAY

Hyomei is Guaranteed to Cure Catarrh or Money Back.

When you suffer horribly from catarrh and are constantly sniffing and snuffing, hawking and spitting, and doing other disgusting things, remember there is a certain cure, called Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me), which is guaranteed to cure.

Hyomei will give joyful relief to any catarrh sufferer in five minutes and it gives remarkable relief to consumptives.

Hyomei is medicated air prepared from the extracts taken from the giant eucalyptus trees of inland Australia, where catarrh or consumption is never known.

You breathe in this healing and antiseptic air through an inhaler and this air, with its peculiar soothing properties, passing over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane (for catarrh is a germ disease), kills the germ, allays the inflammation, and in a short time completely cures the disease.

A complete Hyomei outfit, which includes a hard rubber inhaler that will last a life time, and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1.00, extra bottles cost 50c. Sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, who guarantee it on the money back plan.

DROWNED

Body of James Cook Found in Clark's Lake last Wednesday.

Mr. Cook was Expected by Relatives to Come to Tecumseh to Spend Pioneer Day.

Aged father, Zacharias Cook, resides in Raisin.

The dead body of James Cook, one of the best known of Jackson's traveling men and son of Zach Cook of Raisin, Mich., was found at the bottom of Clark's lake Wednesday night about 9 o'clock. He was expected by his father and friends to be in Tecumseh Wednesday to attend the dedication of the Boulder. Mr. Cook went to Clark's lake Tuesday on the morning train for a day's fishing. He rented a boat of T. W. Beach, landlord of the hotel went out on the lake saying he intended to take the afternoon train for home. Mr. Beach thought nothing of the fact that Mr. Cook did not return to the hotel and concluded on seeing Wednesday morning that the boat was still gone that Mr. Cook had decided to remain over night and had gone out fishing early Wednesday morning. About 11 o'clock Wednesday forenoon relatives became alarmed at his continued absence and telephoned to Mr. Beech. A search was immediately begun. The boat which he had used was found at anchor nearly oppoeite the point which extends into the lake well toward the east end and in the boat were found Mr. Cook's hat, coat, box of fishing tackle and a rod. Dragging was at once begun and about 9 o'clock last evening the body was recovered. It was lying on the bottom about forty rods from the boat with a fishing rod grasped in the hand. Mr. Beach can account for the accident only on the theory that Mr. Cook was seized with some sort of fainting fit and toppled overboard. There was but little wind, he was a good swimmer and he could have gained the boat or shore easily if he had been able to exert himself.

The Cook home is at 128 South Hill street and he was one of Jackson's best known men having resided there about 19 years. He was a member of the Elks and the First Baptist church. Besides a widow he leaves 5 children, Mrs. John Caldwell of Chicago, Mrs. Benjamin Bryne, Miss Martha, Edward Cook of Jackson and Roy Cook of Los Animas, Col. Deceased was 63 years of age. The funeral will be held at the home in Jackson at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. The body will be brought to Tecumseh on the afternoon train for burial at Brookside cemetery. An aged father resides near Tecumseh.

Mrs. Grace Latham has accepted a good position in Milan.

FRIEND'S CHURCH.

The Sunday morning services will be as usual. The Junior League at 2:30 p. m. In the evening there will be the union service at the Presbyterian church.

On Wednesday evening mission study class was organized. The plans for study are not altogether arranged as yet. The following officers were appointed:

Pres.—Miss Edith Ingersoll.
Sec.—Lena Lockwood.
Treas.—Eva Satterthwaite.

The Thursday circle met at the home of Mrs. Crossman.

The Friendly Bible class held their anniversary meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Wonder.

Life Lessons from the Gospel of Twelve, will be the subject for Christian Endeavor Sunday evening. The meeting will be dismissed early so the members can get to the Presbyterian church in time for the Baccalaureate service.

METHODIST CHURCH.

The Quarterly Love Feast will be observed next Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. A large attendance is urged. This is a service that all members ought to attend. Come prepared to "teach and admonish one another in pelams and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord."

At 10 o'clock the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper,

Observing this as we do, but once a quarter, it is important that all members be present if at all possible. No service of the church is more gracious and helpful in its influence than participation in this blessed sacrament.

At 11:30 Sunday school. Men's class, topic will be "Attempts to Ensnare Jesus" based on Matt. 22: 15-40. Young men's class, topic, "The Book of Jonah." At 6 p. m Epworth League, topic. "Our Legal Obligations."

There will be no service at 7 o'clock as we will join in the union service at the Presbyterian church, the occasion being the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class of the high school. Rev. D. Stanley Shaw will deliver the address.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The annual meeting of the Lenawee Baptist Association occurred this week at Morenci. The meetings proved very helpful throughout. Rev. Kamm and Mr. and Mrs. VanValkenburg went as delegates from this church.

An account of the pastor's absence, Mr. Camp led the prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

A very interesting meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held Sunday evening. The subject was "The Sunday school as a Missionary Agency" and was led by A. O. Howard. At the close of the meeting Miss Lulu Stahler was chosen to represent the society at the association at Morenci.

Mrs. Roberts' committee served supper in the church parlors Thursday afternoon. A business meeting of the ladies society was held at 4 o'clock, at which time occurred the election of officers.

The subject for the men's class next Sunday is "Was it curiosity that caused Zaccheus to climb a tree?" Percy Bowen is to be the leader.

Last Sunday the class decided to retire to their class room immediately after the opening song, as the usual class hour is much too short.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Baccalaurate exercises of the high school will be held in our church Sunday evening. Rev. Shaw will preach the sermon

The topic for young people's meeting Sunday afternoon will be "Some questions and answers about life work."

A combined meeting of the ladies society and the mission circle was held at the home of Mrs F. D. Rector this afternoon.

There was a large attendance at the young people's meeting Sunday when a musical program and prayer service was held. The stories of the great hymns and their composers were told by members and there was special music.

One week from Sunday in the pastors absence the pulpit will be supplied by Rev. Weston T. Johnson, who has for eight years been engaged in the educational work of the new Japan, and is a very interesting speaker. All should plan to hear him.

Sunday morning the Children's Day will be observed by the church and Bible school. It is desired that every member of the congregation and the school be present. The men's class will unite in the exercises, which will be held at 10 o'clock, the usual hour for church services. A special offering will be taken for Sunday school work. A fine program has been prepared, which in part is as follows:

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

SEVEN INDICTED IN CURRIE CASE

Warrants For Junior Partner and Six Office Clerks.

EMBEZZLED AND CONSPIRED

Cameron Currie Complainant—Alleges His Money Was Used to Play Market and That Employes and Partner, Case, Used Fictitious Names Under Which to Make Deals.

Detroit, Mich., June 3.—Seven men, including Louis Case, junior partner and manager, and practically the entire office force of Cameron Currie & Co., commission merchants and brokers, are involved in indictments growing out of the firm's failure. Warrants have been issued by Police Justice Stein. Those indicted and the charges are as follows:

For Conspiracy.

LOUIS H. CASE, junior partner.
WILLIAM ROWLEY, telegraph operator.
WILLIAM STRITZKIE, clerk.
FRED T. DOLSON, telegraph operator.
ERNEST KRAETKE, cashier.
ROBERT L. EDWARDS, clerk.
HERBERT D. PAGE, head bookkeeper.

For Embezzlement.

LOUIS H. CASE (two counts).

Chief among the surprises is the fact that the principal charge of conspiracy to defraud against Case, the cashier, clerks, and even the telegraph operators of the office, is based, according to the warrants, on information given the prosecutor by Cameron Currie himself.

He, in fact, appears as the complainant, alleging that his employes used $50,000 of the firm's capital, his money, to play the market, and that the loss came out of his pocket. He was a deceived man—the victim of those who accepted pay envelopes from him on Saturday, he says.

The specific charge is that these men conspired and agreed to enter on the books fake orders for stocks in the names of fictitious persons or in the names of real persons who had given no authorization for the deals, were entirely ignorant of the fact that they were being carried on, and received no benefits from them.

Firm Was Loser.

These orders were entered first on the books of Cameron Currie & Co., forwarded to the firm's Boston or New York correspondents, who bought the shares on the various stock exchanges, and on the rise or fall in price the clerks won or lost large sums. In the latter case, it is alleged, it was the capital of the company that suffered, as no real money at any time ever entered in the deals.

The warrants set out that there were regular names used by each of the clerks throughout a long series of transactions. When fake orders were put on the books in the interests of Herbert B. Page, the name of Edward J. Cruise was used, according to the warrant; for Robert E. Edwards, the name of John Pontius and F. E. Williams; the name of F. E. Mette for Ernest M. Kraetke; that of William Cline for William H. Strizkie, and the name of George M. Taylor for William A. Rowley.

According to information given by Currie "and divers other witnesses," there was an account in the name of George Oliver, who, says the prosecutor, is not the senator from Pennsylvania or any other person who ever lived. The profits of his transactions accrued to the benefit of Frederick T. Dolson, one of the telegraph operators in the office, and Herbert B. Page, the chief clerk, it is said. That Page was also interested in deals made in the name of William H. Colege, another mythical buyer, is another allegation.

These orders were forwarded by wire chiefly to Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston brokers, and to firms in New York and other cities where large stock exchanges are maintained. They were principally in railroad stocks.

Cameron Currie, by the issuance of the warrants, escapes legal blame for the failure and is represented to have been little more than a silent partner in its affairs, furnishing the capital, and Case and the clerks running the business. He took nine-tenths of the profits, when there were any. Case got one-tenth and drew a salary of $3,500 a year.

In addition to the charges of conspiracy against Case, there are two warrants against him for embezzlement, to patrons alleging in their grand jury testimony that they had turned over checks to him for the purchase of stocks which were never used to that purpose. One check amounts to $15,000.

The warrant were prepared by Prosecuting Attorney Van Zile and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Aldrich.

In spite of the fact that Cameron Currie, if the situation is as it seems to be on the face of the warrants, becomes one of the chief witnesses before the grand jury against his office force, none of them had anything to say regarding their former employer.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

A Realistic Actor.

Malcolm was three years old. He stood stock still in the middle of the floor, one arm extended horizontally. His mother, looking up from her sewing, saw the door open.

"Shut the door, Malcolm, please," she said.

No response. She repeated her request. Still no response.

"Malcolm," she said more sternly, "I asked you to shut the door."

Still Malcolm stood in the middle of the floor with his arm outstretched and did not move.

"Malcolm," said his mother, "if you don't shut the door at once I shall have to punish you."

Malcolm burst into tears and flung himself on his mother's knees. "Muvver," he cried, "I was bein' a wooden sign, an' wooden signs can't shut doors!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Memory Studies.

A small boy went into a South Boston drug store, wrinkled his face, rubbed his head and rubbed his left foot up and down his right leg in an effort to remember something that had escaped him.

"Say," he began, "will you tell me the name of the place where we Americans have so many soldiers?"

"Fort Sheridan?"

"Oh, no. It's farther away than that."

"The Philippines?"

"That ain't just it, but it's somewhere around there."

"Perhaps you mean Manila?"

"Manila! That's right! I knew I would get it after awhile. I want a bottle of manila extract for flavorin'. They're goin' to have ice cream."—Boston Record.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstention may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquit in Socialism.

His Walking Papers.

"My sister 'll be down in a minute," said little Clarence, who was entertaining the young man in the parlor. "I heard her tellin' maw a little while ago that she was goin' to give you your written permission to perambulate tonight. What do you reckon she meant by that?"

"I think I know, Clarence," said the young man, reaching for his hat. "You may tell her, if you please, that I have decided not to wait for it."—Exchange.

Salting a Diamond Mine.

A man in South Africa while walking one day over his property with a party of prospectors suggested that they assay some of the soil. In the search that ensued eight rough diamonds were found, and offers began to fly through the air at a rapid rate for the land, when the host's wife called out to her husband, "Why, John, where are the other two?" The sequel to the story is left to the imagination.—Boston Record.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

STAB AFFRAYS IN DETROIT

Three Take Place on East Side of City.

TWO WICTIMS IN HOSPITAL

Three Others Nurse Injuries at Their Homes—Four Supposed Assailants Locked Up in Police Station—One Fight Was Result of Landlady Showing Partiality Among Boarders.

Detroit, Mich., June 7.—Two men are at St. Mary's hospital, one with a knife wound just below his heart that may prove fatal, the other with a wound in his abdomen that is serious but not fatal; three are at their homes nursing injuries, and four are locked up at the Hunt and Chene street stations, as the result of three cutting affrays that have occurred on the east side of the city.

Nick Jakeszic and George Kartan are the two at the hospital. Had Jakeszic's wound been a trifle higher, his heart would have been pierced. Detectives Repp and Redmond are looking for Sam Benkowiecz in connection with the affair.

The two men, Benkowiecz and Jakeszic's brother, boarded at 1157 Riopelle street. Lately they have had considerably trouble among themselves, it is said, because the landlady favored one by giving him the largest piece of pie or meat. An argument arose, and the fight followed.

Affray in Alley.

A second affray occured in the alley in the rear of a saloon at 867 Russell street. Walter Golmalski, 736 Belvidere avenue, received a cut on the right side of the neck that came near ending fatally. George Woztaweski, 543 Willis avenue, east, and Joseph Pollock, same address, are locked up on the charge of doing the cutting. The former is badly cut about the head and arms. The latter has a slight cut in his back, the knife just penetrating his coat.

Who is to blame for the cutting, Golmalski or the pair locked up, is a puzzle to the police.

The third fight occurred in the saloon of John Gohra, 579 St. Aubin avenue. According to Gohra's story, Henry Paul, 498 Watson street, and Richard Carten, 296 Chene street, bought a round of drinks Saturday night and refused to pay for them. When the proprietor insisted on their settling, it is said, they attacked him, cutting him about the head and shoulders. Paul and Carten are locked up.

TWO WOMEN HURT.

Struck by Automobiles on Streets of Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 7.—Mrs. Frances Jannisse, 268 Hubbard avenue, is at her home suffering from what is thought to be a concussion of the brain as the result of being struck by an automobile as she was stepping from a Jefferson avenue car at Holcomb avenue.

The machine was driven by Arthur Darmstatter of the Columbia Brewing company. He picked the woman up, took her home and summoned medical aid.

Mrs. Sarah Osborn, 441 Mullett street, becoming confused at the approach of an automobile and a street car, ran directly in front of the machine at Hastings and Mullett street. She was severely bruised.

The driver of the machine refused to give his name.

SERRELL WEAKENS.

Willing to Give Share of Father's Estate to Sister.

Pontiac, Mich., June 7.—The last chapter of the Serrell will case has been written. All proceedings in the circuit and probate courts have been formally dismissed.

Despite his declaration that he would spend his last dollar and the last drop of his heart's blood before his sister should share in their father's estate, Harry J. Serrell weakened and agreed to give up a large portion, said to be $45,000 or more. The attorneys are pledged to secrecy.

Dies of Injuries.

Detroit, Mich., June 7.—John D. Noonan, struck by a delivery motor truck Saturday afternoon, is dead at Grace hospital. Coroner Burgess ordered a post mortem examination and found that Noonan's skull was fractured and his hip and leg broken. An investigation of the accident will be instituted.

Fell Into Hot Water.

Detroit, Mich., June 7.—The two-year-old son of David Shinavier, 47 Batavia street, River Rouge, was scalded in a tub of hot water and is dead as a result. The child fell into the tub while playing about the kitchen.

REPORTS ARE EXAGGERATED

Turkish Embassy Emphatic In Denial About Massacre

AND THE NUMBER SLAIN

Would Not Exceed Four Thousand, Instead of Twenty or Thirty Thousand—Government Is Also Doing All It Can to Relieve Sufferings—Court-martial Called at Adana.

Washington, June 7.—Emphatic denial has just been entered at the Turkish embassy to the reports that twenty or thirty thousand persons had been killed during the recent troubles in Asiatic Turkey, and the statement was made that unusual efforts are being made to punish those responsible for the disorders.

Deep regret was expressed that exaggerated reports have been printed in certain newspapers concerning the disorder. The opinion was advanced that the articles have been inspired by persons who find it to their interest to accuse the constitutional government at Constantinople with being responsible for what has happened and that the newspapers have been imposed upon. In contradiction to the newspaper reports, it was stated that the last official news was that the number of victims would not exceed 4,000.

The attitude of the Turkish government in regard to the trouble was earnestly defended. Not only has the minister of the interior asked for the appropriation of $150,000 to aid the victims, it was stated, but the government on its own responsibility has sent immediately to the victims the sum of $10,000. While this may not be sufficient for the purpose, hope was expressed that private charity would supplement it. Instructions were forwarded to the local authorities to make all efforts possible to give food, clothing, medicine and shelter to the sufferers without regard to religious, race or nationality.

Following the examples set in the punishment of those responsible for the outbreak in Constantinople on April 13, another court-martial has been established in Adana, it was explained, to try those responsible for the trouble there.

"We are confident," the diplomat stated, "that the last shadow of the old regime will never again darken our land."

WHARF GAVE WAY.

Women and Children Drown in Lake Pontchartrain.

New Orleans, June 7.—Four women and two children, and probably many others, have drowned.

The excursion steamer Margaret made a fastening at Mandeville, La., on the north coast of Lake Pontchartrain, twenty-five miles from New Orleans, when suddenly the warf gave way, and about seventy-five people were thrown into the lake. Many heroic rescues were made.

LISTS ARE CLOSED.

Many Automobiles Entered For Crown Point (Ind.) Event.

Chicago, June 7.—Twelve high power racing machines are finally entered to compete for the Cobe cup, on June 19, in the automobile road race over the Crown Point (Ind.) course, under the auspices of Chicago Automobile club. Sixteen lighter cars are listed for the Indiana trophy over the same course on June 18. The entry lists have just closed.

"HOWDY" IN LOUISVILLE.

Kentucky City Entertains Shriners For Four Days.

Louisville, Ky., June 7.—The thirty-fifth annual session of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, the second ever held in Dixie Land, began today in Louisville. The city is transformed with color and decoration.

Four four days Louisville will be given over to the visitors, who, with their families and friends, are expected to number 100,000.

To use an expression germane to the soil, a huge hand with the word "Howdy" written across it in electric bulbs swings at a principal street intersection.

GERMAN BALLOONS RACING.

Flock of Thirteen Leave Essen on Long Distance Trial.

Essen, Rhelnish Prussia, June 7.—Thirteen German balloons started Sunday from here on a long distance trial race. The three making the best records will take part in the race for the international cup, in Switzerland, in the fall.

KILLS HERSELF AND CHILDREN

Woman Commits Tragic Deed Following Husband's Arrest.

BELIEVED SHE WENT INSANE

Mother Turned on Gas After Putting Little Ones In Bed—Husband Had Been Arrested For Embezzlement. Complainants Released Him Following Discovery of Tragedy.

St. Louis, June 7.—Twelve hours after her husband, John Glaesser, had been taken from home by the police under the charge of embezzling $275, Mrs. Martha Glaesser was found dead in bed by the side of the dead bodies of her children, Arnette, eight years old, and John, Jr., five years old.

The room was filled with gas, and the police advance the theory that the mother closed the room and turned on the gas. Nicholas Glaesser, a brother, broke into the room and discovered the lifeless forms. It is supposed that the arrest of her husband preyed on Mrs. Glaesser's mind, driving her insane.

Glaesser has been released, and the cigar company which caused the arrest said there would be no prosecution, as Glaesser had been punished severely already.

NATIONAL BANK PROSPEROUS

Net Increase In Number During Year Is 155.

Washington, June 7.—During the current fiscal year the national banks of the country have received in individual deposits $4,826,060,384, which is more than a billion and a half dollars in excess of the entire outstanding money supply of the United States.

The year which will close with the present month has been one of exceptional prosperity for national banks. Since May 14, 1908, there has been a net increase of 155 in the number of national banks.

The aggregate capital, surplus and profits of the banks reporting on April 28, 1909, amounted to $1,729,057,010, or an increase of $58,586,428 during the year. The loans and discounts increased $434,763,993, deposits $513,403,594 and total resources $774,261,145. Cash in banks on April 28 amounted to $926,776,902, an increase of $25,324,572 over the call of May 14, 1908.

U. OF M. ADMITTED.

Professors Will Be Permitted to Share in Carnegie Endowment.

New York, June 7.—The University of Wisconsin, the University of Michigan, the University of Minnesota and the University of Toronto have been admitted to participate in the professors' allowance system of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching, according to an announcement made here. This decision was reached at a recent meeting of the executive committee and has just been made known by the secretary.

These are the first state institutions admitted to the endowment.

COMES BACK AT WILSON.

President Schurman Denies Decrease in Intellectual Vitality.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 7.—President Jacob Gould Schuman of Cornell university, in addressing the graduating class, criticized the reported statements of President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton that he deplored the decrease in intellectual vitality and slacker spirit of study in American colleges.

"This condition may prevail in some of the older eastern colleges, but not in Cornell," he said.

LEAPS AFTER WIFE.

But Woman Died In Husband's Arms When He Rescued Her.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 7.—Aaron Cohen of Buffalo saw his wife leap into the swirling river between Second and Third Sisters islands, only 150 feet above the brink of the cataract. Without a moment's hesitation, he followed her, caught her hand and struggled desperately to save her.

Mrs. Cohen probably died in her husband's arms. She slipped from his hold while he was being rescued.

To Give Governor Reception.

Flint, Mich., June 7.—Flint is prepared to give Governor Warner a fine reception when he arrives here to attend the graduating exercises of the Michigan School For the Deaf, which will be held here this evening, in Brown's hall. Twenty-seven will be given their diplomas.

Saturate yourself with the philosophy of optimism. It softens the kicks and takes the jar off the bumps.—Detroit Free Press.

TWO BALLOONS LAND.

Third Touches Ground and Then Starts on Again.

Indianapolis, June 7.—Three of the nine balloons that started Saturday in the national distance race of the Aero Club of America and the endurance test of the Aero Club of Indiana landed Sunday, and another, the Indiana, entered in the national race, is reported to have dropped to earth at Shackle Island, Tenn., at 6 o'clock last evening, taken on water and sailed off south.

Two of the balloons, it was reported from Nashville, Tenn., were sighted about fifty miles south of that city Sunday afternoon.

The balloons that landed Sunday were the Chicago, the largest balloon entered, which came down at Scottsville, Ky., and the Indianapolis, which lit at Westmoreland, Tenn.

AIRSHIP ROUTES FOR THE FRENCH

Company Proposes to Run a Service Between Towns.

Paris, June 7.—The French Aerial league has perfected plans for lines of dirigible balloons from Paris respectively to Nancy, Lyons, Pau and Rouen. Five dirigibles will be employed in this service. Their length will be between 60 and 80 metres. Two of them will have a capacity of 3,500 cubic metres, one of 5,000 and two of 7,000 cubic metres. All of them will be capable of an average speed of 50 kilometres (31 miles) an hour.

One of the dirigibles, which has been named "Ville-Nancy," already has been constructed, and the Paris-Nancy line, with a daily service in good weather, will be inaugurated in September. In this service stops will be made at Meaux and Rheims.

TEACHERS WELL PAID.

Not So Much Difference, Considering Amount of Work Rendered.

Washington, June 7.—Men have less education as a preparation for teaching in the secondary public schools of the United States than women, and they remain in teaching very little longer than the opposite sex.

These facts flatly contradict common opinion, yet they are the conclusions of Edward L. Thorndike of the Teachers' college, Columbia university, reached as the result of a careful investigation into the subject, which are presented by him in a publication entitled "The Teaching Staff of Secondary Schools in the United States," made at the request of the United States bureau of education and just made public. Professor Thorndike presents a variety of significant facts with reference to education, experience and salaries of teachers in our secondary schools.

Professor Thorndike also notes that there is not so much difference in the pay for the same, or ostensibly the same, work as the average salaries usually quoted mislead one into believing.

THIEVES ON BATTLESHIPS.

Steal Brass From Engines and Sell It to Junk Dealers In Yokohoma.

Tokio, June 7.—The departure of Rear Admiral Giles B. Harbers' squadron for Manila, scheduled for today, was delayed owing to the discovery of thefts aboard the Galveston and the Denver in which the names of two warrant officers and several seamen are involved. Court-martials were ordered.

Brass and other engine room materials aggregating 2,500 pounds were taken from the ships on Decoration day and sold to junk dealers in Yokohama. The value of the material is estimated at $1,000.

COLONEL M'CLURE DIES.

Noed Politician and Journalist Passes Away at His Home.

Philadelphia, June 7.—Colonel Alexander K. McClure, prothonotary of the supreme and superior courts of Pennsylvania and for many years a prominent figure in politics and journalism, is dead at his home in Wallingford, Delaware county, aged eighty-one years.

UNDER SENTENCE; HANGED.

Mob Could Not Wait For Law to Put Negro to Death.

Tallahassee, Fla., June 7.—Mike Morris, colored, under sentence of death for the murder of the sheriff of Leon county, has been taken from the county jail here by a mob and lynched. Morris lately had shown signs of insanity.

The best of working is it gives you a grip hold of things outside your own lot.—Eliot.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

Pride does not measure happiness so much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

Any lady reader of this paper will receive, on request, a clever "No-Drip" Coffee Strainer Coupon privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. It is silver-plated, very pretty, and positively prevents all dripping of tea or coffee. The Doctor sends it, with his new free book on "Health Coffee" simply to introduce this clever substitute for real coffee. Dr Shoop's Health Coffee is gaining its great popularity because of: first, its exquisite taste and flavor; second, its absolute healthfulness; third, its economy—1½ lb 25c; fourth, its convenience. No tedious 20 and 30 minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. Try it at your grocer's, for a pleasant surprise. Sold by all grocers.

Don't, because your father, grandfather, or great-grandfather has been a doctor, preacher, or lawyer, try to force your boy in the same profession. Find out what he is particulary interested in and adapted to. Many an unhappy, unsuccessful lawyer or doctor or preacher would have made a successful merchant, engineer, or farmer had not a mother's ambition interfered.

Sometimes you may be told that there are other things just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. That isn't so. Nothing made is as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for any ailments of the kidney or bladder, which always result in weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, rheumatism and urinary disorders. A trial of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills is sufficient to convince you how good they are. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his hehrt about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters to himself.

A Bad Man.

Herman Whitaker wrote a story of the Tehuantepec rubber plantation Guadaloupe, the mandador on one plantation at which Mr. Whitaker stayed, was informed that he was to be one of the characters in his story. "He never failed to question me each day as to the things I had made him do in the story," said Mr Whitaker. "When one morning I informed him that I had killed him off, he expressed great surprise.

"'Porque, senor, porque?'

"'Because you are a bad man, Guadaloupe.' Which was perfectly true.

"'I, senor?' he questioned, greatly surprised.

"'St, Guadeloupe, you are bad. Think of how many men you have killed, according to your own count.'

"He thought for awhile, then looked up with a humorous smile. 'Oh, well! Did I put up a good fight?'

"'You bet you did, Guadaloupe.'

"Whereupon eyebrows and shoulders went up in a shrug. 'Buenol Buenol Then it ees all right.'"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Colleges of Oxford.

Each college is built round a quadrangle with a large entrance gateway which often rises into a quasi tower. The rooms immediately over the gateway are invariably designed for the residence of the warden, provost or principal of the college, so that the eye of the master may be over all who enter or leave the place. This mode of building still exists in India, having been introduced into Europe by the Moors when they conquered Spain, where we find that the compound, or quad, is still used for the tethering of all kinds of animals. Around the quad are arranged the chapel, library, hall or refectory, president's lodgings, buttery and kitchen. The students' rooms generally occupy the upper floors. William of Wickham, the celebrated architect, wisely placed his taller buildings—the chapel and hall—on the north side to keep off the cold winds, the lower buildings on the south more freely admitting sunshine.

Rainbow Upside Down.

Not very many persons have ever seen an inverted rainbow, although the phenomenon sometimes appears. At the Italian geodynamic observatory of Rocca de Papa not long ago the director and a party of visitors were fortunate enough to see one. The morning was showery, and as the party looked down from an elevation of 2,300 feet they saw in the Campagna a perfect rainbow with its concave side up, the middle point bearing to the northeast. From the Eiffel tower in Paris one has also been seen, in this case the rainbow being double and extending above and below the horizon to form two concentric circles nearly complete. Generally the inverted rainbow is to be seen only in the mountains and then very rarely. The phenomenon, of course, is due merely to the position of the observer, which must be above the refracting agent instead of below.—Pathfinder.

An Old Ash Wednesday Custom.

At one time it was on Ash Wednesday the custom to appoint an official of the English palaces to crow the hours of the day, like a cock, as a reminder of the denial of St. Peter. This practice excited the furious indignation of George II. His ignorance of English made it very difficult for the courtiers to explain that the royal cock crower was not making fun of him. The cock crower was a salaried officer at the English court as late as 1823.

A Boy's Idea of Parsons.

Not long ago a class of boys in an elementary school had an essay set, the subject being "Clergymen."

This is what one youngster wrote:

"There are 3 kinds of clergymen, Bishups, recters and curats. the bishups tells the recters to work, and the curats have to do it. A curat is a thin married man, but when he is a recter he gets fuller and can preach longer sermons and becums a good man."—London Scraps.

BACCALAUREATE

Services Held in the Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening.

Rev. D. Stanley Shaw of the M. E. church delivered the address.

There was a large attendance at the baccalaureate service in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, when the address to the members of the graduating class of the Tecumseh High school was delivered by Rev. D. Stanley Shaw of the M. E. church.

The platform was prettily decorated with ferns and flowers the music was of the highest order of excellence, and all was in keeping with the honor and dignity of the occasion.

Rev. Shaw delivered the address in his usual eloquent, and easy manner. The advice to the class entering upon new and untried fields of labor, will never be forgotten. We are glad to be able to present the address in full as follows:

Text. "Run speak to this young man." Zechariah 2: 4.

It becomes my pleasant privilege this year, to weave the laurel wreathes about the brows of the thirteen young men and women who have just completed school life so far as it can be pursued in the Tecumseh High School. With the honor of pronouncing the baccalaureate sermon I must accept the responsibility and opportunity of the occasion. I can see the appropriateness of congratulation These young people have done well Amid the thousand solicitations that daily deplete the school room, they have persevered and completed the entire curriculum So congratulations are in order.

But the prophetic instinct likewise stirs my heart, for it is the outlook rather than the backlook that fires the heart for achievement. The important question is not so much whence, but whither We know these boys and girls, whence they are, but whither are they going, what shall they achieve and what shall they become?

I want to read you the first five verses of the second chapter of Zecharish. "I lifted up mine eyes again and looked and behold a man with a measuring line in his hand. Then said I, whither goest thou? And he said unto me, to measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof and what is the length thereof. And behold the angel that talked with me went forth and other angel went forth to meet him and said unto him, run speak to this young man, saying, Jerusalem shall be inhabited as a city without walls, for the multitude of men and cattle therein: for I, saith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about and will be the glory in the midst of her."

So tonight in mental vision I see the members of the class of 1909 starting out with measuring lines in their hands. Behind them stands the school house. In front of them the great wide world. They are anxious to measure the sphere which they are to occupy in life to map out the city of their habitation and build a wall round about. And prophet like, methinks I hear the voice of God speaking to me and saying "run speak to these young people." Speak comfortably unto them. Speak words of encouragement and cheer. Tell them that I the Lord their God have already planned their Jerusalem and measured the sphere that I would have them occupy in life. Tell them it is true that God has a plan for every life and that the first duty of youth is to yield itself to God for instruction. So my address tonight shallbe in the nature of a heart to heart talk. I am not so far removed from boyhood as to be out of sympathetic touch with youthful aspirations. It is not so long sir since I left college halls, but that occasions of this kind awaken within me a response. So I want you to feel that the heart behind the message of tonight is a heart in which youth has a large place, the heart of one who has traversed the territory that lies immediately before you and understands a little of what shall confront you

Run, speak to these young people. The first important consideration that I would fasten upon your mind is, this. is God's world. He made it, he controls it, he directs it. Nothing occurs in this world haphazard. Everything is governed by law. If we would make a success of life we must remember that success has its method, its procedure its price. Cause and effect are everywhere operative in God's world.

More than that, men are classified into groups and divisions Life is ranged in orders. We are all soldiers in the great human army and find our appropriate rank according to our ability, opportunity and fidelity.

While there may be a certain sense in which the declaration of the constitution is true that all men are born free and equal it is evident to all that there is a great range of dissimilarities among our fellows. While we would heartily repudiate anything like a system of caste such as exists in India whereby a man's rank is fixed by his birth and other purely capricious circumstances, still any man who opens his eyes must see that men are necessarily arranged in ranks according to various standards. There is rank in democratic America just as truly as there is in India. Each man has his own social rank, his own moral rank, his own rank in the commercial world, the literary world, the political world. I do not say that every man attains the rank for which God fitted him. Many a man debauches his powers and wastes his opportunities and thus some who were born to be kings have become slaves.

But bear in mind young people, that there are just two main factors in determining your rank in this world and they are God and yourself.

Now God is a great lover of variety. There is no monotony in either nature or humanity as it comes fresh from the hand of God. God has purposely ranged men in orders To some he has given larger capacities than others. To some greater opportunities. To some larger physical powess, to some larger spheres to move in. But to everyone he has given a range of possibility commensurate with his powers and the man who the most nearly lives up to the limit of his possibility, is the greatest man and lives to the most purpose.

God places us here with certain potentialities and bids us do our best. He gives every man room to give his personality play and our rank will be decided by what we have striven to do, what we were capable of doing and what we actually have accomplished. God does not tell us at the outset where he has placed the limit of our achievement. He does not drop a parchment from the sky saying to each aspirant after earth's treasures, here are the prescribed limits within which your life shall move. Thus far you shall go but no farther. But to every truly aspiring soul he flings out a cable from heaven which we call an ideal and as man responds to that upward pull and seeks earnestly to attain to the ideal which is constantly playing before him, he rises to his appropriate rank.

So God's method is to give his creatures visions of an ideal and then fire their hearts with an ambition to attain to it. So I believe in ambitions. There are ambitions that are legitimate for every man. I believe in ideals. I believe that without an ideal and the corresponding ambition, no man can ever reach that rank in life where God intends he shall stand.

I like boys and girls who are nobly ambitious. I like boys and girls who have no difficulty in identifying themselves with the greatest heroes and heroines of history. Who feel that if they had equal opportunity they could have achieved as greatly.

Who feel that if they do not attain to worthy distinction it will be because external and accidental circumstances were against them. Let the boys and girls dream. Let them see visions and build castles. It is but the indication of the upward tug of an ideal in the process of formation. That ideal will crystallize by and by and if they are faithful to it, they will mount into their appropriate rank.

Ambitions are natural. I could almost believe that even inanimate things have their ambitions. I could believe that every lily bulb that lifts its head in air, breathes with a passion to become a perfect flower. But only a small proportion of lily bulbs are able to realize their dream Some are neglected by the florist, some are eaten by worms, some are famished by droughts, still others have their ambitions trampled out beneath the feet of careless children. And so it often happens in life, that the careless florists, the worms, the droughts, the cruel feet of passing events crush out the souls best dreams. But man is better to have dreamed and failed than never to have dreamed at all.

But O how much heart ache could be saved, how much bitter disappointment, how much useless endeavor, if people would only remember that men belong to different rank and that God's requirements are from each in his own order. It is folly for us to aspire to a form of service for which we are entirely unfitted or is hedged about by such conditions and restrictions as we can never overcome. It would be nonsense for me to aspire to the presidency of these U. S. of America. First because I was evidently intended for something else and second because being born in another country, I could not qualify for the office. The world abounds in palpable misfits. There are people driving the plow who ought to have been professional men. There are lawyers and doctors and preachers who are monumental failures who would have made splendid mechanics or farmers or merchants. And thus we find the world losing much valuable service because men are not in their appropriate rank.

I am fully aware that this raises a difficult problem. It is not an easy matter for all people to find out to what rank they properly belong. And more than that no one else can tell you. Philipps Brooks who was scarce without a peer as a pulpit orator, was told by his college president that public speaking was a profession in which he could never expect to succeed. But Phillips Brooks talked with God about it and became convinced that was his rank and despite the prophesies of failure he went ahead and the whole world now knows that he rightly belonged to the order of great preachers.

Shall I repeat words used at the outset? There are just two main factors that determine your station in life and those are God and yourself. I wonder if you fully realize this. Up to this time there has been another factor which from now on will be more and more eliminated. I refer to parental influence. Up to the present time when people asked you what you were going to do, you could answer readily, I do not know. Father wants me to complete my high school course and after that I will decide. You see that is the way it is in earlier life. Our individuality is merged with the family. Our parents feed us and clothe us and plan for us. We take life lightly for its responsibility does not yet rest upon us. Other people say "must" to us and we do what we must. Parents told you what you must do at home and teachers told you what you must do at school and you did as you were commanded by an outside power.

But today you face a different situation. Today you bid farewell to those teachers who for the past 4 years have been saying "you must" to you. Possibly you have chafed a little under the discipline and longed for the time when you could take your life into your own hands and hew out your own destiny. Your individuality has been struggling for assertion.

Well from now on, outside voices will less and less control your lives. Less and less you will hear the "you must" of outside authority. If anything worthy is to be accomplished it will be by the force of the "I must" that proceeds from within. In other words your destiny is in your own hands and you must be your own director and drive yourself to your tasks.

So far you have been passengers on a train splendidly equipped for sight-seeing, instruction and pleasure. From now on you will be the engineer of a construction train, which will move only when you personally throw open the throttle.

So I ask what are you going to do? Purpose is the next thing to almightiness.

A couple of generations ago, a steamer moved out into Lake Erie from the little Canadian city of Cobourg. Upon the deck sat a young man deeply chagrined by recent events. He had just been expelled from Victoria College for ill conduct and lack of application. At heart he was a really noble fellow and never dreamed that his boyish pranks were leading him to failure and disgrace. But now his latent manhood was stirred to the very core and rising he went to the side of the boat, looked back at the group of college buildings, and clenching his fists in defiance he exclaimed "You old thing you, you have expelled me today, but I'll be president of you yet." And Samuel S. Nelles became one of the most distinguished Presidents Victoria College ever had.

Lord Rosebery when a boy formed a mighty purpose, so comprehensive in scope as to seem impossible of achievement. He would be prime minister of England, would win the Derby, and would marry the richest heiress of England and he accomplished all three.

Warren Hastings when less than seven years of age stood on a little knoll overlooking Daylesford Manor one of the most beautiful estates of England, which had been the possession of his ancestors, but had been lost to the family. His little cheeks were not with tears as he thought of all that magnificance which might have been his had not the passing years brought their misfortunes. Soon his eyes light up and his feet strike the ground as he forms a mighty purpose and exclaims "I will yet be master of this estate." He grew to manhood. Went to India. Became expert in the language of the Orient. Finally became Governor General of the great English empire of the East. But long before he became governor, he had won back and owned Daylesford Manor. That early resolve had been the guiding star of his destiny.

But purpose must be rightly directed. Your purpose must be worthy. What are you going to do?

Am I pressing this question rather hard? I am fully aware that for some, the choice of a life task is much easier than for others. For some, fathers business relations definitely mark the door through which they shall enter. Others have such marked tendencies and qualifications than almost without questioning the appropriate door swings open and they enter this profession or that pursuit. But others see no particular leading. Several doors invite. The work within each seems equally agreeable. Their abilities suit one as well as the other. For still others every door presents a barrier and selection is difficult.

Young people have you yet learned how to solve difficulties. Take them direct to God. If God owns and directs this world, if he has a plan for your life, then reason demands, that he communicate with you about it, if you ask him. Besides he has said "If any man lack wisdom let him ask of God who giveth to all men liberally and upraideth not and it shall be given him." In every perplexity go direct to God and the solution shall be forth coming.

Between the ages of 15 and 17 I struggled with this same problem. What will God have me to do? God answered. My own father said, "you are mistaken. You will make a failure of it. I will not allow you to pursue that course. You must do this. I know best." But the inner "I must" was stronger than the outer "You must not!" and I took God's word for it and went ahead. Young people, find your work, then do it.

God does not expect of all alike. God needs and asks for all types of service. But he will not ask of any man anything that is foreign to his rank. "Each in his own order." This is the maxim of service Nothing is superfluous. Every order is needed. As Dean Vaughn once said "only through each can all be gathered." Therefore let no man think his work unimportant. God needs us each and should be given the best service of us all.

By which I mean that you shall live for others. Be ambitious. Make it your purpose to realize in life, the utmost of which you are capable. To aim at less than this is to fall below mediocrity. An ambition to be first in any legitimate field of human achievement is not in itself blameworthy. Seeking personal advancement is never blameworthy when behind it is a sincere purpose to serve humanity. But if we lose sight of others and become self centred then ambition shall throttle us and like Napoleon we shall fail.

God put you here for a purpose and be assured that purpose involves more than yourself. You cannot live apart from your fellows. You must live with them. You must not live selfishly. You must live for them.

Hear in closing the parable of the dew drops. A couple of shining dew drops glistening on a green leaf near the top of a tree fell into a conversation. One said "I propose to lead an independant life. I shall sally forth into the world presently and make a record for myself But the other said, "If I can find any body to join me. I propose to unite my energies with others and thus contribute to some general movement for the betterment of the world." Just then the jolly old sun pushed his face down between the branches of the tree and drank up the first dew drop which was never heard of again. But the wind in a friendly spirit brushed the other dew drop into the stream that babbled at the foot of the tree. There it found companions and in their society went laughing toward the river, and thence through many miles of happy pilgrimage to the sea and all the while it bore its part in sweetening the land and refreshing the souls of men. Never hesitate to federate yourselves with others for a good purpose. You were put here to make the world better, by which we mean, not the material world, but the world of men.

In Christ's sacrificial prayer, found in John 17th Chapter, he offers himself as a universal Redeemer. At that time he hesitated not to say in the forever sacred prayer "For their sakes I sanctify myself." Even in the Father's presence he shrinks not from avowing that he was impelled from first to last, by an enthusiasm for humanity by a consuming passion to bless and enrich mankind.

This purpose of Christ is the point of view from which we must study ourselves and live our lives. May God speed you to a splendid ministry that will make the world better and gladder because for its sake you have sanctified yourself to heroic service.

Much of the so called milk of human kindness is buttermilk.

Danger In Eye Poultices.

Do not poultice an eye in any circumstances whatever. Binding a wet application over an eye for several hours must damage that eye, the assertions of those professing to have personal experience in this to the contrary notwithstanding. The failure to aggravate an existing trouble by binding a moist application over an inflamed eye, which application is supposed to remain for an entire night, can only be explained by the supposition that a guardian angel has watched over that misguided case and has displaced the poultice before it had got in its fine work. All oculists condemn the poultice absolutely, in every shape and in every form. Tea leaves, bread and milk, raw oysters, scraped beef, scraped raw turnip or raw potato and the medley of other similar remedies popularly recommended are one and all capable of producing irremediable damage to the integrity of the tissues of the visual organ.—Family Doctor.

Eccentric Count Bertrand.

Count Bertrand, who lived in Paris, was a very eccentric man, and to one of his eccentricities he ascribed his long life. Once a year he would betake himself to bed and stay there for three months. On these occasions he would see no one but his servant, who brought him his meals, and even him he forbade to speak. Just before the Germans began the siege of Paris the count went to bed, and the servant, true to his injunctions, said nothing of the events going on around him. One day the bread proved so bad the count demanded an explanation, whereby, of course, he learned that Paris was encompassed by the enemy. Springing out of bed, the count paced the floor, repeating, "What should a Bertrand do under such circumstances?" Suddenly he stopped, exclaiming, "We should go to bed!" and to bed he went and stayed there until the siege was over.

ECZEMA LODGES IN THE SKIN

Not a Blood Disease—Cured by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

For many years eczema was supposed to be a blood disease and was erroneously treated as such, but now the best authorities agree that eczema is only a skin disease and must be cured through the skin. The eminent skin specialist, Dr. D. D. Dennis, first discovered the eczema germ and his discovery was quickly taken up in both Germany and France.

To kill the eczema germ and at the same time heal the skin, Dr. Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc. The remedy is a liquid, not a mere salve, hence it sinks right into the pores of the skin. Washing with this oil of wintergreen compound seems to take the itch away at once; soon the scales drop away and the disease disappears. The prescription has now been used so long as to have proven its absolute merit and we do not hesitate to express our confidence in D. D. D. Prescription.

With this month the magazine takes on a summer air and devotes most of their space to fiction. The June issue of The Ladies World, which has just arrived, has a number of stories that are very entertaining, among them little Moccasins, a pathetic story of an Indian mother and child, by Keene Abbott; The Seperation, by Zona Gale; where a better understanding came in time to save the break: An Ideal Site, by Carroll Watson Rankin, which describes the ludicrous adventures of a young and sentimental couple; Through Wit of Women, by Gustav Kobbe; and The Fairy's Janet, by Winifred Kirkland. There is a special illustrated article on Safeguarding the President telling what the Secret Service really means and does. one on Chaperoning Travel Parties, which is timely, and a third of particular interest to ladies, is called Fashion and Flesh Reduction. The household department is particularly well covered with How to Plan a Meal, with Specimen Recipes, by Wealtha A. Wilson.

Lippincott's mission is solely to entertain, and right nobly does it fulfil it.

The June issue opens with a stirring complete novel of the "Zenda" type, by Grace MacGowan Cooke, whose ability as a successful writer has been demonstrated by a long list of successful books. Her new tale is entitled "The Royal Line," and the leading character is the reigning princess of Waldavia, a small European principality.

The short stories are no whit behind the novelette in point of excellence They are "The Mollycoddle," an amusing tale of childlife, by Augusta Kortrecht; "A Desperate Character," the romance of a seafaring man and a princess, by Owen Oliver; "Temperament," a highly original story of a strange affair involving a grand opera singer and one other, by Eleanor Mercein Kelly "Some Spoons and a Dog," the hilarious account of a lover's dilemma, by Alice Louise Lee; "The Truth, the Whole Truth," a humorous sketch by the never-disappointing Mr. Thomas L. Masson; "And Away They Galloped Together," a breezy story of a Western elopement, by Will Levington Comfort; and "That Denied 'Giftie,'" a clever bit of fiction, by Mella Russell McCallum.

It takes a good neighbor to appreciate a neighbor who thinks he is better.

Youth is the springtime of hope; but when a man gets a little older he stops hoping and begins to reach out for anything he can get his hands on.

Be just in business and generous out of it.—Lorrimore.

The Smart Set for June contains a number of features of peculiar excellence. "A House to Let," by Mary Mullett; "The Woman in a Million," by Marie Belden James; "Green Chartreuse," by Frederic Taber Cooper, "By Allah Given," by Maude Leonard Towson; "Miracle!" by Adelaide Stedman; "To the Devil and Back," by H. Fraser Hill; "As They Would Have Told It," by Louis Baury, and "The Trick of Time," by Federico Mariani, are all clever stories of the sparkling, breezy type that have made the Smart Set "the magazine of cleverness." Tom Masson, Theodosia Garrison, Elsa Parker, Channing Pollock and Wilberforce Jenkins are represented by other stories, sketches and verse.

George Kibbe Turner in the leading article in the June McClure's shows how Tammany Hall with the aid of crooks, thugs and the lowest order of parasites, controls New York City elections; Prof. E. T. Brewster contributes an article on "The Animal Mind from the Inside" in which he declares that animals cannot reason and that men do not reason anything like as much as they are commonly supposed to; Marion Hamilton Carter tells of the great work being done for The Conservation of the Defective Child" by Dr. Witmer of the University of Pennsylvania; George F. Parker writes of Cleveland's part in the insurance crisis and President Taft explains his attitude toward organized labor.

A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean of Cheny, Wash. was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." MEMORIAL

Eight of the Lodges of Tecumseh Honored Their Dead Sunday.

REV. D. STANLEY SHAW GAVE THE MEMORIAL ADDRESS.

In Brookside cemetery before 600 people.

Eight of the lodges of Tecumseh united in the annual observances of their Memorial Sunday with impressive exercises at Brookside Cemetery, Rev. D. Stanley Shaw of the Methodist church officiating. At 1:30 the members of the lodges met at Witherell Hall, and marched to the cemetery, where the graves of the various deceased members were decorated. During this service, the Tecumseh band rendered several selections. Prayer was offered by Rev. Shaw, and the ladies quartette, Mrs. Anna Mead, Mrs. Ella Hodges, Misses Martha Caldwell and Edith Magers sang two songs.

Guy Belding as president of the day introduced the speaker, whose remarks upon "Fraternal Organization" were forceful and full of good thoughts. In part he said; "We are here to-day for a two-fold purpose; to promote fraternity and to commemorate our dead. We are met under fraternal auspices to pay tribute to the virtues of our brothers and sisters who have passed to the great beyond.

It was shown that the history of civilization is the story of organization. From the first man has been a gaegarious animal and would not live alone. The social instinct leads to federations of various kinds. Labor unions, employers associations and all kindred organizations arise from man's feeling that in unity there is strength.

The cause for which people band together will determine the character of the organization Fraternal orders were shown to be for social and benevolent purposes and distinction was drawn between them and the church. They were not in any way substitutes for the church and were never so intended and those who spoke of their lodge as their church were simply either grossly ignorant or grossly indifferent. Rightly understood and rightly used they could be made valued adjuncts of the religious life. In closing attention was called to the fact that though not religious orders that which they had just performed was nevertheless a religious act. Flowers had ever been symbolic of human virtue and of immortality and in thus decorating the graves of departed comrades they were paying tribute to the great religious instincts of mankind."

Those lodges participating in the memorial were Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters, Odd Fellows, Rebekahs L. O. T. M. M., K. O. T. K. M., Royal Neighbors and Royal Arcanum.

Funeral of James Cook.

The remains of James Cook were brought here Saturday afternoon for burial at Brookside cemetery. Among those who accompanied the remains to Tecumseh were Mrs. Cook, Miss Martha Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Berne, Mrs. Martha Comfort of Jackson; Roy Cook of Los Animas, Colo., Edwin Cook and wife, Mrs. Thomas Lovett, Mrs. Caldwell and two children, Edward and Margaret of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Keefus of Hudson, and Rev. Spahr and daughter of Pittsburg.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

The Children's Day exercises were held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday at 10 in the morning. The exercises consisted of songs and recitations by the little ones and a short address by Rev. J. W. Dunning on "The Message of the Flowers." Twelve little ones were baptized. They are Neil Ford Stahl, Aria May Hiens, John Raymond Pyle, Andrew Raynor Langthorn, Floyd A. Scott, Elwin A. Scott, Mary Marjorie Owens, Nina Rood Hoyt, Florence Reed Jones, Ruth Gould Wood, Marian Elizabeth Jones and Ella Rogena Bell. Ronald Edwin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Johnson, was baptized on Easter Sunday.

Funeral of Mrs. John Linton.

The funeral of Mrs. John Linton was held from the home at 2 o'clock with prayer and from the M. E. church at 2:30, Rev. D. S. Shaw, speaking words of comfort to the bereaved ones. She ran the journey of her life in forty years, 6 months and 21 days and it is a path marked with deeds of kindness and cheer.

Songs were touchingly rendered by Miss Metta McKinney. The flowers were many and beautiful, but not more beautiful than the face that rested so peacefully among them. Beautiful in life, beautiful in death, but far more beautiful in the glorious resurrection morn. The lady Maccabees, Rebekah odge and the members of the Womens Foreign Missionary Society attended in a body. The burial occurred in Brookside cemetery.

BIG CIRCUS AT JACKSON.

Barnum and Bailey to Exhibit There on Friday, June 18.

The Barnum & Bailey greatest show on earth is to visit Jackson on Friday, June 18. Never since the beginning of time has an amusement enterprise so tremendous in size been organized as this one. Its magnitude is almost beyond belief. All America, together with every foreign country, has been scoured from end to end by agents of this big show in search of novelties and the result is a preformance brim full of sensational acts new to the circus world. In the big Barnum & Bailey show are nearly 400 arenic stars, most of whom are seen now for the first time. A new sensation will be seen at every preformance in "Jupiter, the balloon horse." This remarkable animal with its fearless rider ascends to the dome of the circus tent in a balloon and descends to the ground in a shower of fire-works. Nearly 1000 animal wonders are to be found in the 108 cage menagerie, 8 herds of elephants, including one herd that actually plays upon musical instruments in time and tune. A group of giants giraffes, monster trained hippopotamus, only living bihorned rhinoceros and hundreds of other strange beasts. Barnum & Bailey's big, new, free street parade is the most gorgeous proccessional display ever attempted in the history of circus business. Its tremendous size and wonderful length can only be believed in the actual seeing. It is natural to expect this big circus to lead all others in quantity of its street spectacle as well as in other departments of the big show, yet never in its splendid history of nearly half a century has it displayed such extravagance as is shown this year.

Mrs. Ruth A. Tripp

Mrs. Ruth A. Tripp, wife of the late Dr. Joseph Tripp, died at the home of her brother-in-law, Dr. J. D. Tripp, Saturday, aged 72 years, 9 mos. and 16 days. Ruth Wood was born in Saline, Aug. 20, 1836 to Mr. and Mrs. William Wood. She was the mother of one child, George Tripp, who resides in Greenville, O. The funeral was held Monday at 2 o'clock at the house, Rev. Blair of Jackson officiating. Burial in the Tipton cemetery.

DYSPEPSIA IN TECUMSEH

Many are Being Cured by Mi-o-na, the Guaranteed Remedy.

"I have had a severe trouble from bowel and stomach complaint. Procuring Mi-o-na, I used it a few weeks and with good success. Since using this remedy I have not been obliged to use a cathartic, and the stomach and bowels work normally. Mi-o-na has my endorsement." C. E. Williamson, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 15, 1908.

If reports are authentic, people of Tecumseh, who suffer from dyspepsia and other stomach troubles are getting tired of taking preparations containing pepsin, because pepsin simply digests the food artificially. Pepsin relieves, it never cures—the principle is wrong, the cart is before the horse.

And remember, pepsin only digests animal food; it has no effect on starchy food, such as potatoes, rice, oatmeal, bread, etc

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach disorders, trivial or serious, and that is to tone up and put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix the food with the natural digestive juices of the stomach.

That is just what Mi-o-na tablets do. They quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction, and in a few days it is able to do its work easily and without exertion.

Mi-o-na only costs 50c. a large box, and is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, to cure dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and stomach sickness resulting from over indulgence of the night before, or money back.

Plymouth Binder Twine

SAVES TIME AND GRAIN

Twine is a small item, but good twine saves a lot of expense in harvest time. Every time your machine is stopped the delay costs you money. Time in harvest season is always valuable, and sometimes extremely precious on account of the condition of weather or grain. Be sure you use the best twine,—PLYMOUTH TWINE. Then you will be safe from the annoyances, delays, expenses, which ordinary twine causes. Plymouth Twine works perfectly in every machine. More of it is made and used every year than any other kind, because it is known to be the best and has been for years. Binds more sheaves with less expense, no knots, no breaks, and is guaranteed full length and extra strength. Get Plymouth Twine from the local dealer. Look for the wheat-sheaf tag.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys That old fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

CLEARED OF CHARGE.

Brigadier General Bates Has Explained Check Trouble, 'Tis Said.

Lansing, Mich., June 7.—According to information here, there will be no court-martial for Brigadier General R. J. Bates.

Bates, it is said authoritatively, has straightened his check troubles by the payment of every claim, and his story that he believed his wife had mailed the money orders was accepted by the officials who conducted the investigation. He is now free from criticism on the score of falsifying.

Those who claim to be on the inside of military affairs say that the whole matter which put Bates under a cloud has been cleared up and no further action will be taken.

Examination of Rich Likely to Close Wednesday.

Bay City, Mich., June 7.—Roland Rich, charged with slaying his aged grandmother, Mrs. Christine Coryeon, will be held to answer to the charge in the circuit court, if reports current here are true. The young man's attorney, Louis P. Coumans, will, if his client is bound over, ask for his release on bail.

Relatives and friends of young Rich are saying that Justice Kelley will dismiss the case Wednesday, but what the decision will be is still a matter of doubt.

The police have no new evidence, and, according to report, the examination will be closed Wednesday without any additional testimony being put in by either defense or prosecution.

EX-EMPLOYE SHOOTS HIM.

Farmer Near Lapeer Mortally Wounded While Protecting Wife.

Lapeer, Mich., June 7.—While attempting to shield his wife from the attack of Edward Parker, a former employe, whose insane infatuation for the woman had caused his discharge last summer, James Dugan, aged thirty-five years, and one of the most prominent farmers in this county, was shot and fatally wounded by Parker, at the Dugan home, about four miles west of this city. Physicians attending Dugan stated that the man was dying, the bullet having passed clear through the right lung.

Parker is in the Lapeer county jail in this city, and, though he admits doing the shooting, he says he does not care to discuss the affair further.

Parker, finding the door of the Dugan home locked, broke a large front window and followed Mrs. Dugan to the back porch, where he started firing at her. Three shots went wild, but the fourth struck Dugan in the breast as he was running to his wife.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such. Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Not Piety, but Pork.

The following bit of humor is taken from "The Farringdons," an English romance. The speakers are Mrs. Bateson and Mrs. Hankey, worthy wives, but not altogether above feeling a certain pleasure in showing up the ways of husbands:

"They've no sense, men haven't," said Mrs. Hankey; "that's what's the matter with them."

"You never spoke a truer word, Mrs. Hankey," replied Mrs. Bateson. "The very best of them don't progerly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are wrestling with them.

"Now, take Bateson himself," continued Mrs. Bateson. "A kinder husband or better Christian never drew breath, yet so sure as he touches a bit of pork he begins to worry himself about the salvation of his soul till there's no living with him. And then he'll sit in the front parlor and engage in prayer for hours at a time, till I, says to him:

"'Bateson,' says I, 'I'd be ashamed to go troubling the Lord with a prayer when a pinch of carbonate of soda would set things straight again!'"

Dyeing Real Flowers.

"Every once in awhile some florist gets busy and puts some odd colored blossoms in his window as an extra attraction to the display," said a chiman. "I just noticed one down the street. It consisted of a bunch of impossibly green carnations. At first glance a good many people thought they were made of paper, but they got interested when they found out that they were 'natural.' Now, anybody who wants to have any of these freak flowers can get them by buying some kind of aniline ink, any color desired. Carnations are the easiest to color—white ones, of course. Put their stems in a glass filled with ink. Their stems are soft, and in a short while the larger veins in their petals are filled with the ink. Don't let them absorb too much color. They are prettier with just so much. Then remove them and put them in a vase of salt water. Lilies of the valley lend themselves to this scheme also. In fact, any white, soft stemmed flower may be used."—Philadelphia Record.

Famous Golf Match.

A projected golf match between two well known amateurs and a leading member of the London stock exchange for a stake of £500 recalls the famous foursome in which the Duke of York, afterward James II., took a prominent part on the Leith links in the year 1682. It was really an international contest in which the duke, with John Paterstone, a golfing shoemaker of great repute, championed Scotland against two noblemen of England, a heavy wager depending on the issue. The duke and the cobbler had an easy victory, thanks largely to the man of the last, and John Patersone's share of the stakes was so substantial that he was able to build a goodly house in the Canongate, in a wall of which the duke caused a stone to be placed bearing the Patersone arms with the motto "Far and sure," a tribute to the cobbler's driving powers. Patersone's house, we understand, survives today. —Westminster Gazette.

Foiled.

Noiselessly, but with all his might, the burglar tugged at the dressing table drawer. In vain. It refused to open. He tugged again.

"Give it another jerk," said a voice behind him.

The burglar turned.

The owner of the house was sitting up in bed and looking at him with an expression of the deepest interest on his face.

"Jerk it again. There's a lot of valuable property in that drawer, but we haven't been able to open it since the damp weather began. If you can pull it out I'll give you a handsome royalty on everything that's"—

But the burglar had jumped out through the window, taking a part of the sash with him.—Exchange.

Tat For Tit.

They were sitting out in the conservatory. Sam sat on the sofa, and Sally sat on Sam, but it was all right, for he had just asked her to marry him. She had said, "I don't care if I do," and thus they were engaged.

"Sam, dear," she began, "am I the only girl"—

"Now, look here, Sally," he interrupted, "don't ask me if you're the only girl I ever loved. You know as well as I do"—

"Oh, that wasn't the question at all, Sam," she answered. "I was going to ask if I was the only girl who would have you."—London Answers.

Difficult Advice.

Mrs. Rayce was talking to another young woman at a tea.

"How decidedly better off a man would be," said the other young woman, "if he would only take his wife's advice!"

"Quite true, my dear," said Mrs. Rayce. "I've advised my George time and time again not to bet on horses that don't win, but he will do it."

As Good as He Gave.

"Here is my seat, madam, but candor compels me to say that I think you are as well able to stand as I am."

"Politeness compels me to say 'Thank you, sir.'"—New York Journal.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. It is a remedy that will penetrate the distorted tissues of chronic sufferers, and drive every the last uric acid crystal out of the joints, and restore them back to their natural state. That is impossible, but I can now safely tell the pains and pangs of this detestable disease.

In Germany—while a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the link ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I uniformly cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no logical excuse to suffer longer when one can get help. We sell, and in confidence recommend our help.

Liver Trouble Remedy Free

Any intelligent person can be his own doctor in the ordinary case of liver trouble, for the symptoms cannot be mistaken. If the white of the eye becomes yellowish, if the skin becomes sallow, if pimples and blotches appear, if the bowels do not move, if you have sick headache, if you are bilious, you may be sure that your liver is torpid or inactive.

The quickest and surest remedy yet found for the cure of liver trouble or any of its symptoms is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound. This wonderful remedy is not only a laxative, but a tonic as well. It will start the flow of gastric juice, thereby soon enabling the liver to do its work naturally. A bottle of this great liver remedy can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or $1, and in many cases a single bottle has cured a chronic case.

For example, John W. Lee, 419 S. Pennsylvania ave., Indianapolis, Ind., had a stubborn and very long-standing case of liver trouble, with pimples, blotches, jaundice, etc., and it cured him. Mrs. B. Finchum, Jackson, Ky., says the same of it. Thousands of families keep it in the house against just such an emergency, as you can never tell when some member of the family will need a good laxative.

In order to have you or any other sufferer from the liver make a test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without personal expense, Dr. Caldwell will send you a free test bottle if you will send your name and address. The sample will show you how pleasant it is to take, how gently it works. It will start you on the cure of your trouble and convince you that you have found a cure. That is the object of the sample, and the doctor urges you to send for it today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

How He Worked the Artist.

This account of how an intimate friend of the great artist Kyosai obtained one of the painter's drawings is from Mrs. Hugh Frazer's "Letters From Japan:"

Kyosai always refused if asked outright for a sketch. So his friend began the negotiation by offering the artist an excellent dinner. When Kyosai had drunk deeply and seemed in a mellow humor his host called for drawing materials, saying that he felt in artistic fancy taking possession of him. No one was surprised, as Japanese gentlemen often amuse themselves in this way after a feast. The servant then brought an enormous sheet of white paper and spread it on the floor with the brushes and Indian ink beside it. The crafty host, withal looking at his guest, sank on his knees and began to draw, apparently absorbed in his occupation, but intentionally producing weak and incoherent lines. Kyosai watched the feeble effort in silence and growing irritation, and at last jumped up, dashed the tyro aside and tore the brush out of his hand, exclaiming: "Out of the way, you wretched bungler! I will teach you how to draw!" And the result was a priceless sketch, which remained in the possession of the wily entertainer.

A Max O'Rell Story.

Before he attained fame with his various books M. Blouet (Max O'Rell), who was for several years French master at St. Paul's school, related how he obtained his post there. After two or three earlier applicants had returned unsuccessful from their interview with Dr. Walker, who was at the time headmaster of the school, M. Blouet's turn came.

"I want," said the doctor after a few words, "a French master who can preserve discipline. My last was a perfect gentleman and a good fellow, but he could not keep the classes in order. The end of it was that after being much worried by one of the boys the poor fellow went home and shot himself."

"Sir," replied Max O'Rell, "that is where my countryman made a little mistake. I should have shot the boy."

The doctor rose, says M. Blouet, and grasped my hand.

"M. Blouet," he exclaimed, "you are my French master!"—London Captain.

Tips Costlier Than Treats.

They were going out of the Waldorf when he saw her look so longingly in at the big, beautiful roomful of white tables laden with roses that he said, "Will you go in and have a cup of tea or something?"

She assented willingly.

"Your hat and overcoat, sir," said the waiter firmly. "You are not allowed to sit in here with your overcoat on."

"But," objected he, "I shall stay only a few minutes."

"No matter, sir," said the waiter and took his hat and overcoat with an air of determination and disappeared.

"That's the third time," sighed he, "that I have started to go home, met somebody and parted from my hat and coat to treat them. If it happens again the tips to the waiters for keeping my hat and coat will amount to more than the sum I have paid for the treats."—New York Press.

A Bad Mixup.

"Say," remarked one government clerk to another, "I'm up against it good and proper."

"What's the trouble?" queried g. c. No. 2.

"I got two medical certificates from two different doctors yesterday," explained the party of the first part. "One was a certificate of health for a life insurance company, and the other was a certificate of illness to be sent to my chief with a petition for two weeks' leave of absence."

"Oh, that's nothing," rejoined his fellow clerk, "I've done that myself."

"Yes," continued the other, "but I mixed the certificates in mailing. The ill health certificate went to the insurance company and the certificate of good health went to my chief. See?" —Chicago News.

A Threatening Comet.

M. Camille Flammarion, the great scientist, after many years of study, arrived at the conclusion that the world will in the twenty-fifth century come across the path of the comet Bella. On this occasion a collision will take place, and, Bella being infinitely greater than the earth, a shock may be expected which, he calculates, will be 805 times greater than the shock caused by the collision between two trains, each traveling at sixty-five miles an hour.

Loving Letters.

Never burn kindly written letters. It is as pleasant to read them over when the ink is brown, the paper yellow with age and the hands that traced the friendly words are folded over the hearts that prompted them. Keep all loving letters. Burn only the harsh ones and in burning forgive and forget them.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

Calvin Whitney, president of the A. B. Chase Piano company, is dead at his home in Norwalk, O. He was sixty-two years old.

The Austin Methodist Episcopal church, Ohio street and North Central avenue, in Chicago, has been destroyed by a fire believed to be of incendiary origin.

Alfred Deakin, premier of the commonwealth of Australia, has sent a cablegram, formally offering to the imperial government a Dreadnaught or a corresponding addition to the navy.

St. Petersburg, Russia, is on the eve of a new and serious epidemic of cholera, according to the published views of the chief sanitary physician of the city, Dr. Ivanoff.

With the departure of Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce Sunday afternoon from Washington the British embassy was closed, to be re-opened at Northeast Harbor, Me., where the ambassador will spend the summer.

In a fire which started in the Kitchen of the Knight apartment house, in Dallas, Tex., Herschel Dannelly, eight years old, was burned to death, his father, D. G. Dannelly, and Charles Vandenburg were probably fatally hurt, and several others were injured.

Merchandise from the United States forms a steadily increasing share of the imports of Canada, as shown by figures from Canadian official publications just received in Washington. Furthermore, Canada's imports from Great Britain have declined during their period of increase from this country.

Floods Tie Up Railroads.

Winnipeg, Man., June 7.—Disastrous floods continue among the Rocky Mountains, and traffic is tied up at places on the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway.

A Thrifty Wife.

A careful, prudent wife is a blessing to a man, especially to a poor man, but some wives are a little too careful. Lord Eldon's wife was somewhat "near," as they say in England. His lordship was very fond of hunting and retired to the country for a few weeks toward the end of the season, where he was in the habit of riding a little Welsh pony, for which he gave 50 shillings. One morning his lordship, intending to enjoy a few hours' sport, ordered Bob to be saddled. Lady Eldon objected, but as company was present gave no reason. In a few moments, however, the servant opened the door and announced that Bob was ready.

"Why, bless me," exclaimed her ladyship, "you can't ride him, Lord Eldon! He has no shoes on."

"Yes, my lady, he was shod this week," said the servant.

"Shameful!" exclaimed her ladyship. "How dare any one have him shod without orders? John," she continued, addressing her husband, "you know you rode the pony only a few times last year, so I had the shoes taken off and have kept them ever since in my bureau. They are as good as new, and these people have shod him again. We shall be ruined at this rate."

Why He Quit.

"So you abandoned the simple style of spelling?"

"Yes," responded the former advocate of the fad. "I found it so difficult to make people understand that I knew better."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Traveler's Joy.

The cream of tartar tree, which is also called the "sour gourd," grows in northern Australia and has a trunk which measures from seventy to eighty-five feet in circumference, but which is only twenty or thirty feet high. The wood is soft and juicy and when steeped in water provides the thirsty traveler with a refreshing and cooling drink. The fruit is about six inches long, shaped like a pear and contains a gently acid pulp, which tastes like cream of tartar. Wherever it is to be found a small encampment of weary wayfarers unfurl their tents. When sighted in the bush the famous tree is always greeted with a song written by the early bushrangers called "Sing Hey For the Traveler's Joy."—New York Telegram.

Mascagni's Royal Critic.

Mascagni, the famous composer, was once asked to entertain the royal court in Rome. He did so and delighted his audience. When he finished playing he started a conversation with a little princess who had stood near the piano during the recital and had shown every sign of deep interest. As a matter of fact, she had been instructed by her mother to say, if any question should be asked, that "Mascagni was the greatest musician in Italy."

The composer asked her which of the great living masters she liked best, and the proud mother turned toward the child to hear the pretty little speech which had been taught her. Instead of the compliment came the withering remark:

"There are no great masters living. They are all dead."

The musician gave a little start and then said:

"Your excellency, permit me to congratulate you. You are the most truthful critic in Europe."

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

COMMENCEMENT

EXERCISES HELD IN THE NEW BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE THUSDAY EVENING; BEFORE A CROWDED HOUSE.

Thirteen Young People Receive Diplomas, Dr. W. A. Frost Making the Presentation Speech.

Synopsis of the papers delivered is given below.

The season of commencement in the schools has once more rolled around, bringing for the Tecumseh High School a class of thirteen candidates for the honors.

If there is any particular thing that will arouse the generous public spirit of Tecumseh more than another, it is the welfare of her schools, and in response to invitations, which were sent out several days ago, a brilliant audience assembled at the New Bradley last evening to witness the exercises of the class of 1909, who, having completed their course by four years of faithful work, received their diplomas.

The opera house had previously been trimmed by the members of the Junior class, under the direction of Miss Nellie D. Mingay, and presented a handsome appearance. Palms and ferns, with the class colors, green and white were used in profusion.

The papers were all nicely written and well delivered, showing much attention to elocution and a thorough preparation for the occasion.

The abstracts, from a number of the papers, we are obliged to give will scarcely do them justice.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the graduates, Lydia B. Babcock, Veva Hendershot, Vesta K. Wilson, Zilla E. Mills, Caroline F. Stearns, Hazel J. Temple, Robert B. Wilson, J. Henry Hand, Leon S. Wilson, Ray W. Hendershot, Charles M. Teachout, Charles V. Tansley and Thomas Elliott Jr. took places arranged for them upon the stage.

The program opened with a song, "Rocking the Moon to Sleep," by the Girl's Glee club, which was followed by the Invocation by Rev. J. Wirt Dunning.

The Salutatory was given by Miss Lydia B. Babcock, giving all a hearty welcome.

To some a commencement night means little or nothing it is only the end of school life, seldom it is thought of as a real beginning. To us who look forward to greater possibilities, to grander opportunites, to a more enlarged sphere of activity, this evening seems a commencement indeed. Well it should although a few years, perhaps months, ago most of us looked forward to this moment as the final goal. We thought of it as the culmination of our fondest hopes, our brightest dream. Perhaps there was no thought in our minds that beyond commencment evening there could be nothing better, or noble for which to strife. But as the eventful occasion drew nearer we asked ourselves "What then"?

Is it the end, or is it in reality a beginning? In one sense it is the end. No matter where we go or what we do we never can have the same environments that we had in the past. That has ended. Our school life in Tecumseh is past. Many assocations we hold most dear must now be severed forever, and yet it is the commencement, too. We must now become part of a community; we must now, strive to improve ourselves and gain power by our personal efforts without the assistance and constant guidance of instructors. Just now each one of us might well recall these lines from Holmes.

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul, As the swift seasons roll! Leave the low vaulted past! Let each new temple, nobler than the last, Shut thee from heaven, with a dome more vast, Till thou at length art free, Leaving thine out grown shell by life's unresting sea.

Tonight witnesses the severance of school-room ties. To-morrow each of us must start alone upon the path that leads thru the vague and distant future. There will no doubt be trials and difficulties for each of us to over come, but let us cheerfully surmount them all. There is the basis of a great truth in the belief of certain Indians that, when they conquer an enemy his strength is added to their own. So when we over come an obstacle, or hold ourselves to our duties in spite of great difficulties, we add to our power to overcome. As the solid muscles of the athletic are the result of constant excercise, so a strong, forceful character is largely the result of effort required to overcome adversities.

To overcome means to be stronger; to struggle with difficulties means to gain power.

To-night we are in the spring time of life, the seeds of character are being sown. Shall our lives be useful, or shall they be failures? Shall we over come the trials that must beset our future lives, or shall we, fall ignominiously while those of greater force, of more determined will, pass over us to greater and nobler success?

Tonight is our commencement we are now starting out upon lives that each of us must live alone.

Since our exercises mark not only an ending but also a beginning, how appropriately is this day termed Commencement Day,—the day upon which we enter into a new existence As we accept the responsibilities which must now be ours, we are pleased that you—our parents, our teachers and our friends are here to bid us "God speed."

The growth of Advertising, was the subject chosen by Thomas Elliott. His talk showed thought and study. In part he said, "Although advertising has had its greatest growth within the last fifty years, it is a primitive orgin as far back as the time of Caesar. This early form was the public crier, who passed up and down the streets of the city calling out the descriptions of things lost. Soon after this shop signs began to appear, with no lettering but pictures to answer the purpose. Booksellers soon began to advertise in papers. Advertising grew rapidly in New England but it never reached the heighth it has in this country. To-day advertising is divided into two classes, local and general. The advertising agency has grown rapidly there being about 100 recognized agencies of this kind in this country, The development of periodical advertising has been so rapid within the last few years that it has been said that the publishers themselves have not caught up with it. It has become neccessary, on account of the great advertising, for for some business men to employ an ad writer. Newspaper and magazine advertising, are, of course, the only forms, for many millions of dollars are expended annually in various ways. Among the most prominent are catalogue, booklet, hand bill, folder and posters. Two of the best ways for advertising at present aside from newspaper, are sign boards and display cards found in every street car. They are both growing rapidly.

Miss Veva F. Hendershot gave an interesting discourse upon Procrastination. It was full of good thoughts. She cited a number of the evils of procrastination.

Charles V. Tansley rendered a 'Cello solo, which was heartily enjoyed.

The Evolution of Political Parties in the United States was given by Charles M. Teachout in which he traced the growth of the political parties from the first down to the present time.

He said, "There have not been so many political parties in the United States, as one might suppose, although there have been minor parties from time to time, the contest for presidency has been mostly between two main parties.

The Whigs and torries were the first parties, but after the Revolution of 1776, the Tory party was broken up. During Washington's administration the Federalist and Republican parties were formed. The latter party was not like the Republican party of to day. Both parties governed at diffierent times.

During John Quincy Adams' administration, the people split into two factions, Adam's men and Jackson's men, The National Republicans clustered around Clay and favored liberal constructions and the tariff. The old Republican party was then remodeled and called Democratic—Republicans, and later Demoratic. This was the Democratic party of to-day.

During the next adminstration the National Republicans called themselves whigs, although the party was not changed.

The Anti-Slavery party was formed called the Liberty party. They soon broke up.

Finnally the whigs were remodeled and became the Republican party, the beginning of that party of to-day. The Know Nothing party was formed in 1857, and aimed to check the importation of Immigrants. The Republicans continued in power after the Civil war and elected six presidents. Two minor parties were formed, the Greenbacks ane Prohibitionists. The Prohibitionists grew in number and now constitute a strong minor party.

Since 1884 there has been a close struggle between the Republicans and Democrats."

In closing he said it is likely a good thing that the people differ in their opinion as to how the Goverment should be carried on. The party in power must do the right thing or the next president will be of another party. There is no other Republic in the world as good and as powerful as ours and for that worth and power the United States must thank none other than the political parties.

Miss Vesta Wilson had the subject, "The Fascination of Untrodden ways. She said, Many men are victims of intellectual short-sightedness, and many take their own horizon to be the boundary of the whole world. New facts bewilder them. They wish to see no change in the steady march of events to which they are accustomed. In their eyes the human race has been always what it is at the present moment. They overlook all the difficulties the intelligence of man has overcome. They do not know that behind any explanation we may give of the phenomena of nature there lies the great unknown. They are satisfied with old formulas, by a mere change of words. "Why does a stone fall? Because it is attracted by the the earth." They are satisfied with this answer, and think they understand. In all degrees of civilization, men of this sort have been found stupid; men who deny belief in everything not clearly explanied, yet fancy they know all about the organization of the universe.

For example, the school of Pythagoras, rose to a belief in the diernal movement of our planet, which relieved the heavens from the absurd necessity of turning every twenty-four hours around earth, a little insignificant spet in the infinity of space. Of course public opinion was at once in revolt against this idea. Superior minds found it impossible to rise to this idea. Not [illegible] intellect nor astronomers could comprehend this theory of the relation of the earth and sun The people of that time were incapable of admitting the truth of anything they did not understand, not suspecting that they understood nothing at all. There are those who will accept a new theory if it is reasonable, and still others wish to find out things for themselves. To the latter class belongs Robert Peary, who devoted years of his life searching for the North Pole. All hardship passed by his ardent desire to penetrate into the unknown.

Inventors find a great fascination in untrodden ways. For instance Thomas Edison, who forgot to eat or sleep, when working over some great invention. Tireless perseverance is a secret of Edison's success.

Daniel Boone was led on by his intense love for uncultivated nature, crossed the Alleghaney mountains, and opened to settlers one of the most productive regions in the United States. He followed the "call of the wild" fascinated by each new discovery.

Thus it has ever been and will continue, while man exists in this old world of ours that the beaten path will be rejected, and new untrodden road be made for there is a fascination in searching for the unknown and bringing to light that which will benefit mankind.

"Ruins of Time" by Ray W. Hendershott was extremely good. The history of the ruins of ancient nations opens to us a vast field for meditation. The ruins of their grand cities, temples, and monuments and finally of all that produced their grandeur, offer a broad theme for the philosopher, poet and painter. Look for a moment at the power and grandeur to which the ancient nations's arrived. Look at some of those grand cities, which abounded in all the luxury and magnificence that the world could afford. Babylon, with her splendid towers and temples, and the immense wealth of her population. That City was soon laid in ruins.

Carthage has fallen. The warlike band, and mighty fleets have perished With them passed those who commanded her fleets and armies. The Romans entirely destroyed this city. Thebes with her hundred gates, thousands of soldiers, chariots, rich temples, is all in ruins. Syracuse was also taken and destroyed These are but a few of the many cities, which now are in ruins.

Those ancient empires and republics, Greece, Athens, Sparta have all fallen. Greece and Rome proved their own destroyers. The cause of the fall of those ancient cities, empires and republics, was a lack of proper education.

Will the United States ever be added to the catalogue of fallen republics and these flourishing cities and villages be laid in ruins? May the future history of our country be far better. Our country calls upon parents to remember that her liberty was bought at the price of our forefathers blood. She calls upon the youth to remember whose sons they are and whose inheritance they possess. May they so wisely exert themselves as to still promote the welfare and happiness of our country, and may we continue to live in a free, happy and prosperous nation.

Floyd Slater, sang "The Brigand," which was enjoyed profoundly.

Miss Zilla E. Mills gave the History of the class of 1909. She said in part, "Since the beginning of the world people have gone on pilgramages, some in quest of land and riches and some in quest of knowledge. But whatever the goal, each traveller has the same trials to undergo, and the same difficulties to surmount before he reaches his Castle of Hearts' Desire. It was in quest of knowledge that we, a band of pilgrims set forth in fall of 1905." She traced their history through the four years to the present time and in closing said, "We have after four years of faithful toil and study reached the end of our fist pilgrimage, for we have attained the Castle of our Hearts' Desire. We have reached the first great goal of our lives."

Leon Wilson had chosen for his subject "The Importance of Little Things." He said, "Human knowledge is but an accumulation of small facts and experiences, carefully treasured, growing at length into a mighty pyramid. The greatest men are not those who despise the day of small things, but those who have improved them most carefully."

He gave the following illustrations: Columbus, after discovering a few bits of sea weed and drift wood floating on the waves, was enabled to stay a mutiny of his sailors, which might have prevented the discovery of a new world.

Franklin discovered that lightning and and electricity were the same, by the stiffening fibres of the hemp cord of his kite. The knowledge of this fact led to the invention of the lightning rod.

A spark falling upon some combustibles, led to the invention of gun powder. From the steady swinging motion of a hanging lamp, Galileo saw the possibilities of a pendulum.

Galveni discovered that a froge leg's twitched when placed in contact with different metals, and finally the electric telegraph was discovered by this.

More than 450 years have passed since Lourens Coster cut the names of his children in the bark of trees, for their amusement, and made the discovery that if letters were carved on seperate blocks, and wet with ink, they would make clear printed impressions.

While Edison was singing into the mouth piece of a telephone, he discovered that the vibration of his voice caused a steel needle to prick one of his fingers held behind it. The phonograph was the result of this.

The discovery of copper was made when Indians fried fish on some pretty stones, and died soon after. It was discovered that these stones contained copper.

Napoleon and Wellington "were great in little things." They knew nothing of trifles.

The history of many a failure could be written in three words, "Lack of detail." Least of all seeds, greatest of all harvests, seems to be one of the great laws of Nature. Many an honorable career, has resulted from a kind word spoken in season.

"Only a thought in passing
A smile or encouraging word,
Has lifted many a burden,
No other gift could have stirred.
Only! But then the onlys make up the mighty all."

The future of the class was cleverly told by Caroline F. Stearns.

J. Dusine Service favored the audience with a violin solo, rendering, Grande Fantasie Militaire.

Hazel J. Temple told very entertainingly of the "Women of the White House.

It has become customary for each class as they leave the school building to make their will. J. Henry Hand was chosen to prepare this as follows:

We the graduates of the class of 1909 of the High School of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee, and state of Michigan, of lawful age, sound mind and disposing memory, do make, publish and declare this our last will and testament in manner following, viz:—

First We will and direct that all our just debts and graduation expenses be paid.

Second. We give, bequeath, and devise to our worthy superintendent our

"Take your needle, my child, and work at your pattern; it will come out a rose by and by." Life is like that—one stitch at a time taken patiently, and the pattern will come out all right, like the embroidery.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

Pride does not measure happiness so much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

Any lady reader of this paper will receive, on request, a clever "No-Drip" Coffee Strainer Coupon privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. It is silver-plated, very pretty, and positively prevents all dripping of tea or coffee. The Doctor sends it, with his new free book on "Health Coffee" simply to introduce this clever substitute for real coffee. Dr Shoop's Health Coffee is gaining its great popularity because of: first, its exquisite taste and flavor; second, its absolute healthfulness; third, its economy—1½lb 25c; fourth, its convenience. No tedious 20 and 30 minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. Try it at your grocer's, for a pleasant surprise. Sold by all grocers.

Don't, because your father, grandfather, or great-grandfather has been a doctor, preacher, or lawyer, try to force your boy in the same profession. Find out what he is particulary interested in and adapted to. Many an unhappy, unsuccessful lawyer or doctor or preacher would have made a successful merchant, engineer, or farmer had not a mother's ambition interfered.

Sometimes you may be told that there are other things just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. That isn't so. Nothing made is as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for any ailments of the kidney or bladder, which always result in weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, rheumatism and urinary disorders. A trial of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills is sufficient to convince you how good they are. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his hehrt about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters to himself.

Could Not Be Better.

No one has ever made a salve, ointment, lotion or balm to compare with Bucklen's Arnic Salve. (Continued from Page One.)

sincere regret for all trouble caused her during our school days spent here, and also our highest gratitude for the number of times she has applied the goad, to inspire us to gain a passing mark and we are duly thankful for the many ways she had of imparting inspiration.

Third. To the School District of Tecumseh we give and bequeath the sum of 20,000 dollars in Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Rail Road Stocks. Said sum to be used and disposed of at the discretion of the school board in erecting a new school building with separate laboratories so that future students may not have to study in the same room and inhale the odor of concoctions prepared by the chemistry class. Said building must have open stairways and no doors or if there be doors they must be off glass thus providing ample time for the students to quiet down upon catching a glimpse of the superintendent on the stair. Said district to forfeit all claim to the money if not used according to these instructions.

Fourth. To each of the teachers of the Tecumseh High School, who have taught their last term in Tecumseh we do hereby give all of the interest on the studies that we have manifested during the past year. We assure them that this will not be illegal nor above the maximum rate allowed in this state. Those teachers who think this will not be ample to provide the necessities of life may have an added sum of ten dollars ($10) per month, by proving their claim before a jury composed of members of the class of 1909. This section to be declared null and void unless said teachers do solemnly swear that they do here and now proclaim their intention of dropping the birch and retiring from active service.

Fifth. To those teachers who are not included in the above section we give a guarantee signed by all members of the school, stating that they will desist from causing unnecessary trouble so far as lies in boy and girl nature. We also give them unrestricted access to the wood lot on the northwest corner of our estate, providing they art only such saplings as may be of immediate necessity in their chosen work.

Sixth. To our Right Honorable and most worthy janitor, who has a positive habit of leaving the rooms cold to be warmed by the teacher at the expense of the scholars, we give 133 pounds of glue to be used sparingly and semi-occasionaly in the funaces so as to produce a slighty noxious odor upstairs. If this is not productive of a holiday it is to be used unceasingly until said object be reached. Said party to release all claims to the merchandise if these instructions are not carried out.

Seventh. To the Juniors upon arriving to the proper degree of dignity or upon entering the Senior year, we give and bequeath our knowledge of the subjects we studied during the last school year, providing they call for said knowledge at the earliest possible date as it may be put away and be lost among the minor papers of our large estate.

Eighth. To the sophomores we give all the "ponies" we have ridden during the Junior and Senior years. We would willingly give said party our knowledge of the Junior studies, but we have put away our childish things to be used for future reference in our old age and besides we have lost the index, it was so inconcievably small. This section to be declared null and void by our administrator unless the sophomores give him their word of honor that they will not disgrace the school building by placing their gaudy colors upon its roof.

Ninth. To the Freshmen we give and bequeath absolutely nothing except our boundless pity for those so sorely afflicted with the big head that they have given the stairs unnecessary wear by their being sent to the superintendent's office on errands of business which required prompt attention.

Lastly. We hereby nominate and appoint our friend Charles Vettner of Tecumseh aforesaid, executor of this instrument hereby revoking all former wills by us made.

In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hand and seal this 9th day of June 1909.

CLASS OF 1909.

The foregoing instrument was, on the date thereof signed, sealed, published, and declared by the class of 1909, the Testator, as and for their last will and testament in our presence, and we, at their request, in their presence, have herto set our names as witnesses.

Marcus Alonzo Hammond of Tecumseh.

Renben de Rondeville
of same place.

A piano duet by Mrs. F. B. Wood and Miss Edith Shull was greatly enjoyed.

Robert Wilson as president of the class of 1909, gave the valedictory, which was an able discourse:

Master of human destinies am I,
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk, I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate.
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire and conquer every foe
Save Death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore,
I answer not and I return no more.

Such is John J. Ingles interpretation of the word "Opportunity." This bit of verse has called forth from poets, philosophers, statesmen and journalists, many comments upon the irremediable, once and once only sentiment expressed in it. The majority of people disagree with the author's statement that opportunity knocks but once at every door. It seems to most men that our opportunities are many and variable.

The first great opportunity that comes to almost everyone is that of obtaining an education. In school the opportunity is presented to the child to make something of himself. The question is, will he or will he not take advantage of it? Oftimes the way is cloudy and obstacles arise which tend to discourage him. Then it is that the parents come forward with kindly advice and encouragement. How many times during our school days have we been discouraged and were about to give up, but have heeded their kind advice; have taken fresh courage and pressed on until at last, to-night, we have reached the goal for which we have striven.

We realize our opportunities have been many during our high school years. Whether we have profited by them as we ought is a question for each to decide for himself. The class has, from time to time during its history, lost many of its members. They, for un known reasons, failed to take advantage of the great opportunity. Other opportunities will, no doubt, be presented to them, but those lost opportunities of obtaining an education can never be recalled.

We, as a class, wish to thank the school board for the conveniencies and privileges of a well regulated school. To them we are indebted for many of the opportunities of our school life. We also wish to thank the teachers for taking a deep interest in our welfare. We realize they have done their best to teach us to aspire to higher and better ideals. Words cannot express our gratitude and thanks for the efforts they have made in our behalf. To-night marks our separation. We may meet many times in the future, but never again under the past conditions. The time has at last come when we should be up and doing. We bid them and the school board an affectionate farewell.

While the opportunities presented by the school board and teachers are perhaps the greatest of our school life, we realize we have had many others in connection with them. There have been the opportunities of making new acquaintances and friends, of social times together, of being a help and blessing to one another. The thought of leaving all these behind makes us sad indeed, but we must move on to make room for others, who will soon fill our places. We bid our schoolmates farewell, wishing them every success and when they in turn are through with the dear old high school, we will welcome them as schoolmates in the school of life.

Classmates, the time has come when we must part. For four long years we have worked together to reach this culmination of our labors. Although they have been years of effort yet there have been many pleasant intermissions. They have brought us closer to one another, thus making the parting more painful. Where ever our lots may be cast we cannot but look back and remember the many pleasant days spent together at the dear old high school. I trust it may be a memory which time cannot erase.

If we have not made that progress which you have expected of us, the fault is our own. We thank you, patrons and friends of the high school for the interest you have taken in us in the past and for your presence and kind attention here to-night. In behalf of the class of 1909 I bid you "Adieu."

Dr. W. A. Frost in a few well chosen words, congratulating the members of the class upon finishing their school course in Tecumseh, presented them with their diplomas.

Rev. C. H. Chaney pronounced the benediction, and the members of the class of 1909 were alumni.

She Followed Instructions.

In a certain city, which shall be nameless, a literary man had asked his wife as she was starting downtown to buy a couple of shirts for him. She asked him what kind, and he answered, "Size 15."

"Yes, but"—

"Two dollars."

"But I want to know"—

"Oh, the color? Well, I've plenty of white shirts. Get me something that won't show soot. Now, don't bother me any more, please. I'm at work."

She did not bother him any more. She went away and in the afternoon returned with her purchases.

"Here are your shirts, John," she said, laying them down before him.

"Why, they are coal black, Lucinda!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, that's the only kind that won't show soot. They are just what you told me to buy. Now, don't bother me by talking about them. I have got to go and look after the children."

Being "game," John took his medicine without protest.—Youth's Companion.

A Just Rebuke.

"I am," he said, "deformed. Pads hide it. Still, deformed I am, and I want to know why writers always make deformed persons villains? Take Quasimodo in Victor Hugo's 'Notre Dame.' Why, Quasimodo was little better than a wild gorilla, swinging from the great bell and hurling the priest down from the high tower. Take the housemaid's clubfoot father in Ibsen's 'Ghosts.' There was a nasty old man for you—a nasty, perverse, evil minded old rooster, eh? Take Dick Crookback in the immortal William's play. Take Nosey the Dwarf in Hauff's classic fairy tale. Take the villains in all fairy tales, for that matter. They are a one eyed, lame, hunchbacked, clubfooted lot.

"It makes us deformed folks red hot, this literary imputation of villainy. It causes people to think we really are villains. Where's the child, after a course of fairy tales, that can be persuaded a hunchback's soul doesn't match his body?" — Cincinnati Enquirer.

Under Pressure.

Isn't it queer that when a man really wants to go somewhere he can do as much work in half an hour as would ordinarily take him half a day.—Portland Express.

HONORS FOR WRIGHT BOYS

Aero Club of America Presents Them With Medals.

AFFAIR AT THE WHITE HOUSE

President Makes Presentation in Presence of Distinguished Company. Their Sister, Katherine, Who Has Done Much Towards Their Success, Also Shares in Honors.

Washington, June 10.—This is a day of events in Washington for Orville and Wilbur Wright and their sister, Katherine. They are being showered with unusual honors and are the center of attraction wherever they go.

Arriving shortly after 8 o'clock this morning from their home in Dayton, O., they were received at the station by a number of government officials and a large crowd, including many prominent people.

They were entertained at luncheon at noon by the Aero Club of Washington. Prominent statesmen, diplomats, scientists, aeronauts and army and navy officers were invited to meet the Wrights at the luncheon.

At 2:30 this afternoon, in the east room of the White House, Wilbur and Orville Wright will be presented with magnificent gold medals awarded them by the Aero Club of America. The presentation will be made by President Taft in the presence of a distinguished company.

These medals are given Wilbur and Orville for the great work which they have accomplished in aerial navigation. The sister, Katherine, is also a skilled aeroplanist and has made more ascensions than any other woman. Much of the credit for the success attained by the American "man-birds," as the brothers have come to be called, is due to the aid given by their sister in their early struggles, when she gave her savings as a school teacher in the Ohio schools to carry on their experiments.

The Wrights will consult with General James Allen, the chief signal officer, regarding the official trials of their aeroplane which are scheduled to be completed by June 28th. They will make no flight today, as their machine has not yet been shipped to Washington.

DISCOVERED "RAG TRUST."

Senator Dolliver Claims to Have Made the Find.

Washington, June 10.—In the consideration of the woolen schedule of the tariff bill by the senate the finance committee Wednesday won several victories, three of its amendments to increase the rates fixed by the house on wool top and other wastes, on shoddy and on tops being adopted.

Senator Dolliver declared that he had discovered a "rag trust," the existence of which was denied by Senator Warren. Senators Warren and Lafollette were the principal speakers, the former urging increased and the latter lower duties.

MADE GOOD SPEED

Builders of Battleship Michigan Are Pleased With Results.

Rockland, Me., June 10.—Highly gratified with the top speed showing of 20.01 knots just made in her standardization tests, the builders and officers of the battleship Michigan are confident that she will meet the requirements of 18.5 knots contract speed in her four hours' run yet to be made.

The Michigan was favored with a smooth, level sea and no wind. The New York Shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., built the Michigan.

Gang of Mail Box Robbers.

Boston, June 10.—In the arrest, just made here, of Edward C. Dano, who is charged with robbing a private mail box, and the raiding of an alleged opium resort, the police claim to have unearthed a gang of men and women which they believe to have been concerned in robbing mail boxes in Boston and New York since May.

ROY W. CODLING, Clerk.

Women are never selfish in the matter of secrets. There are very few who will not share their last one with you if you will give them a chance.

One of the nice things about carrying a fountain pen in your pocket is the fact that you can always come within one of guessing whether it is or is not leaking down your shirt front.

It is curious how easily a woman can be deceived by a foreign suitor making his appeal through a cornet, when she would instantly spot a fellow American who was talking through his hat.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. PROMOTION

Of Will L. Lourie of Elgin, Ill., Son of A. H. Lourie, Well Known to a Number of Tecumseh People.

Announcement was made by the state department at Washington Wednesday of the promotion of Will L. Lourie United States consul at Erfurt, Germany, from that post to the consulate at Carlsbad, Austria-Hungary. Mr. Lourie is the son of Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Lourie of Adrian, and will be in Adrian with his bride to spend Home comers day. Mr. Lourie was associated with the late Geo. N. Stacy on the Elgin Daily News. He was a graduate of the Adrian college of which his father was president. Rev. Lourie a number of years ago, preached in the Congregational church of Tipton and is well known to a number of Tecumseh people.

FLOWER DAY.

W. C. T. U. Ladies Gladdened Many Homes.

A beautiful custom, observed by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., is that of remembering the sick on the 9th of June, with flowers. Wednesday, the local W. C. T. U. called at 63 homes in our village where there was sickness, or elderly ones who are shut in. In each case a pretty bouquet a card containing a verse from the Bible were left, and a pleasant call was made. Thus they gladden the homes of many a weary one.

FURNITURE AND UNDERTAKING

The Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator

built on the most sanitary principles that can be devised

appeals to all housekeepers at first glance. The reason is that it looks exactly as we say it is. It looks easily cleanable and a brief demonstration proves that it is easily cleanable. It looks cool and an explanation of its air cooling principles speedily convinces that it is cool and that it saves ice. It looks solid and durable and a careful scrutiny reveals that it is all that and more.

We guarantee the Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator to absolutely satisfy the most critical buyer. If it doesn't, we'll take it back. 25 years of refrigerator building experience have made the makers experts. No better refrigerator could be built. Please come in real soon—tomorrow are—and see how truthfully we have set forth its merits.

Confidence in This Bank

is based on these facts:

That it has been in business 59 years, has weathered financial storms—business depression of every nature.

That it has large resources—over $100,000 in excess of all liabilities to depositors.

That it carries a cash reserve considerably in excess of all requirements of the laws of the state of Michigan.

Above all, that its Directors are men of sound, experienced business judgement. They direct. Its officers have spent a lifetime in practical banking.

These policies have brought to this bank the growing confidence of the public generally and the active support of its friends.

THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

It is positively asserted by the exhibitors of the Johnson—Burns fight pictures, that they far out-class any previous moving picture reproductions of similar events. The weather conditions were so perfect the day of the battle that pratical perfection was attained by the picture machine men, and inconsequence every smallest detail of the bout is vividly shown without flicker or blur. In addition to the actual fourteen rounds of the battle, many interesting preliminary secene are shown, including Burns training quarters showing the clever white boy hard at work preparing for the battle and a strech of film shows Johnson covering a part of his daily road work. These picture are to be exhibited in this city, Saturday night June 12 at the Opera House.

The Thursday circle met this week with Mrs. Charles Fielder.

The subject for Christian Endeavor next Sunday evening will be Francis Willard. Mrs. Vincent Wood leads.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Next Sunday is Children's Day and will be appropriately observed.

At 10 a. m. the pastor will preach a special sermon on "Children and the Kingdom."

At 5 p. m. the exercises by the school will be held. In connection with this service the pastor will administer the rite of infant baptism.

Men's class will discuss "Christ's Discourses Against the Scribes and Pharisees." Matt. 22: 41-46 and Matt. 23. Young men's class will study the book of Micah. Epworth League will have no meeting on account of the children's exercises. The evening preaching service will likewise be dispensed with.

The quarterly services held last Sunday were especially inspirational.

The midweek prayer services are being largely attended and the pastor hopes that the attendance may keep up without abatement all summer. It is one of the coaling stations of the spiritual life, where every member of the church can find great benefit. The meetings are open to all and all are invited.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Sunday, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. T. Johnson of Japan will preach. Mr. Johnson has had eight years of experience in educational work in Japan, and has just returned to America on leave of absence. Mr. Johnson is a college friend of the pastor. He is one of the younger of the new school of missionaries, who are becoming leaders in Oriental life. He will speak of the new awakening in the "Sunrise Kingdom." All should hear him.

At the evening service the choir will give a brief musical program:

Anthem, "Great and Marvellous"—Farmer—Choir.
Duet, "In His Hands"—Schneelser—Miss Kreidler, Miss Magers.
Solo, "Perfect Life"—Holden—Mr. Ellis.

Mr. Johnson will speak. All are invited.

At the young people's meeting Sunday afternoon, a literary program will be given, as follows:

REGRETTED

The Loss of Our School Superintendent, Miss Flora H. Hartbeck.

Who resigns, after serving our school faithfully for a number of years.

With the closing of the school year, Tecumseh loses one of the best superintendents the schools have ever known. She served several years as principal and five years as superintendent During this time the schools have been brought to a high standard, Tecumseh schools ranking with the best in the state. She was an excellent disciplinarian, winning the respect of all her pupils, reminding the older ones in this regard of a former superintendent, Zeno Spencer. The untiring efforts in her undertaking have been rewarded as shown by the large classes Miss Hartbeck has graduated and the many foreign pupils she has attracted to the schools. It is with a feeling of regret by the board, parents and pupils that they are compelled to accept her resignation, but while losing her in the schools we are happy to say that she will remain a res'dent of Tecumseh.

Lansing, Mich., June 7, 1909.

Mrs. Geo. Stacy.

Dear Madam:

In your write up of Boulder day you say that Ezra F. Blood was represented by his sons Charles and Orville. Well the other kid was there also.

I would not mention the fact only I want everyone to know that I was so much interested in the affair that I made the trip from Lansing and returned the same day for the express purpose of being present. I was amply repaid as the exercises were very interesting and I had the pleasure of meeting a great many old pioneers that I had not seen for the past thirty-five years.

I feel as though I was somewhat of a pioneer myself as it was sixty-seven years ago that I made my first appearance on the banks of the river Raisin one mile southeast of Tecumseh.

People who have never moved away from their home town can hardly appreciate the pleasures there is in returning and renewing old acquaintances. Some day I shall return for the last time: when that day comes I shall want to be placed beside my much loved pioneer, Father and Mother in beauiful Brookside Very Truly Yours,

L. C. BLOOD.

He has been married 40 years," said an editor, writing the obituray of a deceased citizen, "and was prepared to die.

NOTHING TO PAY

Hyomei is Guaranteed to Cure Catarrh or Money Back.

When you suffer horribly from catarrh and are constantly sniffing and snuffing, hawking and spitting, and doing other disgusting things, remember there is a certain cure, called Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me), which is guaranteed to cure.

Hyomei will give joyful relief to any catarrh sufferer in five minutes and it gives remarkable relief to consumptives.

Hyomei is medicated air prepared from the extracts taken from the giant eucalyptus trees of inland Australia, where catarrh or consumption is never known.

You breathe in this healing and antiseptic air through an inhaler and this air, with its peculiar soothing properties, passing over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane (for catarrh is a germ disease), kills the germ, allays the inflammation, and in a short time completely cures the disease.

A complete Hyomei outfit, which includes a hard rubber inhaler that will last a life time, and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1.00, extra bottles cost 50c. Sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, who guarantee it on the money back plan.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see. Sold by all dealers.

With man, most of his misfortunes are occasioned by man.—Pliny the Elder.

Somehow a woman never seems to enjoy a good cry unless she has two or more reasons for starting the bring flow.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for constipation, stomach and liver trouble, as it sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Sold by all druggists.

FACE CONVICTION FOR CONSPIRACY

Case of Alleged Chinese Smugglers Begins in Chicago.

MAY HAVE BEEN BAD GANG

Accused of "Sneaking" Celestials Into Chicago From El Paso, Tex.—District Attorney Tells of One Instance Where Chinamen Were Brought North in Ice Box of Dining Car.

Chicago, June 10.—Defendants in one of the greatest conspiracies to smuggle Chinese into this country with which the government has ever dealt have been placed on trial before United States District Judge Landis. Eight men were indicted as the result of the activity of governmnet agents. Three recently pleaded guilty, sentence being deferred; one is a fugitive; the bonds of another were declared forfeited, and the remaining three entered pleas of not guilty.

Robert W. Stephenson, said to be the son of a Cripple Creek (Colo.) judge; W. H. Clark and John Heltzell, all brakemen, recently admitted their part in the alleged conspiracy and agreed to give testimony for the government. They assisted in bringing Chinese from El Paso to Chicago.

Those just brought before the bar were Bob Leung, a well to do Chinese merchant of El Paso, and Jose Parra and Carlos Sevedra, Mexicans. John M. Yanner, a dining car cook, who assisted in transporting the aliens, will be a witness for the prosecution.

Many Men In Conspiracy.

Assistant United States District Attorney Seward S. Shirer, in outlining the government's case, following the selection of a jury, declared the alleged conspiracy had embraced many men besides those indicated and that they had brought hundreds of Chinese into this country across the Mexican border. For each Celestial thus smuggled the conspirators received $500, he said.

"The largest consignment about which evidence will be introduced," said Mr. Shirer, "took place on Oct. 8, 1908. Arrangements were carefully made, and five Chinese were sent to Chicago, with the help of Yanner and the dining car crew. The five men were concealed in the ice box of the dining car. Even the blankets given them could not keep them warm, and they took turns in visiting the linen closet, which was smaller than the ice box, to get thawed out."

AMERICA'S WORK COMPLETE

Constructed 3,300 Homes For Italians In Earthquake District.

Buffalo, June 10.—America's main relief work for the earthquake sufferers at Messina, Italy, has been completed.

Shriners Change Date of Convention to April 12.

Louisville, Ky., June 10.—Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in thirty-fifth annual convention Wednesday chose New Orleans for the 1910 convention, set the date of meeting back from June to April 12, chose Potentate Elias D. Jacoby of Indianapolis as imperial outer guard, the lowest office on the imperial divan, and put the other officers forward one step, thus making George L. Street of Richmond, Va., imperial potentate.

BACK TO OLD STAMP.

New Special Delivery Kind Caused Confusion in Mails.

Washington, June 9.—As a matter of imperative necessity Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided to discontinue the new green special delivery stamp and return to the familiar blue stamp showing a special delivery messenger boy mounted on a bicycle.

In the great rush with which the mails must be handled many letters bearing the new stamp have escaped treatment as special delivery matter, because of its similarity in size and color to the one cent stamp.

Miss May Humphrey of Palmyra, closed another successful year of school work in this district Tuesday.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Will Wed English Soldier.

London, June 10.—Ida M. Wynne, second daughter of Robert J. Wynne, the American consul general in London, will be married about the middle of June to Hugh Ronald French, a first lieutenant in the Seventh (Princess Royal's) dragoon guard.

SOLDIERS PRAISED BY GENERAL BARRY

Cuban Army of Pacification Did Its Duty Well.

Washington, June 10.—Through the publication by the war department of the final report of Major General T. H. Barry, the official record of the work of the Cuban army of pacification is complete.

General Barry's last report covers the period from Aug. 31, 1908, to the date of the withdrawal of the army, April 1, last. The purpose, says the general in this final report, is to stamp indelibly the unusual record of the troops, which, from the time they first landed, Oct. 6, 1906, to the departure of the last detachment, is unparalleled for clean conduct, self restraint and an earnest endeavor to comply fully, in letter and spirit, with the instructions given by the president.

The full measure of success attending the army's occupation could not have been attained, says General Barry, without the cooperation and helpful ministrations of the provisional government, with which the most cordial relations always existed, thereby causing the administrations, civil and military, to be at all time in harmonious accord, pulling together without disagreement or friction. General Barry quotes liberally from the Cuban newspapers, expressing the beneficial results from the presence of the troops and the application of the work of the army.

SIX BURNED TO CRISP.

"Slip" Occurs In Furnace, and Molten Metal Runs Out.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 10.—In a horrible accident here six men were burned to a crisp, four fatally injured and ten seriously hurt. Thirty others had narrow escapes.

A "slip" occurred in the Martin's Ferry (O.) furnace of the Wheeling Steel & Iron company. A force of workmen, numbering fifty, were gathered about the furnace making ready to drill in for the cast. Without a moment's warning, there was a terrific roar, and great masses of molten iron spurted from the furnace, sweeping down the workmen.

The men are all foreigners.

They Will Study Battlefields.

Washington, June 10.—For the purpose of studying military tactics on the battlefields of Gettysburg, South Mountain, Antietam and other scenes of encounter during the civil war, between this city and Gettysburg, about fifty student army officers under command of Major Eben Swift of the army war college here have just left Fort Meyer. They will be gone about three weeks.

Votes to Retain Saloons.

Youngstown, O., June 10.—Anti-saloon forces in Ohio suffered a bitter defeat Wednesday, when Youngstown, with 80,000 inhabitants, and the remainder of Mahoning county voted, in special election, to retain the saloons. The vote in the eighty-four city and county precincts was, "Wet," 11,232; "dry," 9,263.

ELIJAH ANN,
Commissioners.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. For Nerve, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden sick nerve that really is at fault. This checks nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have their main controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the last does so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds Strength; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

GRIND DYNAMITE CAPS.

Explosion Follows and Children Are Badly Hurt.

Central Lake, Mich., June 10.—Floyd Parsons, aged six years, son of George Parsons, Banks township; Eber Young, son of Ethan Jolliffe, and Lea, little daughter of George Pebbles, figured in a near tragedy. The children are cousins and were playing about Parsons' tool house when they found a couple of dynamite caps in a tool chest.

One was given the little girl, while the boys tried the other one on a grind stone, the Jolliffe boy turning the stone. Floyd Parsons held the cap. The resulting explosion shattered the stone. Floyd's hand was badly torn and his face severely burned and disfigured. Young Jolliffe was slightly burned, and one hand was injured, although not seriously. The attending physician thinks the Parson boy will recover without losing his eyesight, though it is still a question. The little girl was uninjured.

OUT GOES CHIEF HUNT.

Jackson's Police Commissioners Quickly Dismissed Him.

Jackson, Mich., June 10.—At the special meeting of the police commissioners, which was taken up again Wednesday morning, the secretary was instructed to furnish Chief of Police Henry Hunt with a written notice that he is discharged from the force, the removal to take effect at noon.

The reason given was that Hunt, without provocation, delivered a profane arraignment to the nine night patrolmen last Saturday, calling them, among other things, "fools, loafers and hounds."

Several patrolmen testified that the chief had called them the names.

PIERCED HIS BRAIN.

Owosso Machinist Will Die From Effects of Steel Sliver.

Owosso, Mich., June 10.—Michael Lavock, a machinist's helper in the Ann Arbor railroad shops, was struck in the right eye, Tuesday, by a sliver of steel which flew from a chisel, and though it was at first believed that only the sight of the eye would be destroyed physicians who are attending him say that the sliver entered the brain and that Lavock cannot live. His children have been notified and are hurrying home.

Lavock is about fifty-five years old.

DIDN'T LAST LONG.

Ketchel Defeats O'Brien in Third Round at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, last night defeated Jack O'Brien in the third round, thus accomplishing a feat that Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, failed to accomplish in six rounds some three weeks ago.

The fight was stopped in the second minute of the third round, after Jack O'Brien had been knocked down twice in the second and once in the third and was almost unable to raise his hands to defend himself.

The fight was a whirlwind affair from the start to the finish. Ketchel went after O'Brien from the tap of the gong.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Four Women Leave New York In Auto on Long Trip.

New York, June 10.—Four women have just left New York on a 4,000 mile automobile trip to San Francisco. They are Mrs. Alice R. Ramsey, president of the Women's Motoring Club of New York, who is at the wheel; Mrs. N. R. Powell, Mrs. W. Atwood and Mrs. H. Jahns.

The party will take their time, do a deal of sightseeing enroute and hope to arrive at San Francisco about July 15.

Mrs. Ramsey intends personally to make all necessary repairs to the car during the trip.

TO EXAMINE CHILDREN.

Professor's Claim That Large Percentage Use Alcohol to Be Tried Out.

New York, June 10.—Ten thousand public school children of New York city will be examined by the health authorities in an endeavor to ascertain whether there is any basis for the assertion made by Dr. T. C. Nicholl, before the American Medical association, at Atlantic City, that 78 per cent of the pupils are victims of the alcohol habit.

Members of the board of education believe the physician's charge to be absolutely without foundation. The investigation will begin at once.

SEND BOY TO AUSTRALIA.

Incorrigible Is Thus Ordered Punished by Judge.

New York, June 10.—On condition that he never return to this country, Max Jagerhuber, Jr., son of the president of the Toilettes Fashion company of this city, has been turned over to a probation officer and put aboard a sailing ship for Australia, where he has relatives. He had been convicted of passing a bad check on a friend of his father.

Decision of the court was given after hearing a long recital of the efforts of the family to reform the son.

Chair of Fine Arts at U. of M.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 10.—The first step toward the establishment of a chair of fine arts, which is regarded as one of the university's greatest needs, will be taken in the summer school this year, when, for the first time, a course in the history of fine art will be given. It is a lecture course given by Professor F. D. Washburn of the University of Iowa.

BOAT BREAKS CANAL GATES

Costly Accident Occurs at the Canadian Soo.

STEAMERS COLLIDES; ONE SUNK

Two Others Narrowly Escape Similar Fate—Alleged Engineer Is to Blame. Canalmen Unable to Check Water, Which Rushes Through Canal at Terrific Rate.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 10.—The locks at the Canadian Soo are wrecked, one boat sunk, two have narrowly escaped sinking, and the lives of more than fifty people were endangered as the result of one of the leaves of the upper gate having given way. The water from the higher level rushed in, sweeping two steamers and the lower gates before it. The accident is unparalleled in the history of the locks. It is estimated, unofficially, that the damage to both the canal and the vessels will reach between $350,000 and $500,000.

Vessels Were Locking.

The steamer Assiniboia of the Canadian Pacific railway line and the Crescent City of the Gilchrist fleet were locking up at the time. Suddenly, and without warning, the gate broke, and the boats were sent down the lock. The Crescent City crashed into the Assiniboia as she was swept out of the lock, leaving a big hole in the latter. The Crescent City reached the American side before sinking. She is now lying with her forward end on the bottom and a big hole in her port side. The Assiniboia was not so badly damaged, but got to a dock just in time to prevent her from going to the bottom.

The steamer Perry G. Walker, a Gilchrist liner, was tied at a point above the former two steamers. Her line broke, and she was carried backwards by the swift currents after the gates had been smashed, and whirled around several times, finally landing on a shoal out of the channel. She was little damaged. Captain Mosher of the Walker says he will be able to proceed with her.

The cause of the accident is not entirel clear, although vesselmen here place all blame on the engineer of the Walker. Captain Mosher declares that he gave his engineer a signal to back up, but instead the boat was sent ahead. Her nose poked into the lock gate, breaking it and causing water to rush down.

It has been impossible to get a statement from the engineer. No one is allowed to board the boat excepting officials.

Machinery May Be to Blame.

It is claimed, however, that the accident was due to the machinery on the Walker, which prevented the engineer obeying the captain's orders. Another explanation is that the engineer misunderstood the signals.

The crews of all boats reached shore safely after some difficulty.

Water is rushing through the lock at a rate of fifteen miles an hour and threatenes, if not soon stopped, to do considerable more damage than has already been done. The canal crew is making strenuous efforts to check the rush, but so far have not succeeded. The water is playing havoc with the bottom lining of the lock chamber. It is estimated that even with the flow stopped the lock will be put out of commission for the greater part of the season.

Ottawa, Ont., June 10.—The canal department announces that repairs on the damaged Soo canal locks are already under way and will be rushed to completion, so that traffic may be delayed as little as possible.

FOUND IN BAG OF RAGS.

Kalamazoo Workman Thought at First Babe's Body Was Doll.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 10.—The body of an infant boy was found among some old rags at the plant of the Michigan Buggy company here by Charles W. Hodges, a workman. The flesh of the child was dried up and had apparently been dead for several months.

Hodges was sorting the rags when he came across the body. He thought it at first to be a rag doll, as on several previous occasions he had found such articles in the rag bags.

The rags were shipped by a Cleveland (O.) wholesale firm.

Didn't Know Son Was Dead.

Port Huron, Mich., June 10.—After a search of two years, Mr. and Mrs. McMillian have just discovered their son, Daniel, died last December, in Saginaw. He was buried under an assumed name.

Kodol
For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

ON TRAIL OF FILIBUSTERERS

Believed Old Steamer on Atlantic Is Concerned.

REVENUE CUTTERS SCOUTING

Understood Arms Are Being Imported Preparatory to Hostilities Against Venezuelan Government by Castro's Friends—Another Vessel, Name Not Known, Likely Also Concerned.

Beaufort, N. C., June 14.—With two revenue cutters, the Seminole and the Pamlico, on watch, with a northeaster running off the coast and great seas making the inlets connecting the North Carolina sounds with the Atlantic ocean impassable for anything but the strongest craft, the chances of the success of a filibustering expedition from these waters, directed against Venezuela, are very small. The cutter Pamlico has left her headquarters at Newberne, N. C., under instructions from the treasury department to get in touch at once with the ancient sidewheel steamer Nanticoke, which is suspected of filibustering intentions. This vessel was, at last reports, at Edenton, a little North Carolina shipping port at the mouth of the Chowan river, far back on the west coast of Albemarle sound.

The treasury department's activities were invoked because of persistent rumors that ex-President Castro's friends were planning a hostile expedition against President Gomez's government. It was alleged that ten or fifteen thousand stands of arms had been shipped from Belgium to America for this expedition.

According to advices received, the promoters of this enterprise, realizing that it would be impossible, without attracting the attention of the law officers, to transship this large number of rifles with the necessary ammunition at any of the Atlantic ports, has planned to send them to some interior port of entry, perhaps as far inland as Chicago or Cincinnati. Then they would be quietly transported to some small south Atlantic port and shipped to Venezuela.

Secret service men and other agents discovered that two vessels suitable for filibustering purposes had been sold by a New York ship brokerage firm to unknown parties. Both were in the vicinity of Norfolk, and one was found to be the old sidewheel vessel Nanticoke. The name of the other cannot be learned. The Nanticoke was located at Edenton, N. C., whereupon the revenue cutters were called into service to watch her, and that is the situation today.

There is no warrant out for the seizure of the Nanticoke.

SEND THEM BACK.

New York Aliens In Prison May Be Deported En Masse.

Albany, N. Y., June 14.—With a view to ascertaining how many aliens there are in the prisons of the state subject to deportation, Superintendent C. V. Collins of the state prison deparment has completed a census of the prison population.

It shows that, of the 990 alien convicts, 319 were convicted of felonies within three years after their arrival in this country, and under the law they may be sent back to the countries from whence they came. The department of commerce and labor at Washington, which has jurisdiction over the deportation of such aliens, will be notified. Superintendent Collins also will recommend to Governor Hughes that the sentences of eleven such aliens, which vary from a few months to life imprisonment, be commuted in order that they may be deported en masse.

Of the 319 aliens subject to deportation, by far the largest number—187—are Italians.

DIVERS LOSE THEIR LIVES

Tried to Rescue Men Imprisoned in Russian Submarine Boat.

Sebastopol, June 14.—Hope is gone of saving the lives of the crew of twenty of the Russian submarine Kambala, which was sunk in collision with the battleship Rostislav during maneuvers Friday night, or of recovering the wreck, owing to the great depth of water.

Two divers have died in the attempts to rescue the men on account of the immense pressure. Others have tried repeatedly and heroically to pass chains around the wreck, but finally came to the surface utterly exhausted, having accomplished nothing. All operations have been abandoned.

The disaster occurred five miles from Sebastopol. Four men were saved, including the commander, Lieutenant Aquilonoff.

FOUND BUNCH OF CHINESE

Were Concealed Aboard Great Northern Steamship at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., June 14.—Immigration officials, after finding on the wharf a Chinese who admitted that he came over as a stowaway on the Great Northern liner Minnesota, began a search of the vessel and discovered nine more smuggled coolies and a quantity of silk and cigars.

Inspector C. E. Keagey, who is a heavy man, stepped into the sail locker of the steamer and fell twenty feet through a hole in the floor, alighting on top of the nine nude Chinese.

Ambassador White Praised.

Paris, June 14.—The Figaro and Temps, apropos of the reports that Robert Bacon, ex-secretary of state, is coming to Paris as American ambassador, print highly eulogistic editorials regarding the present ambassador, Henry White, in which they recall the particular gratitude which France feels for him on account of the role he played at Algeciras and the esteem in which he is held in official and social circles. They bluntly express the hope that he will not be replaced.

ZION LACE INDUSTRIES, ZION CITY, ILLINOIS

ZION LACES and many interesting features in their manufacture are on exhibition in one of our show windows. This display is educational and every person should see it.

From 3,400 to 4,500 bobbins are required to thread one lace machine, besides the beam and warp, making a total—when the machine is threaded—of 13,000 threads in actual work. When a machine is fully threaded there are 6,700 miles of cotton on it, enough to reach from here to England and nearly back again.

See the illustrations of the various machines in operation—where they take in the thread and turn out the dainty, attractive laces—also skeins of yarns, yarn spools—pieces of lace just as they come from the machines. Especially interesting is the process of clipping, scalloping and separating. The exhibit is so unique and the values so unusual that a visit will be of material interest to you.

Special 10 Day Sale of Zion Laces

In connection with the above exhibit we will place on sale Tuesday morning 6,000 Yards of Celebrated Zion Laces specially priced at 5 and 10 cents a yard

BODY TAKEN FROM RUINS

Shipping Clerk Hollar Killed in Stove Works Collapse.

HE WAS LIKELY SUFFOCATED

Examination of Body Indicates Injuries Didn't Cause Immediate Death. Acting Manager of Stove Plant, Floors of Which Collapsed, Declares He Never Noticed Signs of Danger.

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—The body of Shipping Clerk William C. Hollar, victim of the cave-in of a section of the Peninsula Stove company's plant, has been found under a mass of debris on the first floor.

Eugene Wentworth, foreman of the tin shop, leading the workers who had searched for their fellow-employe since the accident Saturday, was the first to find the body. In lifting a heavy plank from a pile of wreckage in the southwest corner of the main building he uncovered the back of the man's head, wedged tightly between two heavy beams. All attempts to drag out the body were in vain, and it required over two hours' hard work, in which the timbers had to be sawed through and the heavy wreckage pried up and supported by props, before the body could be moved.

The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of Harvey A. Neely, 311 Grand River avenue, where City Physicians W. S. Grimes and W. J. Stapleton performed an autopsy. The physicians said that while Hollar's legs were fractured and his ribs broken, the injuries were not such as to cause immediate death, and that he probably lingered under the wreckage until he was suffocated.

Coroner Burgess, who has charge of the case, viewed the body and decided to call a coroner's jury and hold an inquest to ascertain if death was due to criminal negligence. Following the inquest, the body will be taken to the residence, 248 Baltimore avenue.

From the position of the body the coroner thinks that Hollar, when he first felt the floor begin to sag, ran toward the stairway, but was thrown forward on his face by falling timbers.

Hollar was the only one who was killed. Several others were injured.

Speaking of the accident, James M. Dwyer, Jr., who is acting manager of the Peninsula Stove company in the absence of his father, who is at present in Europe, said that he was unable to place any estimate of the company's loss.

"We haven't had any time to figure on losses while there was a body in the wreckage," he said. "In regard to the report that the floor of the building was in bad condition and was noticeably weak, I would say that it was my custom to make a daily round of the whole plant, and I have never noticed any sign of danger."

Don't Want Him Appointed.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 14.—Local church people are considerably wrought up over the mention of William H. Boyns for a member on the board of police and fire commissions. Boyns was president of the Liberal league, a saloon organization.

Think Boy Is With a Circus.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 14.—The police of this city have been notified to be on the lookout for Edward Dausey, fourteen years old, who has been missing from his home in Muskegon for several days. The boy is thought to have joined some circus.

REGAINS SENSES.

Victim of Car, In Hospital, Gives His Name.

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—Regaining consciousness at Grace hospital, the man struck by a street car Friday night at Grand River and Fifth street gave his name as Michael Dorcy, 146 Lorenz avenue. He sustained a slight concussion of the brain, but it is now believed he will recover. Almost simultaneously with his identification at the hospital his disappearance from home was being reported at police headquarters.

FREIGHT TRAIN HITS HANDCAR.

Section Hand Instantly Killed and Another Injured.

West Branch, Mich., June 14.—Richard Leopard was instantly killed and John Zoran seriously injured when a Michigan Central freight train struck them, near this place.

The men, with other members of the section gang, were inspecting the road when the freight, traveling at a fast rate of speed, came in sight. They tried to get the handcar on which they had been riding from the rails, but were run down before they had time to clear the track.

GUARDIAN IS REFUSED.

Calhoun Judge Does Not Believe Wealthy Farmer Incompetent.

Marshall, Mich., June 14.—Probate Judge Porter has dismissed a petition asking for the appointment of a guardian for Charles Lee, a prominent and wealthy farmer of Fredonia township. He was taken ill last winter, and his condition has become steadily worse.

Finally one of his relatives asked the probate court to appoint a guardian for him, on the grounds that he was mentally incompetent to take care of his property. The party who made the petition failed to appear. His brother believed that he was insane and made the petition on the advice of a physician.

TWO ARE JAILED.

Men Locked Up at Flint For Train Disturbance.

Flint, Mich., June 14.—Frank House and William Thomas are in jail here, charged with creating a disturbance on a Grand Trunk passenger train.

Patrolmen Wright and Dixon were called to the local station to take the men in charge. Thomas escaped from Officer Wright, but was later recaptured. The men had thirteen quarts of beer in their possession, and by their wild cries and actions had frightened both men and women on the train.

Woman Would Enforce Law.

Marshall, Mich., June 14.—Dr. Mary Putnam of Battle Creek, secretary of the Calhoun County Humane society, has been here and has asked Sheriff Graham to appoint her a deputy sheriff. She claims that his deputies are not doing their duty in going after people who are cruel to animals.

Charity.

It is an old saying that charity begins at home, but this is no reason it should not go abroad. A man should live with the world as a citizen of the world. He may have a preference for the particular quarter or square or even alley in which he lives, but he should have a generous feeling for the welfare of the whole.—Cumberland.

TARIFF BILL IS NEARLY FINISHED

Aldrich Thinks End May Be Reached by Saturday.

BEVERIDGE SAYS NOT SO

Does Not Believe Final Vote Will Come Before End of Next Week. This Week Will Be Devoted to General Cleaning Up—Several Important Provisions to Be Disposed Of.

Washington, June 14.—The feeling in all factions in the senate is that the tariff bill is approaching the last days of its consideration in the senate. Senator Aldrich is hopeful that the end may be reached by next Saturday, and many of the conservative Republicans, as well as many of the Democrats, are inclined to agree with this prediction. The progressive Republicans are not quite so optimistic, but Senator Beveridge is of the opinion that the final vote will not be postponed beyond the end of next week.

The income tax amendments to the bill will be taken up for consideration Friday, and a vote may be reached on the proposition the same day. It is possible, however, that efforts may be made to secure a still further postponement of a vote.

The week will be devoted to a general cleaning up. With the exception of one disputed point in the silk schedule, the senate last week concluded its second consideration of the bill, and disposed of all paragraphs of the schedules on which the committee had reported. Among the questions not acted upon in committee were many disputed points, but there will be an effort to clean them up rapidly, and it is believed that comparatively little time will be taken on any of them.

Among the more important provisions still to be considered are those pertaining to lumber, wood pulp, print paper, hides, coal, zinc, window glass, scrap iron, cotton ties, cotton bagging, leather, leather goods, binding twine and petroleum.

DR. HALE LAID TO REST.

Thousands View Remains as They Lie in State in Boston Church.

Boston, June 14.—Under the gold domes of the auditorium of the South Congregational church, where for so many years Edward Everett Hale broke the bread of life to his people, there gathered Sunday the great Unitarian family of Boston to pay a last reverent tribute to the earthly form of the great leader of Unitarians, the preacher author, philosopher and the friend of all mankind, while at the same hour a host of friends and admirers of Dr. Hale gathered at the Park Street Trinitarian church to listen to eulogies by clergymen of many creeds. Throughout the city, from sunrise to sunset, flags were floated at half-mast by order of the city's chief executive.

The body of Dr. Hale lay in state from 10 until 1 o'clock in the South Congregational church and was viewed by thousands. The church was then closed to all except members of Dr. Hale's family, former parishioners, close friends and representatives of other Unitarian churches and various societies, the services beginning at 2 o'clock. British Ambassador James Bryce and Governor Eben S. Draper were among those present.

Rev. Edward Cummings, pastor of the church, conducted the simple services.

The body was taken to Forest Hills cemetery.

MAGNIFICENT SHIP.

New North German Lloyd Liner George Washington on Maiden Trip.

Southampton, Eng., June 14.—The new North German Lloyd liner George Washington has just called here, sailing again for Cherbourg on her maiden voyage to New York. In addition to other passengers, she brought a party of German journalists, and representatives of the London press also inspected the new vessel as it lay here.

The George Washington is a magnificent vessel of 27,000 tons, the largest ship ever built in Germany. She is from the yards of the Vulcan company, at Stettin. She is 722 feet long, 78 feet wide, and the depth from the upper salon deck is 54 feet and from the awning deck 80 feet. The distinctive characteristic of the ship is the number and size of the public apartments decorated in the new German style.

Soldiers Ordered Carload Liquor.

Junction City, Kas., June 14.—A carload of liquor, ordered by soldiers at Fort Riley, arrived Sunday, but Colonel Ward would not let the men have it. The colonel put guards over the car and insisted that it must be sent back to Kansas City. The stringent laws recently passed by the legislature make it impossible to buy liquor in Kansas.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

hand on the prow and shoved the light boat out into the current, calling softly:

"Goodby and good luck!"

"Goodby, Mr Stark. Thank you ever so much," the girl replied, too numb and worn out to say much or to notice or care whither she was bound or who was her boatman. She had been swept along too swiftly to reason or fear for herself any more.

Stark did not return to his cabin, but went back instead to his saloon, where he saw Poleon Doret still sprawling with elbows on the table, his hat pulled low above his sullen face. Stark then went out and down toward the barracks. A light behind the drawn curtains of the officer's house told that Burrell was not abed, but he waited a long moment after his summons before the door was opened, during which he heard the occupant moving about and another door close in the rear. When he was allowed entrance at last he found the young man alone in a smoke filled room, with a bottle and two empty glasses on the table.

For at the sound of his voice Gale had whispered to Burrell, "Keep him out!" and the lieutenant had decided to refuse his late visitor admittance when he lighted on the expedient of concealing the trader in the bedroom at the rear. It was only natural, he reasoned, that Gale should dislike to face a man like Stark before he had regained his composure.

"Go in there and wait till I see what he wants," he had said, and, shutting the old man in, he had gone forth to admit Stark. Stark entered and closed the door.

"I've got some work for you, lieutenant. It's got to be done tonight, right now! You represent the law, or at least you've taken every occasion to so declare yourself, so now I've come to you with something big. It's a serious affair, and, being as I'm a peaceful man, I want to go by the law." His eyes mocked the words he uttered. "You seem to carry the weight of this whole community on your shoulders, so I'm here to give you some information."

Burrell said quietly: "It's a little late for polite conversation. Come to the point."

"I've got a murderer for you."

"You've had a killing in your place, eh?"

"No; I've just made a discovery. I found it all out by accident, too—pure accident. By heaven, you can't tell me there isn't a beneficent Providence overlooking our affairs. He's a friend of yours and a highly respected party. He's a glorious example to this whole river. He's everybody's friend. He's the shining mark of this whole country. He's the benevolent renegade, Squaw Man Gale. Gaylord is his name, and I was a fool not to know it sooner."

The disclosure had not affected the soldier as Stark expected, and his anger began to lift itself.

"The man's a murderer. He's wanted in California, where I came from. He's been indicted, and there's a price on his head. He's hidden for fifteen years, but he'll hang as sure as I stand here."

Burrell knew he must gain time for thought. One false step might ruin all. He could not face this on the spur of the moment; so, shrugging his shoulders with an air of polite skepticism, he assumed a tone of good natured raillery.

"Fifteen years? Murder? John Gale a murderer? Why, that's almost—pardon me if I smile—I'm getting sleepy. What proof have you?"

"Proof!" blazed the gambler. "Proof! Ask Gaylord! Proof! Why, the woman he murdered was my wife!"

It was Burrell's turn now to fall incoherent, and not only did his speech forsake him, but his thoughts went madly veering off into a wilderness where there was no trail, no light, no hope. What frightful bones were these he bared? This man was Bennett! This was Necia's father! He raised a pair of eyes that had become furious and bloodshot and suddenly realized that the man before him, who persisted in saddling upon Gale this heinous crime, was the slayer of Necia's mother, for he did not doubt Gale's story for an instant. He found his fingers writhing to feel the creature's throat.

"Proof!" Stark was growling. "How much proof do you need? I've followed him for fifteen years. I've tracked him with men and dogs through woods and deserts and mining camps. I've slept on his trail for 5,000 miles, and now do you think I'm mistaken? He killed my wife, I say, and robbed me of my little girl! That's her in his house. That's her he calls Necia. She's my girl—my girl, do you understand?—and I'll have his life."

Burrell had no inkling yet of the father's well shaped plans nor how farreaching they were and could barely stammer:

"So! You—you know?"

"Yes! She wears the evidence around her neck, and if that isn't enough I can furnish more—evidence enough to smother you. My name isn't Stark at all. I changed it years ago for certain reasons. I've changed it more than once, but that's my privilege and my own affair. Her name is Merridy Bennett."

"I don't suppose you know I'm going to marry her?" said the Kentuckian irrelevantly.

"No," replied the other; "I wasn't aware of the fact."

"Well, I am. I'll be your son-in-law."

"There's a lot of things, Burrell, for you and me to settle up first. For one thing, I want those mines of hers. I'm her father, and she's not of age. I'll take them anyway as her next of kin."

Burrell did not follow up this statement, for its truth was incontrovertible, so he continued:

"We'll adjust that after Gale is attended to. But meanwhile what do you want me to do?"

"I want you to arrest the man who killed my wife. If you don't take him the miners will. I've got a following in this camp, and I'll raise a crowd in fifteen minutes—enough to hang this squaw man or batter down your barracks to get him. But I don't want to do that. I want to go by the law you've talked so much about. I want you to do the trick."

At last Burrell saw the gambler's deviltry. He knew Stark's reputation too well to think that he feared a meeting with Gale. Stark had planned his settlement coldly and with deliberate malice. Moreover, he was strong enough to stand aside and let another take his place and thus deny to Gale the final recourse of a hunted beast, the desperate satisfaction that the trader craved. He tied his enemy's hands and delivered him up with his thirst unsatisfied—to whom? He thrust a weapon into the hand of his other enemy and bade this other enemy use it—worse than that, forced him to strike the man he honored, the man he loved. Burrell never doubted that Stark had carefully weighed the effect of this upon Necia and had reasoned that a girl like her could not understand a soldier's duty if it meant the blood of a parent. If he refused to act the gambler could break him, while every effort he made to protect Gale would but increase the other's satisfaction. There was no chance of the trader's escape. Stark held him in his hand. Was it impossible, the lieutenant wondered, to move this man from his purpose?

"Have you thought of Necia? She loves Gale. What effect will this have on her?"

"D—n her! She's more his brat than mine. I want John Gaylord!"

At this a vicious frenzy overtook Burrell, and he thought of the man behind yonder door, whom he had forgotten. Well, why not? These two men had stalked each other clear into the farthest places, driven by forces that were older than the hills. Who was he to stand between such passions?

The gambler's words rang in his ears—"I want John Gaylord"—and before he knew what he was doing he had answered, "Very well; I'll give him to you," and crossed quickly to the door of his bedroom and flung it open. On the threshold he paused stockstill. The place was empty. A draft sucked through the open window, flirting with the curtain and telling the story of the trader's exit.

"If you're looking for your coat, it's here," he heard Stark say. "Get into it, and we'll go for him."

The lieutenant's mind was working fast enough now, in all conscience, and he saw with clear and fateful eyes whither he was being led, at which a sudden reckless disregard for consequences seized him. He felt a blind fury at being pulled and hauled and driven by this creature and also an unreasoning anger at Gale's defection. But it was the thought of Necia and the horrible net of evil in which this man had ensnared them both that galled him most. He determined to finish this thing here and now.

Meade went to his bureau, took his revolver from the belt where he had hung it and came out into the other room. Stark, seeing the weapon, exclaimed:

"You don't need that. He won't resist you."

"I've decided not to take him," said Burrell.

"Decided not to take him!" shouted the other. "Have you weakened? Don't you intend to arrest that man?"

"No!" cried the soldier. "I've listened to your lies long enough. Now I'm going to stop them once for all. You're too dangerous to have around."

They faced each other silently a moment; then Stark spoke in a very quiet voice, though his eyes were glittering.

"What's the meaning of this? Are you crazy?"

"Gale was here just before you came and told me who killed your wife. I know."

"Well?"

"It's pretty late. This place is lonely. This is the simplest way."

The gambler fell to studying his antagonist, and when he did not speak Burrell continued:

"Come, brace up! I'm giving you a chance."

But Stark shook his head.

"Don't be afraid," insisted the lieutenant. "There are no witnesses. If you get up, nobody will know, and your word is good. If not, it's much simpler than the other." Then when the gambler still made no move he insisted. "You wouldn't have me kill you like a rattlesnake?"

"You couldn't," said the older man. "You're not that kind, and I'm not the kind to be cheated either. Listen. I've lived over forty years, and I never took less than was coming to me. I won't begin tonight."

"You'll get your share."

"Bah! You don't know what I mean. I don't want you. It's him I'm after, and when I'm done with him I'll take care of you, but I won't run any risk right now. You might put me away, there's the possibility, and I won't let you or any other man—or woman either, not even my girl—cheat me out of Gale. Put up your gun."

The soldier hesitated, then did as he was bidden, for this man knew him better than he knew himselef.

"I ought to treat you like a mad dog, but I can't do it while your hands are up. I'm going to fight for John Gale, however, and you can't take him."

"I'll have his carcass hung to my ridgepole before daylight."

Stark turned to go, but paused at the door. "And you think you'll marry Necia, do you?"

"I know it."

"Is that so? Suppose you find her first."

"What do you mean? Wait"—

But his visitor was gone, leaving behind him a lover already sorely vexed and now harassed by a new and sudden apprehension. What venom the man distilled! Could it be that he had sent Necia away?

Stark traced his way back to his cabin in a ten times fiercer mood than he had come, reviling, cursing, hating. Back past the dark trading post he went, pausing to shake his clinched fist and grind out an oath between his teeth; past the door of his own saloon, which was alight and whence came the sound of revelry, through the scattered houses, where he went more by feel than by sight, up to the door of his own shack. He closed the door behind him now and locked it, for he had some thinking to do, then felt through his pockets for a match, and, striking it, bent over his lamp to adjust the wick. It flared up steady and strong at last, flooding the narrow place with its illumination. Then he straightened up and turned toward the bed to throw off his coat, when suddenly every muscle of his body leaped with an uncontrollable spasm, as if he had uncovered a deadly serpent coiled and ready to spring.

John Gale was sitting at his table, barely an arm's length away, his gray blue eyes fixed upon him and the deep seams of his heavy face set as if graven in stone. His huge, knotted hands were upon the table, and between them lay a naked knife.

CHAPTER XVI.

JOHN GALE'S HOUR.

IT was a heathenish time of night to arouse the girl, thought Burrell as he left the barracks, but he must allay these fears that were besetting him; he must see Necia at once. The low, drifting clouds obscured what star glow there was in the heavens, and he stepped back to light a lantern.

A few moments later he stood above the squaw, who crouched on the trader's doorstep, wailing her death song into the night.

"What's wrong? Where is Necia? Where is she?" he demanded and at last seized her roughly, facing her to the light, but Alluna only blinked owlishly at his lantern and shook her head.

"Gone away," she finally informed him and began to weave again in her despair, but he held her fiercely.

"Where has she gone? When did she go?" He shook her to quicken her reply.

"I don't know; I don't know. Long time she's gone now." She trailed off into Indian words he could not comprehend, so he pushed past her into the house to see for himself and without knocking flung Necia's door open and stepped into her chamber. Before he had swept the unfamiliar room with his eyes he knew that she had indeed gone, and gone hurriedly, for the signs of disorder betrayed a reckless haste.

"When did she go, Alluna? For God's sake, what does this mean?" he cried.

"I don't know. She come and she go, and I don' see her; mebbe three, four hour ago."

"Where's Gale? He'll know. He's gone after her, eh?"

The upward glow of the lantern heightened the young man's pallor, and again the squaw broke into her sad lament.

"John Gale—he's gone away with the knife of my father. I am afraid; I am afraid."

"Did he come back here just now?"

"No. He went to the jail house, and he would not let me follow. He don' come back no more."

This was confusing, and Meade cried angrily:

"Why didn't you give the alarm? Why didn't you come to me instead of yelling your lungs out around the house?"

"He told me to wait," she said simply.

"Go find Poleon, quick!"

"He told me to wait," she repeated stoically, and Burrell knew he was powerless to move her. He saw the image of a great terror in the woman's face. The night suddenly became heavy with the hint of unspeakable things, and he grew fearful, suspecting now that Gale had told him but a part of his story, that all the time he knew Stark's identity and that his quarry was at hand, ready for the kill, or, if not, he had learned enough while standing behind that partition. Where was he now? Where was Necia? What part did she play in this? He gave up trying to think and fled for Stark's saloon, reasoning that where one was the other must be near, and there would surely be some word of Necia. He burst through the door. A quick glance over the place showed it empty of those he sought; but, spying Poleon Doret, he dragged him outside, inquiring breathlessly:

"Have you seen Gale?"

"No."

"Have you seen Stark? Has he been about?"

"Yes; wan hour, mebbe two, hour ago. W'y? W'at for you ask?"

"There's the devil to pay. Those two have come together, and Necia is gone."

"Necia gone!" the Canadian jerked out. "W'at you mean by dat? W'ere she' gone to?"

"I don't know. Nobody knows. Heaven! I'm shaking like a leaf."

"Bah! She's feel purty bad. She's go out by herse'f. Dat's all right."

"I tell you something has happened

BLUE RIBBON RACES IN DETROIT.

With more good horses in training than in other years the blue ribbon meeting at Detroit, July 26 to 30 promises to be the best renewal during the quatter century of activity on the part of the Detroit Driving Club. Detroit holds the place of honor, its meeting being the inaugural of the grand circuit, and for this reason the racing is better than in any other city, because it is the first clash among the horses. During the winter and early spring upwards of five hundred horses were in training at Memphis, Macon, Selma and other southern points. Many of these have moved to the north where they have been joined by hundreds of others. At the Michigah state fair grounds alone two hundred are being prepared for their campaign. The backwardness of the spring has not affected the speed of the horses, for June 1 found them far advanced all along the line, some of the early work being a surprise to the trainers themselves. Detroit again gives its famous M. & M. and Chamber of Commerce classics. There are two other stakes and this quartette will be surrounded by about fifteen purse events making a program of rare excellence. The M. & M. is twenty years old this summer. From its inception it has been the one race that is talked about winter and summer, and this year's renewal is expected to be the 1909 sensation of the turf.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Two of the papers, presented at the commencement exercises of the Tecumseh High School last Thursday evening, were delayed in coming to this office, and we were unable to print them in Friday's paper. We give them below as follows:

"The Women of the White House," was the subject chosen by Miss Hazel Temple.

She said, in part: "There is perhaps no position given to women more conspicuous in the public eye, and in which more interest is taken by the people as a whole, as well as by society, than is that of the "first lady of the land."

Martha Washington was the first, who was honored as a president's wife. She was in no wise a remarkable woman. She was a fair representative of the average American matron of the eighteenth century. She was not well educated. Her only claim to veneration is because she was the wife of Washington. Her most marked characteristics were her strong sense of propriety and high moral qualities.

Dolly Madison was the only woman of absolute social genius, who ever presided in the White House.

She was noted for her beauty, and charming manners. She remembered every name and face, and the slightest incident in connection with the history of each visitor.

When Henry Clay voiced the common sentiment and said, "Everybody loves Mrs. Madison," she replied with truth, "Mrs. Madison loves everybody." During her husband's administration, Mrs. Madison was openly declared to be "the most popular person in the nation," and now after the lapse of generations, she still seems to abide in Washington, a living and beloved presence.

Lucy Webb Hayes is known as the noble woman who favored temperance to the extent of banishing the intoxicating cup from the table at the social gatherings at the White House.

Through all the progress of her husband in military and civil life, she was a helpmeet and noted in the White House as a republican queen. Her receptions there without wine, provoked remark, but showed her to be true as steel to her principles.

It has been said, "not one of all the wives of our presidents was more universally admired, reverenced and beloved than Mrs. Hayes, and no one has done more than she to reflect honor upon American womanhood."

While changes have been made from time to time in the manners and customs of life at the White House, it has remained for Mrs. Roosevelt to transform the executive mansion at Washington from a public building into a private home. The general public arriving from Maine and California, no longer trail through a museum. She has wielded skillfully in her home the domestic scepter, ruling there as an ideal wife and mother.

It is not given to many to know the real Mrs. Taft, the present mistress of the White House. On meeting her for the first time, one is impressed with her dignity of manner and reserve. A person of keen perceptions and of more than average intelligence, she surveys the man or woman presented to her with a look so calm and deliberate that strangers generally describe her as cold, but on furthur acquaintance she is found to be very pleasant and exceedingly frank. With the extensive travelling that she has done with the opportunities afforded her as the wife of the man who has held a succession of commanding positions, she is singularly fitted to occupy the position which she is now called upon to fill. The position of "first lady of the land" has nearly always been worthily filled by women of intellectual power and high moral worth, but a few of them will always live in the hearts of the American people, as women who are bettering life and society around them, have set a standard toward which American woman should strive.

The subject of Veva Hendershott's essay was Procrastination:

The past lies enveloped in a mist that hides all pettiness and all daily annoyances; the future wears a halo rimmed with joyous expectancy, but the present here and now our every day life is the time to make the stepping stones to success The old saying, "Never put off until to-morrow what you can do today," is a maxim that every one should follow For the present is all that anyone in reality has, and to let it slip by unimproved is to make one's self so much the poorer, since the moment he improves is his forever, but the moment he does not seize, and does not improve is lost forever. Marcus Aurelius says, "Remember that man's life lies all within this present as 'twere but a hairs' breadth of time; as for the rest the past is gone, the future yet unseen. Disraeli says, "Count them by sensations and not by calendars, each moment is a day." Why should one delay the disagreeable duty and put off the laborious effort until to-morrow? Everyone knows that if anything is to be done to-morrow he must make ready to day.

Punctuality is a power. Nelson attributed all his success in life to having been always ready an hour before time Napoleon studied his watch as closely as he studied the maps of the battlefields. His victories were not won by consummate strategy merely, but by impressing his subordinates with the necessity of being on time

One naturally comes to the conclusion that a person who is careless about time is careless about business. Of the minor causes of failure perhaps the chief is want of punctuality. On one occasion a young man was told to present himself before the directors of a company at twelve o'clock. He arrived five minutes late and was told by one of the directors he need not wait, as they would never think of employing a man who was not on time. In the civil war when plans had been made to press on to Richmond, McClellan who was then commander-in-chief delayed the march. Just after he left Washington he was informed that he had been deprived of his command because of his tardiness.

The first great battle of the civil war which gave hope to the north was that of Fort Donelson. The confederates made an attack upon the lines and broke through. Grant examined the knapsacks of the few prisoners he had taken and found only three days rations in them. He said, "They are demoralized as well as we and whoever attacks first will win, and they will have to be quick if they beat me." Grant saw his opportunity, in the knapsacks of the enemy. He always realized that a few minutes make the difference between victory and defeat.

Washington was never late. On one occasion when his secretary was five minutes late, he said to him. "You will have to get a new watch, or I will be forced to get a new secretary." It is said of Lord Brougham that he was ill at ease, if in the evening, he could not look back upon a faithfully discharged day's work. Cyrus Field said that he considered half his success in life due to punctuality. When Alexander was asked how he had conquered the work he replied, "By never delaying."

Queen Victoria was the soul of punctuality. She kept her appointments to the minute, and expected her subjects to do the same. If a guest was ever late he was sentenced to perpetual banishment from her royal presence.

That which is habitual is always easy so if one becomes accustomed to being on time it requires no effort. This disregard of the present time is not only a loss to one's self, but it involves a peculiar selfishness that is seldom considered For does not this present time bring to one opportunities that the past could never dream of and with it a corresponding duty, which no one dare neglect?

The Joke on the Jockey.

A few years ago a famous jockey was engaged to ride the favorite in an important race. On the way to the post he found himself cantering alongside a rank outsider, the mount of a stable boy who had only just commenced riding.

"You'll have to be careful with that brute, B.," he remarked. "I've ridden him before, and you'll never be able to hold him."

B. thanked the crack for the hint and said that he would "do his best."

Halfway through the race the outsider and another were in front, with the favorite close behind. Fancying that the others were in difficulties, the rider of the favorite shouted:

"Pull out, B., and let me through! I've got the race in hand."

The crack was mistaken, however. Looking back, the stable boy replied, with a grin:

"I would, but I can't hold him!"

With which the novice let his horse have his head and shot away, the easiest of winners, to the chagrin of the crack, who finished second.

Happiness and Joy.

Happiness, according to the original use of the term, is that which happens or comes to one by a hap—that is, by an outward befalling or favorable condition. It is what money yields or will buy—dress, equipage, fashion, luxuries of the table—or it is settlement in life, independence, love, applause, admiration, honor, glory, or the more conventional and public benefits of rank, political standing, victory, power—all these stir a delight in the soul, which is not of the soul or its quality, but from without; hence they are looked upon as happening to the soul and, in that sense, create happiness. Joy differs from this as being of the soul itself, originating in its quality. And this appears in the original form of the word, which instead of suggesting a hap literally denotes a leap or spring. * * * The motion is outward and not toward, as we conceive it to be in happiness. It is not the bliss of condition, but of character.—Dr. Horace Bushnell.

It is curious how easily a woman can be deceived by a foreign suitor making his appeal through a cornet, when she would instantly spot a fellow American who was talking through his hat.

PLAYGROUNDS.

"The boy without a playground is father to the man without a job." Why? Because the man without a job is the boy grown up in idleness, in mischief, in turancy, with misdirected energy. The playground is the school for keeping boys off the street, out of mischief, and for directing their interests and energies, through play into the channels of wholesome and beneficial exercises, social adjustment, "square dealing," and selfgoverment. As Theodore Roosevelt says, "Since play is a fundamental need, playgrounds should be provided for every child as much as schools;" and that the importance of the playgrounds is gaining recognition is shown by the fact that 177 cities in the United States maintain playgrounds, at a cost of $12,000,000, a third of which is raised by voluntary subscription. This summer, Detroit will have 15 playgrounds. Kalamazoo and Menominee each have provided a playground for the children.

BASE BALL.

Tecumseh Will Have a Strong Independent Team.

While Tecumseh has withdrawn from the South Michigan League, the fans will have an opportunity to see good independent base ball games with Tecumseh boys as the performers. This team was organized last year under the name of Town team. They won 30 out of 37 games played, most of them being played on foreign grounds. At Milan they played an 18 innning tie game, darkness stopping them and in their return game at Tecumseh, the local team won by a score of 2 and 1. They will play in Milan to-morrow. Saline will be here on June 17 and a strong Toledo team, the National Unions will play here on Monday, July 5. Those who are interested in base ball will have an opportunity of seeing some fast games through the coming season and any support given the team will be greatly appreciated. Arthur Pocklington has been chosen manager and Don Heesen as captain The players are, Vern Rogers 2b., Ed Rogers 3b., Chas. A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean of Cheny, Wash. was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." For Lung Trouble, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Croup and Whooping Cough its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, the druggists.

FREE TUITION LAW.

Will Not be Effective This Year.

Having had a great number of inquiries regarding the school law, which permits pupils who finish the eighth grade in their districts, to secure free high school tuition up to $20. Mr. S W. Anderson wrote to L L. Wright, superintendent of Public instruction at Lansing, and received the following reply:

Lansing, June 11, 1909.

Mr. S. W. Anderson,
Sec'y of School Board.
Tecumseh, Michigan.

Dear Sir:

Replying to your inquiry of the 10th inst., will say that the free tuition law will not go into effect this year. The law provides that a tax for the tuition should be reported at the same time other school taxes are reported, between the second Monday in July and the first Monday in August, and at that time this law would not be in effect.

Yours very truly,
L. L. WRIGHT.

FIFTY YEARS

S. W. TEMPLE CAME TO TECUMSEH FIFTY YEARS AGO TO-DAY.

To-day He is One of the Most Successful Business Men in This Village.

Having built up a large trade in the grocery, coal, wood and machinery business.

Just fifty years ago today Samuel W. Temple of Vermont, then a young man of 21 years, arrived in Tecumseh, and has since made this village his home. For a short time after his arrival here, he was given employment by Dr. Patterson, on those stores now occupied by S. W. Anderson, J. J. Belcher, and the Webster Anderson company, at $ 75 per day.

In a short time, Mr. Temple built a little work shop, on the lot where Mrs. S. E. Austin's house now stands, on West Shawnee St., where he made farm gates, sashes and doors, by hand.

He purchased the old M. Ecchurch erected a planing mill, and contracted for buildings. He was soon able to build on to the south part of this building, renting the same to George Smith, who manufactured furniture.

A stock company was formed, comprising seven of the business men in the village at that time, Mr. Temple being one of them and they purchased the land where the Hotel Barrett, and stores west including Belding's, now stand.

Mr. Temple & Mr. Smith withdrew from the company, and purchased two of the lots, Mr. Temple owning the one where Avery's grocery store stands, and sold shortly after to H. Brewer & Co.

Mr. Temple's next enterprise was that of the lumber business, selling after a number of years to a stock company, and going into the grocery business then on a small scale. His business has rapidly grown, and he has added various lines, that of coal, wood and machinery being the chief ones.

Mr. Temple has been twice married, his first wife being, Miss Emma Crossman of Tecumseh. She was the mother of two sons, H. M. Temple of St. Paul, and Claude of St. Louis, both of whom are prosperous.

Mr. Temple was married the second time to Hettie A. Smith, who became the mother of one son, Leon E, who resides at the parental home, and is in business with his father, the firm name being S. W. & L. E. Temple. They have built up a fine business, being now one of the most substantial firms in Tecumseh.

Mr. Temple has seen many changes, in these 50 years in the commercial life, Lucius Lilley being the only one in business now, who was in business at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Temple are both held in the highest consideration as reliable and worth people

MRS. HELEN KETCHUM-QUINE.

The funeral of Mrs. Helen Ketchum-Quine, who died at a hospital in Toledo last Saturday, was held from the home of a daughter, Mrs. Robt. Hodge yesterday afternoon Mrs. Quine was a former resident of Tecumseh. She leaves two sons, Fred K. and Geo H. Quine and one daughter, Mrs. Robt. Hodge. Mrs. Albert Lawrence and Charles Patterson attended the funeral yesterday.

MONEY BACK OFFER

What Risk When C. A. Wright & Son Will Give You Your Money Back if Mi-o-na Does Not Cure Dyspepsia.

It's really a crime the way people suffer from indigestion, when it is such a simple disease to cure.

Why will people go on belching gas from a sour stomach, and inflict their foul breath, caused by food fermentation, on their friends, when Mi-o-na will give complete relief in a few hours, and will cure in two weeks?

We respectfully urge all readers of Herald to tell their suffering friends that Mi-o-na will stop heartburn, distress after eating, waterbrash, nausea, and all diseases of the stomach almost immediately. A large box costs but 50c., and C. A. Wright & Son guarantee it.

"Mi-o-na is a reliable remedy for the cure of indigestion and stomach trouble and has from me a hearty recommendation and endorsement." Mrs. C. F. Coller, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 13, 1908.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

NEW BISHOP INSTALLED.

Right Rev. John Farrelly Takes Charge of Cleveland Catholic Diocese.

Cleveland, June 14.—The Right Rev. John P. Farrelly was formally installed as bishop of the Cleveland Catholic diocese Sunday, the fourth since the diocese was established. Bishop Farrelly was chosen to the office to succeed the late Right Rev. Ignatius F. Horstmann, who died at Canton, O., May 13, 1908. The appointment of Bishop Farrelly was annointed by Pope Pius X., March 16.

The ceremony of installation was held at St. John's cathedral in the presence of Archbishop Henry Moeller of Cincinnati, many visiting bishops and other church dignitaries. In a brief address toward the close of the solemn high mass, Monsignore Boff extended a welcome in the name of the Cleveland clergy and relinquished to the new prelate his duties as administrator of the diocese.

CORPORAL SHOOTS HIS CAPTAIN.

Became Angry When Refused to Be Transferred.

Des Moines, Ia., June 14.—Corporal Lisle Crabtree has probably fatally shot Captain John C. Raymond, commanding officer of Troop B, Second United States cavalry, at Fort Des Moines, shot and seriously injured First Sergeant James H. Washburn and Corporal Elijah Such, who attempted to disarm him, and shot himself, the bullet striking a rib above the heart and crushing the bone. He may recover.

Crabtree had been reprimanded by Captain Raymond because of failure to report when a leave of absence had expired. He had spent the night in Des Moines and was to have returned to his barracks at 7 a. m. Crabtree was summoned by Captain Raymond in the afternoon and asked about his conduct. The corporal insisted that he had leave of absence until 7 o'clock p. m. Captain Raymond accepted this explanation, but later Crabtree demanded that he be transferred to another department of the army. This Captain Raymond refused to consider, telling the corporal he could not do that as long as he was not a good soldier. Crabtree, thereupon grew angry and drew a revolver and did the shooting.

STRIKE LEADERS ARRESTED

Hawaiian Officials Confident They Have Clear Case Against Japs.

Honolulu, June 14.—Fifteen Japanese strike leaders on the sugar plantations that were arrested have just been given a preliminary hearing. District Judge W. L. Whitney held twelve of them for trial on charges of conspiring to riot and three for conspiracy to murder.

When the territorial district court convened in extraordinary session for the preliminary examination of the strike leaders, Sheriff Jarrett, with the approval of Judge A. J. Robinson, ordered that no crowd be allowed to assemble about the courthouse during the hearing, on the ground that it was likely to lead to disorder. This order was rigidly enforced by a large detail of police.

Following the action of the court, William P. Henry, territorial high sheriff, united with County Sheriff Jarrett in the issuance of a proclamation forbidding the assembling of large crowds anywhere in the territory while present conditions prevail. With thousands of idle Japanese excited over the arrest and trial of their countrymen, the police deemed the order wise.

Territorial officers declare that with the evidence adduced before the grand jury they are sure they have a clear case.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Making History.

When Kinglake was writing his history of the Crimean war he received letters from all sorts of people concerned in the war. One day a letter with a deep black border came from two people in the colonies, husband and wife, describing their grief. Their only child had been killed in the Crimea. They wanted to have him mentioned in the "History of the Crimean War." Kinglake was touched and replied by post that he would do his best if they would send him the necessary particulars. Again a letter, also black bordered, full of thanks, but with the following conclusion: "We have no particulars whatever to give you. He was killed on the spot, like many others, but anything you may kindly invent will be welcome. We leave it entirely to your imagination."—London Chronicle.

Weak Women

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure

"ALL DEALERS"

Mild Laxative for Baby Free

The child of today is the parent of the future, and whether it grows up healthy and strong, or puny and weak, depends upon the intelligence of its parents, for most children are born into the world healthy, but thousands become future weaklings between birth and the age of ten, when the parents are still in greatest control.

The prime cause of trouble is in the stomach. A baby that is digesting its food seldom cries and always looks cheerful; the little child whose stomach is good romps and plays and never whines; the growing child learns well at school and is eager for fun if its head is clear and its stomach light, and that means if it has no constipation.

The best and safest way to cure any irregularity of the stomach and bowels in children is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a liquid laxative wonderful in its effect as Mrs. John W. Dunham, Apple Creek, O., Mrs. H. L. Cullum, Plainville, Ind., and numerous others can testify who give it to their children with extraordinary results.

A bottle only costs 50 cents or it according to the size you prefer, and even one 50-cent bottle will do a wonderful amount of good in a family. It can be given to any member of the family in constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, dyspepsia, heartburn, sick headache and similar digestive troubles. It never gripes or strangles like pills, tablets, salts and powders, which should not be given to children, women or old folks.

If you have a child or other member of the family who needs, but has never used this grand laxative tonic, send your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent to your home. In this way you can find out what it will do without personal expense.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Hayes Collapsed.

Kansas City, Mo., June 14.—John Hayes, winner of the Olympic Marathon, after running nine miles of a twenty mile match race Sunday afternoon, with John Svanberg of Sweden, was seized wi... cramp and forced to retire. Sve... finished the race in 1:52:33 2-5. Svenberg led Hayes by four laps at the time of the latter's retirement.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Marinette county is to have a state agricultural experiment station similar to the Michigan station at Chatham, in the upper peninsula.

Ray Faborien, aged fifteen years, of River Rouge, a suburb of Detroit, may die as the result of being struck on the head by a baseball while playing ball.

In the United States court in Bay C... Frank T. Woodworth was awarded a judgment for $25,782 against F. P. Chesbrough and J. W. McGraw. The suit was brought to recover on a stock transfer which the plaintiff claimed was a "skin game."

Judge Mason in the municipal court of Kalamazoo refused to punish Coral Bacon, the eighteen-year-old bridegroom of four months, for stealing a bicycle. Button's wife was in Paw Paw, and Button, anxious to see her and being unable to get work in Kalamazoo, stole the bicycle to go to Paw Paw.

Leaving his coat, hat and billbook containing $120 in the cabin where he had laid down to sleep, Blais Durbin, twenty-two years old, of Patton, Pa., disappeared from the Goodrich steamer Indiana, on Lake Michigan, between Chicago and Grand Haven, during the night. It is believed he was drowned.

Two More Alleged "Black Hands."

Cleveland, June 10.—Antonio and Joseph Nusso, brothers and proprietors of a commission house, have been arrested here and are held at the county jail on the suspicion that they are members of the "Black Hand" band of which Sam Lima of Marion, O., is said to be the leader.

TWIN CITIES TO CELEBRATE

Menominee and Marinette Prepare For Fourth.

Menominee, Mich., June 14.—The greatest Fourth of July celebration ever held in the twin cities will occur in Marinette this year, the twin cities joining together for the first time on record. Roger M. Andrews of Menominee, editor and state mineral commissioner, will deliver the chief address.

A great athletic program and auto and floral parade will be the chief features.

Summoned Before Grand Jury.

Marshall, Mich., June 14.—Sheriff Graham, Deputy Sheriffs Smith and Mallory, Constable G. W. Coleman, H. P. Benner, an ex-saloonist; S. F. Osborn, a milk dealer, and City Treasurer J. M. Bradshaw, a druggist, have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury in Detroit Wednesday to give testimony in the counterfeiting cases against William Kulp, William Shaw and Peter Hauser.

Odd Names in China.

Chinese children are endowed with strange Christian names. Their girls, for instance, are not called Mabel, Jenny or Matilda, but Cloudy Moon, Celestial Happiness, Spring Peach or Casket of Perfumes. Their boys get less attractive names, being made for work and wisdom rather than pleasure and dancing. Thus we find a little two-year-old Practical Industry; three-year-old, Ancestral Knowledge; four-year-old, Complete Virtue; five-year-old, Discreet Valor. To their slaves they give still another set of names. Not For Me, Joy to Serve, Your Happiness and Humble Devotion may be taken as typical examples.

Harold Chose the Easier Way.

Maynard had been naughty, and his father, after showing him his fault, had sent him up to his room to ask God to forgive him for being a bad boy. Three-year-old Harold was present, but seemed to take no notice of the conversation. It was his turn, however, before many days to receive punishment, and his father took him across his knee. "Oh, don't, papa," he said. "I would rather go upstairs and pray."—Delineator.

John's Great Loss.

"For goodness' sake, Harriet, why so sad?"

"The cook's left, but that isn't the worst of it. She took with her the recipe book for all the things John's mother used to make."—Brooklyn Life.

Not His Hat.

Principal—Johnnie, I'm surprised that your French is so weak. Now, think. Chapeau—what is that? What does your father throw up when he's merry? Johnnie—His job, sir.—London Tit-Bits.

Humor In Advertising.

It is agreed on all sides that as a rule humorous advertisements are to be avoided. Business is business, and the businesslike ad. is the one that counts. Nevertheless it is interesting to come upon an odd, amusing or out of the ordinary specimen—for instance, that of the photographer who made a specialty of baby photographs. His advertisement read:

"Bring your dear little babies. If they don't sit still I won't get cross. I was a baby once myself."

What is especially rare is to find an advertiser who will exhibit any candor about the negative qualities of his goods. It is all the more refreshing, then, to peruse the announcement of an innkeeper in one of the smaller states who was evidently burning with a desire to tell the exact truth about his establishment:

"Not the largest hotel in the town, not newly furnished throughout, no free bus to train, not the best grub the market affords, but simply clean beds and good food, 25 cents to sleep, 25 cents to eat. Toothpicks and ice water thrown in. Try us. Pay up. And if not satisfied keep mum!"—London Answers.

The Forbidden Fruit.

The botanical curiosities of the island of Ceylon are replete with varied interest. One of them is "the forbidden fruit," or "Eve's apple tree." Its native name is diwi kadura, kadura signifying "forbidden" and diwi "tigers." The flower of this extraordinary production is said to emit a fine scent. The color of the fruit, which hangs from the branches in a very peculiar and striking manner, is very beautiful, being orange on the outside and a deep crimson within. The fruit itself presents the appearance of having had a piece bitten out of it. This circumstance, together with the fact of its being a deadly poison, led the Mohammedans on their discovery of Ceylon, which they assigned as the site of paradise, to represent it as the forbidden fruit of the garden of Eden, for, although the finest and most tempting in appearance of any, it had been impressed, such was their idea, with the mark of Eve's having bitten it to warn men from meddling with a substance possessing such noxious properties.

Grief That Kills.

"My poor boy," said the beneficent old clergyman, who had encountered a young waif sobbing in the streets, "what ails you? Some case of dire distress has touched your heart chords no doubt."

"No," sniffed the lad; "you're clear off your base, old kazoozicks. Me an' Snippy an' de rest of de fellies tincanned the mangy old yellow cur up at Schwartz's grocery, an' while old Schwartz an' de gang followed de dog I sneaked back to de grocery to swipe dried apples. De Fido chased into Schmitt's orchard, an' de gang cribbed de swellest peaches you ever seen, an' den dey smoked grapevine cigarettes and set the barn afire. I made a sashay into de apple barrel at de grocery, an' de delivery boy pasted me with a bed slat, an' it hurts yet, an' I didn't get to see de fire an' didn't get nothin' to eat, an' I wisht I wus dead—doggone it all!"—Bohemian Magazine.

His Advice.

A young genius named McCarthy went to Commodore Vanderbilt and gave him a suggestion which led the commodore to organize all the little railroads between New York and Chicago into one. Before McCarthy went to Vanderbilt he went to a friend for advice. Here is what his friend told him about the commodore:

"Don't let him scare ye. He's as full of power as a turbine. Has a good deal o' whir in him. Likes resistance; so does every great force. He's fought a thousand difficulties. He'll take you for another air pitch into ye, like as not. Don't let him scare ye. If he jumps on ye, jump on him. He'll enjoy it an' begin to respect ye. It's like puttin' a belt on the turbine—you'll take off a bit of his power and ease him down."—Denver News.

A Legal Difference.

The Client—How much will your opinion be worth in this case? The Lawyer—I'm too modest to say. But I can tell you what I'm going to charge you for it.—Cleveland Leader.

A Sign.

Whenever you hear people referring to any one as "an original genius" you may be sure that they are prepared to make excuses for him.—Chicago Record-Herald.

All Unreceipted.

A titled Englishman was speaking of the impoverished nobility of the old world.

"What a German friend of mine said of his family is true of too many families. My friend was a graf. I was visiting his castle on the Rhine. He showed me there one day many proofs of his race's antiquity.

"'Dear me,' said I, stifling a yawn, 'I had no idea you went back so far.'

"He pointed proudly to an old steel bound chest of black oak.

"'Why, my boy,' said he, 'I've got bills in there dating back to the twelfth century.'"

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

TEN KILLED, MANY HURT

Two Interurban Cars Come Together Head-On.

IN PORTER COUNTY, INDIANA

Three of Dead Lived in Michigan. General Manager of Road Declares Dead Motorman Disobeyed Orders. Heartrending Scenes Followed Accident—Both Cars Wrecked.

South Bend, Ind., —June 21.—Ten persons were killed and forty injured in a wreck on the Chicago, Lake Shore & South Bend railroad in Porter county, Ind., at night, two of the big electric cars colliding head on. According to General Manager H. U. Wallace, the wreck was due to a disobedience of orders by Motorman George A. Reed of the eastbound car, who was killed.

Reed received instructions at Gary to wait at Wilson, a short distance west of Baileytown, the point at which the disaster occurred, for the westbound car to pass. The impact of the cars was so great that they were a mass of debris.

Dead:

George A. Reed, motorman, Michigan City, Ind.
Ray F. Merriman, South Bend.
Charles Johnson, Porter, Ind.
Edward Gilbertson, Porter, Ind.
A. Barber, Mishawaka, Ind.
F. T. Moore, residence unknown.
William Leon, secretary of the Dowagaic Motor works, Dowagiac, Mich.
H. H. Hutson, Niles, Mich.
Charles Swantson, Porter, Ind.
F. A. Lake, president of Dowagiac Motor works, Dowagiac, Mich.

Some of the injured are not expected to live.

The eastbound car was going fifty miles an hour to make up lost time. In this train were all of the killed and most of the injured passengers, passengers on the westbound train escaping with bruises.

The two cars were welded together in a mass of debris in which lay the dead and dying and two score injured. The screams for help caused a scene of confusion for many minutes. Soon, however, the cool-headed passengers brought order out of chaos, and while some converted the home of E. R. Borg, nearby, into a hospital and morgue others rescued the injured.

Darkness greatly interfered with the progress of the rescuers, and to make matters worse the nearest telephone was nearly a mile away.

All but one of the killed were in the smoking compartment, in the front end of the car.

G. A. Schimmel, motorman of the westbound car, said that his car was at a full stop when the eastbound car struck it. He added:

"My car was nearing Dune park when I saw the headlight of the eastbound train flashing in the distance. That train had been ordered to wait for my car at Wilson, some distance west of Dune park. I realized at once that the motorman of the car had overlooked his orders. I put on the brakes and brought my car to a stop, while the eastbound car kept rushing toward me. I tried to back my car, but the airbrakes did not release the wheels, and I could not move before the crash came."

HONOR CONFEDERATE DEAD

Bids Opened For Monument to Mark Their Resting Place.

Washington, June 21.—At the war department today bids were opened for the erection of a monument to the Confederate dead who are buried in the Finns Point National cemetery at Salem, N. J.

The monument, which is to cost about $8,500, will be erected by the United States government to mark the resting place of 2,460 officers and men of the Confederate army and navy who died as prisoners of war at Fort Delaware between 1862 and 1865.

The adoption of a general monument for the purpose is due to the fact that it has been found impossible because of imperfect records to place a distinctive headstone at each individual grave, as contemplated by the act of congress.

The commissioner for marking the graves of Confederate soldiers is General Edwin M. Coates, retired.

Noted Russian Is Dead.

St. Petersburg, June 21.—Frederick de Martens, late professor of international law in the University of St. Petersburg, is dead. He was taken ill while on his way to his estate in Livonia and died in the railroad station at Valk. De Martens was a privy councilor and had been permanent member of the council of the ministry of foreign affairs since 1882.

ANGELL'S LAST BACCALAUREATE

Retiring President Makes His Final Address.

SPEAKS TO 900 GRADUATES

Veteran Educator Tells Students How Much They Are Indebted to Teacher and State For What They Have Received—Urges Them to Take Hand in Public Service Work.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 21.—More than 900 members of the 1909 graduating class of the University of Michigan, relatives and friends, and townspeople, listened Sunday night to what was Dr. James B. Angell's last baccalaureate address as active president of that institution and probably his farewell talk to many of the young people who next week leave the university to start on life's path for themselves.

University hall was comfortably filled, although not crowded. The senior class members, wearing caps and gowns, occupied the center of the hall.

In part, Dr. Angell said:

"The hundreds who graduate from here annually often gratify those who have taught them in these halls by expressions of thankfulness to their teachers. I desire to ask if it often occurs to you how largely you are debtors to the state which has founded the university and which is its chief source of maintenance.

Pioneers Were Wise.

"It is noteworthy that in the constitution which it adopted on entering the Union Michigan provided for the organization of the university and really made the board of regents for certain purposes a branch of the state government co-ordinate with the executive, legislative and judicial branches. It thus planned for its permanent existence. The wise and far-seeing men who laid the foundations of this commonwealth had a lofty conception of the functions of the state. They did not, like some political philosophers of a later day, think of the state as a mere policeman to keep order and protect property, but as authorized to promote the highest welfare of its children by furnishing them with a university.

"One of the most interesting and important results of this state support of the university is the fact, which is now realized to some exent and will be still more as time goes on, that every taxpayer in the state justly regards himself as a stockholder in the institution.

First in Co-education.

"The women who have been students in this university will allow me to say that they have special cause to remember with gratitude this state which first among the states opened to them the doors of its university. For it was in obedience to the pressure of public opinion in the state that the university decided in 1870 to admit women to equal privileges with men in all its departments.

"Each in his own circle may strive to influence public opinion to aid in the maintenance and development of the institution. For its support it depends, and must depend, on the good will of the public and on their appreciation of its value.

"Show in your daily life that your university education has helped to give you a broad and generous view of the function and duty of the educated man; make plain, what is a fact, that the university is the most Democratic institution in the state, that it is the one place above all others where the poor and the rich live on terms of absolute equality, where the atmosphere is fatal to the existence of aristocratic notions, where lofty ideals of devotion to the public good are cherished as they can be nowhere so naturally as in hearts glowing with the flush of young manhood and young womanhood. Devote your trained minds, so far as opportunity offers, to the public service and to the diffusion of generous ideas on public interests.

KILLED HIS BOARDER.

Shot His Wife and Also Shot Himself.

Steubenville, O., June 21.—Meier Osman, living here, shot and killed Mike Demick, shot and seriously wounded his wife and then attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself.

Osman found Demick, who was a boarder in the Osman residence, caressing Mrs. Osman. Securing his gun, Osman fired a load of fine shot into Demick's chest, causing almost instant death. Mrs. Osman ran and was shot in the back. Osman then turned the gun upon himself and fired, but failed to inflict a dangerous wound.

IDENTIFIES THE BODY

Paul Sigel Admits Slain Girl Was His Daughter.

NO TRACE OF THE CHINAMAN

Body of Victim's Stomach Sent to Chemists—Just How She Met Death Not Known—Woman Who Knows Family Believes Victim Is a Mysterious "Nellie."

New York, June 21.—Leon Ling, with his string of English-Chinese aliases and his American clothes, may never be found, but the mutilated body of the New York girl left behind in a trunk in his room here will not be buried in potter's field. Paul Sigel, the father, has claimed and positively identified the body at the morgue, admitting for the first time that the victim was his daughter, Elsie.

The girl's mother, now in a sanitarium, had previously identified the jewelry; another woman had identified the underclothing, and relatives had said that the murdered girl was Elsie Sigel, granddaughter of General Franz Sigel. Up to the present, however, no one had come forward to claim the body.

But after a conference at police headquarters he visited the morgue, accompanied by Franz Sigel, a brother, and Reginald, a son, and by Mabel Sigel, a cousin of the victim. It was then that the father became convinced that the girl's body was that of his daughter.

Mr. Sigel made arrangements for the immediate removal of the body and for the funeral.

Cause of Death Not Known.

Elsie Sigel's stomach is in the hands of a Columbia university professor, who will make a chemical analysis of its contents. Although the murder is supposed to have been committed on Wednesday, June 9th, the exact cause of her death has never been ascertained. While the autopsy determined that death probably was due to asphyxia, whether she was choked, smothered under a pillow or drugged, bound with ropes and left to die horribly in the trunk is as much a mystery as is the whereabouts of Leon Ling and his pal, Chung Sing.

Aside from the positive identification of the body, there are few developments in the case here. Chu Gain, manager of the Port Arthur restaurant in Chinatown, who was detained last night as a material witness, was held without bail until Tuesday. He had admitted that he knew Elsie Sigel well and had incurred the enmity of Leon Ling and, and that both he (Chu Gain) and the girl had been threatened with death.

Plenty of Theories.

Theories as to exactly how and why the girl was murdered are plentiful. One woman, Mrs. E. Smith, who professes to have known the family well, even suggests that the victim is not Elsie Sigel, but a mysterious "Nellie" who has figured in Leon Ling's love affairs. Mrs. Smith holds that it is possible she and the Chinaman were preparing to elope when "Nellie" appeared, created a scene and was killed. The substitution of the clothing and the packing of the body in the trunk complete this feminine Sherlock Holmes theory.

During the afternoon two Chinamen called at the Sigel home in the Bronx ignorant of Mrs. Sigel's removal to a sanitarium and asked to see "our mother angel," a name which Mrs. Sigel earned because of her mission work among the Chinese. One of the men said he was Chu Sam, a brother of Chu Gain, who is under arrest. Chu Sam said that Chung Sing, who disappeared simultaneously with Leon, borrowed $250 from his brother, Chu Gain, the Tuesday before the murder and on the following day wrote that he would be out of town for some time. Chu Gain is somewhat of a capitalist and is president of a Chinese loan association.

Sister Discusses Case.

Before going to the morgue, Mabel Sigel discussed the case, saying, among other things, that Elsie had been in love with an army man in Wyoming. She read extracts from letters which she said had been written by this man to Elsie, all of which were couched in affectionate words and were signed "Your old sweetheart, Howard." But she declined to say where the army man was stationed.

What progress the police had made toward tracing Leon Ling is not known. Various clues, such as surround every crime of this character, are being followed out.

BIG SHOOTING EVENT BEGINS

Preliminary Practice First Step Toward Grand American Handicap.

Chicago, June 21.—With today's preliminary practice the tenth grand American target shooting competition was begun. Unless all signs fail it will be the greatest tournament of the kind ever held in the United States.

The grounds of the Chicago Gun club, on which the tournament is held, are twelve acres in extent, and they are equipped with five sets of traps facing the north. There is ample shelter for more than 500 contestants should the weather prove stormy, and the appointments are equal to anything of the kind in the world.

The schedule of events adopted by the Interstate association includes the preliminary handicap on Wednesday and the event of the year for trap shooters, the Grand American handicap, on Tuesday.

"BUTTERFLY BUD" IS MARRIED

prominent families and the bridegrooms family is very well known socially in Washington.

Today's bride is the famous "butterfly debutante" of the winter of 1907-8. For her coming out her father brought from Brazil and Peru 500 live butterflies, which were released at the ball given in honor of his daughter's debut. It was estimated at the time that the expense of bringing out Miss Paul amounted to $100,000. The bridegroom is a brother of Miss Carrie Munn, who was reported engaged to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in the spring of this year.

The ceremony was performed in St. [illegible]'s church, Radnor, and was witnessed only by the immediate families and a few intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. Munn is a senior in Harvard, and the young couple will occupy a house near the university until he completes his course. Later they will reside near Philadelphia.

JURY DISAGREES.

Patrick Calhoun Trial Thus Ends After Five Months' Duration.

San Francisco, June 21.—Terminating in a disagreement of the jury, with ten men determined on acquittal and two resolved on conviction, the trial for bribery of President Patrick Calhoun of the United railroads has ended. Five montas and a week had passed since the wealthy street railroad owner made his first appearance in court to answer to the charges of offering a bribe of $4,000 to a supervisor to obtain an overhead trolley for his corporation.

Not until each juror had pronounced as hopeless the prospect of a verdict was the order for their dismissal made by Judge Lawlor, prosecution and defense giving assent to the discharge. The trial ended quietly.

The attorneys are expected to fix a date for another trial on the same indictment.

Open Branch in Peking.

Peking, June 21.—The American branch of the International Banking corporation, which has been established here, will be opened on Wednesday. The corporation was incorporated in 1902 in Connecticut. It has a capital of $3,250,000, and its head office is in New York, with branches in many parts of the world.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

"No; I can't do that!" And then to the wounded man he said, "I'll get a doctor, but God have mercy on your soul!" He could not trust himself to talk further with this creature nor be near him any longer, for, though he had a slight knowledge of surgery, he would sooner have touched a loathsome serpent than the flesh of this monstrous man.

He pushed Gale ahead of him, and the old man went like a driven beast, for his violence had wasted itself, and he was like a person under the spell of a strong drug.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE LOVE OF POLEON DORET.

To the girl crouching in the stern of Runnion's boat it seemed as if this day and night would never end. It seemed as if the procession of natural events must have ceased, that there was no longer any time, for she had been suffering steadily for hours and hours without end and began to wonder dreamily whether she had not skipped a day in her reckoning between the time when she first heard of the strike on her claim and this present moment. It occurred to her that she was a rich girl now in her own right, and she smiled her crooked smile as she reflected that the thing she had longed for without hope of attainment had come with confusing swiftness and had left her unhappier than ever.

Restless and tired of her lonely vigil, she gave a premonitory cough and said to her companion:

"You must be tired rowing so steadily?"

"Oh, I don't mind it!" he replied.

At the sound of his voice she sat bolt upright. It couldn't be. If this were Runnion he would have spoken before. She ventured again tremulously:

"Have you any idea what time it is?"

"About 3 o'clock, I fancy."

"Who are you?" The question came like a shot.

"Don't you know?'

"What are you doing here, Mr. Runnion?"

"I'm rowing," he answered carelessly.

"I've changed my mind, Mr. Runnion," she said. "I don't want to go down to the mission. I want you to take me back."

"Can't do it," he said. "The current is too swift."

"Then set me ashore and I'll walk back. It can't be far to town."

"Twenty-five miles. We've been out about three hours."

"Please do as I ask you, Mr. Runnion. I've decided I don't want to go any farther." He laughed, and the sound aroused her. "Put me ashore this minute!" she cried indignantly. "What do you mean?"

When he made no answer, except to continue the maddening monotony of his movements, she was seized with a rash resolve to wrench the oars out of his hands and made a quick motion toward him, at which he shouted:

"What are you doing here, Mr. Runnion?"

"Sit down! Do you want to upset us?"

The unstable craft lurched and dipped dangerously, and, realizing the futility of her mad impulse, she sank back on her knees.

"Stark told me to board the first boat for St. Michael's," he said, "but I've made a few plans of my own the last hour or so."

"St. Michael's! Mr. Stark told you—why, that's impossible! You misunderstood him. He told you to row me to the mission. I'm going to Father Barnum's house."

"No, you're not, and I didn't misunderstand him. He wants to get you outside, all right, but I reckon you'd rather go as Mrs. Runnion than as the sweetheart of Ben Stark."

"Are you crazy?' the girl cried. "Mr. Stark kindly offered to help me reach the father at his mission. I'm nothing to him, and I'm certainly not going to be anything to you. If I'd known you were going to row the boat I should have stayed at home, because I detest you."

He rested again on his oars and said, with deliberation:

"Stark 'kindly offered,' did he? Well, whenever Ben Stark 'kindly' offers anything I'm in on the play. He's had his eye on you for the last three months, and he wants you, but he slipped a cog when he gave me the oars. You needn't be afraid, though. I'm going to do the square thing by you. We'll stop in at the mission and be married, and then we'll see whether we want to go to St. Michael's or not, though personally I'm for going back to Flambeau."

The girl's beauty, her indifference, the mistaken attitude of Stark urged him, and, strongest of all, he was drawn by his cupidity, for she would be very rich, so the knowing ones said. Doubtless that was why Stark wanted her, and, being a man who acknowledged no fidelity to his kind or his Creator, Runnion determined to outwit his principal, Doret, Burrell and all the rest.

Necia saw what a frail and helpless thing she was. Nothing about her was great save her soul, and that was immeasurably vexed and worried. She had just lived through a grief that had made her generous, and now she gained her first knowledge of the man-animal's gross selfishness.

"You are absolutely daft," she said. "You can't force me to marry you."

"I ain't going to force you. You'll do it willingly."

"I'll die first. I'll call the first man we see. I'll tell Father Barnum, and he'll have you run out of the country. It would only take a word from me."

"If you haven't changed your mind when we get to his place I'll run through without stopping, but there isn't another priest between there and St. Mike's, and by the time we get to the mouth of the river I guess you'll say 'Yes' to most anything. However, I'd rather marry you at Holy Cross if you'll consent, and I'm pretty sure you will when you think it over."

"We won't discuss it."

"You don't understand yet," he continued slowly. "What will people say when they know you ran away with me?"

"I'll tell them the truth."

"Huh! I'm too well known. No man on the river would ever have you after that."

"You—you"— Her voice was a-quiver with indignation and loathing, but her lips could not frame an epithet fit for him. He continued rowing for some time, then said:

"Will you marry me?"

"No. If this thing is ever known Poleon will kill you—or father."

For a third time he rested on his oars.

"Now that we've come to threats let me talk. I offered to marry you and do the square thing, but if you don't want to I'll pass up the formality and take you for my squaw, the same as your father took Alluna. Just remember you're alone with me in the heart of a wilderness, and you've got to make a choice quick, because I'm going ashore and make some breakfast as soon as it's light enough to choose a landing place. If you agree to come quietly and go through with this thing like a sensible girl I'll do what's right, but if you don't then I'll do what's wrong, and maybe you won't be so d——d anxious to tell your friends about this trip or spread your story up and down the river."

She saw Runnion gazing over his shoulder in search of a shelving beach or bar. They rounded a bend where the left bank crumbled before the untiring teeth of the river, forming a bristling cheval-de-frise of leaning, fallen firs awash in the current. The short side of the curve protected a gravel bar that made downstream to a dagger-like point, and toward this Runnion propelled the skiff. The girl's heart sank.

* * * * * * *

The mind of Poleon Doret worked in straight lines. Moreover, his memory was good. Stark's statement, which so upset Gale and the lieutenant, had a somewhat different effect upon the Frenchman, for certain facts had been impressed upon his subconsciousness which did not entirely jibe with the gambler's remarks, and yet they were too dimly engraved to afford foundation for a definite theory. What he did know was that he doubted. Why? Because certain scraps of a disjointed conversation recurred to him, a few words which he had overheard in Stark's saloon, something about a Peterborough canoe and a woman. He knew every skiff that lay along the water front, and of a sudden he decided to see if this one was where it had been at dusk, for there were but two modes of egress from Flambeau, and there was but one canoe of this type. If Necia had gone up river on the freighter, pursuit was hopeless, for no boatman could make headway against the current, but if, on the other hand, that cedar craft was gone— He ran out of Stark's house and down to the river bank. It was just one chance, and, if he was wrong, no matter. The others would leave on the next up river steamer, whereas if his suspicion proved a certainty, if Stark had lied to throw them off the track and Runnion had taken her down stream—well, Poleon wished no one to hinder him, for he would travel light.

The boat was gone. He searched the line backward, but it was not there, and his excitement grew now, likewise his haste. He stumbled up to the trading post and around to the rear, where, bottom up, lay his own craft, a birch canoe, frail and treacherous for any but a man schooled in the ways of swift water. He laid it carefully in the whispering current, then stripped himself with feverish haste, for the driving call of a hot pursuit was on him, and, although it was the cold, raw hours of late night, he whipped off his garments until he was bare to the middle. He seized his paddle, stepped in, then knelt amidships and pushed away. The birch bark answered him like a living thing, leaping and dancing beneath the strokes, while rippling, rising ridges stood out upon his back and arms as they rose and fell.

* * * * * * *

Runnion drove his Peterborough toward the shore with powerful strokes and ran its nose up on the gravel, rose, stretched himself and dragged it farther out, then looked down at Necia.

"Well, what is it—yes or no? Do you want me for a husband or for a master?" She cowered in the stern, a pale, fearful creature.

She cast her despairing eyes up and down the river, then at the wilderness on either shore, but it was as silent and unpeopled as if it had been created that morning. She must have time. She would temporize, pretending to yield, and then betray him to the first comer. A promise exacted under duress would not be binding.

"I'll go quietly," she said in a faint voice.

"I knew you'd see that I'm acting square. Come! Get the cramp out of yourself while I make a pot of coffee." He held out his hand to assist her, and she accepted it, but stumbled as she rose, for she had been crouched in one position for several hours, and her limbs were stiff. He caught her and swung her ashore. Then, instead of putting her feet to the ground, he pressed her to himself roughly and kissed her. She gave a stifled cry and fought him off, but he laughed and held her the closer.

"No, no, no!" she gasped, writhing like a wild thing, but he crushed his lips to hers again and then let her go, whereupon she drew away from him panting, disheveled, her eyes wide and filled with horror. She scrubbed her lips with the back of her hand, as if to erase his mark, while he reached into the canoe and brought forth an ax, a bundle of food and a coffeepot. Then, still chuckling, he gathered a few sticks of driftwood and built a fire. She had a blind instinct to flee and sought for a means of escape, but they were well out upon the bar that stretched a distance of 300 feet to the wooded bank. On one side of the narrow spit was the scarcely moving, half stagnant water of a tiny bay or eddy; on the other the swift, gliding current tugging at the beached canoe, while the outer end of the graveled ridge dwindled down to nothing and disappeared into the river. An instant later, when he turned to the clearer water of the eddy to fill the coffeepot, she seized her chance and sped up the bar toward the bank. The shingle under foot and her noisy skirts betrayed her, and with an oath he followed. It was an unequal race, and he handled her with rough strong hands when he overtook her.

"So! You lied to me! Well, I'm through with this foolishness. If you'll go back on your word like this you'll 'bawl me out' before the priest, so I'll forget my promise, too, and you'll be glad of the chance to marry me."

"Let me go!" she panted. "I'll marry you. Yes, yes, I'll do it, only don't touch me now!"

He led her back to the fire, which had begun to crackle. She was so weak now that she sank upon the stones shivering.

"That's right. Sit down and behave while I make something hot to drink. You're all in." After a time he continued as he busied himself about his task: "Say, you ought to be glad to get me. I've got a lot of money, or I will have, and once you're Mrs. Runnion nobody 'll ever know about this or think of you as a squaw."

He was still talking when the girl sprang to her feet and sent a shrill cry out over the river, but instantly he was up and upon her, his hand over her mouth, while she tore at it, screaming the name of Poleon Doret. He silenced her to a smothered, sobbing mumble and turned to see, far out on the bosom of the great soiled river, a man in a bark canoe. The craft had just swung past the bend above and was still a long way off, so far away, in fact, that Necia's signal had not reached it, for its occupant held unwaveringly to the swiftest channel, his body rising and falling in the smooth, unending rhythm of a master boatman under great haste, his arms upflung now and then as the paddle glinted and flashed across to the opposite side.

Runnion glanced about hurriedly, then cursed as he saw no place of concealment. The Peterborough stood out upon the bar conspicuously, as did he and the girl. But the chance remained that this man, whoever he was, would pass by, for his speed was great, the river a mile in width and the bend sharp. Necia had cried Poleon's name, but her companion saw no resemblance to the Frenchman in this strange looking voyager. In fact, he could not quite make out what was peculiar about the man—perhaps his eyes were not as sharp as hers—and then he saw that the boatman was naked to the waist. By now he was drawing opposite them with the speed of a hound.

Fear of Premature Burial.

The fear of premature burial, which prompted the late Lord Burton to direct by his will that his heart should be removed from his body, has caused many well known men and women to order a surgical operation to be performed upon their bodies. Harriet Martineau left her doctor £10 to amputate her head, and Lady Burton directed that her heart should be pierced with a needle. The late Edmund Yates left instructions that his jugular vein should be severed, with a provision that a fee of 20 guineas should be paid for the purpose. Literary persons appear to have been particularly afraid of premature burial. Bishop Berkeley, Lord Lytton, Hans Andersen and Wilkie Collins all took measures to protect themselves from it.—Westminster Gazette.

Locations of Promotion.

Elzena, aged four, reveled in kindergarten lore and each day imparted to her young mother the many interesting things that the sweet faced teacher had told them. Among the vicissitudes of school life to be encountered was that of vaccination, which was new to the little one. After much explaining and reassuring this difficulty was safely passed. A few weeks later she returned one day from kindergarten in a whirl of excitement, exclaiming: "Mother, mother, I'm going to be promoted! Mother, will I be promoted on my arm or my leg?"—New York Times.

German Way of Serving Asparagus.

When living in Germany we noticed that the asparagus served there was unsually tender and of a much more delicate flavor than that which we got in America. We learned that the Germans do not consider asparagus fit to eat unless the outside skin is scraped from each stalk before cooking. This sounds like slow work, but if a sharp knife is used it can be done quite rapidly and is well worth the trouble.—Good Housekeeping.

Their Troubles.

"You've got no grounds to envy me," said the millionaire to the beggar. "I've got just as many troubles as you have."

"No doubt yer right, boss," said the beggar humbly, "but the difficulty with me is I ain't got nothin' else."

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

COLE BROS' CIRCUS AT ADRIAN.

Cole Brothers' World Toured Shows, which will be in Adrian, June 28, enjoy the proud distinction of being the one show that spares neither money nor experience in caring for their patrons. They have taken advantage of every modern appliance to do this and in every possible way have considered the comfort and safety of the thousands who daily visit them. The old time worn circus seats have been abolished and in their stead, roomy backed seats with easy foot rests. Every seat is so situated that an unobstructed view can at all times be had of the three rings and elevated stages and no act is given that cannot be seen from any part of the huge tent. Less than one quarter of the seating space is reserved and this grand stand section is provided with individual chairs, all of which are numbered and only tickets sold to correspond with these numbers. At no time is standing room sold. To see that every one is provided with seats, there are over fifty uniformed ushers in attendance whose undivided attention is given to the patrons and ladies and children may attend any of the performances unaccompanied by chaperone and feel assured that they will be courteously cared for. The uniformed attendants in the menagerie, horse fair and other departments are under orders to answer all pertinent questions politely and intelligently and patrons may at all times seek information knowing it will be furnished them willingly and politely. At night the tents are all lighted with the show's own system of lighting, and are made as bright as when lighted by the sun's rays. Not only is this true as to the tents, but the streets leading to them and the grounds surrounding them. The show carries its own corps of experienced detectives who work in connection with the local authorities to keep objectionable characters away from the show grounds. This show is absolutely free from all games and gambling devices and patrons may feel as safe when in attendance as when seated by their own firesides.

It matters not how modern a circus may become it can never become so much so as to do away with the clown. The immense tents now necessary to seat the thousands who flock to a performance, have made it compulsory to do away with the singing and talking clowns, for it would be impossible to hear them. The pantomine clown has taken the place of the old time talking clown, and where there was one of the latter, there are now scores of the former. In his day, the singing and talking clown pleased the audiences, but today his efforts would be considered foolish and he would be a failure as a laughter producer. Not so with the mimic and pantominist. He is funny at all times if he is a true clown. There are more possibilities for the mimic and pantominist than ever presented themselves to the talking clown.

Cole Brothers' World Toured Shows that will be in Adrian, June 28, have with them no less than forty-one of these funny fellows, and every one of them is funny without being so disgustingly foolish and suggestive as many so often seen with other shows. Every one of the queer characters that has made the comic supplements popular, are included in the bunch of fun makers with this show, and every character taken, is in the hands of clowns with national reputations. Their fun is spasmodic and not of the cut and dried variety that makes laugh producing seem like labor. Their antics, contortions, pranks and the shines they cut up at the expense of one another, are extremely funny and so vigorously carried out that one almost forgets that they are part of the show and being paid for what they are doing. Aside from the mimics and pantominists are the mirthful comedians. These manufacturers of comedy vie with the other clowns in creating merriment, and between them there is something doing every minute. No circus is complete without good clowns and the Cole Brothers have a host of the very best ones.

It is curious how easily a woman can be deceived by a foreign suitor making his appeal through a cornet, when she would instantly spot a fellow American who was talking through his hat.

He has been married 40 years," said an editor, writing the obituray of a deceased citizen, "and was prepared to die.

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol glycerine, etc makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old obstinate cases it is true cannot be cured in a few days, but absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing, calm cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes affect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment the patient knows at once.

Instead trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportion ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or oil of wintergreen Compound. It is made by D. D. D. Co of Chicago and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc, are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent one?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take. It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannan, of Alvarado, Va., Mrs. R. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky., and numerous others; in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., as Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, of that place, writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

REVIVAL OF THE LUMBER TRADE ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Officials of the Michigan-Pacific Lumber Company Looking for an Early Resumption of Business.

British Columbia the First to Profit.

With the arrival home of the officials of the Michigan-Pacific Lumber company from their long trip to their property on Vancouver Island, comes the news that mills in British Columbia have been resuming operations rapidly during the past month or so.

From Seattle, under date of June 11, now comes the welcome news of what local lumbermen predict is the first step in the big revival of the lumber trade in the Pacific coast states south of the Canadian boundary line.

On June 11 specifications were received from the east for 12,000,000 feet of lumber of bids to be opened July 10. The specifications come from car shops in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis. The Chicago and the Milwaukee shops are asking tenders on 10,000,000 feet and the St. Louis shops on 2,000,000 feet. The material, according to advices received here, is to be used in the construction of a large number of refrigerator cars for the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

The receipt of these specifications today, coming closely upon the letting of a contract to Oregon mills for 8,000,000 feet by the Pullman company, causes local lumbermen to believe that from now on the revival in the lumber trade will be rapid.

Mr. Charles A. Phelps of Grand Rapids, treasurer of the Michigan-Pacific Lumber company, states that they are putting in at the present time about 100,000 feet of logs per day which is netting $11 at the mill. "While these prices are very much lower than prevailed in 1906," said Mr. Phelps, "they are very satisfactory to us in view of the fact that all our estimates on our property were based on logs at $9.50. We look for considerably higher prices within the next few months and are storing our logs at the present time rather than to market full production at present prices."

A VISIBLE INCREASING SECURITY
20% Earnings
THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

AFTERNOON TEA WITH MRS. TAFT.

At her afternoon teas Mrs. Taft serves sandwiches instead of cake, and the table is in the red room. About 25 guests are asked each day to take tea with Mrs. Taft, the invitations being over the telephone. While the guests are arriving a friend pours the tea, but is afterwards relieved by Mrs. Taft, who pours and passes sandwiches and makes the occasion a delightfully informal one.

MONEY BACK OFFER

What Risk When C. A. Wright & Son Will Give You Your Money Back if Mi-o-na Does Not Cure Dyspepsia.

It's really a crime the way people suffer from indigestion, when it is such a simple disease to cure.

Why will people go on belching gas from a sour stomach, and inflict their foul breath, caused by food fermentation, on their friends, when Mi-o-na will give complete relief in a few hours, and will cure in two weeks?

We respectfully urge all readers of Herald to tell their suffering friends that Mi-o-na will stop heartburn, distress after eating, waterbrash, nausea, and all diseases of the stomach almost immediately. A large box costs but 50c., and C. A. Wright & Son guarantee it.

"Mi-o-na is a reliable remedy for the cure of indigestion and stomach trouble and has from me a hearty recommendation and endorsement." Mrs. C. F. Coller, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 13, 1908.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

With man, most of his misfortunes are occasioned by man.—Pliny the Elder.

Somehow a woman never seems to enjoy a good cry unless she has two or more reasons for starting the bring flow.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for constipation, stomach and liver trouble, as it sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Sold by all druggists.

DEAD IN CEMETERY.

Young Woman Evidently Committed Suicide With Carbolic Acid.

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—The body of a young woman, as yet unidentified, was found in a secluded corner of the German Lutheran cemetery, Mt. Elliot avenue near Farnsworth. Near her lay an empty carbolic acid bottle, and her lips were badly burned. It is supposed she killed herself.

The woman had evidently suffered greatly, as the tall grass on three graves nearby was knocked down, as though she had rolled about in her last struggles. The dead woman appears to be about twenty-seven years old. About her neck hung a gold locket, bearing the initials, "M. G."

SHOT AND KILLED HIS FATHER.

Son Said He Did So to Save Wife's Life.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 21.—As a climax to an early Sabbath morning family row, Emil Tilley, living on a farm three miles south of here, shot and killed his sixty-year-old father.

Upon the arrival of officers the son surrendered without trouble.

"I killed my father to save the life of my wife," was Tilley's statement when taken to jail. "He had attacked me when my wife interfered. Turning on her he landed a vicious blow with a club. He was preparing to swing again, a blow which would have meant her death, when I fired."

BADLY SCORCHED.

Fire Breaks Out In Railroad Shops at Muskegon.

Muskegon, Mich., June 21.—Fire that broke out in the paint shops of the Pere Marquette Railroad company destroyed it and two coach shops, together with the Pullman and three passenger coaches and 100 freight cars. The estimated loss is $70,000.

The fire department succeeded in saving the roundhouse, tin and blacksmith shops.

Despondent Woman Kills Self.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 21.—The dead body of Mrs. Hannah Tunnsmore, sixty years old, was found in the bathroom of a rooming house, 38 Third avenue, by Mrs. Chris Harastead, who conducts the place. She had turned the gas on after removing the top of the jet to permit a larger flow. The woman had been despondent.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

M. A. Merrifield, leading citizen and prominent attorney of Union City, died suddenly at the age of sixty-nine years. He was a Grand Army man.

The Brown Glove company's factory, at Manistee, has been totally destroyed by fire. The blaze was the result of an explosion.

Edward Degegus swung from the railing of a resort passenger train at Ludington in an effort to catch his hat, which had blown off, and was thrown under the car wheels. His right foot was horribly crushed.

Grand Rapids will not send as large a delegation of G. A. R. veterans to the annual encampment at Kalamazoo this year as in previous years. The reason is that the ranks of the "old boys" are fast being thinned out. About 100 will go from the soldiers' home.

Bagley's Daughter Dead.

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—Mrs. Stedman Buttrick, formerly Miss Olive Bagley of Detroit, and daughter of the late Governor Bagley, died suddenly at her home at Concord, Mass., Saturday afternoon.

THE FINEST EVER.

Pittsburg's New Baseball Park Will Be Dedicated June 30.

Pittsburg, June 21.—Pittsburg's million dollar ball grounds, the present of Barney Dreyfus, president of the Pittsburg baseball club, to the fans of this city, is completed, and the dedication exercises outlined for the 30th of June are destined to be history-makers in the annals of local baseball. Pittsburg business houses have declared a half holiday in honor of the event, while every railroad centering in the city will run excursions from the surrounding country.

The new park, appropriately named Forbes Field, after one of the founders of Pittsburg, is said by competent critics to be the finest of its kind in the world.

The highest manhood resides in disposition, not in mere intellect.—Beecher.

Baggageman Believes Missing Chinamen Passed Through There.

Chicago, June 21.—The police have received information which may result in the capture of the two New York Chinese who are wanted in connection with the murder of Elsie Sigel.

W. J. Conley, an employe of the Parmalee Transfer company, said that two Chinese answering the description of Leon Ling and Chung Sing arrived at the Grand Central station, over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, from Washington at 9:45 o'clock last Friday morning. They departed, Conley said, almost immediately for St. Paul over the Wisconsin Central railroad. Conley said the men had tickets over the Canadian Pacific railroad for Vancouver, B. C.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such. Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Taken Unawares.

Sir William Grantham was engaged as a political speaker in the days before he took his place on the bench and when he was plain Mr. Grantham. On one occasion, while he was delivering an address, a man got up in the audience and shouted out excitedly, "It's a lie!" "Thanks," said the future judge. "It's a lie!" shouted the excited one again. "You're a gentleman," said Mr. Grantham sarcastically. "It's a lie!" burst out his opponent again, carried away by his wrath, but the general laughter which arose at his answer recalled him to himself again, and he sat down discomfited.—London M. A. P.

To the Point.

A little boy hurriedly entered a drug store and asked the clerk for a bottle of liniment and a bottle of china cement.

"Why," said the clerk, "that's a funny combination. What do you want with those things?"

"Ma hit dad with a teacup and broke it!" exclaimed the boy.

Sven Hedin's Experience.

Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous traveler and explorer, had some terrible experiences during a journey through Tibet. He told how, owing to the high altitude at which he and his party traveled, that to unbutton one's coat meant acute pain and tension to an overwrought heart, which literally was at the point of breaking. His only safety lay in the fact that he never left the saddle for a single moment from morning till evening. Had he done so his heart would have given way. At one time they were nine days without water, and when at last he saw a small pool Dr. Hedin drank five pints without stopping.

The Gift.

"Accused of begging!" exclaimed the magistrate. "Why, you are the very man who was begging at my door yesterday!"

"Yes," assented the vagrant, with a sneer, "and you didn't give me anything."

"Well, I'll give you something now—fourteen days!"

And He Did.

"I believe we are all ready," said the young man who was about to officiate as the bridegroom.

"All right. I will join you in a moment," replied the clergyman, rising.—Chicago Tribune.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else can be. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. This tablet, called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet, counteracts blood pressure, drives away brain pain centers, gives a charming, pleasantly delightful, gently thorough relief, is surely equalizing the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's paired periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood pressure—blood pressure. This surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Empty your fingers, and doesn't it get red, and ache and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

A King's Bank.

The practice of hiding money in all manner of out of the way corners is by no means modern. In the old days, according to "Gleanings After Time," secret receptacles were often made in the bedsteads and contributed both to safety and romance. On Aug. 21, 1485, Richard III. arrived at Leicester. His servants had preceded him with the running wardrobe, and in the best chamber of the Blue Boar a ponderous four post bedstead was set up. It was richly carved, gilded and decorated and had a double bottom of boards. Richard slept in it that night. After his defeat and death on Bosworth field it was stripped of its rich hangings, but the heavy and cumbersome bedstead was left at the Blue Boar. In the reign of Elizabeth, when the hostess was shaking the bed, she observed a piece of gold of ancient coinage fall on the floor. This led to a careful examination, when the double bottom was discovered, upon lifting a portion of which the inferior was found to be filled with gold, part coined in the reign of Richard III. and the rest of earlier times.

Naming a Kansas River.

Practically all the streams in Kansas were named by Indians and carry those names to this day, though in an Anglicized form.

The Neosho, the largest stream in southeast Kansas, has its own little story. The Osage Indians at one time lived in Missouri, and when they began talking of trading their lands in that state and moving to southern Kansas a party was sent out to look the country over and make a report on it. It was in the summer time and very hot and dry. Coming over the prairie northeast of Humboldt, they had a long way to travel without water.

"When they arrived at the river," said an Oswego man, "an Indian rode down the sloping bank into the water. But, to his surprise, the horse stepped right off into deep water, and the horse and Indian went in all over. As the aborigine clambered back on the bank he muttered, 'Wugh Neosho.' This in plain English means water pocket, or water hole, and the name clung to the stream ever afterward."—Hutchinson News.

Living the Simple Life.

A number of men gathered in the smoking car of a train from Little Rock to another point in Arkansas were talking of the food best calculated to sustain health.

One Arkansan, a stout, florid man, with short gray hair and a self satisfied air, was holding forth in great style.

"Look at me," he exclaimed—"never a day's sickness in my life, and all due to simple food! Why, gents, from the time I was twenty to when I reached forty years I lived a regular life. None of these effeminate delicacies for me, no late hours! Every day, summer and winter, I went to bed at 9; got up at 5; lived principally on corned beef and corn bread; worked hard, gents, worked hard, from 8 to 1; then dinner, plain dinner, then an hour's exercise and then"—

"Excuse me, Bill," interrupted a stranger who had up to this refrained from entering the discussion, "but what was you in for?"—Minneapolis Journal.

Very Nicely English.

This curious Bengali English was used to advertise a circus in India: "Some horse will make very good tricks. The klown will come and talk with that horses therefore audience will laugh itself very much. The lady will walk on horses back and horse is jumping very much also. The klown will make a joking words and lady will become to angry therefore klown will run himself away. One man will make so tricks of trapeze audience will fraid himself very much. One lady will make himself so bend, then everybody he will think, he is the rubber lady. This is the very grand display. This is the very better gymnastics. One man will walk on wire tight, he is doing very nicely because he is professor of that."

Concealed Weapons.

Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.

Instead of answering, the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.

Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corncob. The remarks of the policemen cannot possibly be recorded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

UNIQUE HONEYMOON TRIP.

Bride and Groom Go Distance of 120 Miles in a Balloon.

Holbrook, Mass., June 21.—The balloon Pittsfield, which ascended from Pittsfield early Sunday morning, carrying Mr. and Mrs. Roger Noble Burnham on their aerial honeymoon voyage, was brought down about a mile from the center of this town at 4:20 a. m., after a pleasant and uneventful trip.

The distance covered was about 120 miles as the crow flies.

The balloon was piloted by William Van Sleet.

Mr. Burnham is a sculptor of Brookline, and Mrs. Burnham, who was Miss Eleanor Howard Waring, is an author of the same town.

LAKE SHORE RY.

His Bad Handwriting.

Dean Farrar in his "Reminiscences" says that the first proofs of Dean Stanley's "Sinai and Palestine" informed the reader that from the monastery of Sinai was visible "the horn of the burning beast!" This was a fearfully apocalyptic nightmare of the printer's devil for "the horizon of the burning bush." The original proof sheets also stated that on turning the shoulder of Mount Olivet in the walk from Bethany "there suddenly burst upon the spectator a magnificent view of—Jones!" In this startling sentence "Jones" was a transmogrification of "Jerus," the dean's abbreviated way of writing "Jerusalem." When the dean answered an invitation to dinner his hostess has been known to write back and inquire whether his note was an acceptance or a refusal, and when he most kindly replied to the question of some workingman the recipient of his letter thanked him, but ventured to request that the tenor of the answer might be written out by some one else, as he was "not familiar with the handwriting of the aristocracy."

Was Cleopatra Beautiful?

Archaeologists have discovered on coins portraits of Cleopatra, and critics have confronted these portraits with the poetic descriptions of Cleopatra given by Roman historians and have found that in these descriptions there was at least much fancy. In the portraits we do not see the countenance of a Venus, delicate, gracious, smiling, nor even the fine and sensuous beauty of a Marquise de Pompadour, but a face fleshy and, as the French would say, "bouffie," with a powerful aquiline nose—the face of a woman on in years, ambitious, imperious, which recalls the face of Maria Theresa. It will be said that judgments on beauty are personal; that Antony, who saw her alive, could judge better than we who see her portraits half faded out by the centuries; that the attractive power of a woman emanates not only from corporeal beauty, but also, and yet more, from her spirit. The taste of Cleopatra, her vivacity, her cleverness, her exquisite art in conversation, are acclaimed by all.—Guglielmo Ferrero in Putnam's.

A Modest Fee Appreciated.

Shortly before Dr. W. T. Bull, New York's famous surgeon, was stricken with his fatal illness a young east side physician called at his office and said that he was attending a poor girl over in his neighborhood who would surely die unless operated on. The family was too poor to pay and the doctor did not feel that he was equal to the operation. Would Dr. Bull give him a little advice as to how to proceed?

"Well, I guess we had better go and take a look at the patient," said Dr. Bull, putting on his coat.

They found the patient in an east side tenement, and in less time than it takes to tell it Dr. Bull had the room cleared and began the operation. When he was leaving the father of the girl met him in the hall and forced a quarter into his hand. Dr. Bull thanked him and went off feeling happier than if he had received a $1,000 fee. The girl got well.

Easy Cure.

"There is a man who is always looking for trouble."

"Well, it's easy enough to cure him of that habit."

"How?"

"Get him put on the police force."—Exchange.

Worked Too Well.

A hotel proprietor, noticing that some of his customers were evidently trying to eat their suppers in the shortest possible time, lest they should miss the boat which was waiting at the wharf, thought it would be funny to frighten them. Accordingly he went into a back room and gave a remarkably perfect imitation of a steamboat's whistle. The joke worked well. The men heard the sound and rushed to the boat. The joker laughed long and loud until suddenly it occurred to him that the men had gone off without paying for their suppers. Then he stopped laughing.—London Town and Country Journal.

His Last Words.

"I am sure I see before me many whose hearts are fired with this noble and holy spirit as they are about to cross our threshold today. May this flame never be quenched within you! May it ever blaze forth from your lives along the whole pathway on which you are now to enter. And so, generation like you continue to go forth from these halls, shall the state and the world reap a rich and ever-increasing harvest from the sowing of the fathers who planted this university in faith and in hope."

FISHED UP MAN'S BODY.

Disappearance of Grand Rapids Man Accounted For.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 21.—While trolling in the Grand river at Comstock flats, near the Soldiers' home, Carl Schultz struck what he though was a snag. Pulling on his line, he was surprised to find the body of Jacob Ulrich, sixty-eight years old, the local hostler who had been missing since Tuesday.

Ulrich had apparently ended his own life.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

OFFICIALS SILENT.

Refuse to Discuss Further Developments in Sigel Murder Case.

New York, June 24.—The district attorney's office, acting under instructions from Mr. Jerome and the police department, under orders from Commissioner Bingham, has refused to discuss further what progress has been made in the search for Leon Ling, the Chinaman who is wanted for the murder of Elsie Sigel, whose body was found in a trunk in a room over an Eighth avenue chop suey restaurant, last week Friday night. Nor will they discuss the results of the examination of Ching Sin, Leon Ling's former roommate. There have been hourly reports of clues from all parts of the country, but none of them, on close examination, brings the authorities any nearer to the murderer.

Chung Sin has undergone another stretch of cross-questioning. He talked freely, if not frankly, but that he has not been actually implicated in the crime itself is indicated by the fact that he is still held in the house of detention for witnesses, and not in the Tombs, charged with being an accessory in the murder.

DID MUCH VOTING.

Senate Disposed of Considerable of Tariff Measure Wednesday.

Washington, June 24.—Much voting and little talking characterized the work of the senate Wednesday on the tariff bill. The lumber schedule was disposed of, and the duty on pineapples was increased, the finance committee suffering a defeat in the latter case.

An attempt to reduce the finance committee's rate of $1.50 per thousand on sawed lumber to $1.00, the house rate, was lost. The entire wood schedule making reduction of about 25 per cent from the present rates was agreed to.

A new amendment to the coal schedule, offered by Mr. Aldrich and reducing the duty on bituminous coal from 67 to 60 cents a ton and eliminating the reciprocity clause from the house bill, was adopted.

Work Fascinating.

There is an indescribable fascination about work. The laziest man in town will stand watching with evident enjoyment the labors of a street gang laying pavement.—Fort Worth Record.

ROWBOAT SWAMPED

Five Americans, Four English Tourists and Two Irish Boatmen Drown.

Killarney, Ireland, June 24.—A large rowboat, carrying five American and four English tourists and four Irish boatmen, was swamped in a gale while crossing lower Killarney lake. All of the tourists and two of the boatmen were drowned. The victims were Mrs. A. A. Hilton and son of Tacoma, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Loughead, or Loughead, of Boston; Miss M. H. Catum, or Cotum, of Massachusetts (town not known); Rev. B. Barton and sister of London and Miss Florence Wilkinson and cousin of Brentwood, Essex, and Boatmen Con Tooney and Con Gleeson. None of the bodies were recovered.

The boat was a four-oared craft, used for taking visitors about the lake. Most of the passengers were guests at the Great Southern hotel. The party was out sightseeing.

OPEN TO ALL GOLFERS.

Professional and Amateur Players of High Class in Open Tournament.

Englewood, N. J., June 24.—Play was begun today at the Englewood Golf club in the open championship tournament of the United States Golf association. The list of entrants in the tournament embraces practically all of the well known professionals of the United States, with several amateurs of high class. Low scores for the course, which consists of seventy-two holes, are expected.

The professionals entered in the tournament include two foreigners—Tom Vardon of the Royal St. George's club of Sandwich, England, who is temporarily associated with the Onwentsia club of Chicago, and George Duncan of the Hanger Hill Gold club of England, who is touring the United States. Tom Vardon is a brother of Harry H. Vardon, who won the open championship of the United States in 1900 at Chicago.

Among the well known professional golfers taking part in the present tournament are Fred McLeod of Midlothian, who won last year's tournament at Myopia; Alex Smith of Nassau, Jack Hobens of Englewood, W. Anderson of Onwentsia, George Low of Baltusrol, Isaac S. Mackie of Fox Hills and Alex Ross of Brae Burn.

MAY FLY FRIDAY.

Wright Brothers Rush Forward Work on Aeroplane.

Washington, June 24.—Although the Wright brothers have been granted an extension of time of thirty days in which to complete their official trials for the government they are losing no time in completing their flying machine. The first preliminary flight probably will be made on Friday. The motor has been installed. Now the starting apparatus will be set up and the motor tested.

WHERE IS STELLA?

Ann Arbor Young Man Says Colored Girl Robbed Him.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 24.—The local police and those of many other Michigan cities are looking for Stella Rideout, aged twenty-one, Ypsilanti colored woman, who, according to the story told by a prominent Ann Arbor young man, picked his pockets, securing $150.

The young man says that Stella, who has a police record, accosted him when he was crossing the north side bridge and asked him for something to drink. On his denial of having liquor the woman, he says, placed her hands in his pockets, searching for a bottle. It was not until some time later that he discovered his loss.

DEAF MUTES KILLED.

Drove Onto Crossing In Front of Railroad Train.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 24.—Sidney Rector and wife, deaf mutes, were run down and killed by Big Four passenger train No. 34, due here from the south at 6:15 in the evening, at a crossing near Eau Claire, fifteen miles east of this city.

Rector and wife, unable to see or hear the train, drove to their death, while farmers who saw their plight stood horrified.

Man Will Die as Result of Fall.

Linden, Mich., June 24.—Andrew Wilson, aged twenty-five years, was working on a ladder at the Copper place, near this town, when it fell, carrying him to the ground, a distance of sixteen feet. He landed on a pile of lumber. One piece drove two of his ribs through his left lung. Physicians say he cannot live.

COMPETING WITH RIFLE

M. N. G. Shooting at Grand Rapids For Camp Perry Contest.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 24.—By process of elimination, the number of competitors for the state national guard riflemen's team which will go to Camp Perry, O., to contest with teams from other state has been reduced to thirty-five at the state shoot on the Bailey park rifle range here. Lieutenant W. H. Conboy of Cheboygan stands at the head of the list, with a score of 313, followed by Captain Percy Patterson of Sault Ste. Marie and Captain William B. Kalmbach of Grand Rapids, with 311 and 304, respectively.

Today the weeding-out process continues, and the fifteen men to compose the team will be picked.

Beer Goes In River.

Marshall, Mich., June 24.—The contents of 136 barrels of beer owned by the Eagle Brewing company of this city were dumped into the Kalamazoo river Wednesday by the deputy United States revenue inspector.

Dies of Her Injuries.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 24.—Mrs. James A. Wills, who was injured in a collision between a street car and an automobile June 11, died Wednesday in Butterworth hospital. She was about fifty years of age and is survived by her husband.

Chicago Banks Consolidate.

Chicago, June 24.—The American Trust and Savings bank and the Continental National bank, two of Chicago's largest financial institutions, have announced that they had agreed to consolidate. A signed statement to this affect was given out by George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental National bank, and by Edwin A. Potter, president of the American Trust and Savings bank.

Dies While Sewing.

Traverse City, Mich., June 24.—Mrs. A Randall of Alden, a village near here, was found dead in her favorite chair in her home. The woman had a needle in one hand, and a lamp was burning on a table at her side, making it evident that she had been sewing when death overtook her. Heart disease was the cause.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

Pride does not measure happiness so much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

Any lady reader of this paper will receive, on request, a clever "No-Drip" Coffee Strainer Coupon privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. It is silver-plated, very pretty, and positively prevents all dripping of tea or coffee. The Doctor sends it, with his new free book on "Health Coffee" simply to introduce this clever substitute for real coffee. Dr Shoop's Health Coffee is gaining its great popularity because of: first, its exquisite taste and flavor; second, its absolute healthfulness; third, its economy—1½ lb 25c; fourth, its convenience. No tedious 20 and 30 minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. Try it at your grocer's, for a pleasant surprise. Sold by all grocers.

Don't, because your father, grandfather, or great-grandfather has been a doctor, preacher, or lawyer, try to force your boy in the same profession. Find out what he is particulary interested in and adapted to. Many an unhappy, unsuccessful lawyer or doctor or preacher would have made a successful merchant, engineer, or farmer had not a mother's ambition interfered.

Sometimes you may be told that there are other things just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. That isn't so. Nothing made is as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for any ailments of the kidney or bladder, which always result in weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, rheumatism and urinary disorders. A trial of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills is sufficient to convince you how good they are. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his hehrt about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters to himse''

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

Copyright, 1908, by Harper & Brothers

The girl, gagged and held by her captor's hands, struggled and moaned despairingly, and, crouching back of the boat, they might have escaped discovery in the gray morning light had it not been for the telltale fire—a tiny, crackling blaze no larger than a man's hat. It betrayed them. The dancing craft upon which their eyes were fixed whipped about, almost leaping from the water at one stroke, then came toward them, now nothing but a narrow thing, half again the width of a man's body. The current carried it down abreast of them, then past, and Runnion rose, releasing the girl, who cried out with all her might to the boatman. He made no sound in reply, but drove his canoe shoreward with quicker strokes. It was evident he would effect his landing near the lower end of the spit, for now he was within hearing distance and driving closer every instant.

Necia heard the gambler call:

"Sheer off, Doret! You can't land here!"

She saw a gun in Runnion's hand, and a terrible, sickening fear swept over her, for he was slowly walking down the spit, keeping abreast of the canoe as it drifted.

"Keep away or I'll fire!" threatened Runnion again, and she screamed: "Don't try it, Poleon! He'll kill you!"

At her words Runnion raised his weapon and fired. She heard the woods behind reverberate with the echoes like a sounding board, saw the white spurt of smoke and the skitter of the bullet as it went wide. It was a long shot and had been fired as a final warning, but Doret made no outcry, nor did he cease coming. Instead his paddle clove the water with the same steady strokes that took every ounce of effort in his body. Runnion threw open his gun and replaced the spent shell. On came the careening, crazy craft in a sidewise drift, and with it the girl saw coming a terrible tragedy. She started to run down the graveled ridge behind her enemy, not realizing the value or moment of her action nor knowing clearly what she would do, but as she drew near she saw Runnion raise his gun again and without thought of her own safety threw herself upon him. Again his shot went wide as he strove to hurl her off, but his former taste of her strength was nothing to this now that she fought for Poleon's life. Runnion snarled angrily and thrust her away, for he had waited till the canoe was close.

"Let me go, you devil!" he cried and aimed again. But again she ran at him. This time, however, she did not pit her strength against his, but paused, and as he undertook to fire she thrust at his elbow, then dodged out of his way. Her blow was crafty and well timed, and his shot went wild. Again he took aim, and again she destroyed it with a touch and danced out of his reach. She was nimble and light and quickened now by a cold calculation of all that depended upon her.

Three times in all she thwarted Runnion, while the canoe drove closer every instant. On the fourth, as she dashed at him, he struck to be rid of her, cursing wickedly—struck as he would have struck at a man. Silently she crumpled up and fell, a pitiful, draggled, awkward little figure sprawled upon the rocks. But the delay proved fatal to him, for, though the canoe was close against the bank and the huge man in it seemed to offer a mark too plain to be missed, he was too close to permit careful aim. Runnion heard him giving utterance to a strange, feral, whining sound, as if he were crying like a fighting boy. Then as the gambler raised his arm the Canadian lifted himself up on the bottom of the canoe until he stood stretched to his full height and leaped. As Runnion fired he sprang out and was into the water to his knees, his backward kick whirling the craft from underneath him out into the current, where the river seized it. He had risen and jumped all in one moment, launching himself at the shore like a panther. The gun roared again, but Poleon came up and on with the rush of the great brown grizzly that no missile can stop. Runnion's weapon blazed in his face, but he neither felt nor heeded it, for his bare hands were upon his quarry, the impact of his body hurling the other from his feet, and neither of them knew whether any or all of the last bullets had taken effect.

Poleon had come, like an arrow, straight for his mark the instant he glimpsed it, an insensate, unreasoning, raging thing that no weight of lead nor length of blade could stop. In his haste he had left Flambeau without weapon of any kind, for in his mind such things are superfluous, and he had never fought with any but those God gave him nor found any living thing that his hands could not master. Therefore he had rushed headlong against this armed and waiting man, reaching for him ever closer and closer till the burning powder stung his eyes. They grappled and fought, alone and unseen, and yet it was no fight, for Runnion, though a vigorous, heavy muscled man, was beaten down, smothered and crushed beneath the onslaught of this great naked fellow, who all the time sobbed and whined and mewed in a panting fury.

They swung half across the spit to the farther side, where they fell in a fantastic convulsion, slipping and sliding and rolling among the rocks that smote and gouged and bruised them. The gambler fought for his life against the naked flesh of the other, against the distorted face that snapped and bit like the muzzle of a wolf, while all the time he heard that fearful, inarticulate note of blood hunger at his ear. The Canadian's clinched hands crushed whatever they fell upon as if mailed with metal. The fingers were like tearing tongs that could not be loosed. It was a frightful combat, hideous from its inequality, like the battle of a man against a maddened beast whose teeth tore and whose claws ripped, whose every move was irresistible. And so it was over shortly.

Poleon rose and ran to the fallen girl, leaving behind him a huddled and twisted likeness of a man. He picked her up tenderly, moaning and crooning. But as her limp head lolled back, throwing her pale, blind features up to the heavens, he began to cry, this time like a woman. Tears fell from his eyes—burning tears, the agony of which seared his soul. He laid her carefully beside the water's edge, and, holding her head and shoulders in the crook of his left arm, he wet his right hand and bathed her face, crouching over her, half nude, dripping with the sweat of his great labors, a tender, palpitating figure of bronzed muscle and sinew, with all his fury and hate replaced by apprehension and pity. The short moments that he worked with her were ages to him, but she revived beneath his ministrations, and her first frightened look of consciousness was changed to a melting smile.

"W-what happened, Poleon?" she said. "I was afraid."

He stood up to his full height, shaking and weak as the water that dripped from him, the very bones in him dissolved. For the first time he uttered words, "Tank God, ba gosh!" and ran his hand up over his wet face.

"Where is he?" She started to her knees affrightedly; then, seeing the twisted, sprawling figure beyond, began to shudder. "He—he's dead?"

"I don't know," said Poleon carelessly. "You feel it purty good now, eh, wat?"

"Yes—I—he struck me!" The remembrance of what had occurred surged over her, and she buried her face in her hands. "Oh, Poleon, Poleon! He was a dreadful man."

"He don' trouble you no more."

"He tried—he— Ugh! I—I'm glad you did it!" She broke down, trembling at her escape, until her selfishness smote her, and she was up and beside him on the instant. "Are you hurt? Oh, I never thought of that! You must be wounded."

The Frenchman felt himself over and looked down at his limbs for the first time. "No; I guess not," he said, at which Necia noticed his meager attire, and simultaneously he became conscious of it. He fell away a pace, casting his eyes over the river for his canoe, which was now a speck in the distance.

"Ba gosh! I'm h—l of a t'ing for lookin' at," he said. "I'm paddle hard; dat's w'y. Sacre, how I sweat!" He hitched nervously at the band of his overalls, while Necia answered:

"That's all right, Poleon." Then, without warning, her face froze with mingled repulsion and wonder. "Look, look!" she whispered, pointing past him.

Runnion was moving slowly, crawling painfully into a sitting posture, uplifting a terribly mutilated face, dazed and half conscious, groping for possession of his wits. He saw them and grimaced frightfully, cowering and cringing.

Poleon felt the girl's hand upon his arm and heard her crying in a hard, sharp voice:

"He needs killing! Put him away!"

He stared down at his gentle Necia and saw the loathing in her face and the look of strange ferocity as she met his eyes boldly.

"You don't know what he—what he did!" she said through her shut teeth. "He—" But the man waited to hear no more.

Runnion saw him coming and scrambled frantically to all fours, then got on his feet and staggered down the bar. As Poleon overtook him he cried out piteously, a shrill scream of terror, and, falling to his knees, groveled and debased himself like a foul cripple at fear of the lash. His agony dispelled the savage taint of Aliuna's aboriginal training in Necia, and the pure white blood of her ancestors cried out:

A PUBLIC CHARACTER

Whom All Should Meet in Tecumseh Next Week

FOURTH TO BE CELEBRATED

Among other things is a Military band organ that plays the sweetest tunes. And go when you like you cannot miss any part of the exhibition; it is continuous.

The big show will arrive here Sunday night on the Lake Shore. Monday morning early it will pitch its tent on the toy factory lot opposite the Opera House. Monday night the Grand Opening will occur 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. there after daily 1 p. m. to 10 p. m. except Saturday when there will be special exhibition for the farmers 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Master Tony sent from Equatorial Africa by Ex-President Roosevelt, is being chaperoned on a tour of the world by Mr. Roosevelt's old hunter friend, Gus Lambrigger. In every town visited the people flock to shake hands and talk to the remarkable Tony.

The noted "boy" is a missing link between man and animal. Educated; Society's Favorite. Dresses like you and I. Eats with knife fork and spoon. The only Chimpanzee in captivity in the world. Who in this community has seen a Chimpanzee.?

Master Tony will be at Tecumseh all next week with Lambrigger's Wild animal Show which consists of 23 cages of animals, birds and reptiles. On Saturday Tecumseh will celebrate the 4th with Tony and the other animals. See the big Snake 27 feet long eat a meal. There are baby Hybirds, baby Gorilla, baby Agoutas, Sacred Lion Slayers and Monkeys and Birds from all nations. Just the show for the farmer and his family. It is high class and travels on its own cars. The music is a feature.

BLUE RIBBON RACES.

There is every reason to look for a better blue ribbon meeting July 26 to 30 than was the great success of 1908 at the state fair grounds. To give as good a meeting as was last year's will be creditable to the Detroit Driving Club, but the wind is blowing in the right direction, and the Grand Circuit inaugural this year will far outshine efforts of the past.

The basis for this statement is the lack of declarations in the four stake events. It naturally was supposed that there would be a defection of fair size with the June payments. On the contrary but two horses were withdrawn. This is a smaller percentage than in other years and leaves the stakes larger than they have been in June of any year.

Five have been taken out of the M. & M., leaving 18 eligibles, and the likelihood of a field of about 12, which will be sensational. Of the original 15 in the Chamber of Commerce stake 13 remain. But one is eliminated from the free-for-all, so there are 12 in it now. The 2:11 trot also has lost one, so that its field now numbers 6.

The class races follow the stakes in size, so that the fields in the blue ribbon events next month promise to be among the best balanced the country ever has known, even at the late meetings. This speaks much for Detroit as a harness racing center, and the Detroit Driving Club as an organization which holds a high place in the esteem of the trainers. Also, it insures the good people of Michigan a delightful outing.

RESOLUTIONS

On the Death of Julia Linton.

Whereas, The great Ruler of the Universe has, in his infinite wisdom, removed from our midst our worthy and esteemed fellow laborer, Julia Linton; and

Whereas, The intimate relation held during the past few years of her life with the members of this auxiliary makes it fitting that we record our appreciation of her: therefore

Resolved, That the wisdom and ability which she exercised in aid of our auxiliary work by counsel, service and funds will be held in grateful remembrance.

Resolved, That the sudden removal of such an one leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by all members of this auxiliary and its friends and will prove a grievous loss to the community in which she lived.

Resolved, That with deep sympathy with the afflicted relatives and friends of the deceased, we express an earnest hope that even so great a bereavement may be overruled for their highest good. Upon the loss of such a mother, such a wife and such a friend, how sweet is the thought that there is no death.

The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forever more.

Resolved, That as a further mark of sympathy toward the family of the deceased the secretary be directed to transmit to them a copy of these resolutions. Also a c opy of the same to be placed upon record

JAMES GILMORE BALEY.

James Gilmore Baley, son of Wm. and Amy Baley was born in Jerusalen tow nship, Yates Co., N. Y. Apr. 27, 1819. He died June 21, 1909, aged 90 years, 1 mo. and 24 days. In 1844 he was united in marriage to Miss Eleanor A. Gutherie. Of this union four children were born, two of whom died in infancy and two are living, Joseph G. Baley, Marshall, Mich., and Martin H. Baley of Macon. Mr. Baley resided in the state of his nativity until the year 1854, when with his family he removed to the state of Michigan. In the year 1861 death robbed him of his helpmate. In 1862 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary E. Rubert, who survives him. Of this union four children were born all of whom are living. They are as follows:—Mrs. Lenora Beck, Fremont, O.; Miss Ellen Baley, Macon; Mrs. Isadore Frayer, Tecumseh, and Francis W. Baley, Franklin. Mr. Baley was one of the pioneers of this locality, having lived in Macon township more than 55 years. He was one of the men who helped to bring the wilderness into prosperous farming community. In disposition he was quiet unassuming, cordial and kind. His familiar figure bent by the weight of many years will be greatly missed from the community in which he lived, labored and died, loved and respected by the old and young alike.

WEDDING BELLS

ONE OF OUR MOST POPULAR YOUNG LADIES AT THE MARRIAGE ALTAR

A simple but pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon Garlinghouse Wednesday at 12 o'clock when their daughter Clarice May, became the wife of Halleck E. Wilson of Detroit. The vows were made in the bow window in the front parlor, which had been prettily trimmed with ferns and white peonies. Syringas were used in the decorations of this room also. Pink peonies were used profusely in the other rooms.

The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Garlinghouse, father and mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson, father and mother of the groom. Others in receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Osborn of Columbus, O., and Miss Edith Wilson.

At twelve o'clock Miss Wilson, sweetly sang. "Oh Promise Me," the sweet strains of the song softly changing to to the notes of Wagner's Lohengrin, announcing the approach of the bridal party. Mrs Herbert Temple presided at the piano.

Miss Margaret Osborne of Columbus, O., Burton Garlinghouse, Arnet Garlinghouse and Vernor Finch came down the stairs and into the parlor, carrying ropes of roses and smilax, forming an isle through which the bridal party passed. Otto Garlinghouse, brother of the bride, was the grooms attendant and Miss Ethel Garlinghouse, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Rev. Kamm of the Baptist church performed the ceremony, the ring service being used.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white messaline satin, with a bodice of baby irish, over silk, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Garlinghouse wore a pretty dress of white embroidered mull trimmed with clany lace, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Garlinghouse wore a pretty mull elaborately trimmed with val lace. Mrs. Wilson, mother of the groom wore a gown of brown silk. Mrs. Osborn wore blue messaline satin with gold trimmings. Miss Edith Wilson wore white silk with a bolero of lace.

After congratulations a three course luncheon was served, the entire company, one hundred in number, being seated, and served by Misses Leona Beebe, Florence and Blanche Keyser Florence Bryan, Lulu Aylesworth, Hazel Zimmerman and Vesta Wilson. Hiens catered. Pink roses were used as favors. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are well and favorably known in and about the village having spent the greater part of their lives here. They left on the afternoon train for Detroit, where Mr. Wilson has a good position as city salesman for a large grocery firm. They were accompanied to the depot by a company of friends, rice and good wishes. The bride traveled in a suit of blue otterman silk with hat to match.

The love and and esteem in which this worthy couple is held was shown by the numerous and beautiful presents of cut glass, silver and linen. Their many friends wish them a long, pleasant and prosperous life.

Among those from out of town, in attendance were, Mrs. Albert Reason of London, Ont., Mrs. Eusebia Burtless, Miss Leona Beebe of Tipton; Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Benedict of Britton, B. A. Garlinghouse of Jackson, and Mrs. and Mrs. Alta McNamara and daughter of Freda, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Osborn and daughter of Columbus, O.

GREENFIELD—CARMER

Miss Bessie Carmer and Merle Greenfield of Tipton, were quietly united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in Clinton, at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. Many congratulations followed them. They will reside in Tipton.

A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean of Cheny, Wash., was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." For Lung Trouble, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Croup and Whooping Cough its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, the druggists.

INSTANT RELIEF FROM DREAD CATARRH

Why don't you get rid of that nasty, humiliating disease catarrh?

You can do it if you really want to.

But you can't cure catarrh in a few days, that's an utter impossibility, because there is no remedy known that will kill the catarrh germs in that short time.

But you can cure catarrh if you will have a little patience and breathe in Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) three or four times a day.

Hyomei cures catarrh by killing the germs and it kills the germs because it gets where the germs are.

Hyomei is a powerful antiseptic and germ killing air; it is made from the fluid extracted from the eucalyptus trees of Australia where catarrh is unknown.

It gives relief instantly, stops hawking in a few days and is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, to cure catarrh, asthma, croup and bronchitis or money back. A complete outfit, including inhaler costs $1.00, and extra bottles of Hyomei cost 50c.

"Hyomei certainly saved my life and I accord it the credit which it deserves and merits. There is nothing too strong for me to say regarding Hyomei."—Mrs. Ada Hopkins, 8 Cutter Ave., Coldwater, Mich., August 22, 1908.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see. Sold by all dealers.

With man, most of his misfortunes are occasioned by man.—Pliny the Elder.

Somehow a woman never seems to enjoy a good cry unless she has two or more reasons for starting the bring flow.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for constipation, stomach and liver trouble, as it sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Sold by all druggists.

MEN OF MUSCLE AND AGILITY MEET

Thousands of Gymnasts at Cincinnati Convention.

Cincinnati, June 24.—More than 3,000 gymnasts and athletes, representing every section of the United States and several European countries, are assembled in this city today to take part in the thirtenth quadrennial meeting of the turnvereins, or German gymnastic societies, of America.

The monster athletic field at Carthage in which the contests are to be held is the biggest in the United States. The stage measures 260 by 40 feet, and the grand stand alone seats 4,000 persons. On the field are the tents in which many of the visiting gymnasts are housed during their stay in this city. Some of the tents are army tents which have been lent to the gymnasts by the national government, largely through the efforts of Congressman Nicholas Longworth of this city, who has taken much interest in the turnfest. He is one of the invited guests of the leaders of the fest, with President Taft and many others.

Today parade of the turners and others was the biggest ever seen in Cincinnati. It included civic and military divisions as well as the turners themselves in taeir gymnastic uniforms. Thousands of school children, each carrying an American flag, were in line.

The following cities have sent delegations of turners, male and female, to compete in the various gymnastic and athletic events that will fill up most of the time of the meeting: St. Louis, 300; Chicago, 200; Pittsburg, 200; Indianapolis, 150; Kansas City, 140; New York city, 100; Philadelphia, 100; Boston, 100; Cleveland, 100; Milwaukee, 100; Denver, 75; Los Angeles, 35.

WIN FIRST GAME.

Americans Defeat English at Polo Before Fashionable Audience.

London, June 24.—The first of the games for the American polo cup was won, Wednesday, at Hurlinghame, by the Meadow Brook team of Long Island by a score of nine goals to five. The London social season is at its full height, and the great crowd of spectators that witnessed the game was composed almost entirely of the fashionable set, and many prominent Americans.

All the men wore silk hats and black coats, and the women were arrayed in their richest vari-colored toilettes.

The Sure Thing.

A theatrical manager once offered a famous actress $1,000 a week to make a tour of the world. She insisted on $1,500. But the manager said $1,000 was all he could give, and he reminded her of the fabulous jewels that South American millionaires, Russian grand dukes and Indian rajahs are wont to lavish on the ladies of the stage when they are touring.

"Go home," said the manager; "think the matter over and let me know your decision in the morning."

In the morning the actress sent the manager this message:

"Give me my terms and you can have the jewels."

The Complaint.

Woman Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such. Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood, give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Miss Grace Rhodes of Moreville has been spending a few days with her cousins, Misses Nina and Bertha Rhodes.

Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc., are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent one?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take.

It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannan, of Alvarado, Va., Mrs. K. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky., and numerous others; in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., as Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, of that place, writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

MAKES ADDRESS IN DETROIT

Delegates to Institute of Homeopathy Listen to Discourse by Dr. Hills Cole—He Declares 80 Per Cent of Deaths by Consumption Are Unnecessary.

Detroit, Mich., June 23.—Consumption and its cure was the subject of a popular talk given by Dr. Hills Cole of the New York state department of health, at the American Institute of Homeopathy, Wednesday night. The institute is in annual convention here.

Dr. Cole is a consumptive expert of the Empire state. He is the right-hand man of Dr. Eugene Porter, New York state health officer and member of Governor Hughes' staff. He put the proposition right to the individual: "Has consumption got you?"

The talk was illustrated by lantern slides and was received with the greatest enthusiasm. It was through the efforts of the Homeopathic Bureau of Sanitary Science and Public Health that Dr. Cole was secured. His talk, in part, follows:

Makes Many Orphans.

"Consumption is the cause of more deaths than any other malady. It causes one-fourth of the deaths between the ages of fifteen and forty-five years, the period including the prime of life. It is the greatest cause of the orphanage of children for whom the state must provide.

"Consumption is the cause of more germs in consumptives' sputum. The sputum dries and goes as dust into other people's lungs. To produce tuberculosis in other people they must be in a run-down condition. Prevent the cause and keep people in good health and you will stop consumption.

"The whole secret of success lies in the early treatment. A proper physical examination is necessary to tell whether you have the disease.

"Here is the best receipt I know of: Take care of the consumptive at the right time, at the right place and in the right way until he is cured, and not at the wrong time, at the wrong place and in the wrong way until he is dead."

Some of Dr. Cole's terse sentences were as follows:

Eighty per cent of all deaths from consumption are unnecessary.

Ninety per cent of the world's population has consumption at time of death, or had it at some previous time.

Are we scaring people with this anti-tuberculosis crusade? Not much. It's time people are scared about the malady that causes one-seventh of all deaths.

The feather duster is a distributer of death. It ought to be relegated to the museum and further manufacture prohibited.

Tonsils Are Filters.

Tonsils are filters for the lungs. They should not be removed.

For consumption to develop you need not only germs, but people in whom the disease may develop.

Enlarged adenoids prevent proper breathing. They retard general development and so pave the way for consumption.

If you think you have tuberculosis undergo a proper physical examination.

Dr. Cole flashed an enormous interrogation mark on the screen when he finished. Then he asked:

"What are you going to do about it?"

The American Health bureau has laid before the institute two resolutions which will be acted on today.

One is an endorsement of the policy of Dr. H. W. Wiley, head of the department of pure foods and drugs at Washington.

The other is a declaration of opposition to the use of benzoate of soda in the preparation of foods and drugs.

The latter resolution was passed by the American Medical association at its convention in Atlantic City recently. This body is made up of allopathic physicians.

British Savings Clubs.

The working people of England are great patrons of savings clubs, all sorts of agencies being created to enable them to save money that they may have it to spend during the festive season of the year. There are clubs of all kinds, ranging from the shop club, to which the workingmen contribute, to the little clubs run for the purpose of letting school children have a shilling's worth of sweets for a Christmas treat. There is hardly a workshop of any importance in London without its workmen's saving club, besides which there are many dividing clubs carried on at public houses, and the deposits amount in the aggregate to a very large sum. The withdrawals begin in the early days of December, and it is not uncommon for the banks to pay out £300 ($1,460) to £500 ($2,433) to a single club, and the problem of storing the money is one of some difficulty. As the amounts have to be divided among many people they are wanted in cash, and in some cases the proportion of gold, silver and copper is specified.

Wehrum, Pa., June 24.—As the result of an explosion of gas in mine No. 4 of the Lackawanna Coal & Coke company, seventeen miners are dead and sixteen injured. With the exception of one, those killed were foreigners. With few exceptions those injured were Americans.

Twelve of the more seriously injured were taken to Spangler hospital. It was stated all probably would recover.

Superintendent A. M. Johnson stated that while the mine has always been regarded as non-gaseous, the explosion was due to the ignition of a pocket of gas from the open lamp of a miner.

The mine has only been operating two days each week, Tuesday and Friday. Those in the mine when the accident happened had entered the shaft for their daily allowance of coal for family use.

Grouped about the slope entrance of the mine just before the explosion were several Italians. When the terrific subterranean upheaval of rock and deadly gas spouted skyward, these Italians were caught. Terribly burned and maimed, they rushed about the settlement crying for aid. The cries and sound of hissing mine gas at the entrance of the mine brought the entire town to the scene.

Badly Burned.

The first man to reach the surface was A. L. Johnson, son of the superintendent. Young Johnson had been in a lower heading. There were burns on his arms, body and neck, and it was stated he had inhaled flames. He is one of the few very seriously injured.

Following the superintendent's son came two Italians, their faces burned to a crisp. They were attended by the mine physician.

Superintendent Johnson called for volunteers to enter the mine. In the volunteer ranks stood several women. These were ordered back. With wet handkerchiefs tied over their faces, the first squad of the relief party started down the shaft. Of the eight who started, four came back with their senses. The others, overcome with black damp, were pulled to the surface with ropes. A second and a third party entered, only to be driven back.

Oxygen, sent by the Cambria Steel works, aided the searchers, and, with safety helmets, a fourth rescue party succeeded in bringing twelve bodies to the surface. Later five more bodies were recovered. In twos and threes the injured were found and lifted to the mouth of the mine.

Coroner Hammers has not yet set the date for an investigation of the explosion.

The Secret.

"I say," said Berkey to his wife yesterday at dinner, "you didn't say anything to any one about what I was telling you the night before last, did you? That's a secret."

"A secret! Why, I didn't know it was a secret," she replied regretfully.

"Well, did you tell it? I want to know."

"Why, no; I never thought of it since. I didn't know it was a secret."—Boston Globe.

A Lunatic's Repartee.

Some visitors were being shown through Kew Lunatic asylum, Victoria, one day, and, coming opposite the clock in the corridor, one of them, looking quickly at his watch, said, "Is that clock right?"

"No, you idiot," said a patient standing by. "It wouldn't be in here if it were right."

Dutch Engagements.

A custom among the Dutch is the exchanging of engagement rings, which are narrow bands of plain gold, with the initials of the betrothed and the day of the betrothal engraved on the inside. They are worn on the left hand before and on the right after marriage. Dutch engagements extend over a period of from two to five years. During this time the young woman gives up all amusements in which her fiance does not participate. If he is not of the dancing sort she refrains from that recreation, however much she may desire to engage in it. She never goes in company anywhere if he is not present, and when they go together to a ball no gentleman will ever ask her to dance without formally gaining his permission.—London Scraps.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. UNLUCKY DAY.

Man Receive Minor Injuries at Marshall.

Marshall, Mich., June 28.—Saturday was surely an unlucky day for this city. Truman Toles, driver at No. 1 fire house, was kicked in the face by one of the horses whose hoofs he was attempting to manicure. Edward Middleburv, while shoving hay through the chute in his barn, slipped and fell through the opening. He fractured the bones in his heel.

Constable J. L. Bean attempted to lead his horse to a watering trough, but the animal didn't want a drink and kicked the constable in the shins. Jerome Johnson's dog objected to Daniel Way, a canvasser, walking through his back yard and bit a hunk out of his leg.

MAGGIE WANTED POISON.

Stepped Into Drug Store and Drank Perfume.

Port Huron, Mich., June 28.—Maggie Kinney, a character about town, stepped into a drug store here and, picking up a bottle of perfume from the counter which she believed contained poison, attempted to drink its contents.

A clerk stopped her and called a policeman. The officer attempted to take her from the store, but Maggie landed on his jaw with her fist. A carriage was called, and Maggie rode to the station.

Marshall Wants Y. M. C. A.

Marshall, Mich., June 28.—A movement is on foot to establish a Y. M. C. A. in this city. Members of the various young men's clubs of the churches believe the city ought to have some place for the male portion to congregate now that the saloons have been abolished. L. E. Buell, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is expected here today to confer with local representatives.

Little Town Is Patriotic.

Ceresco, Mich., June 28.—This little village of 500 inhabitants is the only town in Calhoun county that will hold a Fourth of July celebration. Albion for the past two years has taken the lead in this matter, but since local option has wiped out the saloons, and as the saloons were the chief factors and most liberal subscribers, funds have been scarce.

PITTSBURG WALKS.

Street Cars Still Tied Up and Strikers Declare For Long Struggle.

Pittsburg, June 28.—Greater Pittsburg walked Sunday amidst intermittent thunder showers and a torrid sun. Only one street car, carrying the United States mail, has moved in the city or suburbs. Persons living in outer Allegheny county used hastily provided shuttle trains of the Pennsylvania railway and the Baltimore and Ohio.

Downtown Pittsburg was deserted for the entire day, except at union hedquarters, where the strikers congregated early. The men unitedly declared for a long and hard fought strike.

At the offices of the Pittsburg Railways company the executive officers consulted all day, planning their campaign to break the strike.

The entire day was marked with but one clash between union men and would-be strikebreakers. Two negroes applied to the superintendent at the Homewood car barns for situations and were set upon by alleged union sympathizers and chased from the district. The police were notified, but no arrests were made.

GREAT G. A. R. EVENT.

Statue of Its Founder to Be Unveiled in Washington.

Washington, June 28.—One of the greatest events in the history of the Grand Army of the Republic will occur when the statue erected in this city of Dr. Benjamin Franklin Stephenson, founder of the organization, will be unveiled July 3.

In connection with the unveiling exercises there will be a parade of all available United States military and naval forces and the District militia. President Taft will deliver an address, followed by Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, who will be the orator of the day.

The shaft is of granite, about forty feet high and triangular in shape. On each of its three sides are groups in bronze representing the three cardinal principles of the G. A. R.—fraternity, charity and loyalty. On the western side is a bronze idealized medallion of Dr. Stephenson in the uniform of an officer of the civil war.

While the shaft will be a memorial to Dr. Stephenson it also is intended to be a memorial to the G. A. R. itself.

TERCENTENARY CELEBRATION

Discovery of Lake Champlain to Be Observed.

Albany, N. Y., June 28.—Three hundred years ago, in the summer of 1609, Samuel de Champlain, explorer and colonizer, leading an expedition southward from Quebec, discovered the picturesque lake which bears his name. The percise date is not known, but it was either on or very near the 4th of July, and to celebrate the tercentenary of this memorable event New York and Vermont have joined hands in arranging exercises for the week of July 4-9. The federal government and Canada will also participate.

Along the historic shores of Lake Champlain, where for years the tide of war surged to and fro during the march from savagery to civilization, its stories and legands will be told again in a series of celebrations commemorative of incidents of early naval and military struggles.

The tercentenary commissions have arranged elaborate programs in which President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Postmaster General Lemiux of Canada and other dignitaries will take part.

RUN IN THE RAIN.

Baron de Rothschild's Verdun Wins Grand Prix de Paris.

Paris, June 28.—Baron Maurice de Rothschild's chestnut colt, Verdun, with Barat up, Sunday won the Grand Prix de Paris over the Longchamps course in a driving finish, with Mme. N. G. Cheremeteff's Rebelle second and Edmond Blanc's Union third. The value of the stake was $74,155 and the distance of the race one mile and seven furlongs.

The classic event was contested over a sodden track, in a drenching rain, in the presence of 300,000 persons, among whom were thousands of Americans who had come here from England and all parts of Europe to witness the race for the French blue ribbon.

Eleven horses faced the starter when the flag fell.

Little Princess Christened.

La Granja, Spain, June 28.—The christening of Princess Beatrice, the infant daughter of the king and queen of Spain, took place Sunday with the usual ceremony. Archduke Ferdinand and Archduchess Maria Teresa are the godparents.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

A mutiny in the prison at Vilna, Russia, led to a pitched battle in the courtyard. Four wardens and seven convicts were killed and six wounded.

James F. McClure, aged twenty-seven years, a nephew of the late Colonel Alexander F. McClure, was seized with cramps and drowned while bathing off Ventnor Beach, at Atlantic City, N. J.

Alfredo Sanchez, a bull fighter, was killed at the bull ring in Mexico City Sunday by a bull that knocked Sanchez down and hooked one horn into the body, penetrating a lung.

Four persons were injured and a dozen others had narrow escapes by the collapse of a four story tenement house in West Twenty-sixth street, in New York. All those injured were negroes.

After attending to his business regularly for six weeks, Benjamin F. Marx, a St. Louis clothing manufacturer, dropped dead as the result of a fractured skull suffered two months ago in Denver, where he slipped on a tile floor of a hotel.

Alfred Rexford, the village blacksmith at Davenport, N. Y., went to the home of a woman neighbor where his wife was stopping and shot her five times, killing her instantly. He then sent a bullet into his own heart and fell dead near his wife's body. They leave five small children.

In her anxiety to kiss her husband farewell, at the station in Pittsburg, Mrs. Marie Antonio of California neglected to take the car window into account and thrust her head through the glass. She was severely gashed on the neck and is not expected to survive.

While J. E. Moser, forty-seven years old, was kneeling in prayer in a church near Chicot, Tex., Roy E. Burnham, nineteen cars old, his son-in-law, rose in his pew and fired three shots at Moser, killing him instantly. Burnham's wife, who had recently left him, was beside her father when the shooting occurred.

Filipinos to Succeed Jap Strikers.

Honolulu, June 27.—Sugar plantation owners here and in other parts of the archipelago have learned that over 100 Filipino laborers are coming to Hawaii in the hope of taking the places of Japanese laborers. That many more Filipinos desire to come is the report among the planters.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

Pride does not measure happiness so much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

Any lady reader of this paper will receive, on request, a clever "No-Drip" Coffee Strainer Coupon privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. It is silver-plated, very pretty, and positively prevents all dripping of tea or coffee. The Doctor sends it, with his new free book on "Health Coffee" simply to introduce this clever substitute for real coffee. Dr Shoop's Health Coffee is gaining its great popularity because of: first, its exquisite taste and flavor; second, its absolute healthfulness; third, its economy—1½ lb 25c; fourth, its convenience. No tedious 20 and 30 minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. Try it at your grocer's, for a pleasant surprise. Sold by all grocers.

Don't, because your father, grandfather, or great grandfather has been a doctor, preacher, or lawyer, try to force your boy in the same profession. Find out what he is particulary interested in and adapted to. Many an unhappy, unsuccessful lawyer or doctor or preacher would have made a successful merchant, engineer, or farmer had not a mother's ambition interfered.

Sometimes you may be told that there are other things just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. That isn't so. Nothing made is as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for any ailments of the kidney or bladder, which always result in weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, rheumatism and urinary disorders. A trial of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills is sufficient to convince you how good they are. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. They are sold here by all druggists.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his hehrt about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters to himself

Many of our citizens are drifting towards Bright's disease by neglecting symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble which Foley's Kidney Remedy will quickly cure. Sold by all druggists.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE BARRIER

"Poleon, Poleon—not that!" She hurried after him to where he paused above the wretch waiting for her. "You mustn't!" she said. "That would be murder, and—and—it's all over now."

The Frenchman looked at her wonderingly, not comprehending this sudden leniency.

"Let him alone. You've nearly killed him. That's enough." Whereat Runnion, broken in body and spirit, began to beg for his life.

"W'at's dat you say jus' now?" Doret asked the girl. "Was dat de truth for sure w'at you speak?"

"Yes, but you've done your work. Don't touch him again."

He hesitated, and Runnion, quick to observe it, added his entreaty to hers.

"I'm beaten, Doret. You broke me to pieces. I need help—I—I'm hurt."

"W'at you 'spec' I do wit' 'im?" the Canadian asked, and she answered:

"I suppose we'll have to take him where he can get assistance."

"Dat skiff ain' carry all t'ree of us."

"I'll stay here," groaned the frightened man. "I'll wait for a steamer to pick me up, but for God's sake don't touch me again!"

Poleon looked him over carefully and made up his mind that the man was more injured in spirit than in body, for outside of his battered muscles he showed no fatal symptoms. Although the voyageur was slower to anger than a child, a grudge never died in him, and his simple, self taught creed knew no forgiveness for such men as Runnion, cherished no mercy for preying men or beasts. He glanced toward the wooded shores a stone's throw above, then back at the coward he had beaten and whose life was forfeit under the code. There was a queer light in his eyes.

"Leave him here, Poleon. We'll go away, you and I, in the canoe, and the first boat will pick him up. Come." Necia tugged at his wrist for fear she might not prevail, but he was bent on brushing away a handful of hungry mosquitoes which, warmed by the growing day, had ventured out on the river. His face became wrinkled and set.

"Bien!" he grunted. "We lef' 'im here biccause dere ain't 'nough room in de batteau, eh? All right. Dat's good t'ing. But he's seeck man, so mebbe I feex it him nice place for stop till dem boats come."

"Yes, yes. Leave me here. I'll make it through all right," begged Runnion.

"Better you camp yonder on de point, w'ere you can see dose steamboat w'en she comes roun' de ben'. Dis is bad place." He indicated the thicket, a quarter of a mile above which ran out almost to the cut bank. "Come. I help you get feex."

Runnion shrank from his proffered assistance half fearfully, but, reassured, allowed the Frenchman to help him toward the shore.

"We tell it de first boat 'bout you an' dey pick you up. You wait here, Necia."

The girl watched her rescuer guide Runnion up to the level of the woods, then disappear with him in the firs, and was relieved to see the two emerge upon the river bank again farther on, for she had feared for an instant that Poleon might forget. There seemed to be no danger, however, for he was crashing through the brush in advance of the other, who followed laboriously. Once Runnion gained the high point he would be able to command a view of both reaches of the river and could make signals to attract the first steamboat that chanced to come along. Without doubt a craft of some sort would pass from one direction or the other by tomorrow at latest, or, if not, she and Poleon could send back succor to him from the first habitation they encountered. The two men disappeared again, and her fears had begun to prey on her a second time when she beheld the big Canadian returning. He was hurrying a bit, apparently to be rid of the mosquitoes that swarmed about him, and she marked that, in addition to whipping himself with a handful of blackberry bushes, he wore Runnion's coat to protect his shoulders.

"Woof! Dose skeeter bug is hongry," he cried.

"Dis nice batteau," Poleon remarked critically; "I mak' it go fas'," and began to row swiftly, seeking the breeze of the open river in which to shake off the horde of stinging pests that had risen with the sun. "I come way queeck wit'out t'inkin' 'bout gun or skeeter net or not'in'. Runnion she's len' me dis coat, so mebbe I don' look so worse lak I do jus' now, eh?"

"How did you leave him? Is he badly injured?"

"No; I bus' it up on de face an' de rib, but she's feelin' good now. Yes, I'm leave 'im nice place for stop an' wait on de steamboat—plaintee spruce bough for set on."

She began to shudder again, and, sensitive to her every motion, he asked solicitously if she were sick, but she shook her head.

"I—I—was thinking what—supposing you hadn't come! Oh, Poleon, you don't know what you saved me from." She leaned forward and laid a tiny, grateful hand on the huge brown paw that rested on his oar. "I wonder if I can ever forget!"

She noted that they were running with the current and inquired:

"Where are we going?"

"Weal, I can't pull dis boat 'gainst dat current, so I guess we pass on till I fin' my shirt, den bimeby we pick it up some steamboat an' go home."

Five miles below his quick eye detected his half submerged "bark" lodged beneath some overhanging firs which from the water's action had fallen forward into the stream, and by rare good fortune it was still upright, although awash. He rowed it to the next sand bar, where he wrung out and donned his shirt, then tipped the water from the smaller craft and, making it fast astern of the Peterborough, set out once more. Toward noon they came in sight of a little stern wheeled craft that puffed and pattered manfully against the sweeping current, hiding behind the points and bars and following the slackest water.

"It's the mission boat!" cried Necia. "It's the mission boat! Father Barnum will be aboard."

She waved her arms madly and mingled her voice with Poleon's until a black robed figure appeared beside the pilothouse.

"Father Barnum!" she screamed, and, recognizing her, he signaled back.

Soon they were alongside, and a pair of Siwash deck hands lifted Necia aboard, Doret following after, the painter of the Peterborough in his teeth. He dragged both canoes out of the boiling tide and laid them bottom up on the forward deck, then climbed the narrow little stairs to find Necia in the arms of a benignant, white haired priest, the best beloved man on the Yukon, who broke away from the girl to greet the Frenchman, his kind face alight with astonishment.

"What is all this I hear? Slowly, Doret, slowly! My little girl is talking too furiously for these poor old wits to follow. I can't understand. I am amazed. What is this tale?"

Together they told him, while his blue eyes now opened wide with wonder, now grew soft with pity, then blazed with indignation. When they had finished he laid his hand upon Doret's shoulder.

A Deceptive Air.

The Bushby storekeeper surveyed Mr. Leonard with a contemplative eye and then turned his gaze toward Jimmy Sloane, who was putting packages into the delivery wagon. Jimmy had the leisurely air of one with plenty of time at his disposal.

"You want to know how he'd be for your business down below?" said Mr. Gregg slowly.

"Yes," said the visitor. "I noticed him yesterday, when that crowd of young fellows were getting the piano into the hall; he seemed to work harder than any of the others. It occurred to me he might like a bigger chance than he has here."

"M-m," said the storekeeper. "Well, now, I can't say as to that, of course, but as to his working harder than any of the other boys, I'll tell you what they say, and you can believe it or not, jest as you choose.

"They all like Jimmy, for he's first rate company, but the truth is that when it comes to lifting, or such work, Jimmy's all take holt and mighty little h'list."—Youth's Companion.

Dark Walls Best For Illumination.

Some scientists who have been making investigations into the part played in the matter of illumination by light and dark walls have come to the conclusion that the dark walls are better fitted for good illumination than the light. In a room where the walls are dark and where the source of light is entirely behind the reader's field of vision a person who reads is impressed with the idea that the room is excellently well illuminated, but if now another light is brought into the room and placed within the field of his vision, though not shining on the paper he is reading, the pupils of his eyes will contract, less light will enter them from the paper he reads, and the reader will be impressed with the idea that the illumination has been reduced and the paper is becoming darker. These scientists say that the experiments show that if the walls are light colored the efficiency of the illumination may actually be diminished.—Pathfinder.

The Picture In Disguise.

Of the strange vicissitudes through which many of the world's famous pictures have passed perhaps none was odder than that of "The Picture In Disguise," a magnificent painting that now adorns the residence of Lord Leigh in Warwickshire, England. This remarkable picture for many years appeared to be merely a painting of flowers. The floral study was, however, finally pronounced by an astute art dealer to be in reality a mask for another painting. With the permission of the owner he caused the painting of flowers gradually to be removed, whereupon there was discovered underneath a very fine portrait of Charles I. by Van Dyck. While no authentic record of this masterpiece has been found, it is supposed that the portrait was disguised by some royalist in order to guard against its destruction by Roundheads during the revolution.—Boston Post.

Little Barbara's Complaint.

Four-year-old Barbara went to church with her two sisters and came home crying.

"What is the matter, dear?" inquired her mother.

"He preached a whole s-sermon—about—M-Mary and Martha," sobbed Barbara, "and—never said—a—w-word about me."—Lippincott's.

Bonheur's Humor.

Mlle. Rosa Bonheur (Rosa stood for Rosalie) was not without a sense of humor, so it is told of her that when presiding over a school of design in Paris, the pupils being girls, the artist was disgusted with the class because, imitative of their teacher, the young women had cut their hair short. "Goodness," cried Rosa Bonheur, "how horrid you all look! This is not a class of boys. You silly creatures, let your hair alone and do your best so as to retain all the advantages of your sex."

SANITATION OF THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS.

The State Fair officials are taking every precaution to protect the exhibitors of live stock at the 1909 meeting which opens Sept. 2. They have made arrangements for the complete sanitation of the live stock and, in fact, the entire show buildings and grounds during the Fair time.

Before any animals are brought into their quarters, all stables, barns, etc., will be thoroughly cleaned of any refuse that may have accumulated there, and then they will be thoroughly and completely disinfected so as to prevent any possibility of disease being acquired from the condition of the grounds before the live stock arrives.

During the entire time of the Fair a constant attendance of a corps of expert assistants will be continuously disinfecting all the live stock and buildings, so that it will prevent any possible outbreak of contagious diseases while on the grounds.

Arrangements will be made for parties who wish to have their stock sprayed before entering the grounds, and the fact that Messrs. Parke, Davis & Company will have this matter in charge, and will use the disinfectant Kreso for the purpose, is sufficient to know that it will be done properly and effectively.

This firm has taken care of over 200 large expositions of this description, and by using Kreso have prevented any outbreak of disease; this is certainly a safeguard against any such troubles that otherwise might arise.

FASTEST HORSE IN THE WORLD.

Dan Patch Will Race Minor Heir to Beat the World's Record.

Horse lovers and all followers of the racing game will be given an unusual treat at the Michigan State Fair Sept. 2-10 when they see Dan Patch (1:55) and Minor Heir (1:59¼) fight it out for the world's championship honors.

M. W. Savage, who for several years has been the owner of Dan Patch, recently purchased Minor Heir for $45,000 and has consented to let these two world's fastest harness horses appear in a series of races.

True to his first love, Mr. Savage insists that as long as Dan Patch stays right he will be able to defend the championship against all comers, even against the fleet son of Heir-at-Law.

Mr. Savage has given orders that both horses be trained to the minute and that when they go their race exhibitions each shall be driven to his limit so that there will be an honest test of speed, gameness and stamina.

There are some horsemen who believe that Minor Heir will develope as great, if not greater, speed than Dan Patch. He was a green pacer last year, and as such gave some of the most wonderful performances on record. He has a terrific flight of speed, and if under the scientific care of Harry Hersey, he can be fitted so as to hold his lick for a mile, he will give Dan Patch all he can do.

From present indications it is evident that the Michigan State Fair never had so popular a drawing card as the scheduled race between these two world's champions.

Thousands of people will go to Detroit for the opportunity merely to see these two champion horses go in one of the greatest races in the history of the world.

While discussing the two horses a short time ago Mr. Henry C. Hersey, superintendent of Mr. Savage's farm, and famous as the trainer and driver of Dan Patch, had the following to say:

"I am now working Dan and Minor Heir twice a week, Tuesdays and Fridays. I am repeating them now, giving each the last mile around 2:35. I will continue in this way until I begin working each horse four heats on Tuesdays and Fridays. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays and Saturdays the horses are now jogged about four or five miles, and I will continue this after the more severe work is in progress.

"My plan is gradually to work them up to faster miles and to keep them as big and strong as possible. Dan Patch now weighs 1,100 and will work down to about 1,075 pounds, when he is fit for great miles. His rival now tips the scales at 1,020 pounds and will weigh in close to 1,000 pounds when he is ready.

I want to keep them both as big as I can and still have them hard and not fat inside. I am slowly working off the surplus fat, changing it into muscle.

"At present I am giving Minor Heir a little more jogging and a trifle stiffer work than the champion. He needs to develope more staying qualities. The physical condition of each horse seems perfect. They have plenty of lick and are feeling almost too good. Dan never looked better at this time of the year."

MAKES A FINE SHOWING.

Michigan State Fair One of the Nation's Best.

While the Michigan State Fair is not blessed with the liberal legislative aid that goes to similar institutions, it makes a showing that puts others far in the shade.

Last year the total attendance was 186,000. At the same time Wisconsin showed only 122,000; New York, 165,000; Kentucky, 102,000; Ohio, 124,473; Nebraska, 112,500; Spokane Interstate, 114,866; Indiana, 145,000.

Michigan's net profits were $45,000. That of Wisconsin, $4,437.30; New York, $29,000; Kentucky, $12,000; Ohio, $18,399.22; Iowa, $44,171.45; Nebraska, $24,200; Spokane Interstate, $9,715.51; Illinois, $7,600; South Dakota, $533.97; Oklahoma, $14,349.50.

Michigan's total disbursements, not including amount for improvements, were $94,546.29; Wisconsin, $80,737.70; New York, $70,000; Kentucky, $38,000; Ohio, $46,644.63; Iowa, $94,593.21; Nebraska, $53,500; Spokane Interstate, $72,589.16; Illinois, $90,000; South Dakota, $25,203.67; Oklahoma, $14,918.

BUSINESS MEN'S DAY.

Detroit Wholesalers to Entertain Michigan Retail Dealers.

Wednesday, September 6, will be "Wholesalers' day" at the Michigan State Fair and the Detroit Wholesalers' association has arranged a program of entertainments that will give the visitors an extremely delightful time. On this occasion merchants from all parts of Michigan and the surrounding states will be guests of the Detroit organization, which will see that nothing is left undone for their enjoyment. The Michigan State Fair and the city of Detroit has a reputation for doing things and the visitors on that day will be treated to surprises at every turn.

The Wholesalers' association will have a tent on the grounds with free telephone service to visitors, who thus will be able to talk with friends back home.

The evening will be known as "Wholesalers' night," for which a special entertainment will be prepared, including a magnificent horseshow and a general vaudeville performance which will take place in front of the grand stand. A grand display of fireworks, including many large pieces, will conclude the evening.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

MICHIGAN'S POST CARD

Michigan now has an official post card and it is a card that all citizens of this state may well be proud of. At the left hand side of the card is a column of strength, at the base of which is a cluster of fruit and grain. From the cap of the column a red streamer bearing the words "Michigan 1837," reaches in graceful folds across the top and at the upper right hand corner is the state shield and coat of arms.

The legion on the card was composed by the state librarian, Mrs. Mary C. Spencer. It reads as follows:

"Here's to our lake encircled state—
Our Michigan, so strong, so great,
Her mineral wealth, her waving grain,
Her homes where peace and plenty reign;
Greatest of states since states began,
We pledge to thee, our Michigan.

A Beautified Park.

The Michigan State Fair grounds at the present time has the appearance of a great city park. The recent rains have produced a luxurious growth of grass, shrubs and flowers, that make the place in every direction, a joy even at this time of the year.

Attendants are constantly at work mowing the grass, trimming the plants, and at the same time installing shrubs and flowers that are planned to produce a most gorgeous effect during the fair next September.

The rose bushes are just preparing to burst into bloom which will produce an inspiring effect during the next few weeks.

Nursery companies are already preparing for the great fall exhibit and have many men at work arranging flower beds and shrubs to attract attention when the fair opens.

Car loads of gravel and cement are being shipped into the grounds for long stretches of cement walks that will take the place of muddy thoroughfares. This is an improvement that will be greatly appreciated by the general public. Besides eliminating a large amount of muddy walk, dust will also be done away with.

At the present time a new horse barn—240 feet long—is being erected. It will be one of the finest in the country and a great convenience to horsemen and others who will exhibit stock at the coming state fair. This structure was started early and will be fully completed long before the fair opens.

Other features are contemplated which will add to the conveniences of the great institutions.

Real Indian Village.

The American Indian is gradually disappearing and his mode of life is becoming more interesting each day, to the general public. The management of the Michigan State Fair, realizing the educational features that lie in the Indian village, has secured an attraction of this sort, which is promised to be oen of the leading features of the Midawy at the coming State Fair, September 2 to 10.

This is a real Indian village and consists of "Chief Two Stars" and his followers, consisting of one hundred persons.

The Indians will live at the Fair grounds in tepes, in the same wild style that existed on western plains fifty years ago.

These Indians will eat, sleep and appear in a semi-barbaric style that will be interesting to every visitor at the grounds. This attraction will be as fascinating to adults as to the children. The Indians will execute war dances, shoot with arrows, ride bucking broncos, rope cattle and do everything that is so common on the western reservations.

The State Fair of Today.

The state fair has become recognized as an auxiliary in helping to build up the general agricultural interests of live stock and agricultural districts. The incentive of exhibition contest and friendly competition at the Michigan State fair, which opens September 2 and continues until September 10, will stimulate and encourage in the mind of Michigan stockmen and agriculturists, a desire the following year to do something better.

The fair influence is not confined to one line or one branch of agricultural industry, but extends to every department of home life, farm and industrial enterprise. It is sufficiently broad to take in every feature of manufacture and production, even to the educational accomplishments of the public schools of the state.

The Michigan State fair has become the great clearing house institution as it were, for the breeder, the feeder, the producer, the scientist, and in fact every branch of industry to be introduced to an intelligent and appreciative public. It is here where the wide-awake producer brings the best, the choicest of his herd, the pick of his product of whatever nature, to test the merit and its value when placed in comparison with the work and efforts of others. The State Fair is an educational institution and a means of congregating into one systematically arranged exhibition, the best of everything the state has produced.

Hope.

"Have you seen the account in this morning's papers about Dr. Cutting having brought a dead man back to life?"

"No. Did he do that?"

"Yes. It was a wonderful demonstration of his skill."

"Well, I shall be more hopeful now than I have been for some time. If he can bring the dead back to life he may be able to bring back the book he borrowed from me about two years ago."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Begging In Paris.

Giving up his profession, a Paris beggar offers his "pitch" for sale. His advertisement reads: "For sale, present holder retiring to the country, good situation for one legged man; neighborhood of the Etoile; hours of work, 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.; receipts, $2.40 to $3.15; regular passersby, children and strangers; or any infirmity would suit."

A Feminine Reason.

"But," asked the first co-ed, "why did you elect to take up the study of German instead of French?"

"Oh," replied the other, "the German professor was so awfully handsome, you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

OUTWITTED THE POLICE

Sailor Prisoner Cleverly Makes His Escape.

SAID MOTHER WAS ILL

Induced Officers to Take Him Home. Steps Into Bedroom to Change His Clothes, Slips Into Cellar Through Trap Door and Thus Escapes—His Mother Not at Home.

Port Huron, Mich., June 28.—Joseph McDonald, a sailor, twenty-four years old, sentenced to serve from three to fifteen years in Jackson prison for highway robbery, has cleverly outwitted the local police and made his escape.

It was last spring that the hold-up occurred. Sentence was suspended, and he has been at liberty since. About three weeks ago, a saloon keeper was held up and robbed by George Legg. The later was arrested, confessed and implicated McDonald.

It proved the sailor's undoing, for he was immediately summoned and was to have been taken to Jackson to serve out his former sentence.

While languishing in the jail here, he told his guards that his mother was ill and asked for permission to see her before leaving for Jackson. His request was granted, and, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Moore and Court Officer Drexler, he drove to his home in a carriage.

Moore remained in the rig in front of McDonald's home while Drexler accompanied the sailor inside. The pair had been in the house but a short time when the prisoner said he would like to change his clothes. Pulling a big armchair out for the officer, McDonald stepped into a bedroom. The minutes began to fly by, and still he didn't come out. Finally, growing suspicious, Drexler stepped into the room, and an open trap door in the floor stared him in the face. It led to the cellar, and McDonald was gone.

It is believed the escape had been carefully planned and that McDonald had a confederate. His mother was not ill and not even in the house at the time.

GETS SEVERE SHOCK.

Bad Axe Man Rendered Unconscious by Lightning.

Bad Axe, Mich., June 28.—Michael Conalton, thirty years of age, was badly shocked when lightning struck the chimney of his home during an electrical storm here.

Conalton went out to put a tub under the spout of the eavetrough and was bending over the tub when the chimney was struck. He was picked up unconscious and carried into the house. He is in a serious condition.

Rest Rooms a Failure.

Marshall, Mich., June 28.—The rest and lunch rooms conducted in the W. C. T. U. building here are a failure. After eleven months, the directors find themselves $50 in debt. They claim they have expended $1,129, but their receipts do not cover it. The rooms will be closed Saturday.

The people of Holloway have been greatly scared of late, by a large snake. The size of the snake varies from eight feet to twenty, and with a girth of 10 to 16 inches in diameter. All agree however that the snake is not an ordinary sized reptile but is either one that has escaped from a menagerie or fair.

Gus Lambrigger, owner of Lambrigger's wild animal show, that is visiting Tecumseh this week, is satisfied that the big snake frightening the people in the village of Holloway, is the one that escaped from his show at Detroit. He has organized a posse of men, who will make an attempt to capture it.

Last Saturday, Mrs. John A. Smith's relatives and friends remembered that it was her birthday, and about 20 gathered at her home west of town to spend the afternoon. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Will Warner of Adrian, Mrs. A. L. Mudgett, Mrs. Raymond of Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Will Powell of Tecumseh.

During the thunder storm at Onsted Friday morning, J. E. Mills lost a valuable mare by lightning. Mr. Mills was ploughing in a field, over the fence from where the mare stood with her colt four days old. At the flash of the lightning, Mr. Mills was knocked flat on the ground also his team, and the mare and colt. They soon scrambled to their feet except the mother of the colt. She was dead and every bone in her body broken.

After having a premonition that some harm might come to the boy, but allowing the little fellow's pleadings to overcome his better judgement Henry Chuestein, a well-to-do farmer, let his son Willie, aged 2, with him while he drove a heavy load of manure to town. When about half way to his destination the elder Chuestein was horrified, when the wheels struck a deep rut in the road to see the child bounced from his seat into the road way. Chuestein, with a mighty effort pulled up his team, but it was too late and two wheels passed over the little boy's body, crushing out his life. Chuestein, almost insane from grief, drove back to his home, five miles with the body, without delivering his load.—Milan Leader.

About two weeks ago two young women arrived in this village direct from Russia. They had neither relatives nor friends to whom they could go, but hoped to find employment among our towns people. Mr. and Mrs. John Gumpper sr. hearing that they were here took them into their home and made them welcome and comfortable. In a short time one young lady secured a place to work in Freedom, but on Thursday last the other was taken sick with blood poisoning from intestinal sepsis and died on Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Gumpper and others did all possible to relieve her sufferings and she was given the best of medical attention but to no avail. This is indeed a very sad case, having so recently left her home and loved ones and being here among almost total strangers.—Manchester Enterprise.

ANIMAL SHOW

LAMBRIGGER WILD ANIMAL SHOW HAS ARRIVED IN TECUMSEH

Pitched Their Tent in the Toy Factory lot Early Yesterday Morning.

ALL TECUMSEH IS DELIGHTED

All Tecumseh is happy. The Lambrigger wild animal show with its 23 cages of rare animals, birds, monkeys and reptiles is here delighting every body. The splendid show came to town in its own cars Sunday night. Monday the canvas was put up on the Toy Factory lot opposite the Opera House. Monday night the Grand opening was given. The attendance was big.

The monster snake was found as advertised, 27 ft. long, weight 500 lbs. It will be fed during the engagement here. This snake can crush and swallow horse, man or ox.

Master Tony, the educatated society chimpanzee, is surrounded by people all the time. He eats with knife, fork and spoons, dresses like you and I, does everything but talk. Tony is the most human like animal known. On the way here a Lake Shore conductor demanded fare of Tony thinking him human.

The monkeys and birds from all nations catch the children.

The show will be here all week, the hours are daily 1 p. m. to 10 p. m. except Saturday when the hours will be 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. It is continuous, go when you like you cannot miss any part of it.

BRADISH FAMILY REUNION

Saturday, June 19, 1909, was truly an ideal day for the fifth anual reunion of the descendants of Col. John and Hannah Warner Bradish, and they were most cordially welcomed by Mrs Amanda D. Mason and family at the pleasant home in Adrian on Front street. All our reunions have been very enjoyable and this one certainly kept fully up to the mark.

We were especially favored this year in greeting freinds from abroad; Mrs. Russell Carter, Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Wm. A. McGraw, Detroit, Mich., Loren H. Turner and wife, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Mary C. Dennison, St. Joseph, Mich., Mrs. Lizzie R. Munn, St. Louis, Mich., Spencer Knapp and wife and others from near by villages.

Although we numbered one hundred we badly missed some familiar faces, especially so Mrs. Anna E. Baldwin, who has gone to Tacoma, Wash., and Mrs. Flora Baldwin Maynard, who so recently passed from this earthly life.

The morning hours were filled with cheery greetings and very home-like, informal visiting, until the bountiful picnic dinner was served in tents on the lawn, the tables beautifully decorated with flowers.

Soon after dinner the meeting was called to order by the president, Frank A. Bradish, and the usual program carried out. The minutes of the last meeting were read, the family record for the last year, and 16 letters of regrets, two of especial interest from Lenawee boys in California and one from Philander P. Bradish, of Batavia, N. Y., the eldest member of our society. This letter of eight pages of old time memories was well expressed and clearly written. The author, 92 years, 8 months and 7 days of age, is in almost perfect health, and having lost only one tooth can take care of three good meals a day in good old Bradish style.

Friends from abroad spoke fitting and most welcome words of appreciation of the object and aims of our society and assured us of their hearty co-operation.

Officers were elected for the coming year as follows:

President—Geo. S. Tiffany of Tecumseh.
Vice President—Mrs. Kitty R Brown
Secretary—W. R. Bradish.
Treasure—Mrs Winnifred Osborne.
General Historian—Z. J. Bradish.
Special historian for Calvin B. branch—H. C. Bradish.
For Chloe B.—Miss Julia Gavit.
For Sarah B.—Mrs. Kittie Robison Brown.
For Rowena B.—Mrs. A. H. Wood.

Norman F. Bradish, the eldest member present was elected honorary president.

Resolutions were passed expressing appreciation of the kind hospitality of Mrs. Mason and family, and also of work done for the society by W. H. Bradish, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Committees were appointed, and the the kind invitation of Norman B. Bradish and family to meet with them next year accepted.

The historian read a few items of family history, especially concerning the Calvin Bradish branch and the Warner ancestry, and our delightful day was over.

May we be "kept in peace" till we meet again, Whether here or in "that better land."

SWEET STOMACH'S

"A treatment of Mi-o-na was procured, which was used by me for a severe case of stomach trouble and indigestion. I am glad to state that the use of this remedy cured my trouble and that there are no words too strong for me to say in favor of Mi-o-na. Surely it is a remedy of merit and value to those suffering as I was." Mrs. C. F. Sizer, Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich. Oct. 16, 1908.

A sour stomach means foul breath belching of gas, heartburn, and distress. Mi-o-na tablets will turn a sour stomach into a sweet one in 30 minutes. It not only builds up and puts energy into the stomach walls, but it purifies very thoroughly the stomach and the entire intestinal tract, and keeps them fresh and clean. No one who has indigestion or stomach trouble of any kind should be without Mi-o-na tablets. Carry them with you, and when in distress take one and secure immediate relief. C. A. WRIGHT & SON sells Mi-o-na tablets at only 50 cents a large box, and he guarantees them to cure dyspepsia, all stomach diseases, vomiting of pregnancy sea and car sickness, and that knocked out feeling the morning after.

Salad days are those in which the long green is plenty.

NEW STAMP'S

The post office at Tecumseh have recevied a large supply of the new postage stamps which the department has designed to commemorate the develoment of the Alaska-Youkon Pacific territory. They are of the two cent denomination, being red in color. A portrait of William H. Stward, who as secretary of the state, conducted the negotiations for the purchase of Alaska from Russia His name appears beneath the picture.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashion method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

With man, most of his misfortunes are occasioned by man.—Pliny the Elder.

Somehow a woman never seems to enjoy a good cry unless she has two or more reasons for starting the bring flow.

AIRSHIP SHED DESTROYED

Wellman's North Pole Attempt Again Delayed.

HE ALSO LOSES MAN

Fell Through Crevasse of Ice While Doing Duty as Watch at Northern Camp—Strong Gale Blew Shed to Pieces—May Not Be Able to Make Dash This Year.

Thomsoe, Norway, June 28.—The steamer Arctic of Walter Wellman's north pole expedition has just returned here from Spitzbergen with her flags at half-mast, bringing the news that Knud Johnson, one of the two men who remained at the Wellman camp last winter had perished in the pack ice and that the airship shed had been destroyed by a heavy storm.

On May 19 Johnson went with his fellow watchman, Paul Bjoervig, on a hunting expedition over the pack ice. The ice was moving, and Johnson fell through a crevasse into the sea. Bjoervig held out a long stick for Johnson to grasp, but he was unconscious. Bjoervig then ran back to the camp and secured a rope, but when he returned to the crevasse Johnson's body had disappeared.

A strong gale from the southwest sprang up on Christmas day and lasted for eight days. Bjoervig says he has never seen such a fierce one as this storm. It reached its climax on the night of Dec. 26, when it entirely destroyed the airship shed.

Anticipating the possibility that the airship house might be destroyed, Walter Wellman had sent by the Arctic timber and other repairing materials.

Wellman says that the destruction of the airship house means a delay of four or five weeks, and he is uncertain whether it will be practicable to finish the new hall in time to make the voyage northward this summer.

POLICE COULDN'T STOP PEOPLE

Rushed Into Amusement Place When It Opened Sunday.

Detroit, Mich., June 23.—The pavilion, or casino, at Riverview park, one of Detroit's "Coney Island" amusement places, was wide open Sunday afternoon, contrary to the orders of Police Commissioner Smith and despite the presence of Captain Sullivan of the Elmwood precinct and twenty-five uniformed officers. Milford Stern, secretary of the Riverview park company, alleges that the action was due to permission from Mayor Breitmeyer.

A week ago Smith visited the park and made a report to the mayor. The mayor said he would give him his decision last Tuesday, but as yet the commissioner says he has received no word from Breitmeyer.

Smith was determined that his orders should be carried out and ordered the uniformed men to report for duty at Riverview at 1:30 o'clock. They were stationed in front of the place and at the side and the management of Riverview informed of their purpose.

Soon after, the double door leading into the moving picture gallery was opened, also the main entrance to the pavilion. Then the large windows and doors were opened. The police were scattered about in front of the place, but the crowd of 200 men, women and children paid no attention to them, and dispite all the officers could do without bringing their clubs into play they got in.

The commissioner, seeing that to keep the newcomers out it would be necessary to keep his men there until midnight, called them off with the exception of two, who stayed to keep order. He then notified the manager of Electric park, another amusement place, that he could open his place, believing it only fair that that place should be allowed to run if Riverside was doing business.

In answer to Stern's claim that he was given permission to run on Sunday, the mayor said: "Stern was up to see me concerning the matter, but I gave him no answer other than that I was awaiting an opinion from Corporation Counsel Hally on the case. This is the same reason Commissioner Smith has received no answer to his report."

Exclusive Perfumes.

The late Dr. Andrew Wynter in a charming article on perfumes suggested the desirability of every lady having her own special and self prepared perfume. The custom, however, would have its disadvantages. More than one sensational story might be mentioned wherein the heroine or villain was sayed or unmasked, as the case might be, by the recognition of a distinctive scent. In "Diplomacy" the denouement is effected by the telltale perfume of the adventuress being detected in the dispatch box she had rifled. As a matter of history, the assassins of the oriental sovereign Yezdijird were discovered by one of them smelling of the perfume with which the robes of the murdered king had been redolent.—London Globe.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such. Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

What the Professor Wanted.

The professor steps into the barber chair and assumes an attitude of premeditation.

"Hair cut, sir?"

"Please!" The barber cuts his hair.

"Like a shampoo?"

"Um—please!" He gets the shampoo.

"Shave you, sir?"

"Um—yes!" One shave.

"Massage?" He nods assent and consequently is massaged. The barber removes the towel; the professor arises and mechanically takes the proffered check.

"What's this?"

"Your check, sir."

"My check?"

"Certainly, sir—hair cut, shampoo, shave and massage."

The professor rubs his hand over face and head.

"Did I get all that?"

"Surely, sir."

"It's queer—very queer—most extraordinarily queer! A most wonderful example of philosophical phenomenon!"

"What's queer?" asks the barber in dismay.

"Why, the working of the human mind. What I came in for was to get my razor honed."—Puck.

What Constitutes Baseball?

The essential apparatus of baseball is simple and inexpensive. All that is required is a field, a stick, the ball itself and police protection for the umpire. One advantage of the game as played professionally is that those sitting in the grand stand can play the game a great deal better than the eighteen men on the diamond. It is also true that any one of the spectators, even though perched on a telephone pole across the street or looking through a knothole in the fence beyond right field, can judge of the pitcher's skill or the runner's fleetness much more intelligently than the arbiter who stands behind the battery. The great merit of the game is that the people can participate in it. It is not like bridge whist. Its science is not synonymous with silence. The thing to do is to take off your coat and root as long and as loudly as you can, even if you don't know what is happening.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have those same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and failing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wanting nerve centers. It builds, it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

REBS AND YANKS ARE IN REUNION

Men Who Fought One Another Meet to Talk Over Battles.

Burlington, N. J., June 28.—Forty-six years ago the chief desire of the men of the Eighth Alabama regiment was the advancement of the Confederate cause without regard to the number of Yankees killed in the process. Today, way up in what was then the enemy's country, they desire only to shake hands with as many of the Yanks as they can reach.

The occasion is the reunion of the survivors of the famous "Yahoos" of the civil war, who were known officially at the Twenty-third New Jersey Infantry, with the men against whom they fought at Salem Church, Va., on May 3, 1863. Among the southerners who fought against the New Jersey men in that famous action were the men of the Eighth Alabama, commanded by Colonel Hilary A. Herbert.

The leaders of the Yahoos was Colonel (afterward General) E. Burd Grubb. Today's reunion is taking place at the beautiful home of General Grubb, Grassmere, at Edgewater Park, near here. In addition to the "Yahoos" and the Eighth Alabama, the men of another New Jersey regiment, commanded later by General Grubb, the equally famous "Game Chickens," are present.

KILLED IN CHINA.

Members of British Expedition Pursued by Natives.

Peking, June 28.—Hazrah Ali, a surveyor in the India service, and Mr. Sowerby, interpreter, both attaches of the meteorological expedition under Lieutenant Clark, an American officer, were attacked June 21 by natives twenty miles south of Lanchow, the capital of the province of Kan-Su. Hazrah Ali was pursued three miles and killed. The following day Sowerby was rescued by Lieutenant Clark and several men.

Sir J. N. Jordan, the British minister here, asked the Chinese foreign office to protect the members of the expedition and to investigate the attack.

WILL TACKLE IT THIS WEEK

Corporation Tax Question to Be Taken Up by Senate.

Washington, June 28.—The corporation tax question will receive the attention of the senate during the present week. Just when the subject may be taken up no one can say definitely, for that point must depend upon the time to be devoted to the consideration of the schedule yet to be considered in connection with the tariff.

With these items disposed of, the senate will enter immediately upon the consideration of the corporation tax question.

RUNNING DOWN BANDITS

Moro Leader, Jikiri, Manages to Elude His Captors.

Manila, June 28.—Successful operations against Jikiri's band of Moro bandits have been conducted during the last few days by Captains Byralt, Rhodes and Anderson, commanding detachments of the Sixth cavalry that are co-operating with the mosquito fleet under Captain Signor.

Captain Anderson struck the band on Pata Island, and in the running engagement that followed five of the bandits were killed, a number were wounded and several others were captured by friendly Moros. Thirty-one of the bandits were killed or captured during the last thirty days, but Jikiri himself always managed to elude capture.

MRS. WOODILL WAS DRUGGED

This Theory Is Now Advanced In Murder Case.

WAS LURED TO BUNGALOW

Phial That Contained Mixture of Narcotic Drugs Found in Bungalow. Eastman's Body Buried Without Ceremony—Coroner Will Now Proceed With Inquest.

St. Michaels, Md., June 28.—The theory that Edith May Woodill was lured to "Lame Bob" Eastman's lonely bungalow without knowledge of where she was going, and that she was drugged and detained there against her will, has now been advanced. A further search of the shack which the superstitious folk of the neighborhood forevermore will shun as haunted, has revealed a small bottle which contained a mixture of narcotic drugs. There are strong traces of morphine in the nearly empty phial.

This discovery tends to bear out the theory which the people of the community who knew and loved the girl long have wanted to believe. They never have listened to the idea that she was involved in a drunken orgy at the bungalow and have contended that she lost her life in repulsing the advances of the man who acknowledged his guilt by snuffing out his life when it seemed that the hands of the law were about to be laid upon him.

No One Else Concerned.

Further investigations have led the authorities still further away from the idea that any one other than Eastman had a hand in the murder. It is inconceivable that Eastman could have invited friends from New York or from any other place to visit his bungalow in the condition that it was. The place, only half completed, offered no accommodations for visitors, whatsoever. A single bed, poorly fitted up; a table and washstand completed the equipment of furniture in the shack. Eastman himself slept in the place but infrequently

In a grave, not fifty feet from the scene of the crime, Eastman's body was laid away in the early hours of Sunday. No man of the church was there to offer a last word for the dead; no friend or relative came near. The undertakers and their assistants, a band of newspaper men and a few idle persons morbidly attracted to follow the strange funeral procession were the only persons at the grave. With bared heads they repeated the familiar words of the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Eastman, stopping twelve miles away, at Easton, expressed no desire to attend the funeral.

The final inquest into the cause and responsibility for Mrs. Woodill's death, it is announced, will be held at once. State's Attorney Turner, after a conference with the foreman of the coroner's jury, has determined to summon certain witnesses who have not been heard before. He refused to give their names.

NEARLY DROWN.

Seven Men Have Unpleasant Experiences in Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., June 28.—A canoe containing three young men capsized near Belle Isle, but the occupants were saved by a member of the Detroit Boat club who went to their assistance in a small power boat.

Four men who were swimming at the Belle Isle bath house noticed the struggling men in the water and swam out to them, but the power boat reached the overturned canoe first. It would only accommodate three, so the club member hailed a passing Belle Isle launch to take the canoe victims, while he picked up the swimmers, who were nearly exhausted.

The man in charge of the park launch refused to allow them in his craft because of their wet clothing. After putting them on by force, the club member returned just in time to save the other four.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. O. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

FINISHING A CLOSE RACE AT THE STATE FAIR, DETROIT.

BRILLIANT FIRE WORKS DISPLAY

To Be One of the Features of the Coming State Fair.

The management of the Michigan State fair this year has arranged for one of the most gorgeous displays of fireworks that has ever been witnessed at any similar exhibition. The Gregory Fireworks company of Chicago, which is one of the largest concerns of the kind in the world, has been secured to give an exhibition that for brilliancy and startling effects, has never before been seen.

The fireworks will start Saturday evening, September 4, and continue five nights, September 6, 7, 8 and 9, discontinuing of course on Sunday night, and the last night of the fair.

The horse show, which will also be given in front of the grand stand, will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock and continue until 8:30. Then the fireworks will immediately begin, the display lasting until 9:30, giving everyone ample time to reach home early. The Gregory Fireworks company will prepare a program from high to low material that is something different from that ever seen before. The program will be filled with startling things that thrill from the opening of the program, when a salute of aerial guns are fired, until the close with the goodnight piece.

Among the features will be the grand illumination, when the entire surroundings are brilliantly illuminated with tri-colored Bengal lights, changing from red to white to blue. Two monster fire balloons will follow carrying trails of variegated colored stars. Figure balloons will then ascend showing the star spangled banner in the sky, air ship, flying fish, pigs, elephans, foxy grandpa, etc. Then will be exploded numerous bombs and rockets reaching an altitude of five thousand feet.

The "Merry Acrobat" is a humorous piece of mechanical construction showing in outlines of fire, a most realistic production of an acrobat performing many interesting and amusing feats on the horizontal bar. This wonderful creation cannot fail to produce roads of laughter.

The flight of peacock plumed rockets produces a most startling effect, a gorgeous veil of feathery plumes embellished with emerald commets, spreading out through the air.

The "Sultan's Fan" is one of the most novel and bewildering pieces of pyrotechnic displays. When first displayed a beautiful pillar of tri-colored fire is seen, which finally opens into a fan that, when ablaze, has a spread of thirty feet.

The "Golden Sunset" is a mammoth wheel of fire, twenty-five feet in diameter, the acme of twentieth century creation. This piece when ablaze has a circumference of over one hundred feet.

The "Girondela" is another startling effect. This device is manufactured in Europe and especially imported by this concern. After making a long flight and descending nearly to the ground, a second flight is made, resulting in thrilling effects.

Niagara Falls in fire would seem difficult to produce, but it is really accomplished by this concern. The piece is forty feet in length and when in operation has all the appearance and sound of the mighty cataract itself. The molten fire, reaching to the ground, rebounds with a splash of silvery mist, creating an inspiring effect.

Added to this great display, there are scores of other beautiful pieces that will add to the general fascination. Rockets and bombs are exploded at the most opportune time to produce startling effects.

These beautiful things in fire are all produced by a skill crew of men, who have been so long in the business that a hitch never occurs to spoil the pleasure of the evening. This exhibition alone will be well worth a trip to Detroit, and is expected to be one of the leading attractions at the big fair.

GREAT RACING AT THE FAIR.

Fastest Animals in the World Will Meet September 2-10.

No single feature of a State Fair attracts more people on its own accord than the racing, if it is of sufficient merit. That this fact is well known by the powers that have been and those that are in the Michigan Agricultural Society is shown in the completeness of the department. The steel grand stand, the magnificent mile track, the spacious and healthful stables, representing in all an outlay of over $100,000, show what is thought of the harness horses at the Michigan State Fair.

There is no more complete plant down the line of the grand circuit than that just outside of Detroit, where the big fair is held each year. The track was rebuilt last year at a cost of $10,000 and now presents the composite surface, so successful at Memphis, the pattern after which other tracks are cut.

The fact that at the State Fair of 1908 no less than nine horses beat 2:10 in winning heats on the track and at the blue ribbon meeating that year a number of world's records were demolished shows what a fast track Michigan has. It is the talk of the country among racing men, and is one of the only cases where the same track is used for the State Fair and the grand circuit, affording the fairgoers an opportunity of seeing horses race on the fastest piece of dirt out of doors.

The equipments are perfect. Such is the growth of the popularity of the sport of the sulky that each year sees additional demand for stabling, and this summer a new barn with a capacity of fifty has been completed. In all 300 horses can be housed in roomy box-stalls in the speed barns, and because of the general desire to stroll down and take a look at them the directors of the society have had laid a continuation of the concrete walks, which now run past the cattle, sheep, swine and speed barns—an excellent idea.

In the past the fair has been fortunate in attracting a good class of horses, and there are reasons why there will be an improvement this year. A new fair at Kalamazoo opens on August 30, and in connection with it there will be a big race meeting. The Kalamazoo stakes have attracted an unusual number of horses, and from that city the horses will come to Detroit, where the State Fair race program opens September 6 and continues for five afternoons. The State Fair is a member of the Michigan circuit; other states will contribute, so from all sources it promises to assemble a lot of fast and clever race horses.

In addition to the fifteen races scheduled for the five afternoons there will be a great attraction on September 9. Dan Patch, 1:55, the unbeaten champion of the world, will race against Minor Heir, 1:59½, his most formidable rival. They will go one heat, the idea being to lower the world's record below two minutes, which the trainer of the horses says he will be able to do if the weather and track are right. It will be the most spectacular event ever known to the light harness turf, solitary exhibitions against time fading to a shadow in comparison with this struggle from wire to wire.

The program, with the added attraction, is one of the greatest ever offered by a state fair and will serve to keep Michigan's yearly outing in the forefront. The regular race card for the fair is as follows:

Monday, September 6—2:10 pace; purse $500; 2:18 trot, $500; 2:16 pace, $500.

Tuesday, September 7—2:30 pace, $500; 2:12 trot, 500; 2:22 pace, $500.

Wednesday, September 8—2:21 trot, $500; free-for-all pace, $500; 2:30 trot, $500.

Thursday, September 9—2:24 pace, $500; 2:16 trot, $500; 2:13 pace, $500.

Friday, September 10—Free-for-all trot, $500; 2:19 pace, $500; 2:26 trot, $500.

Prices Have Been Reduced.

Admission to the grandstand at the Michigan State Fair this year will be reduced to twenty-five cents, the former price of fifty cents being considered too high. One general price, therefore, will be charged for both the grandstand and bleacher seats, when the fair is in progress from September 2d to September 10th.

It is believed that the public will appreciate this move on the part of the Michigan State Fair management and that more pefsons will avail themselves of this convenience at the big exhibit. These seats are indispensible for those who wish to thoroughly enjoy the races, the horse show, the fireworks and many other attractions that can be seen to advantage from this part of the grounds.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. THE BARRIER

"My son, I thank God for your good body and your clean heart. You saved our Necia, and you will be rewarded. As to this—this—man Runnion, we must find him, and he must be sent out of the country."

It required some pressure to persuade the Frenchman, but at last he consented, and as the afternoon drew to a close the little steamboat came squattering and wheezing up to the bar where Runnion had built his fire that morning, and a long, shrill blast summoned him from the point above. When he did not appear the priest took Poleon and his round faced, silent crew of two and went up the bank, but they found no sign of the crippled man—only a few rags, a trampled patch of brush at the forest's edge, and that was all. The springy moss showed no trail. The thicket gave no answer to their cries, although they spent an hour in a scattered search and sounded the steamboat's whistle again and again.

"He's try for walk it back to camp," said Doret. "Mebbe he ain' hurt so much, after all."

"You must be right," said Father Barnum. "We will keep the steamer close to this shore, so that he can hail us when we overtake him."

And so they resumed their toilsome trip, but mile after mile fell behind them, and still no voice came from the woods—no figure hailed them. Doret, inscrutable and silent, lounged against the pilothouse smoking innumerable cigarettes which he rolled from squares of newspaper, his keen eyes apparently scanning every foot of their slow way, but when night fell at last and the bank faded from sight he tossed the last butt overboard, sniffed grimly into the darkness and went below.

CHAPTER XVIII.

RUNNION FINDS THE SINGING PEOPLE.

"NO CREEK" LEE came into the trading post on the following morning and found Gale attending store as if nothing unusual had occurred.

"Say! What's this about you and Stark? I hear you had a horrible run in and that you split him up the back like a quail."

"We had a row," admitted the trader. "It's been a long time working out, and last night it came to a head."

"Lord—ee! And to think of Ben Stark bein' licked! Why, the whole camp's talkin' about it! They say he emptied two six shooters at you, but you kept a-comin', and when you did get to him you just carved your initials on him like he was a basswood tree. Say, John, he's a goner, sure."

"Do you mean he's—passing out?"

"Oh, no. I reckon he'll get well, from what I hear, though he won't let nobody come near him except old Doc. But he's lost a battle, and that ends him. Don't you savvy? Whenever a killer quits second best it breaks his hoodoo. Why, there's been men layin' for him these twenty years from here to the Rio Grande, and every feller he ever bested will hear of this and begin to grease his holster; then the first shave tail desperado that meets him will spit in his eye just to make a name for himself. No, sir! He's a spent shell. He's got to fight all his battles over again, and this time the other feller will open the ball. Oh, I've seen it happen before. You killed him last night, just as sure as if you'd hung up his hide to dry, and he knows it."

"I'm a peaceable man," said Gale on the defensive. "I had to do it."

"I know! I know! There was witnesses. This dressmaker at the fort seen it, so I hear."

The other acquiesced silently.

"Well, well! Ben Stark licked! I can't get over that. It must 'a' been somethin' powerful strong to make you do it, John." When the old man vouchsafed no more than a nod to a question the prospector inquired:

"Where's Poleon? I've got news for him from the creek."

"I don't know. Why?"

"His laymen have give up. They've crosscut his ground, and the pay ain't there, so they've quit work for good."

"He drew a blank, eh?"

"Worse'n that—three of them. The creek is spotteder than a leopard. Runnion's men, for instance, are into it bigger than a house, while Poleon's people can't raise a color. I call it tough luck—yes, worse'n tough. It's hard biled and pickled. To them as has shall it be given and to them as hasn't shall be took even what they ain't got, as the poet says. Look at Necia! She'll be richer than a cream puff. Guess I'll step around and see her."

"She's gone," said the trader wearily, turning his haggard face from the prospector.

"Gone! Where?"

"Up river with Runnion. They got her away from me last night."

"Sufferin' snakes!" ejaculated Lee. "So that's why!" Then he added simply, "Let's go and git her, John."

The trader looked at him queerly.

"Maybe I won't—on the first boat! I'm eating my heart out hour by hour waiting—waiting—waiting for some kind of a craft to come, and so is Burrell."

"What's he got to do with it?" said the one eyed miner jealously. "Can't you and me bring her back?"

"He'll marry her! God, won't there never be a boat?"

For the hundredth time that morning he went to the door of the post and strained his eyes downstream.

"Well, well! Them two goin' to be married," said Lee. "Stark licked, and Necia goin' to be married—all at once. I hate to see it, John. He ain't good enough. She stand 'a' done a heap better. There's a lot of regular men around here, and she could 'a' had her pick. Of course, always bein' broke like a dog myself, I ain't kept up my personal appearance like I ought, but I've got some new clothes now, and you wouldn't know me. I bought 'em off a tender foot with cold feet, but they're the goods, and you'd see a big improvement in me."

"He's a good man," said Gale, "better than you or me, and he's all torn up over this. I never saw a man act so. When he learned about it I thought he'd go mad. He's haunted the river bank ever since, raging about for some means of following her, and if I hadn't fairly held him he'd have set out single handed."

While they were talking Burrell came in, and "No Creek" saw that the night had affected the youth even more than it had Gale, or at least he showed the marks more plainly, for his face was drawn, his eyes were sunken as if from hunger, and his whole body seemed to have fallen away till his uniform hung upon him loose, unkempt and careless.

"I can't wait much longer," said Burrell and sank wearily into a seat. Almost the next instant he was on his feet again, saying to the trader, as he had said it a score of times already: "Runnion comes to me, Gale! You understand he's mine, don't you?"

The old man nodded. "Yes; you can take him."

"Well, who do I git?" asked Lee.

"You can't come along," the trader said. "We may have to follow the bound clean to the States. Think of your mine."

"To blazes with the mine!" exploded the shaggy prospector. "I reckon I'm kind of a daddy to your gal, and I'm goin' to be in at the finish."

Suddenly the lieutenant uttered a cry, and with a bound Gale was beside him.

"Look! Over the point! Down yonder! I saw smoke!"

The three stared at the distant forest fringe that masked the bend of the river until their eyes ached.

"You're tired, my boy," said Gale. "Wait."

He obeyed and finally over the tree tops saw a faint streamer of black.

"It is! It is!" cried the soldier. "I'm going for my war bag." And before the steamboat had hove into sight he was back with his scanty bundle of baggage, behaving like one daft, talking and laughing and running here and there. Lee watched him closely, then went behind the bar and poured out a stiff glass of whisky, which he made Burrell drink. To Gale he whispered a moment later:

"Keep your eye on him, John. He'll go mad at this rate."

They waited, it seemed interminably, until at last a white hull slowly rounded the point, then shaped a course across the current toward the other bank, where the water was less swift. As it came fully into sight Gale swore aloud in despair:

"It's the mission boat!"

"Well, what of that?" said Burrell. "We'll hire it—buy it—take it!"

"It's no use. She ain't got but three dog power to her engines," Lee explained. "She's a down river boat—has to run with the current to move."

"We can't use her," Gale gave in reluctantly. "She'd only lose time for us. We've got to wait for one of the A. C. boats."

"Wait!" cried Burrell. "We've done nothing but wait, wait, wait! Let's do something!"

"You go back yonder and set down," commanded Lee. "We'll have a boat before long."

The arrival of the tiny mission steamer was never of sufficient importance to draw a crowd to the river

"I bring her back to you, m'sieu!"

bank, so the impatient men at the post relaxed interest in her as she came creeping up abreast of the town. It was little Johnny Gale who first saw Necia and Poleon on board, for he had recognized Father Barnum's craft at a distance and stationed himself at the bank hand in hand with Molly to bid the good, kind old man welcome.

The men inside the house did hear the boy crying Necia's name, his voice was small, and they had to the rear of the store.

Mental Hygiene

The Curative Virtue of Prayer Emphasized by Scientific Investigators—Insanity Increasing Rapidly—Hint to Those Who Grumble—Hygienic Thoughts.

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Copyright, 1908, by American Press Association.

NOW that the healing influence of faith and suggestion is more generally understood and appreciated than was ever the case before scientists are asking themselves if the traditional belief of mankind in the curative power of prayer may not, after all, be justified by the facts of human experience. Many have already answered this question with an emphatic affirmative.

Professor James, the famous psychologist, declares unreservedly that if any medical fact can be considered to stand firm it is that in certain environments prayer may contribute to recovery and should be encouraged as a therapeutic measure. Dr. Richard C. Cabot expresses the same view and adds that every man who prays sincerely will thereby open to himself powers which he might otherwise never be able to draw upon.

Dr. Thomas Hyslop, the head of a great asylum for the insane, in an address delivered before the British Medical association stated that in all his experience he had not found a better cure for insomnia than prayer, which, in his opinion, was unsurpassed as a pacifier of the mind and nerves and as a producer of that mental passivity so essential to the conquest of sleeplessness. Other medical men similarly testify that in cases of severe illness when mental calm and confidence are absolutely indispensable to recovery the best prescription they can offer is earnest, fervent prayer.

Some writers urge the habitual practice of prayer as a means of keeping the bodily organism in perfect health. The explanation of this, as given by Drs. Worcester and McComb, who are scientists as well as clergymen, is that the calm and purified spirit attained by prayer reacts on the nervous organization, restoring its tone and rhythm. It is also a matter of record that innumerable recoveries have been effected by prayer.

Thus the findings of science bear out the teachings of religion and afford impressive evidence to the dynamic, creative virtues of prayer—that is, of course, of prayer in the true and worthy sense, not the kind of prayer of which Jonathan Edwards wrote, "Resolved, Never to count that a prayer, nor to let that pass as a prayer, nor that as a petition of a prayer, which is so made that I cannot hope that God will answer it."

Insanity In America.

The establishment of a chair of psychopathology at Tufts Medical college testifies to the growing appreciation of American physicians in the mental factor in medicine. Psychopathology, translated into everyday English, means the scientific study of the causes and prevention of mental and nervous diseases and their treatment by methods that are primarily psychological rather than physiological.

According to the statistics of the census bureau, our insane asylums had a population of only 40,492 in the year 1880. By 1890 their population had increased to 74,028, and in 1903, when the latest enumeration was made, the asylums of the country held 150,151 inmates. Thus there has practically been a doubling of the asylum population every ten years, and the increase has been far in excess of the increase in the total population of the country. From 1880 to 1890 while the total population increased by about 25 per cent the asylum population increased by 85 per cent and from 1890 to 1903 by more than 100 per cent as against an increase of less than 30 per cent in the total population.

Of course, these ratios do not afford an exact measure for the increase in insanity. Formerly the asylum population was largely confined to acute cases, which is by no means the fact today, since the relatives and friends of the insane, having lost much of the old time prejudice against asylums, send the afflicted to institutions instead of keeping them secluded at home. Moreover, the more humane methods of treatment now in vogue result in the insane living longer.

A Hint to Grumblers.

You may learn to consume your own smoke. The atmosphere is darkened by the murmurings and whimperings of men and women over the nonessentials, the trifles that are inevitably incident to the hurly burly of the day's routine. Things cannot always go your way. Learn to accept in silence the minor aggravations, cultivate the gift of taciturnity and consume your own smoke with an extra draft of hard work, so that those about you may not be annoyed with the dust and soot of your complaints.—William Osler.

Elizabeth Mott of Cleveland, comes Friday to visit friends.

Effect of Fear.

A vigorous young greengrocer, aged twenty-seven, was arrested on a Tuesday on charges of drunkenness and assaulting a policeman, who was assisted in securing him by a Mr. Lyons. On Wednesday it was announced in court that Mr. Lyons was dead, and the greengrocer was remanded to see whether the coroner's jury would hold him in any way responsible for the tragedy. By Saturday it had been found that Mr. Lyons' death was due to heart disease of long standing, but meanwhile the agonizing suspense had aged the young prisoner terribly, his black hair having become completely white.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Sinister Comment.

"That new neighbor of ours asked us to let him use our hatchet and our clothesline," said Sirius Barker's wife.

"Did you give him the hatchet?"

"Yes; the one that has nicks in it and a wabbly handle."

"And did you give him the clothesline that has been tied together in eight places?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's a case of borrowing trouble, all right."—Washington Star.

Russian Princesses.

In Russia the term "princess" does not mean very much, for the simple reason that there are so many of them and that it is never a royal title. All the female descendants of a prince of a certain rank are princesses, and the result is that many princesses are as poor and of as little account as any ill used princess of a fairy tale. The real royal princesses of Russia are styled grand duchesses. They are the daughters and sisters of the czar.

Their Real Duty.

"I was just reading of a man who has a hen that can sing; another man has a hen which whistles and imitates various birds."

"I don't care for those vaudeville hens. A hen should stick to the legit and lay eggs."—Kansas City Journal.

On the Safe Side.

"How do you ever get on so well with your wife? Don't you ever have any differences of opinion?"

"Of couse we do. But I don't let her know it."—Cleveland Leader.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol glycerine, etc makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old obstinate cases it is true cannot be cured in a few days, but absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing calm, cool sensation that come when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing, calm cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instanty upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes affect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment the patient knows at once.

Instead trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportion ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or oil of wintergreen Compound. It is made by D. D. D. Co of Chicago and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits

Woman on the Beach.

Hyman Lazarus, for many years recorder of Bayonne, knew the people who came before him. When a woman appeared to accuse a husband who had beaten her he said, "If I send him to jail you'll come back here tomorrow in tears and ask me to let him out." "No," she said, "I will not. I'd like to have him punished." "How much shall I give him then," asked Lazarus—"two months, one month, six months?" The woman, who had begun to relent, was speechless. "I'll tell you what I'll do," he said. "You come up here and take my chair, and whatever sentence you pronounce will go." The woman hesitated, but the recorder insisted. The husband was arraigned before her, and the recorder in a gruff voice ordered her to pronounce sentence. "Six months, three months, two months, a month—quick," he said; "let us have it." The woman burst into tears. She and her husband embraced and went out of court rejoicing. "There!" said Lazarus. "If you come back I'll give you six months each."—New York Press.

Rhinoceros a Bad Foe.

While easily stalked, the rhinoceros is a dangerous customer, as most men will agree who have hunted him. If the rhinoceros gets one's scent he almost invariably charges, often probably from sheer curiosity, but that does not make him any the easier to dispose of. Moreover, he runs and turns at a speed inconceivable in a beast of his vast bulk. Against his massive, sloping head the heaviest bullet is a mere flea bite, leaving no possibility of a stopping shot except with a hard nose ball sent fairly into the heart through the chest. An alternative is to stand absolutely motionless, when with his bad eyesight there is a possibility he may mistake you for a tree and veer past. Indeed, the best ruse in the crisis of any charge is to stand fast and still, for even the unwounded lion sometimes swerves in his charge and retires before a man who has the nerve to wait his coming.—Edgar Beecher Bronson in Century.

THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

WHO IS JACOB MILLER?

An article appeared in Tuesday's Detroit Free Press under this head and the notice read that a man had been taken to to the hospital in Grand Rapids unconscious and had become conscious just long enough to say that his name was Jacob Miller, when he again lapsed into unconsciousness.

Jacob Miller of Tecumseh, is taking his vacation, and spending a portion of it in the northern part of the state. Friends here became alarmed and phoned to the hospital in Grand Rapids, where the discription given by the authorities of the man, did not exactly our resemble Jacob Miller.

WILLIAM F. SCHOEN.

William F. Schoen died at the home of his parents in Adrian Tuesday evening after six weeks of suffering caused by abscesses which proved to be of a tubercular nature. Mr. Schoen was one of Adrian's prominent young business men and his death is greatly regretted by every one who was associated with him in any way. Besides his parents, he leaves three brothers, Chas., Norman and Elmer. A particularly sad feature of the case is that Mr. Schoen's marriage to Miss Phena Palmer of Ridgeway, was to have been an event of July and their house had been rented in the city. He was an enthusiastic worker in the Y. M. C. A. and was also a member of the Elks. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 standard from the home of his parents, 144 E. Maumee street.

MRS. D. D. WATSON.

Mrs. D. D. Watson died at her home in North Adams Wednesday. Mrs. Watson was formerly Miss Elizabeth McElroy of Tecumseh, and is a sister of Hugh and John McElroy of this place. Beside her husband, she leaves a babe two weeks old. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the home. Burial at North Adams.

Resolutions of the Beors Auxiliary Concerning Mrs. Hannah Pocklington.

Whereas, In the providence of God we have been called upon to part with our dear sister and co-laborer, Mrs. Hannah Pocklington.

Therefore, Resolved that we hereby extend to her daughter and friends our sincere sympathy in this their great affliction and recommend them to Him who alone can dry the mourners tears, fill the aching void and make the wounded spirit whole.

Resolved that in her death the Auxiliary has lost a worthy and useful member and firm supporter of the cause and each one who knew her, a faithful christian friend and though she has not been able to be with us very much we realized that her heart was in the work, always ready and willing to aid what she could and while we miss her and mourn our loss we feel assured that it is better with her.

"Hope has changed to glad fruition Faith to sight and prayer to praise."

Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be placed in hands of the bereaved daughter and also a copy in the Auxiliary.

MRS ANNE GRIDLEY

MOTHER OF CAPTAIN GRIDLEY RETIRES FROM GOVERMENT DUTY

At The Age Of 83, And on Account of Failing Health is Compelled to Give Up Work.

MRS. GRIDLEY WAS FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF TECUMSEH

Mrs. Anne Gridley, mother of Capt. Gridley of Manila bay fame, has resigned her position in the land office. She was appointed to the interior department from Michigan in 1880 and is now 83 years of age. Because of sickness Mrs. Gridley has been absent from her work about three months and concluded that it was not likely she wouldever work again.

This ends the active career of one of Michigan's most conspicuous heroines, who sent her two boys to the fight for the Union, and who as an army nurse braved the dangers at City Point and other great battles.

She resides with her surviving son Lucius E. Gridley, a clerk in the treasury department.

Mrs. Gridley resided in Tecumseh a number of years ago, and visited here only last summer. She is a relative of Mrs. Ed Pritchard, Sr., and was her guest while here.

ADRIAN COMMANDERY NO. 4 K. T. HONORS HOWARD TAYLOR THIS EVENING.

Invitations have been sent out announcing a reception to be given this evening in honor of Howard T. Taylor, who was elected Right Eminent Commander of the state of Michigan at a meeting of the Grand Commandery held in Detroit recently. It is the third time in the history of the local commandery that a member of it has been so honored. The three men who have attained that rank are Dr. Wm. E. Jewett, Hon. W. F. King and Howard T. Taylor. All Sir Knights and their wives will attend, the gentlemen to appear in full uniform. Following the reception there will be refreshments, music and dancing. Atty. F. B. Wood is eminent commander of the commandery and will attend the reception accompanied by Mrs. Wood. A number of others from Tecumseh will attend.

Nest Eggs.

Take a nice fresh egg and separate the white and the yolk so that the yolk will not be broken. Put the white into a bowl, add a pinch of salt and beat it until it is very stiff. Have ready some little bowl that is pretty enough to put on the table, but that will not break in the oven. Pour into this the stiff beaten white and make a little hole in the middle of it with a spoon. In this little hollow place the yolk, still unbroken. Set the dish in a hot oven and cook for three or four minutes, or until the white has browned a little and the yolk is firm. There must be a separate dish for each egg that you cook in this way. Serve right away.—Delineator.

The Very Worst.

Clara (with emotion)—George, are you sure you will always love me?

George (fervently)—While life lasts, my own.

Clara (suppressing a tear)—George, if trials and tribulations should come.

George (amazed)—My heart is yours alone, my love, and always will be.

Clara (sobbing)—George, are you sure, perfectly sure, that nothing—nothing at all—could cool your affection?

George (thoroughly alarmed)—My gracious! What's happened? Has your father failed?

Clara (hysterically) — Worse, far worse!

George (much relieved)—Tell me all, my angel. I can bear it.

Clara (with a heroic effort)—George, I've—I've got a—a boil coming—coming on my nose.—London Tit-Bits.

LIFE 100,000 YEARS AGO.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. To day the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "sufferi ng as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure Sore Lungs, Colds, obstinate Coughs and prevent Pneumonia, its the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00 Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son. Trial bottle free.

BURNED

A BARN ON THE FARM OF DR. HOWELL IN MACON STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

In The Storm Early Yesterday Morning

BURNED TO THE GROUND WITH THE CONTENTS

A large barn on the farm of Dr. Geo. Howell in Macon, was struck by lightning during the storm that passed over this section of the country early this morning, and with the contents was burned to the ground.

Irwin Conklin, a brother of Dr. H. R Conklin of this place, who resides on the farm, and the man who was helping him, were in a shed near the barn when the flash came. They were both stunned, but soon recovered sufficently, to take charge of the team which was frightened.

Mr. Conklin secured a few of the tools but the most of them were burned with the other contents, including grain, wagon, two loads of new hay, and about 15 tons of old hay. Two adjoining sheds were also burned. The barn and contents were insured in the Farmer's Mutual, but the loss is not entirely covered.

Then and Now.

Act I.

Tilkins—How is business, Wilkins?

Wilkins—Can't make it go. At this rate I shall be bankrupt in another month. I don't seem to have any head for business.

Tilkins—No; you haven't. But you have a good start, and if you'll promise to let me run things I'll go in with you as partner.

Wilkins—Done. A friend in need is a friend indeed.

Act II.—Ten Years Later.

Guest—What a magnificent place you have—everything that wealth could buy or heart long for! You have been wonderfully prosperous, Mr. Wilkins.

Mr. Wilkins (sadly)—True, but, after all, I get only half the profits of my great establishment. I tell you, my friend, the mistake of my life was taking a partner.—London Scraps.

Easter Island.

Easter Island is a lonely Pacific islet, forty-seven square miles in area, entirely volcanic and containing several extinct craters, some of which are more than a hundred feet high, discovered by Roggeveen on Easter Sunday, 1722. Little is known concerning the curious remains which have made the island famous. They consist of more than 500 rudely carved stone statues and busts, varying in height from three to seventy feet and said to be portraits of famous men, not idols. There are also hundreds of stone houses on the island, with painted interiors and incised tablets which, strange to say, have never been deciphered. Between 1860 and 1862 the population, by reason of polyandry and emigration, dwindled to 150 souls, and in 1863 most of these were carried off by the Peruvians to work guano. The few inhabitants left are fair haired Polynesians. Since 1888 the island has been a Chilean convict station.—New York Telegram.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER WILL VANISH.

Everybody knows that Hyomei cures catarrh. But there are many sufferers from asthma and hay fever who don't know that Hyomei will give them instant relief and if used regularly permanent cure.

But C. A. Wright & Son know so well what Hyomei will do that he guarantees it to cure catarrh, hay fever and asthma.

Surely its worth a trial on that basis and why people continue to choke and wheeze and spit and hawk and snuffle when a certain cure is at hand is beyond the comprehension of human intelligence.

When you breathe Hyomei deep into your lungs you breathe exactly the same pleasant antiseptic balmy air that you would breathe in the forests of pine and eucalyptus of inland Australia.

"Doctoring and remedies never helped my hay fever, till I used Hyomei. It gave me great relief, and has my endorsement."—Louis A. Grobe, Flint, Mich.

Complete Hyomei outfit is only $1.00, and extra bottles 50 cents. A Hyomei outfit consists of a bottle of Hyomei, a hard rubber inhaler, medicine dropper and full instructions for use. Just breathe it in and get immediate relief.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

The average man no sooner does a kind act than he begins to feel big over it.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. It sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives Why not try Foley's Orino Lazative today? ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

The Model Army of the World.

What army was the strongest of its time? Judging by results, the Roman army was so from the fifth century B. C. onward until the division of the empire. Its fighting organization was as complete as and possibly more practical than that of any army of today. It was based on a territorial system which maintained the comradeship of locality without bringing it into antagonism with that of the corps, for each of the thirty-five Roman "tribes" was required to furnish to each legion four "centuries" of 120 men, each of which worked together as a local unit. The legion was divided into five cohorts or battalions, of which three were troops of the line, two were a kind of militia and the fifth was a depot battalion. For almost eight centuries the army thus constituted not only conquered the then known world, but acted as explorers beyond its limits and at the same time made and unmade kings and emperors in Rome itself.—Pearson's Weekly.

Too Well Done.

Mrs. Eliphalet Howe of Centerville had never encountered "Hamlet" either in the pursuit of literature or on the stage up to the time of her first visit to her Boston niece. On that occasion she was taken by the niece and her husband to see a performance of the play.

"How did you like it, Aunt Jane?" asked her nephew-in-law as he piloted the old lady up the aisle by her elbow when the performance was over.

"If that's what you call a 'play,' I call it hard work," said Aunt Jane indignantly. "How you and Nettie can sit calm in your seats and see such heartless doings is beyond me. Why, that Hamlet man looked so sick I shouldn't have been surprised if he hadn't lived to finish out his talking. And by the expression of those other folks I'll venture to say they felt the same. I had my smelling salts all ready in case o' need from the first minute he came on to the platform."

The Finicky Humor of Leschetizky.

Some amusing stories are told of Leschetizky, the great piano teacher, whose comic spirit is one of the predominating features of his character. It is well known that he is a man of strong likes and dislikes. When an American pianist a dozen or so years ago went to Vienna to study with him he wore his hair long, a habit much affected at that time by the aspiring young artist. So greatly did his general appearance annoy the professor that at the end of the first lesson the student received instructions to go and have his hair cut short. Although loath to part with his locks, the young pianist nevertheless obeyed and turned up at the next lesson with his hair cut in the conventional way. Still Leschetizky was not satisfied. "There is something about you that I don't like!" cried the professor. "Your ears are too long. Have them cut off and let your hair grow again!"—Smith's Magazine.

Electrical Discharges From Plants.

The atmosphere surrounding our earth is known to be electrified, and its charges are bound to play an important part in many phenomena. Atmospheric electrification thus is responsible for the formation of rain and hail, and, while fine weather generally is characterized by the presence of positive electricity, a change in the weather is generally accompanied by a change in the sign of atmospheric electricity. That the electrification of the air does exert some influence on plant growth is inferred from the fact that electrified plants, under the influence of sunshine, can give off electricity from the leaves, and as the air is naturally electrified relatively to the soil all plants are bound to be in a constant state of slow electrical discharge which is made active on the rising of the sun.—Technical World Magazine.

Helped Out.

A grocery clerk in a small town had been considerably bored one day by solicitors for church fairs, raffles, charity and other purposes and was getting disgusted when a small, red haired urchin came in and asked him if he could help him out with a baseball glove.

"Got the glove with you?" asked the impatient clerk.

"Er—no," answered the urchin.

"Then," said the irritable clerk as he caught him by the neck and trousers, "I'll help you out without it!"—Judge.

In a Dilemma.

"A necklace of diamonds has been stolen from me!" said Mrs. Cumrox.

"Aren't you going to notify the police?"

"I don't know what to do. It does seem rather classy to be robbed of jewelry, and yet I hate to have people think that I'd ever miss a little thing like a necklace."—Washington Star.

Exclusive.

"Where do the Hottentots live, Mary?" a schoolteacher asked one of her pupils.

"I don't know, 'm," said Mary primly. "Ma won't let me visit any of the people in this neghborhood."

The Echo.

A little boy was amusing himself by hallooing, then listening for the echo. "What is the echo, mamma?" he asked. His mother attempted to explain, feeling all the while how inadequate her explanation was. The little fellow trotted along at her side, silent for some minutes. Then his eyes fell upon his shadow.

"Oh, I know what echo is," he exclaimed joyfully. "It's the shadow of our voices."—Los Angeles Times.

A Palpable Hit.

"Now, sir," demanded counsel for the defendant, "tell us what time this alleged robbery took place."

"You had better ask your client," retorted the plaintiff. "He had my watch!"

Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc., are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent one?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take.

It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannan, of Alvarado, Va., Mrs. K. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky., and numerous others; in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., as Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, of that place, writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 506 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn body wrinkles back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and forego of this detestable disease.

In Germany, with a Chemist in the City of Dalmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully tested many cases of Rheumatism; but now, as last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

CALUMET Baking Powder

Received
Highest Award
World's Pure Food Exposition
Chicago, November, 1907

What does this mean?

It means that Calumet has set a new Standard in Baking Powder—the standard of the World.

Because this award was given to Calumet after thorough tests and experiments, over all other baking powders.

It means that Calumet is the best baking powder in every particular in the world.

And this means that Calumet produces the best, most delicious, lightest, and purest baking of all baking powders.

Doesn't that mean everything to you?

STATE OF MICHIGAN, county of Lenawee ss. Probate court for said county.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on the 21st day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

Present, Hon. Harry L. Larwill, judge of probate.

In the matter of the estate of JOHN R HIALEY, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of MARY R. HIALEY, administratrix upon said estate, praying that she may be permitted to resign said trust; that her final account may be approved and allowed, that some suitable person may be appointed administrator de bonis non upon said estate, and for such other and further order as to the court shall seem proper;

It is ordered that Monday, the 26th day of July next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition.

And it is further ordered, that a copy of this order be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

HARRY L. LARWILL,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.
E. I. Larwill, probate register.

One of Edison's Jokes.

Edison was always a great joke player. Those ones he seemed to enjoy most were like the one he worked on one of the laziest operators in the office where he was once employed. One night, when this fellow thought his day's work was over and was getting ready to go home, Edison slipped around to the office switchboard, made a connection with the lazy fellow's telegraph key, called him down to the table and, supplied with an old newspaper, proceeded to send Mr. Lazy a long lot of presumably Associated Press stuff from New York. Edison was a lightning sender (as well as receiver) from almost the beginning of his career, and the way he made that slow work for two solid hours was a joke. After wearing him completely out, making him receive and copy the equivalent of about three or four newspaper columns, Edison suddenly came from behind the switchboard, exposed the joke to the poor fellow and wound up by pelting him on the nose with the newspaper he had been sending from.—Pearson's.

Scolded and Comforted.

At a lunch given in his honor Sven Hedin read an amusing letter written to him by Alfred Nobel at a time when Hedin was still a student, but already filled with a longing to explore unknown Asia. He applied to the government for funds, but the answer was so slow in coming that he wrote to Nobel, who promptly replied: "I take no interest in these geographical exploration trips. In fact, I regard them as an anachronism. Men communicate with each other today from one end of the earth to the other by means of telegraph and post. There are in Asia, too, explorers and savants who are surely better qualified than you, sir, to study and describe their native country. I therefore believe that you could make better use of your ambitious impulses than by undertaking trips to Asia. But in order that you may see that I do not always act as I think I send you a sum which may serve as the best confutation of my own convictions."

Squandering Ability.

Doing the lower when the higher is possible constitutes one of the greatest tragedies of human life. The squandering of money seems a wicked thing when we think of the good that might be done with it. But what about the wicked waste of ability, the deliberate throwing away of 50, 75, perhaps 90 per cent of one's success possibly just because he never trained himself to use it, to grasp it with such vigor and power that he can fling his life into his career with its maximum effectiveness? Most people take hold of life with the tips of their fingers. They never get hold of the life proposition with that grip and tenacity of purpose and vigor of determination which do things worth while. They just hang on the outskirts of things, playing upon the surface of their possibilities without ever getting down into the marrow of their being, where efficiency and power dwell.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

Hope.

"Hope," remarked the mere man, "is certainly a wonderful thing."

"It is," rejoined the wise woman. "Why, one little nibble will keep my husband fishing all day."—Chicago News.

Advice.

"Can I offer you a little friendly advice?"

"If you take a little in return."

Here negotiations ceased.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Daring Betting.

During the close of the eighteenth century the craze for gambling in England rose to an extreme. At certain notorious clubs every incident was made the subject of a wager, and thousands changed hands over the veriest trifle. A certain Mr. Blake made himself notorious by betting £1,500 that a man could live twelve hours under water. He hired a daring fellow, and, purchasing an old ship, they were sunk together by way of settling the bet. Neither ship nor man reappeared, so Mr. Blake had to pay up. The famous Earl of Carlisle once staked £5,000 on a single card at faro. On one occasion at Brooks', another noted gambling club, Lord Robert Spencer lost the last shilling of the fortune which he had obtained from his brother, the Duke of Marlborough, and General Fitzpatrick was in the same condition. The twain combined, and, borrowing a sum of money, they opened a faro bank. They had a run of luck, and Lord Spencer's share of the proceeds came to £100,000. He pocketed this cash and never gambled again.—London Tatler.

One Block of Sightseeing.

It was on East Eleventh street that the sightseeing wagon started. Anxious mothers placed their very small children in it, then stood anxiously watching the youngsters for fear they would fall out, in spite of the fact that the wagon was very low and drawn by a little white pony, who went along in a walk. A man walked beside the wagon. A small boy on the front seat drove, holding the reins in a slack way and chatting with a small child by his side.

"How much do you charge them for a ride?" asked a woman on the sidewalk.

"One cent," said the man.

"And how far do you go?" she asked.

"Just up and down the block," said the man. "Afraid to go any further—afraid I'll lose them."

The woman counted the children, sixteen. Sixteen cents for going up and down the block.

"There are a lot of little ways of earning a living on the east side," she said.—New York Press.

The Boatswain's Judgment.

It was somewhere in this wide, wide world, just where has slipped my mind, and they were about to buy beef on hoof for the ships. So the officer whose duty it is to make the purchase took ashore with him the bo's'n, as representing the crew, to look over the animals and either object or not. They approached the first animal.

"How will that do?" asked the officer.

The bo's'n cautiously approached the beast, bent down and gingerly ran his thumb and forefinger down first one shank and then the other until the whole four shanks had been examined. Straightening up he said:

"He'll do all right, sir."

The officer, flabbergasted, cried:

"But, dash it all, you can't tell the good points of a bullock by the shanks!"

"Perhaps not, sir, but they're the only parts we ever gets, sir," was the reply.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A German Holiday.

At Haslach, in the Kinzig valley, in Germany, Feb. 22 is a holiday and has been observed as one for hundreds of years. Once upon a time, the story teller who explains its origin begins, Haslach was overrun with snakes, and no one knew how to drive them out. One day a great flock of storks appeared, and they were the saviors of the place. In recognition of this deliverance from the pest, which occurred on Feb. 22, the day has been kept sacred and is known as "stork day." An appointed official known as the "stork father" parades the streets, followed by as many children as care to join the procession. He wears his "Sunday clothes" and a high hat decorated with two stuffed storks. Stops are made by this procession at houses along the line, and the children receive gifts of sweets and small coins, every householder feeling pleased to show his gratitude to the stork.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. The Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator built on the most sanitary principles that can be devised

appeals to all housekeepers at first glance. The reason is that it looks exactly as we say it is. It looks easily cleanable and a brief demonstration proves that it is easily cleanable. It looks cool and an explanation of its air cooling principles speedily convinces that it is cool and that it saves ice. It looks solid and durable and a careful scrutiny reveals that it is all that and more.

We guarantee the Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator to absolutely satisfy the most critical buyer. If it doesn't, we'll take it back. 25 years of refrigerator building experience have made the makers experts. No better refrigerator could be built. Please come in real soon—tomorrow say—and see how truthfully we have set forth its merits.

NUMEROUS ACCIDENTS

Customary Reports Recorded Following the Fourth.

GALA DAY IN MICHIGAN

Explosions of Gas Pipe Cannons, Pistols and Fireworks Claim Many Victims—Bay City Begins Week of Entertainment—Prisoners at Jackson Had Good Time.

Alpena, Mich., July 6.—Accidents attendant on the Independence day celebration began here when William Drag, ten years old, was hit in the abdomen with a pebble which punctured the peritonium and two intestines. He is in a precarious condition at his home.

A cracker blew off the right hand of John Belmore, and Annie Heyton, six years old, had her right hand burned so that fingers may be amputated.

Five other minor accidents happened here.

Gas Pipe Explodes; Three Hurt.

Cadillac, Mich., July 6.—Hal Grieve of Eldola, Ia., visiting here, and Henry Ballou and Willis Cornwall, both of this city, are in Mercy hospital suffering from burns on face, neck, arms and hands as a result of premature explosion of an improvised cannon made of gas pipe. Physicians say none are seriously burned.

Shoots Hole in Hand.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 6.—Local officials are unanimous in pronouncing this the sanest Fourth of July in the history of the city. There were numerous small accident, but only one that was of any consequence.

Richard Ryskamp, seven years old, shot a hole through the palm of his left hand with a toy pistol. The gun was loaded with a blank cartridge, but the wadding was forced through his hand.

Big Blaze at Farmington.

Farmington, Mich., July 5.—Fire for a time Monday threatened to wipe out the entire village when firecrackers started a small blaze in a barn owned by Adam Custer. The flames spread quickly and jumped to the home of Thomas Sowle adjoining. This structure was totally destroyed. They then communicated with the home of Custer, and this was badly damaged also.

The timely work of the fire brigade and the volunteer farmers from this section checked the spread of the flames and probably saved the town.

Homecoming at Bay City.

Bay City, Mich., July 6.—Monday was the first day of a weeks homecoming celebration. The city entertained several thousand guests, former residents, and more are arriving on every train.

The celebration commemorates the fiftieth year in the history of Bay City since it was incorporated as a village. A special effort has been made to get together all the living pioneers of this end of Saginaw valley. A silver cup is to be given to the oldest resident in attendance.

Bellevue Has Threatening Fire.

Bellevue, Mich., July 6.—The grocery store of Eugene Mason caught fire late Monday afternoon, and before the flames were extinguished several hundred dollars damage was done. The cause is unknown, but it is believed a firecracker started it.

Accidentally Shot His Mother.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 6.—While celebrating the Fourth of July by firing a 22 caliber revolver from a window in his room, David Foster, sixteen years old, accidentally shot his mother in the shoulder. The woman was in the back yard, working in her garden. Mrs. Foster was taken to University hospital, and the physicians say she will recover.

Prisoners Celebrate.

Jackson, Mich., July 6.—Independence day was celebrated within the walls of the state prison Monday, and every prisoner not unlucky enough to be locked in his cell for some misdemeanor participated.

There was refreshments on hand all day. A ball game was played, and at noon there was a special dinner.

Probably Lose His Eyesight.

Marshall, Mich., July 6.—Cassius Carpenter, sixteen years old, stooped over a cannon cracker to see why it didn't explode Monday, and received the discharge in the face. He will probably lose the sight of both eyes.

Sane Fourth in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—This city enjoyed an exceptionally sane Fourth of July. Not a single death has been recorded. True, there were many minor accidents, but nothing serious. The fire departments had numerous calls, but in each case the flames were speedily checked. Thousands from the country around paid the city a visit and enjoyed the numerous attractions

Gets Bullet in Neck.

Durand, Mich., July 6.—Mrs. H. A. Dennis, wife of a merchant tailor, was shot in the neck with a 22 caliber rifle Monday by Clarence Mates, undertaker. The latter was in the road, celebrating with a rifle, when one of the bullets glanced and hit the woman, who was sitting on her veranda. She was but slightly injured.

May Lose a Leg.

West Branch, Mich., July 6.—Kenith Merrill, ten ears old, son of H. G. Merrill, a dry goods merchant of this city, was injured Monday, when a bunch of large firecrackers exploded in his pocket. The flesh was torn from his leg near the hip, and doctors are afraid the limb will have to be amputated.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Davis Scott, ninety-one years old, the oldest Mason in Calhoun county, dropped dead while he was eating his dinner. He had been a resident of Marshall for many years.

The body of a middle aged man, poorly dressed, has been picked up in the river at Algonac. It had evidently been in the water about a month. The man was gray-haired, but there was nothing in his clothes to identify him.

S. M. Thomas, the Pere Marquette agent at Brighton, was badly injured while assisting firemen fighting a blaze which almost destroyed the home of Eugene Hicks. A falling chimney struck Thomas on the head.

M. F. Myers of Flint, whose wife alleges he deserted her and her four children four years ago, and who was arrested in Chicago, was brought back, but a reconciliation was effected, and the man will not be prosecuted.

The four-year-old son of William Ross of Owosso rode a bicycle in front of a horse and was knocked down and severely bruised. His neck was cut by one of the wheels and his chest crushed with the other. It is believed he will recover.

Carl Speaker, pitcher for Hastings last season and well known throughout the state, was arrested at his home in Lowell, charged with jumping a board bill of $43 at Hayes House in Detroit. Speaker paid $19 costs and $6 on the bill. He was given several days to raise the balance.

SENATE BUSY ALL DAY.

Put in the Fourth Working on Tariff Bill.

Washington, July 6.—The Fourth of July was the senate's "busy day." From 10 o'clock in the morning until 5:35 o'clock in the afternoon the senators labored.

The day was devoted in the main to the consideration of the administrative provisions of the tariff bill and to the Brown resolution providing for the submission of the question of income tax to the legislatures of the various states, which, while not a part of the tariff bill, is so related to it as to have made it necessary to consider it in connection with the bill. The best fight of the day was made by Senator Rayner against the customs court feature of the administrative amendment.

He undertook to puncture the provision, and he made a long speech in which he set forth with much emphasis the declaration that the court would be found to be unconstitutional.

Aeronaut Plunges to Death.

Portland, Me., July 6.—James Corcoran, an aeronaut, twenty-eight years old, of Lowell, Mass., cut loose with his parachute when but a few hundred feet from the earth at the Fourth of July celebration here and was dashed to the ground, meeting almost instant death at the feet of 5,000 horrified spectators.

KETCHEL IS THE CHAMPION

Battle With Papke Goes Limit In 'Frisco Ring.

BOTH FOUGHT VICIOUSLY

Michigan Boy Broke Right Hand in Sixth Round—Believes He Would Have Made Short Work of Papke Had It Not Been For Accident—Latter Wants to Fight Again.

Arena, San Francisco, July 6.—Stanley Ketchel of Michigan is still the world's middleweight champion. In a desperate, gruelling battle, during which the champion was constantly on the aggressive, he was awarded the decision over Billy Papke of Illinois at the end of the twentieth round, the scheduled number. Ketchel claimed to have broken his right hand in the sixth round, and this assertion subsequently was verified. His left thumb also was dislocated. The decision of the referee was greeted with a mixture of cheers and hoots.

As to the fight itself, the "assassin," as Ketchel has been christened by ring followers, bade fair, literally, to live up to this name. He forced the fighting from the tap of the initial gong and, with the exception of the third round, enjoyed a clear lead in the first half of the battle. In the eleventh round Ketchel landed time and again with ponderous lefts, but, try as he would, he could not find a vital place. Both men were bleeding freely at this stage of the battle, Papke in particular spouting blood from his mouth and nose until the center of the ring resembled a shambles.

The feature of the fight was the extreme viciousness with which both men fought and the apparent hatred that lurked behind every punch.

When seen in his dressing room Ketchel gave out this statement:

"I broke my right hand in the sixth round, and later, in the eighth round, I believe, I dislocated my left thumb. But for these mishaps I would have made short work of Papke. I could not hit effectively when the opportunity came, and particularly in the tenth round. I will be only too glad to give Papke another chance."

Ed Papke, brother-manager of the defeated pugilist, minced no words in showing his displeasure over the decision. He said that Papke should have been given the decision, or a draw. The defeated pugilist said he would fight Ketchel at any time.

WILL GO TO KING.

Suffragettes Again Refused Audience With Premier Asquith.

London, July 6.—A deputation from the Women's Freedom league presented itself at the entrance to parliament last night and renewed the demand for an audience with Premier Asquith to discuss the suffrage question, claiming the right to such an interview under a statute of Charles II. The premier again declined to receive the deputation, and the league is now determined to seek an audience with the king at Buckingham palace on Thursday.

Six Burned to Death.

South Boston, Va., July 6.—As the result of a mysterious fire which totally destroyed the home of S. F. Hamlett at South Boston, five of their children and H. A. Strang, aged seventy-four, were burned to death.

C. G. Staffo[illegible] of Eureka, Cal., was run down by N. F. Silva and instantly killed in the seventh race of an automobile meet at the race track at Oakland, Cal. Silva's car was upset, turning over twice, falling on the driver and breaking his nose. Staffords neck was broken. He attempted to cross the track in front of the racers.

MONTCALM'S VICTORY

Reproduction of His Cross Raised at Fort Ticonderoga.

Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y., July 6.—Under the auspices of the Ticonderoga Historical society, at Fort Ticonderoga, Monday, a reproduction of the cross raised by General Montcalm on July 9, 1758, in honor of his victory over the British General Abercromble, was raised with impressive ceremonies by representatives of the French-American societies and French-Canadian societies.

The religious ceremony was conducted by the venerable Father F. X. Chagnon, chaplain emeritus of the union of St. Jeanne Baptiste of America. Delegates from Boston, Chicago, Quebec, Montreal, Fall River, Mass., and other points were present.

REGATTA ENDS FATALLY.

Boat Crew Thrown Into Water, and One Is Drowned.

Boston, July 6.—An accident and a fatality attended a championship regatta of the New England Amateur Rowing association late Monday. Edward Morley, an eighteen-year-old boy, rowing No. 3 in the St. Alphonsus eight oared junior crew of Roxbury, Mass., was drowned while clinging to a tow rope to which he had been helped by two boatmates after their shell had capsized. Meanwhile the five other boats' crews which had been contesting in the junior eight oared race, the last event of the regatta, were struggling in the water, two others swamping before reaching the line and three others after reaching it.

During the mile and a half race the St. Alphonsus crew was thrown into the water. In running to the assistance of the St. Alphonsus shell a steam launch struck her amidships, cutting the shell in two. Morley was unable to swim, so two of his fellow oarsmen supported him to the launch, where he caught hold of a tow line. Then they returned for another oarsman to help him aboard. In the meantime, Morley, clinging to the end of the rope, was drowned.

CANNON EXPLODED.

Piece of It Kills Woman and Her Six-weeks'-old Infant.

Camden, N. J., July 6.—During a celebration at Reservoir park a cannon exploded, a piece of which killed Mrs. Emma Hebel, aged twenty-five years, and her six-weeks'-old infant. Both of their skulls were crushed. Charles Nullian, aged seventeen years, had the top of his head torn off and cannot live.

The cannon was in charge of George Houser, aged nineteen years. He was badly injured about the body and had one arm horribly mangled.

PITTSBURG'S TOLL.

Many Were Burned, Several Maimed, During Fourth Celebration.

Pittsburg, July 6.—One hundred and eighteen scorched fingers, seventy-one maimed arms and three burned eyes is the toll paid by young America in Greater Pittsburg for the Independence day celebration.

The police reported no serious accidents or fires. One of the features of the day was the unfurling of what is said to be the largest American flag in the world, the bunting measuring 80x160 feet and weighing 1,200 pounds. The immense emblem was unfurled from the eleventh floor of the Frick building to the courthouse tower.

Honolulu Celebrates.

Honolulu, July 6.—A parade held Monday in celebration of the Fourth of July was the largest ever seen in Honolulu. Major Samuel W. Dunning of the Twentieth infantry, a portion of which is stationed here, was in command of the column, which was reviewed by Governor Frear as it passed the capitol.

What They Did In London.

London, July 6.—The Japanese ambassador to Great Britain, Count Takahira Kato, and Lieutnenat E. H. Shackleton, the noted Antartic explorer, were the guests of honor at the dinner given last night by the American Society of London. George A. Mower, president of the society, was in the chair, and 350 Americans, with numerous English guests, were present.

TRIAL POSTPONED.

Case of Alleged Band of "Night Riders" Likely to Be Delayed Until Fall.

Union City, Tenn., July 6.—It is probable that the trial of the fifty-six men now under indictment charged with being member of the Reelfoot lake band of "Night Riders" will not take place until next fall.

The cases were set for Monday, but after a conference with his associates Attorney General Caldwell said he had decided to ask the court to postpone the trial. The attorney general said personally he wished to dismiss the indictments in view of the decision of the supreme court last Saturday, but his associates urged him to ask for a continuance.

HURRYING MATTERS ALONG.

Wrights Do Not Want to Ask For an Extension of Time.

Washington, July 6.—Wilbur Wright, assisted by Taylor, his chief mechanic, is working vigorously in the aeroplane shed at Fort Myer, endeavoring to get as much of the damaged aeroplane repaired as possible before the return of Orville from Dayton with the cloth which is needed to mend the torn plane.

The Wrights do not want to ask for a further extension of the time in which they must complete the government tests and for that reason are making every effort to resume the flights at Fort Myer by Thursday or Friday next.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Tennyson Centenary

Part First—Alfred Tennyson, the Prophet and Mystic—His Similarity to Dante. "The Noblest Poet".....

By James A. Edgerton

Copyright, 1909, by the American Press Association

YOUNG TENNYSON LOOKED LIKE DANTE.

THE soul of Dante in an English body, a prophet and mystic translated to the nineteenth century, a divine singer setting his music to the whirring of wheels and to modern science, an artist in words who still was a thinker, a painter, a musician and a lover of man—all these and much more was Alfred Tennyson.

Tennyson was the first poet I ever deeply loved. It was his "Locksley Hall," with its vision of peace, of progress and of a world's republic, that caught me as a boy. After nearly a quarter of a century I return to him with my love increased. Other poets I have loved also, and with some the charm has waned with the years. I do not mean to say that Tennyson is the greatest of the list. "The stars differ in glory." One can no more compare poets than he can compare flowers or sunsets or anything else that partakes of the divine and the beautiful and is the perfect statement of itself. Comparison does injustice to both objects. Each soul has its own standard, God implanted, and cannot be judged by another or measured in terms of another. I do say this: Alfred Tennyson touched some heights and depths never touched by any other poet to my knowledge.

ALFRED TENNYSON.
[Born Aug. 6, 1809; Died Oct. 6, 1892.]

He was a combination of spirituality and intellect, of love and wisdom, of mysticism and common sense, of genius and Christian character, of outward melancholy and inward joy, of noble and lofty elements both as a poet and as a man, that will make him a living influence in the world until the ushering in of "the golden year" of which he sang.

As I have studied Tennyson I have been struck more and more by his similarity to Dante. This is not in the way of comparison, but of a striking parallel. The likeness between the author of the "Divine Comedy" and the British laureate extended even to their faces. Tennyson looked more like an Italian than an Englishman. The frontispiece of the "Memoir of Lord Tennyson," written by his son, represents the poet in young manhood. The face is beardless and is shown in profile. The resemblance to Dante is striking. The parallel is still more apparent in the characters of the two men and in their writings. The same melancholy, the ideal love and the spiritual insight are found in both. They even had like views on political questions. Their religion was the same in spirit and varied only in form to suit the ages in which they lived. It was the difference between the night of the middle ages and the dawn breaking over the world in the nineteenth century.

Tennyson said his "In Memoriam" was a sort of "Divina Commedia" ending in happiness. In both poems was represented the same idealized love—Dante for a girl to whom he had never spoken, Tennyson for a man who had not lived to take his part in the world's work.

Bayard Taylor saw something of the outward resemblance of the two men when he wrote the following description of Tennyson:

> I had not been two minutes in the drawing room before Tennyson walked in. So unlike are the published portraits of him that I was almost in doubt as to his identity. The engraved heads suggest a moderate stature, but he is tall and broad shouldered as a son of Anak, with hair, beard and eyes of southern darkness. Something in the lofty brow and aquiline nose suggests Dante, but such a deep mellow chest voice never could have come from Italian lungs.

The finest delineation of Tennyson, both inwardly and outwardly, is by Thomas Carlyle. Carlyle looked into the souls of men. He was the first that ever saw the soul of Oliver Cromwell. He has perhaps never had an equal in sketching character. He got at the essential part of his subject. When Carlyle aimed at the character target he did not shoot in the outer circles, but rang the bell. He knew Tennyson and liked everything about him except his poetry—thought he ought to write prose; there he would be great. This is the way he set down his impressions of the laureate:

> Alfred is one of the few British and foreign figures (a not increasing number, I think) who are and remain beautiful to me, a true human soul or some authentic approximation thereto, to whom your own soul can say "Brother!" * * * one of the finest looking men in the world; a great shock of rough, dusky, dark hair; bright, laughing, hazel eyes; massive aquiline nose, most massive, yet most delicate; of sallow, brown complexion, almost Indian looking; clothes cynically loose, free and easy; smokes infinite tobacco. His voice is musical, metallic, fit for loud laughter and piercing wail and all that may lie between; speech and speculation free and plenteous. I do not meet in these late decades such company over a pipe. We shall see what he will grow to.

Yes, indeed, we have seen what he has grown to, or, rather, we have seen as much as we are able. It will take some centuries to get Alfred Tennyson's full size.

Tennyson was born in that wonderful natal year 1809, that ushered into this world so many of the immortals—Lincoln, Gladstone, Darwin, Poe, Fitzgerald, Holmes, Chopin, Mendelssohn and many more. The centenary of the English laureate will be celebrated on Aug. 6. He had not much outward history, and his inner history is written in his poems. He knew most of the great men of his day and was loved by them. He had a university education and began writing while still in school. Before he was forty he had taken the position of the premier poet of the English speaking world, a station he held until the end of his long life. In his later years he consented, much against his will, to being made a lord, a title that added to him no honor. The world is full of lords, most of them sorry enough figures, but a Tennyson is born only once in the history of a race. His father was a preacher, which fact gives the lie to the popular adage about ministers' sons. He came of good family, but was big enough in himself not to need that extraneous help. He never had much money, according to modern standards of wealth, his riches having been of the internal and real variety. He was nothing of the dilettante, but a very robust man, breezy, given to much walking, some humor, a vast amount of smoking and other things that go to make up a whole man. His was a composite nature, containing good, strong veins both of optimism and pessimism.

He was a free soul, but respected the conventions; he faced to the future, but revered the past; he was constructive, too broad for party or sect, too tall of soul to be fretted by pettiness in others; best of all, he was never ignoble, his songs ever ringing true to the highest in our natures. Withal he was a kingly soul who would have been marked in any age or clime. He was a combination of the genius and good man, a thing that the world regards as rare only because it does not understand genius.

Tennyson was much of a prophet, as are all poets who are worthy of that high name. In a large way he foretold the airship, The Hague peace congress and even the new woman. Vaguely he forecast the theosophic movement, his poems containing more than one hint of a belief in reincarnation. He was charged with being an artist, but a mere artist would never have seen so deeply nor so far. Art with him was only an accompaniment. He had the form, but also the substance. He was a master of words, but his words said something. His vessels of speech were highly polished, but were well filled. His lines jingle and sing, but a man cannot read him without doing some robust thinking.

Tennyson's verse is not so jerky as Browning's, not so materialistic and unmoral as Omar's—or are they Fitzgerald's?—and not so didactic as Longfellow's. He wanted the cosmic spirit and democratic outlook of Whitman, had little sympathy with republican institutions and became somewhat of a reactionary in his old age. Yet his very lacks were an essential part of his character and rang true to his philosophy. We forgive them for that reason. He was not obscure. What he said was uttered with clearness and force, with melody and light. He did not fail to point a moral because he refrained from obtruding it on the view. He was an aristocrat, but his was the aristocracy of noble minds.

What I love most about Tennyson is his Dante-esque spirituality. He saw the other side of things, saw it as no other poet has seen it. I cannot refrain here from quoting Edgar Allan Poe's estimate of him. Some one has remarked it takes a poet to read a poet. Poe was not only a poet, but the keenest critic perhaps that has appeared in America. Of Tennyson he said:

> In perfect sincerity I regard him as the noblest poet that ever lived. I call him and think him the noblest of poets not because the impressions he produces are at all times the most profound, not because the poetical excitement which he induces is at all times the most intense, but because it is at all times the most ethereal—in other words, the most elevating and the most pure. No poet is so little of the earth earthy.

In this connection let me quote one of Tennyson's poems that seems little known. To me it makes a powerful appeal because it reveals so deep an insight into things little known in the western world. It shows the far advancement of his soul as do few other gems from his pen. It is entitled "The Mystic." I give but a few lines from the beginning and the end:

> Angels have talked with him and showed him throes,
> Ye knew him not; he was not one of ye.
> Ye scorned him with an undiscerning scorn.
> Ye could not read the marvel in his eye,
> The still serene abstraction. He hath felt
> The vanities of after and before,
> Albeit, his spirit and his secret heart
> The stern experiences of converse lives,
> The linked woes of many a fiery change
> Had purified and chastened and made free.
>
> * * * * * * *
> How could ye know him? Ye were yet within
> The narrower circle. He had well nigh reached
> The last, which with a region of white flame,
> Pure without heat, into a larger air
> Upburning and an ether of black blue
> Investeth and engirds all other lives.

This element in the English laureate has puzzled his critics, but for the most part they have evaded it by calling it poetic fancy. How could they know him? They were yet within the narrower circle.

HE DID A VAST AMOUNT OF SMOKING.

May he not have seen things of which they did not dream? What do we know of life, after all, that we should dismiss the visions of the seers as "poetic fancy?"

I have introduced this feature of the great poet because it has been neglected and because to me it seems vital in a proper interpretation of the man. Truly he was least "of the earth earthy." Here is the real Tennyson, the highest phase of his many sided genius. Of his imperialistic leanings and old age pessimism, we can dismiss them as the dross. Here is the pure gold of the man. Here, in his glimpses of unexplored realms, where "God's glory smote him on the face," he excelled all other poets, and I had well nigh said all other writers. That were to praise him overmuch. It is not needed. The simple truth is enough. The spiritual quality of Tennyson's poetry is its chief glory.

A Mistaken Uniform.

Uniformed officials are often a puzzle to American travelers. An instance of this is given in "Recollections of a Varied Career," by General W. F. Draper, formerly American ambassador to Italy. General and Mrs. Draper were traveling in Russia when they had the following amusing experience in the sleeping car:

Mrs. Draper's maid, Marie, speaks German as well as French, but Russian is beyond her. After Mrs. Draper's bed was made she desired another pillow, and Marie rushed into the corridor to get one. Seeing a man in uniform—the railway porters wear uniforms—she demanded a pillow in German.

"I have no pillows," said he.

"A bolster, then," said Marie.

"I have no bolster."

"Then give me a couple of towels to wrap up one of these dirty cushions."

"I have no towels either," said the uniform. "I am a colonel in his majesty's imperial guard."

Poor Marie nearly went into hysterics, and I was called in to explain that no offense was meant.

Two Points of View.

They were looking at a portrait of Catherine of Russia.

Said the man, "What a remarkably strong and vigorous face she has!"

Said the woman, "I wonder if her hair waved naturally."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mental Hygiene

New Method of Treating Nervous and Mental Disorders—Deep Breathing Conducive to Health. Trained Nurse of the Future. Hygienic Thoughts.

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

EVERYBODY knows that before a disease can be permanently cured its cause must be discovered and rooted out. And everybody, or at all events every doctor, knows that this is no easy matter. It is especially difficult, says a recent observer, in the cure of nervous and mental maladies, which are often the result of some comparatively trivial occurrence long forgotten by the patient, but persisting as a "subconscious" memory and bringing about most disastrous results.

For example, a lady living in Boston, a prominent society leader, gradually developed a strong disinclination to go outdoors. She could not explain why this was, but as time passed the desire to stay at home grew upon her until at last she became almost a recluse. Whenever she did go out she insisted upon being accompanied by a friend or an attendant.

Fearing that she was losing her mind, her relatives took her to a specialist, who at once recognized that she was suffering from the effects of some forgotten mental shock. To ascertain its exact nature he made use of a distinctly modern method known as "hypnoidization," which is thus described by its inventor, Dr. Boris Sidis:

"The patient is asked to close his eyes and keep as quiet as possible without, however, making any special effort to put himself in such a state. He is then asked to attend to some stimulus, such as reading or singing or to the monotonous beats of a metronome. When the reading is over the patient, with his eyes shut, is asked to repeat it and tell what comes into his mind during the reading or during the repetition or immediately after it.

"Childish as this process sounds, it is remarkably successful in bringing to the surface of consciousness memories that have long been consciously forgotten, but knowledge of which may be essential to the successful treatment of mental disturbances like that from which the lady in question suffered. In her case the method of hypnoidization enabled the specialist to trace the trouble directly back to the shock she had experienced some years before at the death of a favorite brother. She was dressing to go out when the telegram arrived announcing his death, and as she read it she happened to catch a glimpse of her face in the mirror and noticed that she looked white and haggard. 'Why,' she thought, 'I am going to die myself. I must not leave the house.'

"This idea, of course, was soon forgotten. But all unconsciously it served as a basis for the gradual growth of a delusion that her life would not be safe if she went outdoors. Once the starting point of this delusion had been discovered by her physician it was not long before he was able to effect a cure."

Deep Breathing.

A dozen years ago, says Dr. Sheldon Leavitt, in his recently published "Paths to the Heights," I took a three months' course of exercises in deep breathing, accompanied by training in the elements of self control with particular reference to health, with evident benefit. As an exercise in self mastery and as a direct contribution to health deep breathing holds a prominent place. Among the exercises of the quiet hour one can employ it with assurance of benefit.

Sit with the trunk erect and self supported, breathe deeply a few times and then, taking as deep a breath as you can, hold it as long as you can. Do this a number of times at one sitting. Use your will power upon such action daily for an indefinite period. It is a good daily practice. You will have some sense of smothering, the control of yourself under which is a valuable part of the exercise.

The Future Trained Nurse.

The day is not far off when to be a "trained" nurse she, as well as the physician that directs her, must know much of the psychic treatment of bodily ills. She can save life in an emergency by the power of health suggestions even after her best manual skill fails. She can put new determination into the flagging will, new courage into the weakening heart. We all know that good nursing is the indispensable something in sickness. But good nursing to be most efficient should work upon the sick one's mind as truly as upon his body.—Robert MacDonald in "Mind, Religion and Health."

Hygienic Thoughts.

The power of faith shall save the sick.—New Testament Scriptures.

"Tis the mind that makes the body rich.—Shakespeare.

Worry is always one of two things—it is kilocy or insanity. You may take your choice. There is no third.—Edward Howard Griggs.

Every man has in himself a continent of undiscovered character. Happy is he who acts as the Columbus of his own soul.—Sir J. Stephen.

We are not bodies alone nor spirits alone, but both. Our bodies isolate us; our spirits unite us.—Sir Oliver Lodge.

Supinely to admit and consent to weakness tends to fasten and confirm the condition.—Henry Wood.

A Polished Rascal.

Mrs. Hansom—I understand, sir, that you have secretly been making love to my daughter, and I must forbid an acquaintance begun in that way. You should have seen me first.

Shrewd Suitor—Madam, had I seen you first I should have forgotten your daughter and fallen in love with you.

Mrs. Hansom—Um! The informality of the proceedings was all I objected to. Come with me, and I will introduce you to my husband.

SMITH WOULD HONOR CHASE S. OSBORN

Wants Him on Boundry Arbitration Commission.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 6.—Senator William Alden Smith has submitted to the state department, at Washington, the name of Chase S. Osborn to be a member of the proposed joint high commission to arbitrate with Great Britain the several international boundary differences that exist between the two nations as the Canadian border, some of them of many years standing.

The authority for this statement is the senator himself. Senator Burrows is understood to be agreeable to the appointment.

Before the commission can be appointed congress and the English parliament will have to agree to its creation.

Too Much Muscle.

A young highland plowboy was pestering a female servant with his unwelcome attentions, and one day he proposed. At this instant the pair (they were walking in the fields) came upon another servant, a man, sleeping instead of working. The lassie, a brawny wench, seized a stick and beat the idler till he roared. When he had slunk off to his duty the swain remarked admiringly:

"Ma certie, lassie, but ye cud well manage yer childer."

"Aye, or their father," replied the girl, with a significant look.

The lover turned pale.

"Ma lass" he gasped, "I juist remembered ma auld mither at hame. I'm her only laddie, and I think it's na richt for me tae mairry while she's alive. W-w-when she dees I'll come back an' mairry ye."

And as he got safely away he said fervently, "May the Lord alloo ma mither to live as lang as me!"

Deeply Interested.

The play was one of Shakespeare's tragedies. Mrs. Simmons and her little boy, having been unable to secure seats in the parquet, were well located in the front row of the first balcony, where they could see better and hear almost as well as if they had been farther forward on the main floor. Mrs. Simmons was agreeably surprised at the interest that Bobby appeared to take in the somber drama. He sat leaning forward, with his elbows on the cushioned railing in front of him, resting his head on his hands, deeply absorbed. As the curtain went down on the first act he straightened up.

"Well, dear, how do you like Shakespeare?" asked his mother. "Are you enjoying the play?"

"Mamma," said Bobby with the air of one who has made a great discovery, "there are sixty-nine men here that have got bald spots on top of their heads! I've counted 'em five times!"

Nelson River.

The Nelson river may be described as one of the greatest rivers of the world as regards the actual volume of water discharged into the Hudson bay. Its total length is approximately 400 miles, and its drainage area is tremendous. Its tributaries cover the whole of Manitoba, the greater portion of Alberta, Saskatchewan, North Dakota and Ontario west of the great lakes, where they also enter Montana and Minnesota.—Exchange.

Charles Hawtrey's Twang.

"Once on a time"—it is Charles Hawtrey who tells this tale—"I tried to sink my identity in the part of a man who was my dearest friend. I had known him since he was a baby. I wanted to sink my own identity and copy him. I was not allowed to. This is how it happened:

"De Wolf Hopper had put on in London a burlesque of a play in which Mrs. Langtry and myself were acting. Some one burlesqued me, of course. He had merely a few lines to say, but he did it very well. It so happened that on the night it was produced I was not acting. So I strolled round to Hopper's theater and suggested to him that I should take the part myself that night. The idea of parodying oneself seemed to me rather original. He consented, and on I went just in dress clothes, as the character called for. It was a great success, all except the identification. I lost that, but not enough. The London Times came out the next morning with the following:

"'The resemblance to Mr. Hawtrey was certainly remarkable and would have been more so had it not been for the pronounced American accent.'

"That was the first and last time I have ever been accused of a twang."—New York Tribune.

The Krakatoa Eruption.

Perhaps the most remarkable volcanic eruption known was that which took place in August, 1883, at the island of Krakatoa, in the strait of Sunda. Streams of volcanic dust were thrown seventeen miles high, and more than a cubic mile of material was expelled from the volcanic crater. The air waves started by the eruption traveled around the earth seven times. The noise was heard at Macassa, 969 miles away; at Borneo, 1,116 miles distant; in Western Australia, 1,700 miles away, and even at Rodagues, distant more than 2,000 miles. The dust and powdered pumice thrown out of the crater made the entire circuit of the earth before settling down and were the cause of the strange sunsets that were observed for many months.—New York American.

A Crusher.

A consequential little man entered the commercial room of a big hotel not long back and gave a vigorous pull at the bell. As no one answered he rang again more loudly than before. A maidservant then came in, and the following colloquy took place:

Servant—Who rang that bell?

Little Man (making most of his height)—I did.

Servant (scornfully)—And who lifted you up to it?—London Telegraph.

Sixteenth Century Meals.

Judging from a passage in Harrison's "Description of Britain," breakfast eating in the sixteenth century was held to denote effeminacy. "Heretofore," he writes, "there hath been more time spent in eating and drinking than commonly is in these days; for whereas of old we had breakfasts in the forenoon, beverages or nuntions, after dinner, and thereto reare suppers when it was time to go to rest, now these od repasts, thanked be God, are verie well left, and ech one (except here and there some young hungrie stomach that cannot fast till dinner time) contenteth himself with dinner and supper onlie. The nobilitie, gentrie and students ordinarlie go to dinner at 11 before noon and to supper at 5 or between 5 and 6 at afternoon. The merchants dine and sup seldom before 12 at noon and 6 at night, especialie in London. The husbandmen dine also at high noon and sup at 7 or 8, but out of the tearme, in our universities, the scholars dine at 10."

Saved by His Wit.

The French author Martainville was a royalist and did not hesitate to attack the French revolution and its authorities. Presently, of course, he was summoned to appear before the revolutionary tribunal, with the terrible Fouquier at its head. The revolutionary tribunals at that time did not hesitate to send everybody to the guillotine who had ventured to attack them. Martainville expected to go with the rest of the victims. "What is your name?" asked the revolutionary judge. "Martainville," said the young author. "Martainville!" exclaimed the judge. "You are deceiving us and trying to hide your rank. You are an aristocrat, and your name is De Martainville." "Citizen president," exclaimed the young man, "I am here to be shortened, not to be lengthened! Leave me my name!" A true Frenchman loves a witticism above all things, and the tribunal was so much pleased by Martainville's grim response that it spared his life.

A VISIBLE INCREASING SECURITY
20% Earnings
THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY
Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.
If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

MRS. GEORGE E. MILLER.

Shock From Operation Proves Fatal To a Former Teacher of Tecumseh Schools

In a Washington dispatch to the Detroit papers Tuesday announcement was made of the death of Mrs. George E. Miller, which occurred in that city Monday morning at three o'clock.

Mrs. Miller was well known in Detroit and in Lenawee county, where she has lived nearly all her life. Her maiden name was Grace Willett. For two or three years past her health had been somewhat impaired, and a short time ago it was decided by her physicans that her only hope of betterment lay in a critical operation. The operation was undergone early last week. Although suffering from the shock, Mrs. Miller seemed to be doing so well that there was fair chance of her recovery, but her vitality was much impaired by the trouble that compelled the resort to surgery and by the depressing climatic condition. The unfortunate combination of circumstance brought about the fatal culmination.

Mrs. Miller spent her girlhood in Blissfield, Mich., and attended Hillsdale college. She taught in the public schools for a time and was married to George E. Miller in 1891. She is survived by her husband, four children, Tom 17; Carl 11; Helen 7; and Alma 5 years of age; her mother, Mrs. Alma Willett, of Blissfield., and three sisters, Mrs. H. C. Wilson of Blissfield, Mrs. George M. VanEvera, of Des Monies, Ia. and Mrs. O. J. Mulford, of Detroit.

Mrs. Miller was a remarkable sweetness of disposition and was possessed of a charming personality that was the admiration of all who came in contact with her. Her interest centered chiefly in her home, which she made ideal by the pervading influence of a beautiful character.

The remains arrived in Blissfield Wednesday morning and were removed to the residence of Henry Wilson. The funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Sutcliffe officiating, assisted by Rev. Peacock.

Mrs. Miller will be remembered by many in Tecumseh, as Grace Willetts, who taught in the public schools here a number of years ago.

RECEPTION

Tendered Howard Taylor in Adrian by Knight Templars.

A pleasant reception was that given Howard T. Taylor of Adrian, Friday evening by the Knight Templars at the Masonic Temple. Mr. Taylor was advanced to the office of Right Eminent Grand Commander of the Michigan Knight Templars. Dancing followed the reception hour, the music being furnished by Prof. T. F. Rinehart, E. J. Morden and Sidney Brown. About 75 were in attendance. Light refreshments added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. F. B. Wood, Eminent Commander of the Knight Templars, was the only one from Tecumseh, attending.

LIFE 100,000 YEARS AGO.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. To-day the danger, as shown by A. W Brown of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure Sore Lungs, Colds, obstinate Coughs and prevent Pneumonia, its the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00 Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son. Trial bottle free.

RESOLUTIONS.

Again we are reminded of the uncertainty of life. Again the messenger of death has invaded our Fraternity and removed from our midst a respected sister and friend. Another link is broken, another chair is vacant, another voice is hushed. As a sincere token of the esteem in which Sister Julia Linton was held by Rebekah Lodge be it.

Resolved, that while we sincerely mourn the loss of this sister we bow in humble submission to the will of him in whose hands are the issues both life and death.

Resolved, that we extend our deepest sympathy to her mother, husband and family in this their great sorrow and bereavement and commend them to the infinite care and mercy of him who giveth and taketh away yet; "who doeth all things well."

Resolved, that these resolutions be included in the minutes of our next meeting and a copy sent to the family.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord
when love has bound the heart,
'Tis hard, so hard to speak the words,
must we forever part.
Dearest one we have laid thee in the peaceful grave's embrace.
But thy memory will be cherished till we see thy heavenly face.

EDNA A. BELDING.
LENA J. CHIVERALL.

MRS. FRED WRIGHT.

Mrs. Fred Wright died at her home Greeley, Colo., Tuesday, June 22, of consumption, after months of suffering. Mr. and Mrs. Wright and family left Tecumseh about two years ago for the west in hopes of regaining Mrs. Wright's health, but she grew steadily worse. She leaves three daughters to mourn her loss, Mabel, Edna and Pearl. Edna graduated from the Tecumseh schools in the class of 1905. The family came here from Cone. Mrs. Frank Avery is a sister of Mr. Wright's. Numerous friends here extend their sympathy to the family in their great sorrow.

GEORGE S. SPAFFORD.

George Spafford died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jessie Love Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Mr. Spafford suffered a stroke of paralysis last Thursday and grew gradually weaker until the end He was born May 17, 1831, in Syracuse, N. Y., and came to Michigan when quite young. He learned the printer's trade and for a number of years worked for the Tecumseh HERALD. The funeral was held this morning at 10 o'clock. Burial at Brookside.

Herald Office Open.

The HERALD office will be open every Saturday night at 7 o'clock for the remainder of the evening to accommodate those who desire to pay for the HERALD. All accounts must be paid at once. Those who are in arrears kindly call and settle.

Picturesque Japanese Peasants.

The most characteristic scenery in Japan is not the mountain, on which few Japanese dwell, but the rice field, which is to be found wherever there is a patch of level ground for the field and sufficient water for irrigation. Gentle slopes are made useful by terracing, and the cooly, preparing the ground or cutting his crop, is the true Japanese peasant. He is a picturesque peasant in his blue cotton suit, his broad, conical straw hat and straw overcoat. He is a good natured peasant, absurdly contented with his earnings, though the agricultural laborer earns as little as 8 or 10 cents gold a day. His house is a light wooden frame surmounted by a heavy thatch, and he loves to plant a lily garden along his rooftree. But he always has one thing which separates him from the Chinese and the East Indian—he lives on a platform raised above the ground. No hardened soil for him, no chilly pavement or brick or stone. A wooden floor, a piece of clean matting, a broom and a bathtub the poorest Japanese will always have.

SWEET STOMACH'S

"A treatment of Mi-o-na was procured, which was used by me for a severe case of stomach trouble and indigestion. I am glad to state that the use of this remedy cured my trouble and that there are no words too strong for me to say in favor of Mi-o-na. Surely it is a remedy of merit and value to those suffering as I was." Mrs. C. F. Sizer, Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich. Oct. 16, 1908.

A sour stomach means foul breath belching of gas, heartburn, and distress. Mi-o-na tablets will turn a sour stomach into a sweet one in 30 minutes. It not only builds up and puts energy into the stomach walls, but it purifies very thoroughly the stomach and the entire intestinal tract, and keeps them fresh and clean. No one who has indigestion or stomach trouble of any kind should be without Mi-o-na tablets. Carry them with you, and when in distress take one and secure immediate relief. C. A. WRIGHT & SON sells Mi-o-na tablets at only 50 cents a large box, and he guarantees them to cure dyspepsia, all stomach diseases, vomiting of pregnancy sea and car sickness, and that knocked out feeling the morning after.

A failing tiny nerve, no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

The average man no sooner does a kind act than he begins to feel big over it.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

OUR RELIGIOUS LIBERTIES

Taft Speaks on Subject on Fourth of July.

TOWN FOUNDED 250 YEARS AGO

Norwich, Conn., Observes Its Anniversary on Fourth—Several Hundred Persons Act Out Historical Events. Other Events and Accidents on Independence Day.

Norwich, Conn., July 6.—President Taft was the chief figure here in the celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of this historic old New England town. In an address Monday, after a fine military parade and civic display, the president, finding a theme in the church influence in the foundation of Norwich, took occasion to express his views on the liberty of religious belief.

He pleaded that every man should be allowed to worship God in his own way. The president declared amid laughter that the American forefathers came to this country ostensibly to escape religious intolerance, but as a matter of fact in order that they might follow out their own religious ideas in their own way and with a large degree of intolerance toward any other form of belief.

"We have passed beyond that now," said the president, "and are coming more and more to realize the right of the individual to worship God as he may choose."

The president's address, befitting the occasion, was largely historical in character. The day was replete with historic incidents. An open air pageant during the morning depicted scenes leading down from the wars between the Mohegan and Narragansett tribes of Indians through the purchase of the site of Norwich town from Uncas to revolutionary days, the welcome to Washington, the return of the soldiers from the civil war, the dawn of peace, the present day and the hope of the future.

The pageant, held on a grassy plot surrounded by giant trees, was a pretentious undertaking, several hundred persons taking part.

The president dined with Mr. Williams and planted a tree on the Williams estate. Mr. Taft also rode for a time at the head of the parade, being immediately followed by the entire battalian of midshipmen from the United States Military academy at Annapolis. The cadets are on their summer cruise and left their ships at New London.

CELEBRATION UNDER WAY.

First Ceremonies Are Conducted in Ruins of Old Fort St. Frederic.

Port Henry, N. Y., July 6.—At historical old Crown Point, where, three centuries ago, Samuel De Champlain, with his Algonquin allies, engaged in battle against the Iroquois, a struggle which has been described as one of the cardinal events of American history, week-long ceremonies undertaken by the states of New York and Vermont in celebration of the tercentenary of Champlain's discovery of the magnificent lake that bears his name are under way.

They began within the enclosure marked by the majestic ruins of old Fort St. Frederic and in the presence of a holiday throng. Governor Charles Hughes of New York, among the first speakers, sketched briefly the objects of the celebration. Historical addresses were delivered by ex-Mayor Seth Low of New York and Judge Albert C. Barnes of Chicago, and Clinton Scollard of Clinton, N. Y., read an original poem.

The occasion took on a dual character in that it celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the lake and the one hundred and thirty-third anniversary of the independence of the United States.

Governor Hughes and the other speakers were presented by Walter C. Witherbee, treasurer of the New York-Lake Champlain Tercentenary commission, and a resident of Port Henry.

Scores of Indians gave an interesting production of the Indian version of "Hiawatha," concluding with Champlain's battle.

Swallowing a Reindeer.

"Doctor, doctor! I's swallowed a reindeer!"

Choking violently and literally black in the face, a negro boy rushed into the office of a throat specialist. His small woolly head jerked frantically, and his eyes rolled in anguish. It was very evident that some irritating substance had lodged in his throat.

The specialist summoned his assistant.

"Dr. Blank, here is a young man who says he has swallowed a reindeer."

"Nawsur," sputtered the patient, "it weren't a whole reindeer. It were jess his nake and his horns."

The physicians removed the offending object.

With a long sigh of relief the pickaninny opened his eyes. His glance rested on the instrument table.

"Yassur, dat's de reindeer."

It was an Elks button.—Los Angeles Times.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

Copyright, 1908, by Harper & Brothers

"Understand? You leave Runnion to me," Burrell was saying. "No man shall lay hands on him except me." His voice trailed away. He rose slowly to his feet, a strange light on his face. The others turned to see what sight had drawn his eyes. In the opening, all splendid with the golden sunlight, stood Necia and Poleon Doret, who had her by the hand, and she was smiling.

Gale uttered a great cry and went to meet them, but the soldier could move nothing save his lips and stood dazed and disbelieving. He saw them dimly coming toward him and heard Poleon's voice as if at a great distance, saw that the Frenchman's eyes were upon him and that his words were directed to him.

"I bring her back to you, m'sieu'!"

Doret laid Necia's hand in that of her lover, and Burrell saw her sobbing shyly up at him, bewildered, stupefied, smiling, but he could utter no word. There was nothing to say. She was here, safe, smiling; that was all. And the girl, beholding the glory in his eyes, understood.

Gale caught her away from him then and buried her in his arms.

A woman came running into the store and, seeing the group, paused at the door—a shapeless, silent, shawled figure in silhouette against the day. The trader brought the girl to her foster mother, who began to talk in her own tongue with a rapidity none of them had ever heard before, her voice as tender as some wild bird's song. Then the two women went away together around the store into the house. Poleon had told Necia all the amazing story that had come to him that direful night, all that he had overheard, all that he knew and much that he guessed.

The priest came into the store shortly, and the men fell upon him for information, for nothing was to be gained from Poleon, who seemed strangely fagged and weary and who had said but little.

"Yes, yes, yes!" laughed Father Barnum. "I'll tell you all I know, of course, but first I must meet Lieutenant Burrell and take him by the hand."

The story did not lose in his telling, particularly when he came to describe the fight on the gravel bar which no man had seen and of which Poleon had told him little, but the good priest was of a militant turn, and his blue eyes glittered and flashed like an old crusader's.

"It was a wondrous combat," he declared, with all the spirit of a spectator, "for Poleon advanced barehanded and beat him down even as the man fired into his face."

The Frenchman moved uneasily.

"Waal, I don' know. He ain' fight so hard."

"You couldn't find no trace of him?" said Lee.

"No trace whatever," Father Barnum replied, "but he will surely reach some place of refuge where we can pick him up, for the days are still mild and the woods full of berries."

"I'll be on the lookout for him," said the lieutenant grimly.

When the voluble old priest had at last exhausted his narrative he requested of Burrell the privilege of a few words and drew him apart from the others. His face was warm with understanding.

"I had a long conversation with my little girl, for she is like a daughter to me, and I discovered the depth of her love for you. Do you love her as much as you should?"

"As much as I can. They don't make words or numbers big enough to tell you how dear she is to me."

"Then why delay? Tomorrow I leave again, and one never knows what a day may bring forth."

"But Stark?" the young man cried. "He's her father, you know. He's like a madman, and she's still under age."

"I know very little of law outside of the church," the father observed; "but, as I understand it, if she marries before he forbids her the law will hold him powerless. Now, he has never made himself known to her, he has never forbidden her anything, and, although my conclusion may not be correct, I believe it is, and you have a chance if you make haste. At your age, my boy, I never needed a spur."

"A spur? Good Lord! I'm from Kentucky!"

"Once she is yours before God your hold will be stronger in the eyes of men. If I am wrong and he takes her from you—well, may some other priest rewed you two. I shan't."

"Don't worry," laughed Burrell, ablaze at the thought. "You're the only preacher who'll kiss my bride, for I'm a jealous man, and all the Starks and all the fathers in the world won't get her away from me. Do you think she'll do it?"

"A woman in love will do anything."

Burrell seized the little man by the hand. "If I had known more law you needn't have given me this hint."

Together they went into the trader's house.

Back in the store there was silence after the priest and the soldier went out, which Gale broke at last:

"This forgiveness talk is all right, I suppose, but I want Runnion."

"We'll git him, too," growled Lee, at which Poleon uttered a curt exclamation:

"No!"

"Why not?" said the miner.

"Waal," the Canadian drawled slowly, then paused to light the cigarette he had rolled in a bit of wrapping paper, inhaled the smoke deeply to the bottom of his lungs, held it there a moment and blew it out through mouth and nostrils before adding, "you'll jus' be wastin' tam'!"

Gale looked up from beneath his thatch of brow and asked quietly:

"Why?"

"You 'member story I tol' you wan day two, t'ree mont' ago," Poleon remarked, with apparent evasion, "'bout Johnny Platt w'at I ketch on de Porcupine all et up by skeeter bugs?"

"I do," answered Gale.

"Waal"—he met their eyes squarely, then drew another long breath in his cigarette—"I'm jus' hopin' nobody don' pick it, up dis Runnion fellier de same way. Mebbe dey fin' hees han's tie' behin' 'im wit' piece of hees shirt."

"Good God!" cried the trader, starting to his feet. "You—you"—

"Of course I'm jus' s'posin'. He was feel purty good w'en I lef'. He was feel so good I tak' hees coat for keepin' off dem bugs from me, because I lef' it my own shirt on de canoe. He's nice feller dat way. He give up easy. By gosh, I never see worse place for skeeters!"

Gale fell silent, and "No Creek" Lee began to swear in little, useless, ineffective oaths, which were but two ways of showing similar emotions Then the former stepped up and laid a big hand upon Poleon's shoulder.

"That saves us quite a trip," he said. Father Barnum found the three still talking in the store when he had finished an hour's counsel with Necia, so came straight to the point. It was work that delighted his soul, for he loved the girl and had formed a strong admiration for Burrell.

The priest returned to Necia after giving directions about the wedding, leaving the trader and Poleon alone.

"I s'pose it's best," said the former "Yes."

"Beats the deuce, though, how things work out, don't it?"

"I'm glad for see dis day," said the Frenchman. "He's good man, an' he ain' never goin' to hurt her none." He paused. "Dere's jus' wan t'ing I want for ask it of you, John. You 'member dat day we stop on de birch grove an' you spik 'bout her an' tol' me dose story 'bout her moder. Waal I was dreamin' dat tam', so I'm goin' ask it you now don' never tell her w'at I said."

"Doesn't she know, my boy?"

"No. I ain' never spoke 'bout love. She t'inks I'm broder wit' her, an'—dat's w'at I am, ba gar!" He could not hold his voice even—it broke with him—but he avoided the old man's gaze. Gale took him by the shoulders.

"There ain't nothing so cruel in the world as a gentlewoman," said he, "but she wouldn't hurt you for all the world, Poleon; only the blaze of this other thing has blinded her. She can't see nothing for the light of this new love of hers."

"I know! Dat's w'y—nobody understap's but you an' me."

Gale looked out through the open door, past the sunlit river which came from a land of mystery and vanished into a valley of forgetfulness, past the forest and the hills, in his deep set eyes the light of a wondrous love that had lived with him these many weary years, and said:

"Nobody else can understand but me. I know how it is. I had even a harder thing to bear, for you'll know she's happy at least, while I"— His voice trembled, but after a pause he continued: "They neither of them understand what you've done for them, for it was you that brought her back. But some time they'll learn how great their debt is and thank you. It'll take them years and years, however, and when they do they'll tell their babes of you, Poleon, so that your name will never die. I loved her mother, but I don't think I could have done what you did."

"She's purty hard t'ing, for sure, but I ain' t'ink 'bout Poleon Doret none w'en I'm doin' it. No; I'm t'ink 'bout her all de tam'. She's li'l' gal, an' I'm beeg, strong feller w'at don' 'matter much an' w'at ain' know much, 'cep singin' an' lovin' her. I'm see for sure now dat I ain' fit for her. I'm beeg, rough, fightin' feller w'at can't read, an' she's de beam of sunlight w'at blin' my eyes."

"If I was a fool I'd say you'd forget in time, but I've lived my life in the open, and I know you won't. I didn't."

"I don' want to forget!" the brown man cried hurriedly. "Le bon Dieu would not let me forget. It's all I've got to keep wit' me w'en I'm lookin' for my 'new countree.'"

"You're not goin' to look for that 'new country' any more," Gale replied.

"Today," said the other quietly, "dis afternoon. De blood in me is callin' for travel, John. I'm livin' here on dis place five year dis fall, an' dat's long tam' for voyageur. I'm hongry for hear de ax in de woods an' de moose blow at sundown. I want for see the campfire t'rough de brush w'en I come from trap de fox an' dem little wild fellers. I want to smell smoke in de dusk. My work she's finish here, so I'm paddle away today, an' I'll fin' dat place, dis tam', for sure. She's over dere." He raised his long arm and pointed to the dim mountains that hid the valley of the Koyukuk, the valley that called good men and strong year after year and took them to itself.

"Have you heard the news from the creeks? Your claims are blanks. Your men have quit."

The Frenchman shook his head sadly, then smiled—a wistful little smile.

"Waal, it's better I lose dan you or Necia. I ain' de lucky kin', dat's all, an', after all, w'at good to me is riche gol' mine? I ain' got no use for money any more."

They stood in the doorway together, two rugged, stalwart figures, different in blood and birth and every other thing, yet brothers withal whom the ebb and flow of the far places had thrown together and now drew apart again. And they were sad, these two, for their love was deeper than comes to other people, and they knew this was farewell, so they remained thus side by side, two dumb, sorrowful men, until they were addressed by a person who hurried from the town.

He came as an apparition bearing the voice of "No Creek" Lee, the mining king, but in no other way showing sign or symbol of their old friend. Its style of face and curious outfit were utterly foreign to the miner, for he had been bearded with the robust, unkempt growth of many years, tanned to a leathery hue and garbed perennially in the habit of a scarecrow, while this creature was shaved and clipped and curried, and the clothes it stood up in were of many startling hues. Its face was scraped so clean of whiskers as to be a pallid white, but lack of adornment ended at this point, and the rest was overladen wondrously, while from the center of the half brown, half white face the long, red nose of Lee ran out. Beside it rolled his lonesome eye, alive with excitement.

He came up with a strut, illumining the landscape, and inquired:

"Well, how do I look?"

"I'm darned if I know," said Gale. "But it's plumb unusual."

"These here shoes leak," said the spectacle, pulling up his baggy trousers to display his tan footgear, "because they was made for dry goin'. That's why they left the tops off, but they've got a nice, healthy color, ain't they? As a whole, it seems to me I'm sort of nifty. But I'm a plain man without conceit. Now let's proceed with the obsequies."

It was a very simple, unpretentious ceremony that took place inside the long, low house of logs, and yet it was a wonderful thing to the dark, shy maid who hearkened so breathlessly beside the man she had singled out. When they had done he turned and took her reverently in his arms and kissed her before them all. Then she went and stood beside Gale and the red wife who was no wife and said simply:

"I am very happy."

The old man stooped and for the first time in her memory pressed his lips to hers, then went out into the sunlight, where he might be alone with himself and the memory of that other Merrily.

A blanketed man upon a stretcher carried by a doctor and a priest.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! It's a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, not stop here and there the pain, but it is impossible. It will not only stop the pain and stamp out the miserable disease.

In Germany—1893 a Chemist in the City of Barmenbeck—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it unfailingly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those said-like gratuler wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

TRAIN DERAILED BY THE FLOODS

Child Is Drowned and Two Others Badly Hurt.

MANY LIVES ARE ENDANGERED

Sections of Kansas and Missouri Under Water—Six Men Swept From Bridge at Chillicothe—Woman and Two Children Drown on General Grant Farm, in St. Louis County.

Kansas City, Mo., July 8.—Swollen by unprecedented rains, Missouri valley rivers have left their banks and caused damaging floods in many parts of Missouri and Kansas. The most spectacular accident due to the flood was the derailing in a flooded plain of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe passenger train bound from Kansas City to Denver. The rails spread near Pomona, Kas., and four of the ten coaches rolled over in eighteen feet of water.

Although the overturned day coaches were empty, a telephone message reports that the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Carrie Rose of Chicago was drowned and Laura St. Clair of Boston suffered a wrenched back and Nannie St. Clair, a sister, sustained bruises and cuts. The St. Clair sisters were going to Perry, Okla.

Pomona is almost inundated, the Marias des Cygnes river at that point being three miles wide. A relief train was sent from Ottawa with food and other supplies for the sleeping car passengers, who were said to have had to climb on top of the cars for refuge from the rising water.

In Kansas City the situation is threatening, if not yet serious. In the bottoms in the western section, where are situated the stock yards, wholesale warehouses and manufacturing plants, the waters from the confluence of the Missouri and Kansas rivers are lapping the danger line, and precautions are being taken against a further rise.

At Chillicothe, Mo., on the Grand river, six men were swept from a bridge. Whether they reached land safely has not been learned. Hundreds of people at Chillicothe were forced to leave their homes.

At Pattonsburg, Mo., a thousand persons are imprisoned on roofs or in second stories. Many women and children are among those held prisoners, and their situation is causing general alarm. A man was carried away by the current in the main street and drowned.

GOES TO PRISON.

Wife of Puccini, the Composer, Sentenced to Five Months, and Fined.

Rome, July 8.—Signora Puccini, wife of Giacomo Puccini, the composer, has been sentenced to five months' imprisonment and a fine of $120, in addition to costs and damages, the latter to be fixed by a separate court.

Some months ago Singora Puccini accused her husband and a maid in her employ of having improper relations. The girl protested her innocence and subsequently committed suicide. An autopsy proved that the charges against the girl were baseless. The accusations of the wife, however, resulted in a separation, and quickly after this the mother of the girl instituted suit against Signora Puccini.

PUSHING REPAIR WORK.

Wrights Believe They Can Resume Flights Friday or Saturday.

Washington, July 8.—Wilbur Wright has returned from New York, where he went to consult the manufacturers of the magneto which had been causing the Wrights much trouble. Orville has also arrived from Dayton, bringing with him the cloth for repairing the aeroplane's crippled wing.

The brothers are in an optimistic mood and are rushing forward the repairs.

If everything goes smoothly, and the material which Orville shipped from Dayton arrives promptly, the Wrights believe they will be ready to resume the preliminary trials by Friday or Saturday.

WILD SCENES AT MINES.

Strike at Glace Bay, B. C., Has Assumed Violent Form.

Glace Bay, B. C., July 8.—Riotous scenes at the collieries, an assault on General Manager Duggan, the reading of the riot act, the injury of several workmen, twelve arrests and the refusal of Mayor Douglas of Glace Bay to call out the troops at the request of the company, are the special features that marked the second day of the strike of the United Mine Workers of America in the employ of the Dominion Coal company.

The strike has assumed a violent form.

CUSTOMS COURT FOR DETROIT

Authorized by Senate With Headquarters in New York.

SMITH'S REQUEST ACCEDED TO

Sessions May Not Be Held More Than Once Each Year—Is For Convenience of Litigants in Michigan and Adjoining States—Will Act on All Matters Pertaining to Duties.

Washington, July 8.—A new customs court, just authorized by the senate, will hold sessions in Detroit. This was provided in an eleventh hour amendment. The headquarters of the court will be at New York, where probably 75 per cent of its work will be done. Originally it was proposed to authorize sessions at Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and New Orleans. But it was proposed that St. Louis should be added, and Detroit was also included by Senator Aldrich. Senator Burrows says that this was done by Aldrich at the request of Senator Smith.

The new court will meet at Detroit only as business may require. Perhaps the sessions will not be more frequent than once a year. The majority of the court is authorized to sit, and during the time that the customs court is in Detroit the machinery of the federal district court will be at its service. The customs court will hold sessions in the room of the district court.

The sessions at Detroit will be for the convenience of litigants residing in Michigan and adjoining states. On all questions regarding the payment and assessment of duties the action of this court will be final.

The creation of such a court was recommended by the sub-committee of which Senator Burrows was chairman and which last fall investigated the administration of the tariff laws.

PREACHER CENSURED.

Should Not Have Allowed Colonel Tucker's Marriage in His Home.

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—The marriage here of Colonel William F. Tucker, retired paymaster of the United States army, and Mrs. Myrtle C. Platt, his nurse in the Philippines, and named in several charges by Dolly Logan-Tucker, the colonel's first wife, from whom he was divorced a week ago, has brought down the wrath of the Episcopal clergy of Detroit on the head of Dr. William S. Sayres, 163 Willis avenue east, in whose home the nuptials were celebrated.

Dr. Sayres didn't perform the ceremony. Justice Felix A. Lemkie said the words, but in allowing the wedding in his home Dr. Sayres, it is said by his associate clergymen, morally violated one of the canons of the church.

CAME NEAR DROWNING.

Couple Camping Near Marshall Had Trying Experience.

Marshall, Mich., July 8.—Two people narrowly escaped drowning in Lyon lake, seven miles south of here. Irma Hubbard, fifteen years old, who is camping at the lake with her parents, fell overboard from a canoe while taking pictures. Lee Sherman, another camper, heard her screams and put out to her assistance in a boat. In an effort to get her aboard Sherman also fell into the water and was pulled down.

An employe of the park grounds went to the rescue of the struggling couple and managed to get both into the boat again. The girl was unconscious for over two hours.

BASEBALL AT NIGHT.

Two Central League Teams Play in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 8.—For the first time in the history of baseball, two league teams met in a night game of baseball here last night. Grand Rapids and Zanesville of the Central league playing seven innings. Grand Rapids won by a score of 11 to 10.

The illumination was much better for the batters than the fielders, being furnished by thirty arcs on the grandstand and around the diamond. Ten searchlights swept the sky. Three balls hit to the outfield were caught. Everyone slugged, and home runs were numerous.

Looking For Young Elopers.

Flint, Mich., July 8.—The police of this city are searching for Harry Lockard, twenty-three years old, employed in the auto department of the Flint Wagon works, who, it is alleged, eloped with Ruth Chatman, aged sixteen, a stenographer of Adrian.

VOTE ON THE TARIFF TODAY

Senators Rejoice In Early Conclusion of Their Labors.

DEMOCRATS AGAINST MEASURE

All But One Likely to Register Negative Vote—Practically All of Republicans Will Support Measure—Senate Votes to Retain Corporation Tax Amendment as Opposed to Income Tax Amendment.

Washington, July 8.—With a general understanding that the final vote in the senate on the tariff bill should be taken by 4 o'clock this afternoon, the senate adjourned at 7 o'clock last evening in pleasant anticipation of the early conclusion of the labors of the special session of congress.

Because of the possible effect on the tobacco schedule there was no effort to obtain formal assent last night in open senate to the proposition to fix a time for a vote, but so far as the canvassers of the senate could ascertain there was no indication of objection to a final vote today.

It is expected that the bill as perfected will receive practically all, although not all, of the Republican votes, while it is understood that probably all of the Democratic votes, with the exception of the vote of Senator McEnry (La.), will be cast against it.

When passed the measure will be hurried over to the house as expeditiously as possible, and it is expected that the house will be in session Friday morning in the hope of receiving it.

The income tax question, including the corporation tax provision and inheritance taxes, received much attention in the senate Wednesday, and the straight income taxers were afforded the opportunity upon which they have so long insisted to get a direct vote in favor of the income tax as opposed to the corporation tax.

Senator Bailey moved his income tax amendment as substitute for the finance committee's provision, and, without debate, a vote was taken upon it, and it was rejected by a majority of nineteen, the ballot standing 28 to 47.

CAUSE OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Straus Report Attributes Many Cases to Use of Diseased Milk.

Stockholm, July 8.—The results of American investigations of the responsibility of bovine tuberculosis for the persistent spread of the disease among human beings, especially among children, were officially reported today to the international tuberculosis conference, in session here, by Mr. Nathan Straus.

The paper by the New York philanthropist was presented by Dr. Arthur Randolph Green, medical director of the Straus pasteurized milk work and one of the American delegates to the conference. It disclosed for the first time the evidence gathered by the American investigators to show the responsibility of milk from tuberculous cows for the infection of human beings with tuberculosis.

Mr. Straus' report declares that the infection of children with bovine tuberculosis should be prevented by forbidding the sale or use of milk unless it comes from tuberculin tested cows or unless it has been properly pasteurized.

The business sessions of the conference will last three days. Some of the leading European experts on tuberculosis are present as delegates, and America has sent six men here.

AUTOMOBILE COMPANY SELLS

Cadillac Bought by General Motors Company.

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—Secretary W. C. Leland has verified the sale of the Cadillac Motor Car company to the General Motors company. The Cadillac company is capitalized at $1,500,000, and the purchase price is said to have been close to $5,000,000. The Cadillac company is one of the largest in the country, and its product enjoys an enviable reputation. It employs 3,400 men, and its output for the calendar year of 1909 will approximate 10,000 motor cars.

"There will be no change in the management of the Cadillac company," said W. C. Durant, chairman of the executive committee of the General Motors company. "We expect to maintain the high standard of the Cadillac product and shall continue Cadillac policies."

ONLY MEN INVITED.

Embassy Association Gives Big Dinner in London.

London, July 8.—The largest and liveliest of three American public dinners held in London the past week was that of the American Embassy association at the Hotel Cecil last night. More than 400 Americans, most of them travelers from all parts of the country, accepted the invitation which the association extended to all male traveling Americans who happened to be in London on this date.

Between courses the diners sang patriotic songs. Afterwards they toasted the king, the president and Ambassador Reid.

An explanation of the association's purposes was tersely given by President E. Clarence Jones, who acted as toastmaster, and who explained that it was desired to promote the acquisition by the United States of permanent homes for its ambassadors in foreign capitals.

FLEET ASSEMBLES FOR PRACTICE

Big Armada Under Command of Admiral Schroeder.

Rockport, Mass., July 8.—Garbed in the gray of war and equipped with tall fighting masts, thirteen battleships of the North Atlantic squadron assembled off Cape Ann Wednesday. As the sun was setting, this array of sea fighters, the largest since the world circling fleet dispersed at Hampton Roads, started to the eastward to engage in maneuvers off the Massachusetts coast. Later other vessels will join this fleet, and for the next four or five weeks intricate movements arranged by the officials at Washington will be carried out. On Saturday the fleet is expected to put in appearance off Provincetown, which will be its base during the operations in northern waters.

The ships which will join the fleet as the movements progress include four battleships, a dozen torpedo boats and destroyers, and submarines and auxiliaries, so that ultimately Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder will have under his command the largest and most powerful fleet of war vessels ever gathered in American waters.

The concentration of the fleet off Thatchers island was impressive and witnessed by a great crowd of people.

HIS FEDERAL POLICY.

Taft Declares He Has Abiding Faith In Constitution and Union of States.

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 8.—New York state's share in the tercentenary celebration of the discovery of Lake Champlain reached its climax Wednesday. Today the scenes of pageantry, the parades, the speech making, the interchange of compliments among the three nations—France, Great Britain and the United States—which shared in the history making of the Champlain country have all been transferred across the lake to Vermont, and Burlington will have its fling.

President Taft, Ambassadors Jusserand of France and Bryce of Great Britain, with Governors Hughes and Prouty, again Wednesday occupied the center of the celebration stage. Each made three speeches, and all were at a brilliant banquet at the Hotel Champlain last night.

Senator Root, added to the prominent guests yesterday, made the historical oration of the celebration at the ceremonies at Plattsburg barracks.

In his speech at the banquet last night the president declared his policy as to the federal government, saying that while he believed an enlargement of central authority might be necessary, he had an abiding faith in the constitution and in the indestructible union of indestructible states.

IMPOSSIBLE SITUATIONS

Related by Ella Gingles In Her Story About Hotel Attack.

Chicago, July 8.—Ella Gingles, the young Irish lace maker, was on the witness stand in Judge Brentano's courtroom all day Wednesday matching her wit against the sharpness of the lawyers who were trying to confound her on cross examination in her trial for stealing lace from Miss Agnes Barrette, her former employer.

An afternoon the girl was cross examined by Assistant State's Attorney B. J. Short on the story she had related of how she was attacked by two women and a man in a bathroom of the Wellington hotel on Feb. 16. Beyond a few tearful moments when some climax in the disgusting tale of degeneracy was reached, the girl did not hesitate in her answers. She told of the most impossible situations with apparent candor and frankness.

She said she went to the hotel to collect money.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

Copyright, 1908, by Harper & Brothers

The first word of the wedding was borne by Father Barnum, who went alone to the cabin where the girl's father lay, entering with trepidation. He was there a long time alone with Stark, and when he returned to Gale's house he would answer no questions.

"He is a strange man, a wonderfully strange man—unrepentant and wicked. But I can't tell you what he said. Have a little patience and you will soon know."

The mail boat, which had arrived an hour after the mission boat, was ready to continue its run when just as it blew a warning blast down the street of the camp came a procession so strange for this land that men stopped, eyed it curiously and whispered among themselves. It was a blanketed man upon a stretcher, carried by a doctor and a priest. The face was muffled so that the idlers could not make it out, and when they inquired they received no answer from the carriers, who pursued their course impassively down the runway to the water's edge and up the gangplank to the deck. When the boat had gone and the last faint cough of its towering stacks had died away Father Barnum turned to his friends:

"He has gone away, not for a day, but for all time. He is a strange man, and some things he said I could not understand. At first I feared greatly, for when I told him what had occurred—of Necia's return and of her marriage—he became so enraged I thought he would burst open his wounds and die from his very fury. But I talked a long, long time with him, and gradually I came to know somewhat of his queer, disordered soul. He could not bring himself to face defeat in the eyes of men or to see the knowledge of it in their bearing. Therefore he fled. He told me that he would be a hunted animal all his life, that the news of his whipping would travel ahead of him and that his enemies would search him out to take advantage of him. He said the only decent thing he could or would do was to leave the daughter he had never known to that happiness he had never experienced and wished me to tell her that she was very much like her mother, who was the best woman in the world."

CHAPTER XIX.

THE CALL OF THE OREADS.

THERE were mingled rejoicing and lamentation in the household of John Gale this afternoon. Molly and Johnny were in the throes of an overwhelming sorrow the noise of which might be heard from the barracks to the Indian village. They were sparing of tears, as a rule, but when they did give way to woe they published it abroad, yelling with utter abandon, their black eyes puckered up, their mouths distended into squares, from which came such a measure of sound as to rack the ears and burden the air heavily with sadness. Poleon was going away—their own particular Poleon! They had found the French Canadian at the river with their father loading his canoe, and they had asked him whither he fared. When the meaning of his words struck home they looked at each other in dismay; then, bred as they were to mask emotion, they joined hands and trudged silently back up the bank with filling eyes and chins a-quiver until they gained the rear of the house. Here they sat down all forlorn and began to weep bitterly and in an ascending crescendo.

"What's the matter with you tikes, anyhow?" inquired the lieutenant. He had always filled them with a speechless awe. He was a nice man, they had both agreed long ago, and very splendid to the eye, but he was nothing like Poleon, who was one of them, only somewhat bigger.

"Come, now! Tell me all about it," the soldier insisted. "Has something happened to the three legged puppy?"

Molly denied the occurrence of any such catastrophe.

"Then you've lost the little shiny ride that shoots with air?" But Johnny dispelled this horrible suspicion by drawing the formidable weapon out of the grass behind him.

"Well, there isn't anything else bad enough to cause all this outlay of anguish. Can't I help you out?"

"Poleon's goin' away!" said Johnny.

"Now, that's too bad, of course," the young man assented. "But think what nice things he'll bring you when he comes back."

"He ain't comin' back!" wailed the little girl and, being a woman, yielded again to her weakness, unashamed.

Burrell tried to extract a more detailed explanation, but this was as far as their knowledge ran. So he sought out the Canadian and found him with Gale in the store, a scanty pile of food and ammunition on the counter between them.

"Poleon," said he, "you're not going away?"

"Yes," said Doret. "I'm takin' li'l' trip."

"Oh, but you can't," cried Burrell. "I—I"— He paused awkwardly, while down the breeze came the lament of the two little Gales. "Well, I feel just as they do." He motioned in the direction of the sound. "I wanted you for a friend, Doret. I hate to lose you."

"I ain' never got my satisfy yet, so I'm pass on—all de tam' pass on. Mebbe dis trip I fin' de place."

"I'm sorry—because—well, I'm a selfish sort of cuss—and"— Burrell pulled up blushingly, with a strong man's dis- [illegible] owe all my happiness to you, old man. I can't thank you, neither of us can. We shall never live long enough for that. But you mustn't go without knowing that I feel more than I'll ever have words to say."

He was making it very hard for the Frenchman, whose heart was aching already with a dull, unending pain. And then, as if he were not tried sufficiently, the girl herself came flying in.

"What's this I hear?" she cried. "Altuna tells me"— She saw the telltale pile on the counter, and her face grew white. "Then it's true? Oh, Poleon!"

He smiled and spoke cheerily. "Yes, I been t'inkin' 'bout dis trip long tam'."

"It's the wanderlust," murmured Burrell to himself. "He'll never rest."

"What a child you are!" cried Necia, half angrily. "Can't you conquer that roving spirit and settle down like a man?" She laid her hand on his arm appealingly. "Haven't I told you there isn't any 'far country?'"

He laughed aloud, for all the world as if the sun were bright and the fret for adventure were still keen in him, then, picking up his bundle, said:

"Dere's no use argue wit' Canayen man. Mebbe some day I come paddle back roun' de ben' down yonder an' you hear me singin' dose chanson. But now de day she's too fine, de river she's laugh too loud, an' de birds she's sing too purty for Frencheman to stop on shore. Ba gosh, I'm glad!" He began to hum, and they heard him singing all the way down to the river bank as if the spirit of youth and hope and gladness were not dead within him:

"Chante, rossignol, chante!
Toi qui a le coeur gai;
Tu as le coeur a rire
Mai j' l' ai-ta pleurer,
Il y a longtemps que j' t'aime
Jamaise je ne t'oublierai."

["Sing, little bird; oh, sing away,
You with the voice so light and gay!
Yours is a heart that laughter cheers.
Mine is a heart that's full of tears.
Long have I loved; I love her yet.
Leave her I can, but not forget."]

A moment later they heard him expostulating with some one at the water's edge, and then a child's treble rose on high.

"No, no! I'm goin', too. I'm goin', too-o-o-o"—

"Hey! John Gale!" called Poleon "Come 'ere! Ba gosh, you better hor'y too! I can't hol' dis feller long!"

When they appeared on the bank above him, he continued, "Look 'ere w'at I fin' on my batteau," and held up the wriggling form of Johnny Gale. "He's stow hisse'f away onder dem blanket. Sacre! He's bad feller, dis man—don' pay for hees ticket at all; he's reg'lar toff mug."

It took the efforts of Necia and the trader combined to tear the lad from the Frenchman, and even then the foul deed was accomplished only at the cost of such wild acclaim and evidence of undying sorrow that little Molly came hurrying from the house, her round face stained and tearful, her mouth an inverted crescent. She had gone to the lame puppy for comfort and now strangled him absentmindedly in her arms, clutching him to her breast so tightly that his tongue lolled out and his three legs protruded stiffly, pawing an aimless pantomime. When Johnny found that no hope remained he quelled his demonstrations of emotion and, as befitted a stout hearted gentleman of the woods, bore a final present to his friend. He took his little air gun and gave it into Poleon's hands against that black night when the bears would come, and no man ever made a greater sacrifice. Doret picked him up by the elbows and kissed him again and again, then set him down gently, at which Molly scrambled forward and without word or presentation speech gave him her heart's first treasure. She held out the three legged puppy, for a gun and a dog should ever go together; then, being of the womankind aforesaid, she began to cry as she kissed her pet goodby on its cold, wet nose.

"W'at's dis?" said Poleon, and his voice quavered, for these childish fingers tore at his heartstrings terribly.

"He's a very brave doggie," said the little girl. "He will scare de bears away!" And then she became dissolved in tears at the anguish her offering cost her.

The time had come for the last goodby—that awkward moment when human hearts are full and spoken words are empty. Burrell gripped the Frenchman's hand. He was grateful, but he did not know.

"Good luck and better hunting," he said, "a heavy purse and a light heart for you always, Poleon. I have learned to love you."

"I want you to be good husban', m'sieu'. Dat's de bes' t'ing I can wish for you."

Gale spoke to him in patois, and all he said was:

"May you not forget, my son."

They did not look into each other's eyes. There was no need. The old man stooped and, taking both his children by the hand, walked slowly toward the house.

"Dis tam' I'll fin' it for sure," smiled Poleon to Necia.

Her eyes were shining through the tears, and she whispered fervently:

"I hope so, brother. God love you—always."

It was grief at losing a playmate, a dear and well beloved companion. He knew it well, and he was glad now that he had never said a word of love to her. It added to his pain, but it lightened hers, and that had ever been his wish. He gazed on her for a long moment, taking in that blessed image which would ever live with him.

"Goodby, li'l' gal," he said, then dropped her hand and entered his canoe. With one great stroke he drove it out and into the flood, then headed away toward the mists and colors of the distant hills, where the oreads were calling to him. He turned for one last look and flung his paddle high; then, fearing lest they might see the tears that came at last unhindered, he began to sing:

"Chante, rossignol, chante!
Toi qui a le coeur gai;
Tu as le coeur a rire
Mai j' l' al-ta pleurer."

He sang long and lustily, keeping time to the dip of his flashing paddle and defying his bursting heart. After all, was he not a voyageur and life but a song and a tear and then a dream or two?

"I wish I might have known him better," sighed Meade Burrell as he

"I hope some time he will be happy."

watched the receding form of the boatman.

"You would have loved him as we do," said Necia, "and you would have missed him as we will."

"I hope some time he will be happy."

"As happy as you, my soldier?"

"Yes, but that he can never be," said her husband, "for no man could love as I love you."

"Yours is a heart that laughter cheers.
Mine is a heart that's full of tears.
Long have I loved; I love her yet.
Leave her I can, but not forget,"

came the voice of the singer far down the stream.

And thus Poleon of the great heart went away.

THE END.

Where She Got the Money.

They were at the circus. The conversation ran to the subject of how they had financed their admission ticket projects. One said she had gathered rags and sold them. Another had helped her brother spade a garden. The third member of the party presented a sickly grin and seemed reluctant about explaining where her half dollar came from. An explanation seemed absolutely necessary.

"Lizzie, whah yo' git dat half dollah yo' flipped up to de ticket man?"

"Nevah yo' mind. Yo' all saw me pay de man, didn't yo'?"

"Sho 'nuf we did, but dat ain' no exp'nation."

"Well, I got de money all right."

"Sho' nuf yo' did. Sho' nuf yo' did."

"Yes, an' ef I doan' git a half dollah somewhah an' git my ole man's Sabbath shoes from dat pawnshop befo' Satahday evenin' I'm deevo'ced woman, dat's all."—Indianapolis News.

East Indian Muslin Test.

A Madras physician was buying muslin for a turban in a department store.

"None of this is fine enough," he said. "In the turban I have on there are forty yards. But forty yards of this would give me a head like a saratoga trunk.

"Indian muslin is very, very fine. It must be fine enough to disappear if it is to pass our A1 test. The test is this: The muslin is spread on grass overnight. In the morning, when everything is dew drenched, if the muslin isn't practically identical with the dewy gossamer covering the lawns—in other words, if it isn't invisible—it is discarded and must be sold as 'seconds.'"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Good Time to Go.

General Joseph E. Johnston, the Confederate commander, used to relate that in the hottest part of one of the early battles of the civil war he felt his coattails pulled. Turning about, he recognized a young man who had been employed in his tobacco factory previous to enlistment.

"Why are you not in your place fighting?" the general demanded angrily.

"Why, I just wanted to tell you that if you don't mind I will take my day off today!"

To Sleep Like a Top.

To "sleep like a top" has probably a very different origin from that which appears. "Top" is thought to be a corruption of the French taupe, or mole. This interpretation is far more in accordance with the idea usually conveyed—that of a prolonged, undisturbed sleep like that of a mole in winter rather than the short, enduring so called "sleep" of a top when it revolves on its axis with a gentle, humming sound.

Taking It Out In Trade.

The proprietor of a certain Turkish bath establishment, seeing a strong looking young man working in a butcher's shop and being impressed by his magnificent muscles, told him to resign and take a rubber's position with him.

"I'll give you more than you are getting now," he said.

The young butcher, resigning in good faith, turned up the next morning at the bath house

"Well," said the proprietor to him, "I'll put you on at once. What did you get at the butcher's?"

"Six dollars and my week's meat," returned the young man.

"What did that amount to?"

"About $3."

"Well," said the proprietor, "I offered you more to come here, didn't I? I'll give you $6 in money and $4 worth of baths weekly. That is a dollar more than you got at your old place."

SEWER CASE

AFFIRMED BY THE SUPREME COURT TUESDAY

In Favor Of The Village Of Tecumseh

WITH THE BAND AND FIREWORKS THE CITY CELEBRATED WEDNESDAY EVENING

The Supreme court met in Lansing Tuesday and of the many cases affirmed by the court was that of J. W. Wightman vs village of Tecumseh. On Sept. 23, the village of Tecumseh decided by vote whether or not they should bond the village for $29,000 to build a sewer system to cover the town. The whole number of votes cast was 506,—142 against and 364 in favor, carrying as it should by more than ⅔ majority. Sealed bids were received and the contract awarded to A. P. Southworth of Adrian for the building of the sewer. Atty. J. W. Wightman of this village then came to the front, serving an injunction, claiming, that the ballots were illegal and tried to prove that the entire election was void. In circuit court he failed and the case was then argued in Supreme court last fall. Last evening the winners celebrated with the Tecumseh band and fire works. The entire business section of the village was crowded during the evening and the whole city was ablaze with red lights.

Take your needle, my child, and work at your pattern; it will come out a rose by and by." Life is like that—one stitch at a time taken patiently, and the pattern will come out all right, like the embroidery.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

GEORGE S. SPAFFORD

George Spafford who was stricken with paralysis at the home of his daughter Mrs Jessie Love in this village, last Thursday, died Saturday evening at sunset. The close of his life was as peaceful as the close of the beautiful summer day, when daylight fades into night with increasing loveliness.

He was born in Syracuse, N. Y. May 17, 1831, and came to Michigan with his parents, Charles and Maria Spafford two and one half years later. The parents both died a number of years ago, also a brother Harvey at the age of 18 years and a sister Lelia, Charles Spafford of Devil's lake being the only survivor of the family.

Mr. Spafford married Mary Delmater of this village, and to this union were born 8 children, five of whom are still living. They are Mrs. Love of Tecumseh, Mrs. Wray of Kendall; Mrs. Margaret Buchsteiner of Warren, O., Albert Spafford of Wisconsin, and Fred Spafford of Kalamazoo.

At the age of twenty Mr. Spafford learned the printer's trade at Lima, Ind., and with his brother Charles leased the Tecumseh Herald for a year. After editing and printing the Tecumseh Chief for a time, George Spafford moved to Lowell, Mich., where he established a paper. Disposing of this property, he went to Manchester, where he started the Enterprise, M. D. Blosser, the present owner and editor of the paper, who was in the employ of Mr. Spafford secured the paper from him. Mr. Spafford remained with the Enterprise for a time, and later worked for Joe Rempton on the Addison Courier.

Mr. Spafford was one of the oldest printers in Michigan, and it was with great regret that he was obliged to lay aside this work, nine years ago. Since that time he has spent his summers at the lake, usually returning to Tecumseh for the winter.

Uncle George was a man of excellent habits, and sturdy constitution, and he continued, to be active in his accustomed pursuits till long past the age at which men ordinarly drop out of the ranks of workers. To this end there is no doubt that his sunshiny disposition largely contributed.

Although Uncle George never united with any church, he exemplified by his pure and honorable life, the teachings of the golden rule, and unfailingly evinced a practical piety that will long be remembered as the best of professions.

The last few summers of his life have been spent at Devil's lake, with his only brother Charles, where, in their summer home they have welcomed parties from the cities, and looked forward to their visits each summer with great pleasure, and their hospitality will never be forgotten by them.

He has filled the various relations of life as son, husband, father, brother, friend and filled them well.

His life work is done and another name is stricken from the ever lessening roll of our old settlers. Wearied with life's duties and cares, weary of suffering and waiting he lay down to rest. Few of us will live as long or as well, and fewer yet will the Angel of Death greet with a more loving touch. Services were held from the home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Dunning of the Presbyterian church officiating. He was laid to rest at Brookside cemetery. Those from away who attended the funeral were Mrs. Frank Wiley, Mrs. Margaret Booth of Detroit; John Beuchstenier wife and two daughters of Warren, O., Willis Love and wife of Angola, Ind., J. A. Wray and wife of Kendall, Mich, and Charles Spafford of Devil's lake.

Friendship is the wine of life and no man can get enough of it to become inebriated.

LIFE 100,000 YEARS AGO.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. To day the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure Sore Lungs, Colds, obstinate Coughs and prevent Pneumonia, its the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son. Trial bottle free.

A nurse who understands her business will promise to marry any man just to get him well.

BADLY BURNED

SHELDON CHASE A TECUMSEH BOY BURNED WITH FIRE-WORKS

IN GRAND RAPIDS WHERE HE HAS BEEN WORKING

Clarence Chase received word from Grand Rapids Wednesday, that his brother Sheldon Chase, who is working in that city, was seriously burned with fireworks

Sheldon's mother, Mrs. Manley, who resides west of Tecumseh, left for Grand Rapids Wednesday noon, and Mrs. Edith Martin of Ridgeway, a sister, was summoned later, and she arrived there Wednesday night. A letter was received from them Thursday, saying that his face, arms, hands and the top of his head were badly burned, but the doctor thought he would recover if blood poisoning did not set in. His many friends here hope for a speedy recovery. Mrs. Manley will bring him home as soon as he is able to be moved.

UNION MEETINGS

WILL BE HELD IN TECUMSEH ON SUNDAY EVENINGS

During the Months Of July And August

NEXT SUNDAY EVENING SERVICE WILL BE HELD IN THE METHODIST CHURCH. REV. J. W DUNNING PREACHING

During the months of July and August union services will be held by the churches of the village on Sunday evening. There was a large attendance at the first of these last Sunday evening. The music was of a high order and Rev. Shaw preached an excellent sermon on "Pure Religion." It is the purpose of the pastors to make these services brief and to the point, preaching on themes of practical religion. Next Sunday evening the services will be held in the Methodist church, Rev. Dunning preaching. There will be special music. The sermon subject will be "John the Baptist's Message to the World to-day." The sins this fiery prophet of old rebuked, are the sins of our age. His threefold message of the kingdom, repentance and salvation; is a message the world needs to-day. The sermon will be an exposition of his teaching with reference to our modern life. All are invited to attend these services from week to week and share in the worship of God.

Pride does not measure happiness much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a godness, if none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER WILL VANISH.

Everybody knows that Hyomei cures catarrh. But there are many sufferers rom asthma and hay fever who don't know that Hyomei will give them instant relief and if used regularly permanent cure.

But C. A. Wright & Son know so well what Hyomei will do that he guarantees it to cure catarrh, hay fever and asthma

Surely its worth a trial on that basis and why people continue to choke and wheeze and spit and hawk and snuffle when a certain cure is at hand is beyond the comprehension of human intelligence.

When you breathe Hyomei deep into your lungs you breathe exactly the same, pleasant antiseptic balmy air that you would breathe in the forests of pine and eucalyptus of inland Australia.

"Doctoring and remedies never helped my hay fever, till I used Hyomei. It gave me great relief, and has my endorsement."—Louis A. Grobe, Flint, Mich.

Complete Hyomei outfit is only $1.00 and extra bottles 50 cents. A Hyomei outfit consists of a bottle of Hyomei, hard rubber inhaler, medicine dropper and full instructions for use. Just breathe it in and get immediate relief.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

The average man no sooner does a kind act than he begins to feel big over it.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. It sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

With man, most of his misfortunes are occasioned by man —Pliny the Elder.

Many people with chronic throat and lung trouble have found comfort and relief in Foley's Honey and Tar as it cures stubborn coughs after other treatment has failed. L. M. Ruggles, Reasnor, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet." Sold by all druggists in Tecumseh.

Somehow a woman never seems to enjoy a good cry unless she has two or more reasons for starting the bring flow.

Pain can be quickly and easily stopped. Pink Pain tablets—Dr. Shoop's—stop headache, womanly pains, any pains, anywhere in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c box. Ask your druggist or doctor about this formula—its fine. Sold by all dealers.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

TEST BINDER TWINE

Will Demonstrate Prison Goods Equals That Made by "Trust."

Jackson, Mich., Jul 8.—The war declared by the harvester "trust" against the product of the state prison binder twine plant has borne fruit, and the officials, at the suggestion of Governor Warner, will make an effort to show all those interested that the twine made here is just as good as that turned out by the "trust."

While in the city attending the meeting of the board of control the governor in a conference with Warden Wenger advised the latter to hold a public test of the prison twine and compare it as to weight, tensile strength and length with all other kinds of twine on the market. Farmers and dealers will be especially invited to attend this test.

MAY ANNUL FRANCHISE.

Alleged Electric Road Had Failed to Fulfill Certain Agreements.

Flint, Mich., July 8.—City Attorney McBride, acting under instructions received in a resolution from the common council, has prepared the necessary papers in a proceeding to annul the franchise of the Flint & Saginaw Electric railway. It is claimed that the railroad has failed to fulfill certain agreements relative to grading of roads in Burton and Genesee townships.

The railroad contended that it was impossible for it to secure teams to haul the gravel, but the council held that it could be drawn on the company's cars.

DIDN'T STOP TRAFFIC.

Tonnage Through Soo Very Heavy Despite Accident.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 8.—A feature of last month's traffic through the canals was a jump of nearly 2,000,000 tons in the American canal. This can almost wholly be ascribed to the wreck of the Canadian locks, which occurred early in the month. It is probably that not much tonnage was lost through the disaster.

Total June traffic figures are 8,932,405 tons, of which 5,190,390 tons passed through the American locks. Canadian figures are 1,056,335. June shows an increase of 1,969,060 over May.

Believes Her Boy Is Alive.

Cheyboygan, Mich., July 8.—Mrs. Oliver Besant, who lives with her husband at 730 Jefferson avenue, Detroit, is trying to locate her son, John, who, at the time of the forest fires which cost several lives and thousands of dollars property loss in this vicinity last fall, was a cook in the lumber camp of John Grant, near Indian River. The woman, firm in her belief that her boy did not meet death in the flames, has written several people here asking for information.

Injured While Chasing Cow.

Holland, Mich., July 8.—Chasing a cow in a field, Henry Riemeisma, a farmer living at West Olive, stumbled over a stump and fell. His head hit a stone, and he fractured his skull and suffered a concussion of the brain. Riemeisma lay unconscious in the field for hours before discovered.

Ill Far From Home.

Owosso, Mich., July 8.—A cablegram has been received here by Mrs. S. S. Miner, stating that an operation for appendicitis had been performed on her daughter, Mrs. Arthur C. Green, in Singapore, India. Mrs. Green's condition, it is said, was not serious. Mrs. Green is the daughter of Judge S. S. Miner and married a former Durand engineer, who left several months ago for India to install a large sugar plant at Singapore.

Lansing Child Dies of Injuries.

Lansing, Mich., July 8.—Arnold Jeffrey, the two-year-old child who toddled under a street car and sustained a broken leg and other injuries, is dead.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Josephine Prawda is dead in Grace hospital, Detroit, as the result of burns received while pouring kerosene on the kitchen fire at her home, 632 Kirby avenue east, in that city.

The supreme court has decided that the fact that local option election notices were posted four days late in Tuscola county does not invalidate the vote in that county, which was "dry" by a large majority.

Fred G. Smith of Quincy is dead from burns received while painting the inside of a cider tank at a cider mill. It is thought gases arising from the paint ignited when he attempted to light his pipe. He is survived by a widow and two children.

A movement is on to have Alexander McKenzie, sent to Jackson prison from Kent county in 1890 for life for killing a man, and who has twice in the last two years attempted to take his own life, pardoned. McKenzie has been paralyzed for a long time and is an inmate of the hospital.

Stanley G. Thompson, an expert stock appraiser, entered the vacant lot at Grand River and Wabash avenue, in Detroit, where, shielded by tall bill boards, he shot himself in the mouth with a revolver. He was found dead a short time afterward. Despondency was the cause.

The Calhoun County Law Enforcement league, an organization of the leading citizens of the county, has announced that they will raise a fund of about $1,500 for the purpose of importing detectives to ferret out the violations of the liquor law, which the members are certain are now going on.

Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc., are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent one?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take.

It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannan, of Alvarado, Va., Mrs. K. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky., and numerous others; in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., as Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, of that place, writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 506 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

PHONE COMPANY BUMPED.

Cannot Boost Rates Where Customers Get In Late.

Holland, Mich., July 8.—A decision which will effect rates of the Citizens' Telephone company throughout the state has been handed down here by Judge Pagham in the test case brought by Louis C. Bradford. It was alleged by Bradford that the company discriminated in its rates; that certain people of this city secured the service on a contract for a specified number of years for a certain sum, but that others who subscribed after the contracts were let were forced to pay a higher rate.

It was contended that this discrimination was illegal and that the rates could not be raised while the contracts were still in effect.

Judge Pagham, in his decision, upheld the plaintiff.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, fail their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and build and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

Choosing a Builder.

The selection of a builder is quite as important a matter in putting up a house as the choice of an architect. Don't choose the cheapest builder merely because he is cheapest. If you accept his bid, find out the reason of the cheapness. Frequently the builder is a man of little means, and often he operates on borrowed capital. Should the builder become bankrupt or fail to pay for his labor or materials the owner, under the mechanics' laws of most states, becomes liable for the builder's debts. This is true even though the owner has paid the builder for his work. In order to obtain his house free and clear in such a case the owner must meet the builder's obligations. The prudent owner will, of course, pay for his house only as it is constructed. Even then it would be a useful caution to make sure that the builder has paid his indebtedness on the house. Payments are usually made the builder when the foundations are done, when the frame is up, when the house is closed, when the plastering is finished and when the completed house is turned over to the owner.—Circle Magazine.

Ancient Castle, Curious Clock.

Rushen castle, Castletown, Isle of Man, is the ancient seat of the kings and lords of Man. The castle is a veritable curiosity both historically and otherwise. The first mention of it dates to the year 1257. It was taken after six months' siege in the year 1315 by Robert the Bruce. The castle is built of limestone and is not a ruin. Until a few years ago it was used as a prison. The town clock seen in the castle wall was presented by Queen Elizabeth in the year 1597. It has only one hand on the dial. This is the hour hand. The minutes are judged by the position of the hand between the hours. The works of this clock are also a curiosity. The weight at the end of the pendulum is a large stone, and it is driven by a rope coiled around a cylinder of wood, with another stone at the end of the rope. The clock is still going after its centuries of service and is still the town clock.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

LAKE SHORE RY.

Certain About It.

Once upon a time, not so long ago, a couple of cowpunchers found themselves guests in the home of a minister of the gospel whose custom was to hold family worship of a morning and to conclude the same by asking each one present to give some quotation from the Scriptures. One after another repeated some text until at last it came the turn of Jim Bulstoke of the Crowfoot ranch.

"My dear young friend," said the dominie as he saw the latter hesitating, "surely can recall some verse from the Bible?"

Jim's face was bathed with profuse perspiration, but at last there came to him some approximation of a memory of something he had read or heard at some stage of his life about the first chapter of Genesis. At last he broke out, "God made the world."

The dominie lifted a hand to hide a sudden smile, but bowed to Jim's neighbor in the circle. Curley was even worse off than Jim had been and for the life of him could not think of anything. At last, remembering the occasional virtue of a good bluff, he twisted one foot around his chair leg and, with all the confidence he could muster, remarked, "He shore did!"—Recreation.

Last English King in a Battle.

The battle of Dettingen, in Bavaria, on the 16th (27th O. S.) of June, 1743, between the British, Hanoverian and Hessian troops (52,000 men), under command of George II., and the French troops (60,000 men), under Marshal Noailles, which resulted in the victory of the allied troops, was the last occasion on which an English king fought on the battlefield. His majesty continued the whole time in the heat of all the action, which was said by those who witnessed it to have been as fierce a conflict as had ever been known.

On the morning of the battle the king appeared in the same red coat he had worn at Oudenarde, thirty-five years before, taking his place at the head of the seven battalions of guards. About noon he ordered a general advance, and during the movements it entailed he was very nearly taken by the enemy, but was rescued by the Twenty-second regiment, who, in remembrance, wore a sprig of oak in their caps upon the anniversary of the battle for many years afterward.—London Tit-Bits.

The Children of the Great.

There is a tendency for children of exceptional parents to regress toward the average stock. Galton terms this tendency filial regression. This, the London hospital points out, applies equally to exceptional physical and mental characters. Thus, though tall stature may run in certain families, yet there is always a tendency to revert to the mean average size. Similarly the children of a genius tend to have somewhat less than their father's power, but more than the average of the race. According to Professor Pearson, distinguished parents are just ten times more likely to have distinguished offspring that undistinguished parents. Still, such cases as the Darwins, father and sons; the two Pitts, Philip and Alexander the Great are exceptional. Similarly also the children of a criminal tend to be less vicious than the father, though morally inferior to the average man.

Why He Was Unpopular.

When first made bishop of Stepney Dr. Winnington Ingram was anything but popular and indeed had occasionally to seek police protection. Greatly worried, the bishop tried to trace the cause and found one lady who was able to enlighten him.

"It's your white shirt, sir," she said. "We don't want no white shirted gentry here. Try a gray shirt and a dickey, like our chaps wear on Sunday."

The advice tendered was promptly acted upon, and thus the present bishop of London made the first advance toward close friendship with his people.—London Graphic.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

GLIDDEN CARS HAVE STARTED

Big Automobile Contest Is Under Way.

TO KALAMAZOO FIRST DAY

Big Crowd Saw Them Off at Detroit. Officials Express Appreciation For Entertainment Received in City of Straits—Given Boat Ride and Luncheon Sunday.

Detroit, July 12.—With all the ceremony that befits so notable an event in automobile history the sixth annual Glidden tour, known officially as "the annual reliability contest of the American Automobile association," was started today from the Campus Martius in this city. A large and enthusiastic assemblage, headed by the city officials, was on hand to see the forty machines begin their tour of 2,637 miles.

The tour, which is primarily an endurance test of the cars engaged, will go by way of Chicago to Minneapolis, to Omaha, thence to Denver, and return to Kansas City, where it will disband. The distance must be covered in fifteen days, exclusive of two days' rest in Minneapolis and two in Denver.

Owing to the rigid tests applied to the machines the Glidden tour is really a contest of manufacturers. They compete this year for three trophies—the Glidden for touring cars, the Hower for runabouts and roadsters and the Detroit for the miniature tonneau type of car. In addition, there are a few noncontestant participants and the two official cars. An exceedingly close watch is kept on each contestant by all the others, and every flaw or default in the construction or running of the car is noted and penalized.

Take Trip on Steamer.

With the departure of the tourists closes three days of lively events, no small part of which was the great automobile parade on Saturday. Sunday the visitors were entertained by a ride on the steamer City of Cleveland up through Lake St. Clair and return.

That the occasion has been a wholly enjoyable affair is evidenced by the remarks of Charles J. Glidden himself, who said:

"The good people of the City of the Straits have won all three trophies provided for the Glidden tour." Mr. Glidden, when he made this speech, was standing on the top of a lunch table on the City of Cleveland while it ploughed through the waters. Around the donor of the trophy of the annual Glidden event were grouped 500 cheering automobile agents, drivers and manufacturers, in the city to see the beginning, this morning, of the expedition.

The speech followed a buffet buffet luncheon spread on two great tables on the lower deck.

"We are having the time of our lives entertaining you fellows," declared Mayor Breitmeyer. "We have had a good time ever since you struck town. We would like to have you every year."

The luncheon stored away, the diners began a serpentine, headed by the band. Up and down the deck of the steamer they marched and sang and cheered, the mayor and Glidden, arm in arm, at their head.

At the Pontchartrain, last night, there was a meeting of the drivers and contestants for final "preping."

Kalamazoo, 142 miles away, is the first overnight stop of the tourists.

WILL ADVANCE MONEY.

Automobile Owners Want Road Improvements Completed.

Bay City, Mich., July 12.—Anxious that the unfinished roads in Saginaw and Bay counties be rushed to completion as soon as possible, the auto owners of both counties have come forward with a financial offer to the road commission.

The commission had not intended completing the roads in question until the next years appropriation had been received, but the matter is under consideration, and should it find that the loan could be legally made it will be accepted. A macadamized road will then be laid from Bay City to Saginaw.

Will Match Kaufman and Johnson.

New York, July 12.—An effort will be made this week to finally clinch the match between Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, and Al Kaufman of California, set for either September or October, and determine the place of meeting. Until his recent fight with Billy Papke there was a strong hope among fight followers that Stanley Ketchel might overcome the negro, but that hope is now glimmering.

SAVES MAN FROM AN ANGRY MOB

Deputy First Had Exciting Run to Catch Him.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—The Sabbath quiet of Oakwood, a suburb, was shattered by the action of a mob of 500 enraged men, determined to lynch a man named Frank Bradley, whom Mary Oberfitzious had accused of brutal conduct.

The girl had started from her home in Oakwood to visit friends in Detroit. A short distance from her home Bradley sprang from his hiding place and seized her, according to her story. In the melee with the assaulter the girl had several teeth knocked out, and her face received bad bruises. As soon as she could make her way back to the house her father quickly summoned Deputy Sheriff Lubs.

After chasing Bradley for several miles the officer got so near that he took refuge in an old culvert. He fired at his pursuer and then started to run again. Lubs pulled his revolver and fired one shot at the fugitive. Dropping his own gun and throwing his hands above his head, Bradley begged the deputy not to kill him.

Just as the party started to retrace their steps to take the prisoner to the county jail the mob began to arrive.

With his revolver in one hand, and striking right and left with his other, Lubs managed to get his man clear of the crowd. The prisoner in the meantime trembled with fear. He was brought to Detroit and lodged in the county jail.

COULDN'T STAND PAIN.

Young Man Who Lost His Arm Shoots Himself.

Battle Creek, Mich., July 12.—Unable to endure the pain in his left arm, which had been amputated by several operations, and while despondent, Archie Callahan, twenty years old, night clerk at the Pittsburg hotel, went to his room and, standing in front of a mirror, shot himself through the head with a 32 caliber revolver. He was taken to Nichols hospital, but died a short time after arriving there.

Callahan lost his arm when blood poisoning developed after a fishing trip, when he stuck a fin into his finger.

WESTON CAN'T MAKE IT.

Will Reach San Francisco Four Days Behind Schedule.

Sacramento, Cal., July 12.—With 108 miles of the 3,975 mile walk from New York to San Francisco still before him, Edward Payson Weston rested Sunday at Roseville, eighteen miles north of the capital.

He expects to deliver the letter from Postmaster Morgan of New York to Postmaster Arthur G. Fisk of San Francisco Wednesday morning, four days behind his schedule of 100 days. Weston admitted, when found lying in the shade of a tree, that he was somewhat "tuckered out."

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

James Cottrell of Richmond, Va., who shot himself at the Battle Creek sanitarium while despondent several days ago, is dead. His relatives are on their way to claim the body.

Tripping over a rock on the sidewalk, Alonzo Cooper of Flint, a factory hand, fell and struck his head on the sidewalk. He was removed to Hurley hospital, and his condition is precarious.

Richard Whitman of Flint, twenty-five years old, was overcome by gasolene fumes several days ago while working at an automobile plant. He never fully recovered and is now violently insane.

Edward Munch, a former Charlotte man, who has been in the hotel business at Cement City and Brooklyn for several years, has leased the Williams hotel of Charlotte and takes possession Monday.

Rushing from the house in his shirt sleeves, while in the midst of a conversation with his wife, William Osborn, a stone mason of Battle Creek, disappeared several days ago and has not been seen since.

Miss Amelia Koming, a German girl employed at the home of Professor Hildner of Ann Arbor, is missing, and the police are of the opinion that she drowned herself. Miss Koming has appeared melancholy of late, and when last seen she asked Professor Hildner the way to the river.

Loses Life Trying to Save Dog.

Hurontown, Mich., July 12.—In an effort to rescue his pet dog, the twelve-year-old son of Mike Paklink fell down an eighty foot shaft. The lad's screams attracted the attention of workmen in the vicinity, but they were unable to reach his body.

GREAT FLEET IS ASSEMBLED

Begins Practice Maneuvers Off Provincetown, Mass.

HALF A HUNDRED VESSELS

Represent Value of Nearly $200,000,000—Rear Admiral Schroeder In Command—Sailors Indulge In Sports Sunday—Taft Expected to Make Grand Final Review.

Provincetown, Mass., July 12.—Skirting the inner tip of Cape Cod there lies in the harbor of Provincetown and nearby waters the largest and most notable fleet of warships ever assembled for active duty under the stars and stripes. Every vessel of the half hundred is in readiness for practice maneuvers which will tax the ingenuity and skill of the foremost naval minds of the country for the next month.

The vessels, including battleships, cruisers, torpedo boats, submarines, refrigerator ships, tenders and supply ships, numbering fifty-four vessels all told and representing a valuation of nearly $200,000,000, are drawn up in two parallel lines extending around Race point along the cape to Truro, four miles below, standing at the head of the line being Rear Admiral Schroeder's flagship, the Connecticut.

On board the vessels are 15,000 men. Shore leave was granted Sunday as it will be every Sunday during the coming month of maneuvers when the fleets will return to Provincetown for the week end. Evans field, purchased by the sailors two years ago, when they were here with Admiral Evans, and named in his honor, is a favorite resort of the sailors and marines, and Sunday two ball games, with various other sports, attracted many hundreds to the spot. In the harbor were held cutter races, swimming matches and other aquatic sports.

Daily two divisions of the fleet will go outside for practice and maneuvers, two other divisions remaining inside, which will be the program throughout the maneuvers, the divisions alternating in the work.

The big event of the maneuvers is expected to be a grand final review by President Taft and Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer which will come near the close of the work, according to general understanding among naval officers.

SWEET TOOTH FILLERS.

Candy Makers' Representatives Begin Convention at Wildwood, N. J.

Wildwood, N. J., July 12.—The men whose business is the satisfying of America's gigantic appetite for sweets—in other words, the National Jobbing Confectioners' association and the National Manufacturing Confectioners' Salesmen's association—met here today for a week's convention.

While here the delegates will discuss the effect of recent food legislation on the candy trade and other matters of trade interest. The president of the jobbing confectioners is D. L. Morgan of Scranton, Pa. William T. Brierly of Baltimore is president of the salesmen.

TO SUCCEED VON BUELOW.

Von Buelow Himself Has Suggested Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg.

Berlin, July 12.—The emperor has asked Prince Von Buelow whom he would suggest as his successor in the chancellorship, and the prince has recommended Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, minister of the interior and vice chancellor.

The opinion among government officials appears to settle upon Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, especially as the widening circle learns of Chancellor Von Buelow's recommendation.

The emperor is expected to arrive in Berlin on Tuesday. He will remain here for two days, during which time Chancellor Van Buelow will retire and his successor will be appointed.

DETROIT ELKS LOST.

Their Train Into Los Angeles Cannot Be Located.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—Forty-five thousand visitors are now in Los Angeles to attend the annual convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks which began today.

The train bringing the Detroit delegations is lost somewhere between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, but is believed to be safe.

TWO KILLED AT FIREWORKS FESTIVAL.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—Two men were killed, a third lost both legs and a number were seriously injured by fireworks at a celebration at the Holy Rosary Catholic church here. A parcel of fireworks accidentally exploded.

MANY WANT TO SEE PRESIDENT

Invitations Pour In on Him From West.

Trip Likely to Be Made In Special Train—Competent Official Force Will Accompany Taft—Railroad Uses Great Precautions When Chief Executive Travels.

Washington, July 12.—Indications multiply that President Taft's announced itinerary for his western and southern trip this fall will be materially extended. Strong efforts will be made by congressmen and state officials to have the president stop for a few minutes, at least, at nearly all of the towns of appreciable size through which his train will pass in the daylight hours. Already the president has been bombarded with such requests. He has suggested to all of his callers and correspondents that they take the matter up with him later in the summer.

A special train will be absolutely essential if the president is to make stops at any of the smaller cities that dot the way between the larger cities where he already has announced his intention of paying visits.

The president expects to be away for two months on this trip and will have to carry a complement of stenographers, clerks and telegraphers in addition to his secretaries. The porters and cook assigned to the president whenever he travels are the most competent and trusted men in the employ of the Pullman company. Will S. Anderson, the porter in charge when the president travels, was with President Roosevelt on all his travels. J. C. Broadus, the chef to the president while enroute, began his presidential service under Mr. McKinley and has caused both President Roosevelt and President Taft to marvel at the wonderful meals he manages to turn out of the tiny kitchens—little bigger than closets—which private cars carry.

When the president travels the railroad officials take every precaution for his comfort and safe conveyance. The old idea of sending out a pilot engine has largely been abandoned, however, except on some stretches of single track.

Hurricane at Panama.

Panama, July 12.—A hurricane of unusual severity occurred here Saturday night, doing much damage to property.

TO CIVIL EMPLOYES.

President Pays Tribute In Laying Church Cornerstone.

Washington, July 12.—In assisting Sunday to lay the cornerstone of a church which has for a part of its equipment a gymnasium, a swimming pool, bowling alleys and club rooms, President Taft took occasion to pay a tribute to the civil employe of the government, who, being compelled to remain in Washington while the president goes to the seashore and legislators seek their vacations, carries on the work of the government.

"Sometimes working for a salary much too low," said the president, "he is philosopher enough to know that he can get more real happiness out of life in seeking his family grow and in the education of his children than by aspiring to be millionaire or plutocrat."

The president also spoke of the wisdom of providing rational amusement as a part of church work, thus making religion a welcome part of life.

The church is to be known as the Igram Memorial Congregational, of which Dr. J. W. Frizell is the pastor.

FOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATORS

Will Hear Course of Lectures at Chautauqua on Character Development.

Chautauqua, N. Y., July 12.—For one week, beginning today, the program at the Chautauqua assembly will be conducted by the Religious Education association. During the week lectures will be delivered on character development through the college and university, through the public schools, through the Sunday school, through the church, through social and personal hygiene and through social living. The lectures will be delivered by well known theologians and educators.

For the conference hours there will be a series of conferences, each opened by a special speaker, on the general topic of moral and religious education in the home. The council of the Religious Education association will hold its semiannual meeting on July 13 and 14, and the recently appointed commission on the graded Sunday school courses will meet here July 15 and 16.

Money is the most efficient substitute for brains.

Nine times out of ten it is the man you call stingy who helps you when you have squandered your wages and need food.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

WIDOWER JUDD'S HOUSEKEEPER

The Surprise That Was In Store For Two Designing Women.

By ANNE HEILMAN.

[Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.]

Mrs. Platt sat on her front porch, busy in braiding a mat. She was one of those women one likes to have about. There was a certain comforting presence in her large figure and comely face. Although the face when at rest was somewhat sad, yet it was one of those beaming faces that seem full of love for the whole world—that is, for all whom she admitted into her world. For those outside of its bounds she had no use. Just now her thoughts were busy with her neighbor, in whose direction she sent her glances.

"Peter's getting his supper early," she mused. "It's pretty lonely for him, but I hope he won't be inveigled into taking Serena Lamb for a housekeeper. I never was one to promote gossip, but all Clifton knows that her reputation for dressing far outdoes her skill in housekeeping. If I thought"— Just then she turned her head and caught sight of Mrs. Lamb walking up the path.

"Too bad to see that nice home going to rack and ruin," Mrs. Lamb began after settling herself in the rocker. "I hear it's fairly swarming with mice. Peter only uses two rooms. Isn't it a wonder he ain't picked out a housekeeper afore this?"

"I've an idea," said Mrs. Platt, endeavoring to speak unconcernedly, "that he'll probably ask you"—

"Me!" interrupted Mrs. Lamb in an astonished tone. "Me! And with such a famous cook as you next door! Trust a man to get a cook when he's free to pick and choose. Sarah wasn't much on the cooking, and I guess he'll want a change."

"David and I spent twenty-five happy years in this house," sighed Mrs. Platt. "It'd come hard for me to leave it."

"And I couldn't possibly leave my place," protested Mrs. Lamb. "And the garden doing so nicely too. You'd oughter see my strawberries, Emeline. Peter says they are the finest he ever saw. I'd bring you over a saucerful, but as Peter was going on so about your getting so stout I thought I wouldn't encourage your appetite any. Well," looking keenly at her friend to assure herself that the blow had struck home, "I must be getting on."

Serena fared forth slowly along the grassy lane. "Emeline don't care shucks for Peter Judd," she shrewdly conjectured. "David Platt's money is more to her than any living man. But she'd take the place for no other reason than to keep me out of it. As if any one would look at her twice when I'm 'around," and she glowed with a fine satisfaction as she compared herself to Mrs. Platt.

To be sure, Emeline was an umpire on all the arts of housekeeping; her cookery was town talk, while she had never become proficient in the art, but there were other ways of reaching a man's heart. Serena knew, because she had proved it twice.

In fact, neither lady had deceived the other. Each knew the other, from widely different motives, stood ready at a moment's notice to respond to Peter Judd's call for a housekeeper. Each knew that Clifton was wondering which of the two widows who lived on either side of Peter would be called eventually to fill the departed Sarah's place, for the custom prevailed in Clifton when a man was, in the wisdom of Providence, bereaved to hunt out some widow, respected by the community, to undertake the duties of housekeeper, and generally, after a decent period of mourning, the twain became one.

"If Serena makes up her mind to have Peter he'll have to give in," philosophized Mrs. Platt. "She's already married two, that didn't in the least want her. She's comfortably off, too, and don't need to leave her home. I wouldn't be so set against it if I didn't know 'twas her that interfered between him and Floretta Young more'n twenty years ago. Peter up and married Sarah out of pure spite, and Floretta took that good for nothing Cy Blakey. If ever two people were cut out for one another, Peter and Floretta were. Well, as he's held out again Serena for over a year he may escape for good. I'll not worry any more."

But she did. The chance and apparently careless remarks that Serena let fall, as if an understanding existed between herself and Peter Judd, fretted Emeline's spirit. In the depths of her honest soul she believed that Peter was a regular caller at the Lamb home. She waited for the announcement of Serena's engagement as for a blow that was sure to fall.

Still, when it came she was not prepared for it. One afternoon she had just taken her accustomed seat on the porch when the gate opened, and Mrs. Lamb swept up the path with an unusual air of importance.

"Land, ain't it hot!" she exclaimed. "Such a muss as I've got into," carefully arranging the folds of her new organdie skirt before sitting down. Her tone rang with triumph. Mrs. Platt felt the change in the atmosphere, and all her world darkened.

"There's all that house of Peter's to be gone over this hot weather. Not a mite of cleaning since Sarah died. Such a looking places! And it must be all rid up by the middle of September. I just ran in to ask if your paint and whitewash brushes were in good order. Peter said as how you mentioned having a supply of 'em when you offered to keep house for him months ago. My, how red your face is, Emeline! You hadn't ought to wear pink. Now, if I do say it, I've a complexion that'll stand any color."

"I didn't exactly offer"— stammered Mrs. Platt, tears of mortification smarting her eyes.

"Oh, well, it is all past and done with," interrupted Serena airily. "I just had to give in. He wouldn't take a 'no.' Well, if you'll lend the brushes I'll be goin'."

Armed with the brushes, Serena departed, every movement of the organdie proclaiming victory.

In the days that followed Mrs. Platt gave much time to sitting on the front porch watching her friend's progress in the housecleaning line. Serena called seldom now, and the time passed slowly.

"I just ran in to ask your opinion of these samples," began Serena one day in September. "We're going to have new carpets for the double parlors. Don't you prefer the green?"

Serena wore her best dress. "I shall need a new one soon," she said complacently, smoothing down its silken folds.

"I suppose the affair 'll come off soon," ventured Mrs Platt after the merits of greens and reds in carpets had been duly canvassed, but Serena only smiled consciously as she gathered up the samples and departed.

"I suppose it'll come off after harvest," mused Mrs. Platt despondently, meaning Peter's wedding.

One afternoon as Mrs. Platt was setting her table for tea she was surprised by a call from Peter Judd.

"Coming to invite me to the wedding," she surmised as he sauntered up the path. "Well, if it's foreordained he should marry Serena I'll not be spiteful about it. Sit down and have a cup of tea, Peter," she urged, cutting a great, fat, shaking, four storied jelly cake into generous slices.

Peter Judd, a large man with a pleasant, florid face, seated himself and absorbed tea and cake with much satisfaction.

"You always were a master hand at cake, Emeline," he commented affably. "I never saw your beat. It's something in that line that I called to see you about."

Was it possible that he was going to ask her to initiate Serena in the difficult art? Mrs. Platt's face clouded. "Well?" she asked in a strained voice.

"I want that you should do a little baking for me. Could you?"

"Do some baking for you?" she gasped. "For the land's sakes! When?"

Peter reached for another piece of cake. "For the next Tuesday and the balance of the week. You'll know what's needed."

The wedding was to take place Tuesday, then. Emeline's world was a temporary blank. "Serena wouldn't like it," she faltered.

"What if she don't?" exploded Mr. Judd. "She can't cook. And I want something decent in the house when I get back from Minooka."

"Back from Minooka?" Emeline asked in a dazed fashion. "Are you going away?"

"Why, of course! Going to Minooka to get married. Don't you know that Floretta lives there?"

"Floretta! Are you—is she?—"

"Her man's dead, if that's what you're trying to get at. Drank himself to death, I reckon. I thought you knew all along."

Mrs. Platt poured more tea with a shaking hand. A sudden burst of sunshine illuminated her world. "Does Mis' Lamb know?"

"Not she," returned Peter, beginning another attack on the cake. "Tain't none of her business, anyway. I got her to clean up before Floretta comes. That's all I wanted of her. Will you do them things, Emeline—the cakes and such?"

"Yes, yes!" cried Mrs. Platt. Her voice was joyful, her face aglow. All the gloom of the past few weeks vanished as if by magic. "I'll do more'n that, Peter. I'm so tickled to have Floretta for a neighbor again that I'll invite a lot of her old friends here for Tuesday. And I'll have the best dinner spread out that you ever sat down to."

Sure Enough Tale.

In a certain private school there is a small boy who is always cheerfully miles behind everybody else. He is not a dull boy, but learning does not appeal to him as being a thing especially to be desired. Recently the teacher told the class in composition that on the next day she would expect each of them to be able to write a short anecdote. She explained with great care the meaning of the word anecdote, and next day when she called the class up to write all but the laggard went at once to work.

"Why don't you write an anecdote, Rob?" asked the teacher.

"I forgot what an anecdote is," said Rob, undisturbed.

"I explained to you yesterday, Rob, and you ought to remember," said the teacher, a bit out of patience. "An anecdote is a tale. Now write."

Rob bent over his slate and, with much twisting of brow and writhing of lip, ground out his task. When the slates were collected his was at the very top of the heap. The teacher picked it up, and this is what she read:

"Yesterday we had soup made from the anecdote of an ox."—London Mail.

Helped Some.

"He got a check to his career."
"Indeed! Too bad!"
"Not at all."
"Why not?"
"It was for $10,000."

Quite Warm.

"I understand there was a hot time in the Bangs household the other day."

"Yes. When he went home he found his wife simply boiling, and she gave him a roast."—Baltimore American.

A BURNT BARRIER.

The Lover Laid His Pride at His Sweetheart's Feet.

By MARIE MONTROSE.

[Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Down the dust white country road sped Doxy, palpitating and panic stricken, her eyes bent on a volume of smoke that was rolling up from the sheep dotted pasture. She went "cross lots" and came to the charred remains of the old farmhouse, where a knot of neighbors, helpless and wondering, gathered round the pathetically small pile of rescued household effects.

Doxy was not a young woman, but she was of the type that time touched gently. Her eyes were soft and gray and expressive of a past but unforgotten time. Her optimistic fatalism was not wanting in this hour of trouble.

"I don't see how you managed to save so many things," she said to her friends, each of whom at this encouragement began to point out what he had snatched from the flames.

"See, Miss Barton," cried a lad, triumphantly thrusting a tin can into her hand. "I learn you say as how this 'ere was yer bank, so I grabbed it fust thing."

"Oh, Jim, there is $50 in it!"

Her father, Seth Barton, now arrived upon the scene. His heart was full of memories which were smothered in the philosophical remark, "Never could have saved her in this wind!"

"You and Doxy 'll come right home with us and stay," cordially invited the nearest neighbor.

The others followed suit in this proffer of hospitality, tendering wide open doors.

"You are so kind, but we'll stay right here," said Doxy in response to each invitation. "Our upstairs is fitted up snug as a fireside, you know."

Her father's stoical face brightened. He had a catlike clinging to home—not from love of every heart beat for it, as in Doxy's case, but because he could not bear the thought of uprooting and transplanting.

The neighbors carried the goods and chattels to the barn and helped Doxy arrange a temporary home. While the men were aiding in the evening work their wives prepared supper. Any event, joyful or calamitous, in the district was deemed an "occasion" worthy of a general repast. After supper they departed for their homes. Seth settled down to his evening pipe and weekly paper as if nothing had happened.

Then Doxy in the soft shadows of the dusk stole out and went through the garden to the blackened ruins of tottering walls and crumbled mortar. All the voices of long ago called to her, most persistently the voice of the youth who ten years before had wooed her.

There had been the lovers' quarrel, and Jed Knox in a moment of hot headed anger had sworn he would never again cross the Barton threshold.

Time and events showed him that he was entirely in the wrong and that the quarrel had been of his own making, but he held stubbornly to his oath. With quiet and firm dignity Doxy had refused to see him elsewhere than in her own home.

As Jed's stubbornness increased he grew bitter and morose, avoiding all mention of Doxy.

She started at sight of a man coming from out the ruins, but in an instant she recognized Sol Opper, the village carpenter, early in line for a contract.

"Sol," said Doxy briskly, "I want you to build me a house as near like this as you can."

"Waal, Miss Barton, tell me how much you can put into a house."

"There's the $50 Jim saved, the bank account, a little insurance, some that Hobbs owes us"—

After a mental accounting she gave the total of her capital. Sol shook his head discouragingly.

"You can't do it noways for that money."

"Knock out the cellar," commanded Doxy, "and take off the blinds. In the fall I will use the turkeys for blinds."

"The turkeys!" repeated Sol wonderingly.

"The money I get for selling them, I mean."

When the blinds were off, the bay window deducted, the gables torn off, the back porch taken away, the stairs removed and a general clearing of fireplace, attic, paint, plaster, lath and partitions had been effected, the amount of cash available was triumphantly reached.

The architecture appealed to Sol as easy to build, but was not in accordance with his ideas of what a dwelling should be.

"Your house won't have no insides, Miss Barton, but I'll be on hand tomorrow to begin," said he disapprovingly.

When he had gone she again resumed her twilight reveries.

"Miss Doxy!"

She started and, turning, saw the figure of a lad so like the youth of the long ago that there was a momentary stirring in her heart like pain.

"Don't you remember me? Laurie Knox?"

He was Jed's young nephew, who had been used as a child to spend his summer vacations with his uncle.

"Little Laurie! A man!"

"I hope so," he replied, taking her hand. "I came today for a visit after all these years. We just heard of the fire, and Uncle Jed asked me to come and see you and ask if there was anything we could do to help you. Won't you and your father come over to Uncle Jed's and stay, just for night anyway?"

Had it been so long, then, his struggles? She pondered sadly. It hurt her that he could not come himself, but must send another. She thanked the boy kindly, but declined the invitation. After talking a few moments of old times she bade him go to the barn and see her father.

"You had better come, too," he pleaded. "I don't believe it's just good for you to stay here."

She smiled at his boyish wisdom.

"Just a few moments more, Laurie, and then I'll join you and father."

It was very quiet. A lone bird called. She felt solitary and outlawed. A third time she was interrupted. There was no mistaking the man. Jed, strong and straight, his grimness softened, but showing in the lines of his face, came straight up to her.

"Doxy, I thought they would never go. As soon as I sent the lad I knew I must come myself. I took a short cut, but the Opper man was ahead of me and then Laurie."

"Well?"

Her voice was curiously subdued.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

"Doxy, I am here at last. I have punished myself all these years, which have not meant much to you, for you are as young and as fair as the night"—

"The night you said you should never cross our threshold."

"Doxy," he cried, seizing her hand passionately, "I have suffered for it. Be good to me."

"Why did you come tonight, Jed?" she asked quietly, but with beating heart.

"Why? Because everything brought me. I couldn't keep away."

"You came," she said, turning proudly away, "because you knew that at last you could come and still keep your oath, because you knew the house was gone."

"No," he said, with a long breath. "You don't mean that, and you don't think so."

She felt his strong arms about her. She was lifted and carried over the smoking ashes and bricks to the place where the doorstep had been. He held her closely with his left arm, while his right hand grasped a blackened beam. In a moment he was standing on the charred threshold, pressing her to him in a tight embrace.

"Here," he said with forced lightness, "I lay my pride at your feet. Now, Doxy, won't you say something?"

"Never mind the ten years now, Jed. They are gone—like the house."

"But we'll have a new house, Doxy, right here, and Sol shall put on and in all those things you told him to leave off."

"I say," cried the voice of Laurie from a distance, "Uncle Seth just found a ten dollar bill in the old dictionary. He says he'll bet it's the one he lost ten years ago."

A Case For Condolence.

Not all that glitters is gold and not all who lean over the rail are seasick. One of the lessons of life is not to take too much for granted. However, in the instance mentioned by F. J. M. Smith in "The Hades of Ardenne" the sympathy was as genuine as if the object had been more deserving.

Night was falling as Daubiton paced the deck. One by one the passengers had gone below. One lady remained in the stern, leaning over the rail, gazing sadly over the sea. Daubiton could just make out her outlines in the dusk.

As he drew near her on one of his rounds a heartrending groan startled his ears. He looked wistfully at the graceful figure shrouded in its long garment. He could make out the small head bent over the foaming water in exquisite feminine grace. If he could only help her!

Back and forth he paced. She was evidently suffering from the worst form of seasickness. It was sad to think of her all alone with no one to comfort her. Daubiton debated. Perhaps she preferred to be left alone.

The boat suddenly gave a roll and plunged wildly. There was a shrill shriek, followed by a terrible groan. Daubiton could stand it no longer. He went to her and spoke respectfully, "Can I do anything for you?"

There was no answer.

"She seems unconscious," he said to himself and laid his hand gently on her shoulder. Then he started. It was no lady. It was a fender, and the groans were made by the chains which led from the rudder to the steering house.

Mother Love Defined.

What is material instinct? Is it a tangible something or is it love, the desire to protect? This wonderful mother love—what would it not do? Suns rise and set just for baby. Conversation on other subjects is tabooed in the house where a new monarch reigns. The four walls of the home are suddenly glorified with the presence of the little newcomer; the ambition of both father and mother reaches its zenith. Pleasurable pastimes we were wont to indulge in are forgotten; pursuits that filled our life, music, art, literature, things that were part of us, associated with our very name—where have they gone? All laid aside as of no moment now; in the future perhaps when "baby" is not so dependent on our every thought we will again feel their charm. Just now they might as well never have been, so completely do we give ourselves to this new life.

This is maternal instinct.—Mrs. Arnoldi in Uncle Sam's Magazine.

Moral Support.

"You think well of Miss Scadds?"
"Well, I'm conspiring to marry her."
"It takes two to make a conspiracy."
"I have help."
"Her mother?"
"No, herself."

Useless.

"Mildred," murmured a fashionable young man, sinking on one knee, "for your birthday gift I offer—myself."

"Thank you," was the cold reply, "but I only accept useful presents!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Vigor is contagious, and whatever makes us think or feel strongly adds to our power and enlarges our field of action.—Emerson.

Scottish Miner's Wit.

An amusing comment was made by a miner at an ambulance lecture in Elphinstone, East Lothian. The lecturer had stated that if suffocation from choking was likely to ensue the simplest remedy to give relief till medical aid arrived was to take a fine pointed penknife and make a small incision in the throat. One of the miners then shouted: "Ye dinna ken Elphinstone folks. If I was to try that the morn here's what wad happen: If that man died his folk wad hae me prosecuted for murder, and if he got better he himself wad be the first to prosecute me for cutting his throat."—Dundee Advertiser.

The British Museum.

In the early days of the British museum, a century or more ago, the place was open for only six hours daily on five days a week during the summer and four hours daily during the rest of the year. Nobody could remain in the building for more than two consecutive hours, and the number admissible at one time was strictly limited to fifteen. Each batch of visitors was shepherded by an attendant.

LIFE 100,000 YEARS AGO.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. To day the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure Sore Lungs, Colds, obstinate Coughs and prevent Pneumonia, its the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00 Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son. Trial bottle free.

Britain's Greatest Precipice.

Writing to the Newcastle Journal in regard to the drowning of three bird catchers at St. Kilda, a correspondent says the wild fowls of St. Kilda find nesting places that enable them to bid defiance to the sportsman and to the most daring of bird catchers. There is, for example, the precipice called Conagher, the same being far and away the greatest precipice in the British Isles, the deepest perpendicular precipice. It rises from the sea level to a clear height of 1,220 feet. Consider that a man might jump from the top of Conagher into the sea without getting a scratch by the way.

Breaking the News.

Marion, who had been taught to report her misdeeds promptly, came to her mother one day, sobbing penitently.

"Mother, I—I—broke a brick in the fireplace."

"Well, that is not very hard to remedy. But how on earth did you do it, child?"

"I pounded it with father's watch."—Success Magazine.

Accessories.

"I'm going in for poetry," lisped the sweet young thing.

"Real, heartfelt poetry," thundered the man of letters, "is only written in a garret."

"Yes; I've heard that. So I've fitted up a beautiful Turkish den in ours."—Washington Herald.

Hunger or Fame.

"It is a good thing to hunger for fame," remarked the struggling author.

"Yes," assented his friend the artist, "if you don't get the fame you are sure to get the hunger."—Chicago News.

SCHOOL MEETING

HELD IN THE LIBRARY LAST EVENING.

Reports of director and treasurer read and approved.

The annual report of the Director of School District No. 7 of Tecumseh, Michigan for the year ending July 12 '09.

The Board of Education come before you tonight with a report for the past year, which we feel cannot fail to be interesting and satisfactory to the District. Inasmuch a thorough and successful work has been done by our most efficient Superintendent and corps of teachers, and we have reason to believe that the patrons have been well satisfied with results attained.

Non-resident pupils numbering 80 have attended,—this being the largest number we have ever had, which not only speaks highly for the reputation and excellence of the Tecumseh Public Schools, but also brings it a substantial revenue of $1154.70 from tuitions received; the largest sum, we believe, ever received from foreign tuition in any year since our Schools were organized. This large amount of money materially helps in our expenses and reduces our taxes in this amount.

Early in March, it was ascertained that our most efficient Superintendent, Miss Flora H. Hartbeck, who had so faithfully filled this trying position to the highest satisfaction of the patrons and the Board for the past six years, would resign at the close of the year. Also nine or ten teachers from our High school and Intermediate Departments would not be with us. When these facts. became known, applications began to come from many well known educators and superintendents from all parts of Michigan and other states. Applications to the number of 71 were received, each one of which was most carefully considered. After much correspondence and many inquiries, the Board of Education elected Prof. Donald P. McAlpine of Ann Arbor, an educator of much experience, a graduate of Lombard college and who was graduated from Michigan University in June, and who has since taken his Master of Degree. Mr. McAlpine comes to us with several years of successful experience; also recommended by high University authorities, and we consider we have been most fortunate in securing him for our Superintendent. Seventy applications were received for grade positions, and after the most searching inquiries and much correspondence, contracts were made with the following teachers:

Miss Harriet J. Bishopp, Hillsdale college,—History & English department

Miss Rena Root, Concord, Mich.,—Mathematics & History.

Miss Agnes Anderson, Ironwood, Mich..—Seventh grade.

Miss Ruth Striffler, Cass City, Mich., Sixth grade.

Miss Evelyn Young, Owosso, Mich.,—Fifth grade.

Miss Ethel Springer, Alma college,—Third & Fourth grades.

Miss Edna Brown, Alma college,—First & Second grades.

Miss Adnee Palmer, Brooklyn, Mich., First, Second & Third grades.

Miss Martha E. Caldwell, Tecumseh, Vocal Music and Drawing.

All of whom come to us recomended in the strongest terms. These, together with B. Earle Smith, Science department; Miss Nellie Mingay, Latin and German Department; Alice Wimple, Eighth grade; Alice Cutting, Fourth grade; and Miss Margaret Morrisson, First and Second grade, who remain with us, will constitute our force of teachers for the coming year.

When we consider the excellence of this corps of trained teachers, we feel justified in expecting the same high standard in the Tecumseh Public schools as in the past. We will add here that the Public Schools of Tecumseh, are again placed upon the university list of approved schools.

There are already indications that we shall have, during the coming year, larger number of foreign pupils than heretofore. The new school law, which comes into effect next year, will without doubt, add large numbers of pupils to our High School, as according to this law, all districts must furnish money for all eighth grade pupils who may desire to attend any High School near them. This seems to be the most sensible school law ever passed and gives general satisfaction. It will certainly build up all High Schools in towns, and will reduce the expenses in the country districts, and every dollar which comes to us from other districts helps us materially to have better schools and equipment. Last year the Board were empowered to borrow not more than one thousand dollars to erect fire escapes according to the law. After advertising for bids, the board were enabled to secure suitable fire escapes erected complete for $565.00. A piano was also purchased by the pupils of the school with money accummulated by them for this purpose. They were enabled to secure a high grade instrument by a very liberal donation from the manufacturer, and without calling upon the school district for assistance.

The school census just taken, according to the law, shows that we now have of school age in District No. 7, Males,—280; Females, 248, a total of 528. Number last year was 526,—a gain of 2. Our supply of coal for the next year is already in the bins and paid for. The large sum of money received from the State during the past year was,— $3568.46 together with tuition received from non-resident pupils, 1148.70

a total of, $4717.10

has enabled the Board to pay the entire running expenses of our schools and leave us the substantial balance on hand of $5163.35. This enables us to come before you asking for an unusually small amount of money for expenses next year. The Board realizes the importance of keeping our taxes to the lowest possible limit, and at the same time maintain the present high standard. As Tecumseh Public Schools are classed among the highest in the State of Michigan, we have made most careful estimates for necessary expenditures for the coming year and present the same for your careful consideration and approval.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Are your building's protected from lighting.? During the past two weeks J. F. Hicks & Son have placed lightning rods on 96 buildings. This work has been done in the vicinity of Tecumseh, Clinton, Macon, Ridgeway, Britton Deerfield and Dundee.

Fred Chase who has worked for Mr. Hicks fifteen years, roded 36 of these buildings; any work intrusted to him will be properly done.

J. F. Hicks & Son guarantee all their work and keep the same in good repair with cost.

J. F. Hicks is one of the oldest and most reliable lightning rod men in the country, having been in the business over fifty years.

JUDGE AUSTIN

Has narrow escape from drowning.

Judge Austin of Toledo, had a narrow escape from drowning at Sand lake Thursday evening. He had been out fishing and in attempting to pull up anchor, fell into the water, the boat turning turtle. Although able to swim, owing to his 60 years, he was unable to reach shore a quarter of a mile distant. Some boys were attracted by his cries and they reached him just in time as he was so weakened he could scarcely cling to the boat. It is thought he will be around in a few days.

AN ATTRACTIVE FIGURE

Some women are models of grace and beauty.

All the skin foods, all the new fangled methods, all the exercise in the world, won't make a woman beautiful if her stomach isn't in good condition. It is the pure, nutritious matter which the digestive organs extract from your food that makes rich, red blood, and it is the rich, red blood that makes women perfect in form and complexion. Mi-o-na tablets are guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure dyspepsia, or money back. They give the most gratifying relief in few hours. They cure constipation by removing the dyspepsia which is the cause of constipation. They promptly relieve sea sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and morning sickness after any dissipation of the night before and the price is only 50c for a large box.

"I have the best kind of an opinion of Mi-o-na. I used this reliable remedy for the cure of cramps and pains in my stomach and bowels, hard side and back aches and a kidney trouble. The best kind of relief was given me by the use of Mi-o-na and I praise it highly. This medicine helped me after the use of many others failed entirely." Ed A. Mattis, Adrian St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 16, 1908.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

The average man no sooner does a kind act than he begins to feel big over it.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. It sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Sold by all druggists in Tecumseh.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

SUCCESS IN LIFE.

What the World Owes a Man and What a Man Owes the World.

The supposed indebtedness of the world to a man has not often been reduced to specific terms, but many a man has had the feeling that his failure was the world's fault, not his own, and that the world somehow, somewhere, ought to be compelled to pay for its callous indifference to his personal welfare. Some men spend a good deal of time wondering or discussing whether life is worth living. Other men are so busy living that they don't care to take time out for the discussion of the question. It is not the workers, the men who carry forward the world's business, who indulge in speculation as to the extent of the world's indebtedness to themselves. It is the men who have no business but sedulous speculation, like the endless day dreaming of the Indian faker, which comes out of the same door as that by which it entered.

If the man has something to sell which is of market value the world will buy it from him and pay him for it. It is a perfectly fair and straight business transaction. A man has no more right to expect the world to purchase from him what it does not want than he has to expect an individual customer to purchase an unnecessary article. No self respecting man, unless sheer necessity compels him, will demand that the world shall mingle charity with business and pay him for something it cannot use.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE VALENTINE MYTH.

One Theory as to the Origin of the Variety Stage.

It is not easy to trace the variety stage back to its earliest beginnings, for the scent begins to grow faint in antebellum days, and the trail loses itself beyond recall in the early forties, about which period we encounter traces of what may be called the "Bill Valentine Myth." This I will relate as it was imparted to me by Mr. Valentine himself in the small Coney Island pavilion that he conducted during his later years.

Mr. Valentine's story is that many years before the civil war, probably in the early forties, he opened a small place of amusement somewhere on the east side of New York city. (It must have been small indeed, for there is no record of it in T. Alston Brown's "History of the New York Stage.") Uncertain what to call his place of entertainment, he applied to a friend for a fitting name.

"What sort of an entertainment are you going to give?" said the friend.

"Well, I'm going to give a variety of things," said Mr. Valentine.

"Then why not call it a variety show?" suggested the other.

And thereupon, according to this myth, the term "variety show" came into use.—James L. Ford in McClure's Magazine.

Locating Her Car.

A hearty laugh at the pointed query of an interesting four-year-old girl was enjoyed a few days ago by a number of persons waiting on a platform at Broad street station for the departure of a westbound accommodation train. The little lady had been gazing intently at a Pullman observation coach and after a brief mental contrast of the more pretentious car with the ordinary passenger coach which she was about to take asked of her mother, "Mamma, what kind of a car is that one with the beautiful windows and pretty plush covered chairs?" "That is a parlor car, my dear," was the reply. "Well, I guess ours must be a kitchen car, then, isn't it?" was the very suggestive question, which as yet has not been answered to the child's satisfaction.—Philadelphia Record.

Silence.

Silence is a language understood in every country.

Were silence to be enforced on all of us for a single day the fools would go mad. The wise would talk less thereafter.

Silence in the shallow man means that he is out of breath.

A man is known by the silence he keeps.

A silent man may not be thinking, but the burden of proof is not on him.

To be silent in company is to invite the suspicion that "you have something on your mind." The reason is obvious.—Life.

The Sun a Star?

The sun is one of a stream of stars moving in the same direction and with equal velocities. Thus says Professor Kobold of the observatory of Kiel, who has become convinced by his studies of star currents that the sun does actually form part of such a current, which is moving toward a point on the edge of the Milky way. Kapteyn of Groningen has come to the conclusion that the stars drift in two directions. This conclusion is based on the examination of 2,500 stars observed repeatedly.

Discouraging.

A Concession.

She—You don't allow me to do anything I want! If it goes on much longer I shall go home to mamma. He—That I will allow you to do.—Fliegende Blatter.

A Hill and a Pill.

What is the difference between a hill and a pill? One is hard to get up, and the other is hard to get down.

SEES MOTHER GROW YOUNG.

"It would be hard to overstate the the wonderful change in my mother since she began to use Electric Bitters," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick of Danforth, Me. "Although past 70 she seems really to be growing young again. She suffered untold misery from dyspepsia for 20 years. At last she could neither eat, drink nor sleep. Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked such wonders for her health." They invigorate all vital organs, cure Liver and Kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c at C. A. Wright & Son.

METHODICAL BURGLARS.

The Ones John's Wife Was Sure She Heard Every Night.

There had been a number of burglaries in a certain suburban neighborhood, and the conversation at a small whist party turned naturally enough on burglars. Everybody had expressed an opinion except a quiet, elderly gentleman.

"Doesn't it make you nervous," somebody asked him, "to think every night when you go to bed that you may be burglarized before morning?"

"Oh, we don't mind them," said the elderly gentleman cheerfully, with a glance across the room at his wife. "We're too well used to them, aren't we, Mary?"

"John," said his wife warningly, "don't be silly."

"Silly?" echoed he and turned to the others. "Now, that's her modesty. Those burglars have been trying to go through our house every night for two weeks; always get in through the dining room window too. But Mary hears them. Yes, sir, no sooner do they get through the window than Mary hears 'em and wakes me up. Fortunately for us, Mary is a very light sleeper."

"But it must be awful to wake up like that!" exclaimed one of the listeners.

"Rather disturbing the first night," continued the speaker, "but not so bad after one gets used to it. All I have to do, you know, is to get up and lock the bedroom door, and then the burglars go right back out of the dining room window. Very methodical they are, too," added the elderly gentleman thoughtfully, "for they always lock the window after them."—Youth's Companion.

THE GIRAFFE.

Africa's Second Story Worker With the Long Distance Neck.

The giraffe is the second story worker of the animal kingdom. It is a merger of the zebra and the camel and is also a distant relative of the palm tree. The giraffe consists of eight feet of neck equipped with a body at one end and a head at the other. In the matter of neck it has all the rest of the animal kingdom beaten by a length. The giraffe's mouth is located so far from its stomach that it has to eat today to appease tomorrow's appetite. Many a giraffe has starved to death while the first meal it had eaten for two weeks was slowly traveling its transcontinental esophagus.

The giraffe looks as if it had started out to be a zebra, but, having reached the shoulders, had kept on going. It is very dark in color, marked by yellowish brown stripes in a handsome linoleum pattern. It lives on tree tops, eagles' nests and rainbows. During the Boer war the British army had some difficulty with giraffes, which formed a great liking for war balloons and frequently nibbled them during their flight in order to inhale the gas.

Why does the giraffe have a long distance neck? Persons given to the use of common sense will realize that Africa is rich in insect life as well as animal life and that all African animals carry innumerable parasites on their hides. The giraffe's head is so far from his body that a long neck is absolutely necessary in order that he may reach down and grab off a tick from his fetlock when necessary. Even a child could see this.—Collier's Weekly.

NOT RELIGION.

It Was Something Very Different That Animated Eliza.

Mrs. S. of New Orleans has for many years been faithfully served by two negro women who, although bound by the tie of common devotion to their mistress, yet detest each other cordially, so that the kitchen is the scene of continuous battle.

Martha, the cook, is a leading light in the church. At revival meetings she was always the first to occupy the mourners' bench, the first to shout "Hallelujah!" and to fall into those contortions of body and outflinging of limbs that to the African mean "getting religion." Eliza, the maid of all work, on the other hand, had always been an unregenerate heathen, scoffing at religion, jeering at Martha and declaring no power on earth could induce her to go inside a church. Great, therefore, was Mrs. S.'s surprise on the occasion of the last revival to find that it was Eliza and not Martha who was attending the meetings.

"Why, Martha," she exclaimed, "aren't you going to church?"

"No'm," answered Martha sullenly.

"Why?"

"'Cause dat Liza she goes now."

"But isn't there room for both of you?"

"No'm, dey ain't."

All Martha's pent-up indignation emphasized the answer.

"'Cause, Miss Mary, dat Liza she jes' goes ter spite me. No sooner I gits up to go to de mo'ners' bench dan Liza she follers me and sets down clost beside me, and befo' I has a chanst ter git 'ligion Liza she begins ter girate around and shout 'Glory hallelujah!' and she out wid her fists and hits me bim in de jaw, and she out wid her footses and kicks me spang in he shin. But, I tell you, 'tain't 'ligion Liza's got, Miss Mary; hit's debility."—New York Times.

Sight Lost and Restored.

A farmer's wife who had had much trouble with her servants was accosted by one of them.

"I fear I shall not be able to work much longer. I think I am going blind."

"Why, how is that? You seem to get along pretty well with your work."

"Yes, but I can no longer see any meat on my plate at dinner."

The farmer's wife understood, and the next day the servants were served with very large and very thin pieces of meat.

"How nice!" the girl exclaimed. "My sight has come back. I can see better than ever."

"How is that, Bella?" asked the mistress.

"Why, at this moment," replied Bella. "I can see the plate through the meat."—London Scraps.

His Passport.

On one occasion Gustave Dore, the artist, lost his passport while on a tour in Switzerland. At Lucerne he asked to be allowed to speak to the mayor, to whom he gave his name.

"You say that you are M. Gustave Dore, and I believe you," said the mayor, "but," and he produced a piece of paper and a pencil, "you can easily prove it."

Dore looked around him and saw some peasants selling potatoes in the street. With a few clever touches he reproduced the homely scene and, appending his name to the sketch, presented it to the mayor.

"Your passport is all right," remarked the official, "but you must allow me to keep it and to offer you in return one of the ordinary form."

Brutal Indifference.

"It seems since his marriage Jack Thornley has developed into a perfect brute."

"You surprise me! What has he done?"

"Why, the other night while his wife was regaling him with all the particulars of that choice Verifast scandal she noticed that he seemed very quiet. And what do you think! He was sound asleep!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Nearing the Limit.

An old lady was going down in the cage in a Cornish mine. She looked with apprehension at the rope, and asked the miner anxiously: "My man, are you sure this rope is quite safe?" "Well, mum," was the cheerful answer, "these ropes is guaranteed to last exactly six months, and this ain't due to be renewed till tomorrow."—Birmingham Mail.

The Real Trouble.

"I'm afraid," said the lady to a diminutive applicant, "that you are too small to act as nursemaid to my children."

"Oh, I'm not too small," replied the applicant. "I guess the trouble is your children are too large."—Chicago News.

The Press Agent Proposes.

"Your pulchritude is peerless. You are an astounding aggregation of feminine faultlessness. Be mine!"

"Sure!" responded the girl. "I never could resist that press agent language."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Return of the Prodigal.

"Who's that a-hollerin' down yander in the branch?"

"That's the prodigal son. The old man's a-wailin' thunder out o' him fer runnin' away!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Serious.

"She says theirs is only a platonic friendship."

"Then why has she begun to take cooking lessons?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THAW IS CONFIDENT.

Believes He Will Gain His Release This Time.

White Plains, N. Y., July 13.—Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, will appear before Justice Mills today in the supreme court at the continuation of the inquiry into his present mental state.

Thaw, his counsel, Charles Morschauser, and his mother and several other relatives who have taken up their residence here to attend the hearings are greatly pleased over the decision of Justice Gaynor denying the application for a change of venue to New York county. They build their hopes of the plaintiff's ultimate release from Matteawan on the fact that Justice Gaynor's decision removes District Attorney Jerome of New York, who has strenuously opposed Thaw's release, from the case as a direct factor.

The case is now entirely in the hands of the state attorney general, and Deputy Attorney General Roger Clarke will conduct the opposition to Thaw's release.

Outlaws Kill Horse Buyers.

Afton, N. H., July 12.—Outlaws attacked ten Texas horse buyers in this camp last night and killed nine of the men, it is reported.

MONTAGNAIS INDIANS.

They Are Hunters In the Strictest Sense of the Word.

During nine months of the year—fall, winter and spring—the Montagnais Indians of Canada spend their lives in the "bush," hunting and trapping for pelts and meats. Then in June they rendezvous at the particular Hudson Bay company post where they belong, trade off their hunt and settle down for rest and recreation until the middle of August, when they are off again for the winter. They have absolutely nothing to do with the cultivation of the soil, being hunters in the strictest sense of the word. The Indians who hunt about Lake Mistassini form a subtribe by themselves, having the same name as the lake, and their summer rendezvous is at the Hudson Bay company post on the lake. Those who hunt south of Mistassini on the shores and tributaries of the Ashuapmonchouan river bear the name of that stream. Those on the Nekouba river bear its name, and those who hunt nearer Lake St. John are known by the Indian name of that lake, Pikonagami. All of these bands rendezvous on the west shore of Lake St. John, at Pointe Bleue, where the government has set aside a reserve and attempted to colonize the hunters and teach them to become farmers. East of Lake St. John is the Chicoutimi band, now much reduced, and southeast of them the Tadousac band, both of which are to be found distributed over the French Canadian districts of the same names. There are several other bands farther down toward the gulf of St. Lawrence.—Southern Workman.

Bridled Brides.

Western brides have an easier time than their Abyssinian sisters. On the occasion of her marriage an Abyssinian bride has to change her skin. From ebony she has to become cafe au lait. To accomplish this the expectant bride is shut up in a room for three months. She is covered with woolen stuff, with the exception of her head; then they burn certain green and fragrant branches. The fumes which they produce destroy the original skin, and in its place comes the new skin, soft and clear as a baby's. The elders of the family feed the young woman with nutritive forcemeat balls.—Cape Colony Argus.

Dangerous Eggs.

A certain well known actor is always ready to assert that there are many untoward possibilities in his profession. "Really the public doesn't appreciate the vicissitudes of an actor's life," he said recently. "Now, there was Wisham Brown, who went touring in South Africa. I met Wisham's cousin recently. 'Well, how is Wish?' said I. 'Wish?' said the cousin. 'Why, man, Wisham's dead!' 'Dead!' I cried. 'How did he die?' 'Pelted to death with eggs at Cape Town,' the cousin answered. 'But eggs don't kill,' said I. He smiled sadly and murmured, 'Ostrich eggs do.'"

Grand Rapids Church Will Pay Him $4,000 Per Year.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 12.—The Park Congregational church, one of the wealthiest parishes in the city, which has been without a pastor for over a year, has obtained Rev. E. W. Bishop of the Oak Park Congregational church of Chicago.

The call was unanimous. Rev. Bishop will receive $4,000 a year, the largest sum paid to a clergyman in Grand Rapids.

Kelly's Body Found.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—The body of W. J. Kelly, who drowned at the Flats July 5, when his rowboat caught in the wheel of the steamer State of New York, has been recovered by employes of the Star Island House, who found it floating near the shore. It was taken to Ypsilanti, where the funeral will be held.

TORNADO KILLS FOUR.

Country Around Ortonville, Minnesota, Storm Swept.

Ortonville, Minn., July 12.—Four persons were killed, twenty were injured and much property destroyed by a tornado which has passed over this section.

The tornado demolished two dwelling houses, the round house, coal sheds and five boarding cars of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. About forty Italian laborers were in the cars, and of these three were killed and nineteen injured. Philip DeGriff, a bus driver, was killed by being hurled against a tree when his vehicle was blown over and demolished. The tornado was accompanied by a heavy rain and hail storm.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

The work of laying a cable connecting New York and St. Johns, N. F., is under way by the steamer Colonia of the Commercial Cable company.

An aged couple who lived on the outskirts of the village of Patchogue, L. I., were burned to death. The victims were Townsend Gerrity, ninety years old, and his wife, Cynthia, who was past eighty. The police are disposed to believe that the old people were victims of a robbery and incendiary.

Forty-eight million dollars will be needed by the Isthmian canal commission to carry on the work of digging the Panama canal during the fiscal year 1911, according to estimates which have been received by Secretary of the Treasury Macveagh, in Washington, who prepares an annual book of estimates of appropriations to be submitted to congress.

A bronze tablet, presented by the Chicago Congregational church in commemoration of the arrival of the Pilgrim fathers in Amsterdam in 1609 and in recognition of the hospitality of the city of Amsterdam, was unveiled Sunday by the English Reformed church, in Amsterdam. Since the year 1607 English speaking people have worshipped at this church.

Kodol
For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

Alleged National Cash Register Company Seeks Monopoly.

HENRY JAMES GETS BUSY

Through Attorney Bird Seeks to Have Rival Concern Punished—James Was Formerly District Agent of Concern He Now Seeks to Have Punished—Many Charges Made.

Detroit, Mich., July 15.—An attempt to force the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., out of business in the state of Michigan, as the Standard Oil company has been expelled from several southern states, on the ground that it is attempting to establish a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of cash registers, has been started at Lansing by Attorney General Bird, who has filed information against the concern under the anti-trust law of 1905.

This step is taken at the solicitation of the American Cash Register company of Columbus, O., which is represented in this territory by Henry James as its district agent. The American company claims that it has been subjected to unjust and monopolistic methods of competition by its older rival in Dayton and that it has in its possession evidence by which the monopolistic intent of the National company can be established.

Alleged Spies Are Used.

Among the things it will seek to prove when hearing is given on the matter of canceling the license of the National company before the supreme court is that a great number of spies are used by the Dayton company to follow its agents from place to place and to interfere with their sales when that is possible.

It will allege unfair methods of advertising in that the National company secure specimens of the American and other cash registers and then displays them conspicuously to the public with signs such as "For sale at 20 cents on the dollar." The reason of this advertising, it will be contended, is not to effect sales of the rival machines which the National company may have in its possession, but merely to bring the opposition machine into disrepute with the public.

There are charges by the score of the use of similar methods. That the case, when it comes to trial, is sure to be one of great interest to those interested in the present methods of "big business" is assured by the fact that Henry James, district agent for the American Cash Register company, was until six months ago employed in a similar capacity by the National Cash Register company and is therefore presumed to be thoroughly familiar with methods used by that concern in forwarding its business.

HUNT'S BODY FOUND.

Believed He Jumped Into Lake to Save Davey Girl.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 15.—The body of Claude Hunt, the young St. Joseph county farmer who went out rowing on Klinger lake, just west of Sturgis, with Mamie Davey of Chicago, has been dragged from the lake by Sheriff Wing and a party of searchers. The body was found about seventy-five feet from where the girl was discovered. It was about 100 feet from shore, and in deep water.

It is generally believed by the officers that Hunt lost his life while attempting to save the girl, who had probably jumped into the lake to end her existence. There is no hint of foul play.

FELL OFF MOWER.

Veteran Farmer Loses His Arm In Hay Field.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 15.—Charles Stierle, a seventy-year-old Freedom township farmer, was the victim of just the accident he had feared, and as a result nearly bled to death before aid could be summoned. His right arm was cut off at the shoulder by a mowing machine with which he was working in a field on his farm. Physicians say he will recover.

He fell from the machine in front of the knife while mowing hay.

Aeroplane Suffers Another Accident.

Washington, July 15.—While one lone spectator waited on the Fort Myer drill field in the hope that there would be a flight, the Wright aeroplane, after having been repaired, was damaged late Wednesday while being moved in its shed. The skid broken in Tuesday's attempted flights had been replaced, and while the machine was being lifted too much strain was put on the new skid and it snapped. The Wrights expressed the belief that they would have everything in shape for flight this evening.

UNCLE SAM HAS FARMS FOR SALE

Offers Indian Lands in the Northwest.

REGISTRATION BEGUN TODAY

Agricultural and Grazing Land in Montana, Idaho and Washington Hitherto Occupied by Aborigines to Be Thrown Open to White Settlement. Locations Determined by Lottery.

Coeur d'Alene, Ida., July 15.—With the opening of today's mail by James W. Witten, government superintendent of land opening in this place, the first step was taken in the throwing open to white settlement of more than 700,000 acres of agricultural and grazing lands in the northwest.

The government offers to settlers three Indian reservations—that of the Couer d'Alene Indians in northern Idaho, that of the Spokanes in Washington and that of the Flatheads in Montana. Registration begins today and will continue until Aug. 5. All who desire to register for these lands must go in person to the registration points at Kalispell or Missoula, Mont., to register for Couer d'Alene lands and to Spokane to register for Spokane lands. Applications by mail will be received only at Coeur d'Alene, where Judge Witten will conduct the lottery for the choice of lands beginning on the morning of Aug. 9. Applications, which may be sworn to before a notary public, must be sent to Judge Witten by ordinary mail, not by registered mail, and the envelopes must bear no distinguishing marks, such as return cards or addresses of senders.

Special Privilege of Veterans.

Soldiers and sailors of the civil war, Spanish war and Philippine insurrection or their widows or children may register through agents. This means that the veterans or their heirs do not have to come to the northwest to register.

About 3,750 farms will be opened for settlement. For several months the land office has been receiving from 800 to 1,000 letters a day from prospective settlers inquiring as to the conditions governing the lottery. Only 3,000 or 4,000 people can hope to receive the prizes.

It must be understood that the lands are not to be given away, but must be paid for within five years on terms fixed by the government, at the rate of from $1.25 to $7 per acre. The farms to be sold measure 160 acres each. There are conditions of settlement, etc., to be met by the purchasers.

The principal crops produced on these Indian lands are wheat, oats and hay, but much of the soil has also proved itself to be admirably adapted to the cultivation of potatoes, sugar beets and other root crops, also tree and vine fruits.

NOT INNOCENT GIRL.

Other Witnesses Testify Against Gingles Lass From Ireland.

Chicago, July 15.—The state Wednesday closed its case against Miss Ella Gingles, charged with stealing lace from Miss Agnes Barrette, her former employer. It is expected that the case will reach the jury by Friday.

The last witness to appear against the young Irish lace maker was Miss Barrette, proprietor of a lace store in the Wellington hotel, who has been pictured by the defense as the Nemesis of Miss Gingles and the originator of all the alleged plots against the defendant.

Assistant States Attorney B. J. Short spared Miss Barretto from denying the details of the alleged horrid acts charged against her by the defendant in her testimony.

"I will simply ask you," said Mr. Short, "If you ever attempted to sell this girl into white slavery, or if you ever abused or assaulted her in the Wellington hotel, or had any knowledge of any of these things?"

"No, sir," replied Miss Barrette, tears streaming down her face. "It is all a falsehood from beginning to end."

P. H. O'Donnell, counsel for the defense, excused Miss Barretto without any cross-examination. The day's testimony against Miss Gingles was an avalanche of impeachments of her story told on the witness stand. The state brought three witnesses from Canada who had known Miss Gingles while she was a resident there. Through these men it was wrote into the case that Ella Gingle was not a pure and innocent country girl, but that she knew well the ways of men of the world.

No Excuse.

"Is that horse you bought a kicker?"

"A kicker?" answered Mr. Sirius Barker. "I am the fellow who paid twice his value and who is buying the feed. What has the horse got to kick about?"—Washington Star.

TAFT GRANTS RELIEF TO MICHIGAN GIRL.

Marion Grey Need Serve Only One Month In Jail.

Washington, July 15.—Congressman Hamilton has finally succeeded in getting a measure of relief for Marion Grey, the Benton Harbor girl who was sentenced to a year in prison by Judge Landis, in Chicago, for running a matrimonial agency. This case has attracted wide attention because of the youth of the accused, her age being only twenty-two, although she has been married and has a child four years old.

Hamilton has been at work on it ever since last April to commute the sentence to one month. He is now trying to have the attorney general request the court to commit her to the House of the Good Shepherd in Chicago, instead of the Cook county jail, for her month of confinement.

The plea for clemency was based on the claim that Mrs. Grey had not had a fair trial; that nothing more severe than a fraud order had ever before been visited on any conductor of a matrimonial agency anywhere in the United States; that if sent to jail for a year she would die, as her condition was precarious.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO.

Injures Three Others and Fires Buildings Near Calumet.

Calumet, Mich., July 15.—Two mine laborers were killed and three others were severely injured by lightning at Mohawk. The house of William O'Brien and several barns in Mohawk were set on fire by lightning, but the heavy downpour of rain put out the fire. Mrs. O'Brien was slightly hurt.

Found Old Lady Starving.

Traverse City, Mich., July 15.—Local newspaper men found Mrs. C. E. Colcord, a seventy-year-old woman, in a destitute condition, having fought off starvation for months. She would not apply to the county poor commissioners for aid, but worked when well enough and somehow managed to avoid starving.

YOUNG WOMAN DROWNED.

Launch Runs Into Rowboat on Goguac Lake.

Battle Creek, Mich., July 15.—Miss Chloe Brown, daughter of Charles Brown, was drowned here, in Goguac lake, while out rowing with her fiance, Lawrence Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Crane. This party was in a small boat when the launch Neptune, with F. W. Keller at the wheel, ran into them.

The rowboat was not overturned, but its occupants became excited and grabbed for the launch. Mrs. Crane saved herself in this manner, while her husband and Hill were picked up. Miss Brown's body was recovered a half haur later.

LAWS AT FAULT.

Cause of So Many Divorces, Says Cardinal Gibbons.

Baltimore, July 15.—Cardinal Gibbons, in an interview, has replied to remarks of former Supreme Court Justice Henry B. Brown on the subject of divorce before the Maryland Bar association at Old Point Comfort last week. The cardinal, after expressing his high esteem for the former justice both as a citizen and a jurist, said in part:

"There is no subject which He (Christ) treats more fully and clearly than the question of marriage, which is the very foundation stone of our family and social life. In three of the gospels He [illegible] the unity of marriage and permits separation of a married couple only in the cause of adultery. I don't see why a law which has been enforced and cardially accepted in every age and country where Christianity dominates should be considered obsolete or impracticable in the United States."

The cardinal continued:

"Divorces are multiplied not because ministers willingly assist at ill-assorted marriages, but because loose legislation on matrimony renders it easy for married parties to annul the mariage bond."

SUGGESTION FROM BRYAN.

Tells Taft to Put Senatorial Question Up to People.

Washington, July 15.—A letter written by William J. Bryan to President Taft, suggesting that he take steps to have the question of the election of senators by the people referred to a vote of the states along with the proposed income tax amendment, has not yet reached the White House, and no comment upon it was obtainable.

It is not considered likely, however, that the president will do more than courteously acknowledge receipt of a letter.

THAW PAYS EVELYN OVER $500 MONTH

Her Attitude Towards Husband Puzzling.

White Plains, N. Y., July 15.—Evelyn Thaw's lips were still closed by legal technicalities Wednesday, and she did not resume the stand, as expected, to testify for the state in opposing Harry K. Thaw's attempt to prove himself sane and his confinement in the asylum for the criminal insane illegal.

Young Mrs. Thaw was at hand, but she was not called to the stand. Instead there was a continuation of the lay testimony in Thaw's behalf.

The testimony was enlivened at times by bits of humor, and on occasions Justice Mills had to call for order. No one seemed to enjoy the humorous situations more than Harry Thaw. Often he laughed heartily at some remark at his expense.

Attendants at the state asylum at Matteawan testified that he always appeared rational in speech and action while under their observation. Several physicians, who attended Thaw and his wife, and other members of the Thaw family, testified along the same line.

Just what Evelyn Thaw's attitude toward her husband is is puzzling. It is not generally known whether she would rather see him free or confined as a lunatic. While she has been quoted often as repeating, in effect, her famous declaration of "I'll stand by you, Harry," it is reported that in the event her testimony ultimately goes against Thaw, his attorney will call witnesses to show that she remarked that she was glad to see him in Matteawan.

The former chorus girl has not joined the Thaw family during the hearing. When she left White Plains she traveled to New York alone.

During her testimony Tuesday Mrs. Thaw said that her husband was not supporting her properly, but it was brought out on the stand Wednesday that he is paying her more than $500 a month.

Owosso, Mich., July 15.—Louis E. Ash, fifty years of age, a special officer in the employ of the Ann Arbor railroad, has been missing since June 23, and friends are becoming worried.

PROBE SUTTON'S DEATH.

Witnesses Summoned In Case of Young Naval Officer.

Annapolis, Md., July 15.—Summonses to appear as witnesses in the case of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, U. S. M. C., whose death here two years ago is about to re-investigated by the naval authorities, have been served upon William Owens and Edward Griffiths, the chauffeurs who saw the beginning of the fight between the officers which ended in Sutton's death. Owens was not called to testify at the previous inquest.

The story of the surviving officers that Sutton forced the fight has been contradicted by Owens, the chauffeur who carried the party to camp that night, and in a measure by Griffiths, a new man who has appeared in the case and who confirms Owens in many particulars.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

THE WALL THAT WAS NOT.

A Story of a Girl's Treachery to Her Sister.

By HELEN RAMSDELL.

[Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.]

In the rosy light of the setting sun Miss Rachel, the elder of the two Belden sisters, was gathering her sunflower seed. Miss Emily, the younger, sat on the porch watching her sister's movements, her sewing lying idle on her lap. Presently she ventured to remonstrate.

"I'm quite sure, Rachel, that the seeds are not nearly ripe enough to gather and that you are only spoiling your next year's crop."

"Very well. In that case I'll buy some new ones," answered Miss Rachel, "or perhaps we can afford to build a six foot fence on our side of this one and grow it over with vines. Anyway, not one of these seeds is going to fall on their side."

Miss Emily rose and walked over to the fence, speaking very softly.

"I don't want them to hear us, Rachel. It's like trying to quarrel with them, and they're always tried to be friendly. I really can't see why you hate them so. You used to like Steve once, and his wife is a pleasant, sweet spoken woman."

"Sweet spoken—yes! I should say that's how she got him."

Miss Emily sighed wistfully.

"I don't see why you hate them so," she repeated.

"You don't? Humph! Well, you just once try being nice and polite to them, and—you needn't be my sister any longer!"

At that moment a girl some twelve years of age came out of the household thus condemned by Miss Rachel, and both the sisters grew silent. They had been speaking much too low for their neighbors to hear what they said, and in innocent ignorance the girl called over, though timidly, as if half expecting one of the snubs she so completely failed to understand.

"Aren't you gathering your seeds awful early, Miss Belden? It's better to let them get ripe. They're the finest sunflowers we've ever seen. We're sorry they're quit blooming."

To the girl Miss Rachel was silence itself. To her sister she replied in tones of unuttered indignation too low for the girl to hear.

"It'll be a six foot fence next year if I have to live on dry bread."

"Oh, Rachel, how it would look!"

"We can cover our side with vines."

"But in winter the vines would be dead, just the same as the flowers."

Without reply Miss Rachel gathered up her apronful of great staring seed cups and ascended the stairs to her room. Here she went straight to an old fashioned writing desk and, opening it, placed the package of seeds in one of its many compartments.

Once it was out of her sight the hard lines in her comely face relaxed, and gradually as they faded her natural expression returned, revealing tears of suffering and of genuine kindness as well.

For a long time she sat there absorbed in her reverie, and as the sunlight died without new light touched Miss Rachel's face from within, and, led by some touch of previous memory, she opened a small locked drawer and took out a quaint old box of faintly fragrant sandalwood.

It had grown too dark to see its contents plainly, but Miss Rachel did not need to see them. She knew every line of the faded letters that lay there, every detail of the girlish forgetme-not ring in its tiny box beside them, every word of the newspaper notice of death that lay beneath them, while every feature of the photograph that lay on top was graven deeper in her heart.

Tonight she went over it all once again—her joy, her passionate, silent grief, then her awakening from her own bitter sorrow to find that her sister was suffering also. Then she had opened her eyes, so long blinded to all save her own bitter grief, and looked for the cause of her sister's to find that Emily's lover, Stephen Loring, came to see her sister no more.

Questioned, Miss Emily had replied proudly, with swift flushing cheeks, that she did not wish him to come, and Miss Rachel probed no further. Scarcely a year later Stephen married a girl of a neighboring village, and Emily, growing paler and gentler day by day, gave all the love left in her heart to Rachel, which Miss Rachel silently but deeply reciprocated, all the more tenderly that Miss Emily so often seemed inwardly shrinking before her, as if in shame at her fate.

With true New England reticence, mingled with inborn delicacy, neither ever spoke of the other's love and loss, but when Stephen Loring some twenty years later had come to live beside them Miss Rachel's wrath rose high against this destroyer of her gentle sister's happiness in life.

"Rachel!"

Miss Emily stood at the door peering into the now dark room.

"Old Mrs. Clayton is dying, and they want you right away."

Miss Rachel rose at once, not even closing the lid on her little box of keepsakes.

At the door she paused, speaking gently:

"You won't need to go until morning. You are too frail for such things."

And before Miss Emily could reply she was gone on this, one of her many deeds of mercy.

Alone, Miss Emily entered the room and went to the window, where she could watch her sister's tall form through the fast deepening darkness.

A lamplighter came by as she stood there and lighted the lamp in the street below, just in front of the window. As she moved from the window the audacious gleam of light penetrated past her, falling directly on the opened box of keepsakes.

Dreamily, yet half startled, Miss Emily moved toward them. She knew well enough what they were—the package of letters tied with a narrow black ribbon were Andrew Arnold's letters of love to Rachel; the little box beside them held a well known turquoise ring, but the picture that lay on top, surely she might see that again after all these many years.

Half guiltily she lifted it and held it in the light, eagerly scanning the face. Then, with a little sob, she sank on her knees, the picture still clasped in her hand, her hidden face resting on her arms.

Silently thus the minutes passed, yet Miss Emily took no heed. And so Miss Rachel, coming home to a darkened, unlocked house, found her a little later.

For a moment she stood in the doorway, lost in wonder at her sister's still form in the lamplight; then she advanced swiftly to her side.

"Emily," she said—"Emily, dear, are you ill?"

Miss Emily sprang to her feet as if suddenly waked from a dream. One hand still held the photograph, but after an instant she dropped it on the desk, and, clasping her hands, she cried in a low, passionate voice—a new voice to Miss Rachel:

"Oh, Rachel, Rachel, forgive me! He did not know; he never, never dreamed it. You, you only, had his life and all of it, and, oh, I could not help it! Surely I have suffered enough, and I never, never meant to wrong you."

Miss Rachel stood so still she might have been carved of stone, too terribly bewildered for the simplest form of thought. But her sister went on with her passionate pleading.

"Can't you forgive me, Rachel, when he never, never knew and you had all his love?"

Miss Rachel's voice trembled.

"But Steve—Stephen Loring?"

"He caught my girlish fancy, Rachel. But when I found out how I felt about—your Andrew—I sent Steve away. And the next week Andrew died so suddenly—his heart all yours to the last. Oh, Rachel, sister, you cannot forgive me, I know! I will go away—alone!"

"Hush, child," said Miss Rachel sternly. "I have nothing to forgive. You are the greater sufferer, as you have always been. But go away for awhile. I want to be alone."

Next morning the sun had scarcely dried the radiant dew when Miss Rachel opened an unused gate and went over to her neighbor's. In her hand she held the tiny package of seed she had placed last night on her desk.

Next year two rows of sunflowers nodded across the fence—the same low picket fence—not by any means six feet high.

Fixing the Blame.

The young man had returned from his wedding trip and was again at his desk in the office. It was the day after his return that the junior partner called him to his desk and said:

"Now that you're married, Mr. Quills, I trust you will be considerate in your treatment of me."

"I don't quite understand you, sir," exclaimed the young man in surprise.

"Oh, it's a little early, I know," admitted the junior partner, "but there's nothing like taking time by the forelock. I suppose you haven't been out late at night yet."

"Certainly not, sir."

"And it's none of my business if you have. But when you do stay out some night be considerate. Remember that I have a reputation for fairness and humane treatment of everybody in this office that I would like to retain. Don't tell your wife that you're sorry you're late, but that that slave driver at the office piled work upon you to such an extent that you had to work right into the night. Don't tell her that the tyrant you work under gave you 1s. 0d. for dinner and told you that you would have to post all the books in the office before leaving for the night. Just invent some other excuse, you know."

The young man thought the matter over for a minute or two and then asked anxiously:

"Well, if I should be late what shall I say?"

"Oh, put it on the senior partner, as I do. He can stand it."—London Answers.

A Heroic Dog.

Near the Hospice of St. Bernard, Switzerland, is a monument to Barry, one of the dogs, which always interests tourists. This animal died some years ago, and a writer in the Wide World Magazine tells his story: "During the ten years he was at the hospice he saved the lives of forty persons who had lost their way in the snow. On one occasion he found a child ten years old lying in the snow under the influence of the fatal slumber which precedes death. The dog warmed the child with its breath and then roused it from sleep by licking it. This much accomplished, Barry by lying down on its side gave the child an obvious invitation to get upon its back and ride. The child did so and was carried to the monastery. Barry was killed by some unknown person, probably in mistake." The inscription on the monument is: "Barry, the Hero. Saved the Lives of Forty Persons and Was Killed by the Forty-first."

An Attraction.

Mrs. Gillet—So there is a tablet in your transept to her memory. Did she do anything to bring people into the church? Mrs. Perry—Well, she wore a new hat every Sunday for three years.

Many a girl thinks she has broken her heart when she has only sprained her imagination.—Life.
